Storer, Behr Still Remain In Minority

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, after a three-hour hearing today, reaffirmed its 3-2 stand favoring a second deck on the Golden Gate Bridge.

Supervisors Thomas T. Storer and Peter H. Behr remained the vocal minority.

The first vote was held Oct. 5 after Storer introduced a non-agenda motion asking delay of a decision by directors of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District.

The supervisors agreed to request the delay, but in addition they took a 3-2 vote in favor of a second deck.

Today's public hearing was held at Storer's request. Again it resulted in some extras being added, and Storer received some sharp criticism from fellow board members.

OFFERS SUBSTITUTE

It was Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen who moved that the board re-affirm its stand favoring the second deck. Supervisor Byron W. Leydecker seconded.

Storer offered a substitute motion saying that any vote on a second deck should be taken by the Marin County Transit Board, recently increased to seven members with addition of two city representatives to sit with the board of supervisors.

Leydecker sharply criticized Storer for not calling the hearing before the transit board in the first place if he thought that body should make the decision.

Storer's substitute motion failed for lack of second and Kettenhofen's motion was approved by the split vote. Supervisor William Gnoss joined in the affirmative.

TWO MOTIONS

Then Leydecker made two rapid motions. The first asked that the county administrator and the two Marin directors on the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District board meet to work out a proposal whereby the bridge district could contribute toward an improved bus system in Marin.

This passed unanimously.

Then Leydecker moved that the State Division of Highways be asked to give top priority to a study of bridge approaches in connection with the second deck. This again received a 3-2 vote, with Behr and Storer dissenting.

Then Kittenhofen renewed a motion passed by the board two months ago, asking the administrator to study means of inducing Greyhound Lines to improve its service in Marin. This was seconded by Leydecker, but protested by Behr, who said the hearing was supposed to be on the second deck, and board members were bringing in all

Council Backs Storer Plea In Mill Valley

County Supervisor Thomas T. Storer got fast action last night when he asked the Mill Valley City Council to ask Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors to postpone a decision on building a second deck until they get some results from bay crossing studies.

As soon as Storer finished his presentation, the council voted 4-0 for such delay. Councilman George E. Wickham was absent.

Mayor Michael Wornum noted that the bridge district directors are "in a rather haste to spend money," including $300,000 to refurbish the district headquarters. "If this isn't a waste of public money!" he exclaimed.

Councilman Albert E. White said he wondered what changed the thinking of the bridge board. "The last study showed they couldn't add two trains to the bridge," he remarked.

Tiburon Council Requests Delay On Deck To Bridge

The Tiburon City Council, meeting last night at Del Mar School, voted to ask the Golden Gate Bridge District board to delay action on construction of a second deck for the bridge.

Former city councilman Leo Souza, who appeared before the council last Friday to support Tiburon's stand against the proposed City of Marincello, last night found himself at odds with his one-time colleagues.

"Members of the Tiburon Peninsula Coordinating Council have been working for years to get a second deck," Souza declared. "We thought we were speaking for the city when we sought support on this project. If you vote against it now, that's three years of work down the drain for the coordinating council."

Margaret Azevedo, a county planning commissioner, disagreed. "I don't want to see the door closed on the use of possible lightweight rapid transit trains on the bridge," she said.

Councilman John S. Hoffmire Jr. said that was a closed issue. "The bridge directors have had two engineering studies on the possibility of trains on the bridge and both found they wouldn't work."

"I, too, once worked to get a second deck on the bridge," said Councilman Fred C. Hannahs. "That was when we were fighting against a second crossing with a terminus in Tiburon. but I've changed my mind. We need long term solutions."

"And who is to say," interjected Councilman Jacqueline Parnell, "that in another 10 years, when a second deck might reach its saturation point, that talk won't start again on a bridge to Tiburon?"

Councilman Anne L. Ellinwood moved the resolution, urging the bridge board to delay a second deck until studies are completed on other solutions to Marin's transportation problems.

The motion was seconded by Hannah's and passed by 4-1 vote, with Hoffmire voting "No."

Private Airport Promoter Asks Federal Nod For Burdell Ranch

A private flyer from Novato has filed an application with the Federal Aviation Agency to permit a 400-acre airport at the Smith Brothers Ranch in Burdell, about two miles north of the Marin County Airport.

Robert DeYoung of 30 Hillswood Drive, who operates a landing strip on the Smith Brothers ranch at Santa Venetia, reported yesterday that he filed the application for the Burdell site.

The proposed airport would have a 4,000-foot land strip about 100 feet wide, DeYoung said. "It would be a regular commercial airport, open to the public, for private and business planes," said DeYoung.

The airport would have hangars, shops for maintenance, charter services, probably a flight school, a small restaurant and transportation to and from the airport, according to DeYoung. Developers of the airport would sub-lease, he said, but he declined to name the men who might finance the development.

DeYoung said fliers who use the private landing strip between the north and south fork of Gallinas Creek are seeking a strip to replace it because it eventually will be developed for other uses.

The Burdell site, east of Highway 101, is the location of the Redwood Sanitary Land Fill operated by the Smith Brothers. The airport would be on filled land.

"We have to wait until we get the FAA report and go on from there," DeYoung reported.

He said he has notified the county planning department of his proposal, but will not seek county approval until he gets FAA approval.

DeYoung said the airport could serve not only Marin but also Sonoma County areas, particularly Petaluma.

Marin County has run into a snag trying to get FAA financing toward a $500,000 improvement program at the county airport at Novato.

Sausalito Parents Support District Cluster Policies

By BRUCE COLEMAN

Sausalito parents in effect gave school district trustees a "vote of confidence" last night, backing not only the current method of grouping pupils in classes but the disciplining and the decision of the board which desegregated the district's four schools.

Prior to the parents speaking out, the three principals and Supt. Charles Lavaroni gave progress reports, saying things are going very well.

Principal Ralph Magnuson at Manzanita School termed progress "excellent" Principal Robert D. Thomson, of Richardson Bay reported student and teacher morale high; Principal Alfred L. Anderson of Central School, said, "sociologically, we're about one million light years ahead."

The audience of about 250 met in Richardson Bay School's multi-purpose room to hear progress reports on "cluster-type grouping" and racial integration.

The board set the meeting two weeks ago after receiving a petition signed by 61 persons expressing dissatisfaction with cluster grouping and disciplining.

A switch was made Sept. 13 from achievement grouping (random grouping of pupils of similar ability levels) to cluster with pupils of various intelligence quotients in the same classroom).

Here's what parents said last night:

"Some of us haven't been outspoken enough to say how pleased we are," said Mrs. Peg Muldary. "From my 'total child,' I think we're doing very well."

Mrs. Betty Cooper said her child, now a kindergartener, went to private school last year. She feels, she said Sausalito kindergartens are "far better than those in private schools" and less costly.

Art Brown, Marin City parent, said: "We had the old form of grouping for a number of years and found it hasn't been valid as kids got to high school.

Smog Law Corrections Added To Brown Call

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Brown today added another item to the special call of the legislature, a measure aimed at correcting technical errors in this year's new auto smog law.

Frank Mesple, Brown's legislative secretary, predicted the measure to be carried by Sen. Vernon L. Sturgeon, R-Paso Robles, would clear both houses without difficulty. It's purely technical.

Plaque Put On Historic Trees

A plaque has been installed on one of the four almond trees, once part of the historic John Reed ranch, on La Goma Avenue between Echo Lane and Sycamore Avenue in Mill Valley. It is a gift of the Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce.

The idea of preserving the trees was advanced last spring by the Outdoor Art Club, which is now working toward getting a state historical plaque for the nearby site of the former Reed adobe.

The four trees which remain of the old orchard are cared for, voluntarily, by Sohner Tree Service Inc., San Anselmo; Warner Tree Service and Erb Tree Service Inc., both of Mill Valley.

Most Of Fires Illegally Started

JAMESTOWN (AP) — The State Board of Forestry was told today that of the 114 fires that ravaged Northern California in mid-September, 75 involved law violations.

Deputy State Forester Howard Moore said only 16 of the fires "occurred despite compliance with laws."

"Power lines, incendiarism, smokers and machine use accounted for 85 per cent of the fires," he said. "Only 15 per cent were attributed to all other causes including debris burning, children and matches. dumps, structures and cooking fires."

Redistricting Bill Signing Meets Delay

SACRAMENTO (UPI)— Gov. Edmund G. Brown's scheduled signing of a landmark reapportionment bill was delayed today while legal minds analyzed technical aspects of the measure.

The governor's office announced that "required legal checks" had not been completed and the bill probably would not be signed today. Brown had planned to sign the measure this morning.

The bill puts the legislative muscle in Southern California and urban centers while wiping out rural and northern domination of the Senate. The measure is called the most significant in the state's 115-year history.

A spokesman said a date for signing would be announced later today.

Cuban Exile Thwarted In Airliner Hijacking

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — An armed passenger tried unsuccessfully today to divert an airliner in flight to Cuba to pick up refugees, the Border Patrol said.

Officers identified the man as a Cuban exile living in Miami. They said he was overcome by the pilot, copilot and two passengers as the Miami-to-Key West National Airlines Flight 209 approached its destination.

Now It's Formal By Christopher

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Republican George Christopher today became a formal candidate for California governor with a jab at "ineptness, inefficiency and indecisiveness" of Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

The former San Francisco mayor also warned in his announcement that the GOP must take a middle road during the 1966 gubernatorial campaign—or face defeat.

Christopher, 57, made his long-expected announcement on a flying tour touching four major cities—San Diego, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Sacramento. It was his third formal bid for statewide office. He lost tries for the U.S. Senate in 1958 and for lieutenant governor in 1962

Christopher, a Greek immigrant who served eight years as San Francisco mayor, was the second Republican to make a formal announcement. The other was former U.S. Atty. Laughlin Waters of Los Angeles.

But the frontrunner in the polls for the June primary is actor Ronald Reagan, who expects to announce a decision in January. Reagan says he is willing to become a candidate—if enough Republicans want him to run.

Brown, now closing out his second four-year term, told a Southern California UPI editors meetg Saturday that he will decide by Jan. 15 whether to bid for an unprecedented third term. No Democrat has won a third term in California history, but Brown is expected to be a candidate.

Christopher assailed Brown for "wavering actions" and "limited abilities" and charged the Democratic administration had vacillated and hesitated on almost every important issue during the past seven years. He said the state could no longer tolerate what he called Brown's "game of political hop-scotch."

Fund Bill Signing Error Revealed

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—The White House erroneously announced that President Johnson had signed today, with misgivings, a $2-billion rivers and harbor authorization bill. Actually, the measure had not yet reached his desk.

Press secretary Bill D. Moyers, who made the original announcement, said later the bill was being rushed here from Washington aboard an Air Force courier and the president would sign it tonight.

At the time it was announced Johnson had signed the bill, Senate officials said it still was awaiting the signature of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Hydrofoil Tests Set For Marin

Hydrofoils, the speedy craft that skim over the waves on spoke-like fins, may soon carry commuters between San Francisco and Marin.

Plans for testing the craft by Hydrofoil Boats Inc., were revealed to Marin county supervisors today when attorney Hugh G. Lawrence of Sausalito, representing the firm, said that water transportation might be a workable alternative to a second deck on the Golden Gate Bridge.

Fred Warner of San Francisco, a principal in the firm, told the Independent-Journal that tests will begin on a 48-passenger craft about Dec. 1.

Lawrence said the boat would be "operational" about 60 days after that.

Warner would not say when regularly scheduled runs might be started. However, he said "Marin seems to be our best bet" if the firm goes into the commuter service.

The boat to be tested is an L-548-D developed by Food Machinery Corp. It will cost $350,000, is 51 feet, three inches long; eight feet, two inches wide, and will travel at 45 miles an hour.

'Infiltration' Of KKK Told By Sheriff

WASHINGTON (AP) — A North Carolina sheriff testified today he and six deputies joined the Ku Klux Klan in 1963 to gather intelligence but got out and couldn't get information to make arrests when a cross was burned last May alongside the courthouse in Wilmington, N.C.

Sheriff Marion W. Millis of New Hanover County also told congressional investigators his force had been unable to get enough information for arrests in connection with a number of other cross burnings in the county.

As Millis related it, he and six deputies joined the Klan at an organizational meeting in 1963. The purpose, he said, was to gather intelligence.

But he told his deputies to get their names off the roll, he said, when word began spreading that the sheriff's office was participating in Klan activities.

Under questioning, he said some of the deputies "did get kind of enthused."

Donald T. Appell, chief investigator for the House Committee on Un-American Activities, said there were reports that Deputy Charles Goodwin later was elected to a state Klan office.

Fund Bill Signing Error Revealed

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—The White House erroneously announced that President Johnson had signed today, with misgivings, a $2-billion rivers and harbor authorization bill. Actually, the measure had not yet reached his desk.

Press secretary Bill D. Moyers, who made the original announcement, said later the bill was being rushed here from Washington aboard an Air Force courier and the president would sign it tonight.

At the time it was announced Johnson had signed the bill, Senate officials said it still was awaiting the signature of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

EARLIER ROBBERY — Quebec, Canada, police took this picture of a 20-mm anti-tank gun used last Feb. 28 in an abortive effort to blast open a vault in a Brinks agency in that city. The thieves were scared off before finishing that job; over last weekend, a gang similarly equipped with a cannon got some $400,000 in robbing a Brinks office in Syracuse, N.Y. (UPI Telephoto)

Police Dragnet Set For Yeggs In Cannon Job

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Police traced the faint track today of a resourceful gang of international thieves who blasted open a Brinks vault with a cannon and looted it of $400,000.

Burglars, whose tracks apparently have criss-crossed the Canadian border, hauled a 20mm cannon into the Brinks Inc. office here over the weekend and shot their way through two-foot-thick vault walls.

In grabbing the vault's contents, the thieves got only about $100,000 in cash or negotiable securities, a company spokesman said. The rest of the loot was in checks.

They also passed up $100,000 in coins, he said.

Police said the burglars mounted the cannon — used in aircraft or as an antiaircraft weapon — on a homemade mount and blasted the vault walls with 30 rounds.

They said passerbys now recall hearing muffled explosions in the vicinity at about 3 a.m. Sunday, but the time of the robbery has not been established.

An FBI spokesman in Albany said the bureau was checking whether the cannon was one of two 20-mm guns stolen from a Railway Express Agency office in Plattsburgh April 8.

The cannon had been shipped from an arms firm in Alexandria, Va., to a fictitious address in that city near the Canadian border. While the cannon was in the agency's office, a rear door was pried open and the guns and a quantity of ammunition were taken.

In the Syracuse Brinks robbery, police said they found four unusued bottles of nitroglycerine at the scene along with gas masks, acetylene torches, the expended shells and unused rounds.

The walls had been lined with mattresses, apparently to deaden the sound of the cannon shots.

Police alerted authorities yesterday in the northeastern United States and adjacent Canada to watch four men in a truck, possibly bearing Canadian license plates.

NASA Reshuffles Gemini Schedules

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla., (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration pushed ahead with plans for the 14-day Gemini 7 flight today while engineering detectives sought the cause of the failure of the Agena rocket that wrecked the Gemini 6 mission.

There also was some second guessing on whether the modified Agena should have been fired for the first time on a mission as important as Gemini 6.

The Agena failure wiped out an intended chase across the sky by astronauts Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Thomas P. Stafford. They had planned to catch and hook onto the Agena in a vital rehearsal for later man-to-the-moon flights.

Their launching was called off when the Agena apparently exploded or broke apart 6 minutes, 10 seconds after launching.

"It's a sweet spacecraft, save it for me," commented a disappointed Schirra.

"We'll have a better go at it next time," said Stafford.

"Next time" will be at least four months off, possibly six.

Robert Seamans, associate director of the space agency, and Robert Gilruth, head of the Manned Spacecraft Center, said the failure would not delay the over-all goal of landing the first Americans on the moon in 1969.

However, additional failures to rendezvous with an Agena in the Gemini program would be a serious setback. The Apollo manned lunar landing program is based on the ability of two astronauts to rendezvous with another vehicle for return to earth after they have explored the moon.

China Again Buys Wheat From Canada

TORONTO (AP) — Canada's wheat farmers looked forward today to three years of prosperity following the announcement that Red China has signed up to buy at least $403 million worth of their crop in that period.

The sale, announced yesterday by Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp, is the third arranged between the two countries and the biggest yet. The trade minister said the contract calls for Red China to buy a minimum of 223.8 million bushels of wheat and flour worth about $403 million. Deliveries would begin next August and run for about three years.

The sale "assures our wheat producers of a market for their wheat crop during this period," said L. A. Boileau of the Saskatchewan wheat pool. "China may well develop into a continuous market for Canadian wheat."

There was no immediate reaction in U.S. grain circles, which had expected the deal.

Canada sold 187 million bushels of wheat to Red China in 1963 and 53.8 million bushels in 1961.

Indians Walk Out As U.N. Argues Thant's Activities

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —In a Security Council session highlighted by an Indian walkout, the United States and Russia last night disputed how far Secretary-General U Thant can go to prevent a revival of the India-Pakistan war.

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko charged that Thant had exceeded his mandate by sending extra observers to patrol the 1,000-mile cease-fire line between the two nighboring enemies.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg replied that Thant had followed the spirit and letter of the council request that he exert every possible effort to obtain compliance with its resolutions calling for a cease-fire and withdrawal of both armies.

India walked out of the council after Pakistan accused the Indians of atrocities in Kashmir reminiscent of Nazi horrors in World War II.

The council meets again tomorrow to continue the debate.

NEW FIGHTING HITS BESIEGED OUTPOST

Viet Cong Snipers Fire At Helicopters Carrying Three Visiting U. S. Senators

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — New fighting broke out at Plei Me today as the Viet Cong attacked with mortars and recoilless rifles and penetrated to within 20 yards of the camp's outer perimeter.

A U.S. military spokesman said there were some casualties at the Special Forces camp 210 miles northeast of Saigon, but he did not say how many.

The Communists struck from the southwest, an area to which a strong U.S. and South Vietnamese relief force had not extended control after lifting a seven-day siege on the camp Monday night.

U.S. jets swarmed in and hammered the Viet Cong with bombs and cannon fire.

The strength of the attacking force was not known. An informant said Monday reports indicated that a regiment of North Vietnamese regulars had been thrown into the fight. A U.S. military informant in Pleiku said about 750 of the 1,200-man Communist force had been knocked out in the past week of fighting around Plei Me.

At Can Tho, Viet Cong snipers fired on Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and three other U.S. lawmakers today as helicopters were preparing to land them at a Special Forces camp in the Mekong Delta.

None of the helicopters was hit and no one was injured. The four visitors said they did not notice the sniper fire although they heard and saw armed helicopters escorting them attack the snipers.

The incident occurred less than two miles from the Cambodian border in Kien Phong Province, about 50 miles west of Can Tho.

The other lawmakers were Sen. Joseph Tydings, D - Md., and Reps. John Culver, D-Iowa, and John Tunney, D-Calif.

The congressional party was approaching the Special Forces camp at Cai Cai with newsmen in four helicopters escorted by three armed helicopters. A pilot aboard one of the gunships estimated four or five rounds of sniper fire greeted the party.

When the firing began, the armed helicopters swooped down and made five passes firing rockets while the other helicopters hovered overhead.

The incident lasted about eight minutes. The first passenger hoelicopter to set down at the camp carried Culver and Tunney and the second Kennedy and Tydings.

"I wouldn't want to overdramatize this while our boys are out on the front lines," Kennedy said.

"It's routine for traffic at this place to get shot at every day," said Capt. Arthur Remling, 27, of Houston, Tex., who is in command of the American detachment at the camp.

Veterans Mounting Support Of Policy

By JERRY BUCK
Associated Press Writer

Veterans groups in some states are planning to turn Veterans Day observances on Nov. 11 into a show of support for U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

At the forefront is Nevada, where veterans have been asked to fly the American flag and wear their caps as a symbol of protest against the anti-Viet Nam marches.

Throughout Maryland, American Legion posts will hold rallies and parades the week of Veterans Day in opposition to the antiwar demonstrators. The rallies will begin Sunday, Nov. 7, at Brunswick, Md., and end on Veterans Day at the Baltimore War Memorial.

Andy Borg, commander in chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, said in Kansas City today his group would conduct a project known as "Operation Boost" on Veterans Day.

Borg, who recently visited Viet Nam, said "Operation Boost" would demonstrate support for U.S. servicemen in Viet Nam. He said each VFW post "in its own way will organize the demonstration in its own area."

The Legion will stage a downtown rally in Seattle, Wash., Saturday to support the Viet Nam war effort. Dr. John Uno, district commander, said the rally is "to give the people of the city that opportunity to show that they are behind the fighting men."

Iowa Amvets plan a statewide "Viet Nam backup" program of letters from local posts to the home of each Iowan serving in Viet Nam. The letters will express appreciation for the servicemen's efforts and acknowledge support of U.S. policy.

In Nevada, the call for the statewide program was issued by Thomas W. Miller of Reno, national executive committeeman of the American Legion, who said of those opposing the government policy:

Mill Valley Adopts Eastern Area Plan

By FRANK FARRARA

The Mill Valley City Council last night adopted an East Mill Valley General Plan covering "the city's front door," which stresses water uses and commercial-recreation development along the Richardson Bay shoreline.

The plan covers about 1,200 acres, roughly from Corte Madera on the north to the Coyote Creek flood control channel on the south, between Camino Alto and Almonte Boulevard on the west and Highway 101 on the east.

After a two-and-one-half-hour joint public hearing with the city planning commission, the council adopted the plan by 3-1 vote, with Joseph E. Sheeks dissenting. Councilman George E. Wickham was absent due to illness.

Sheeks opposed the portion of the plan calling for dredging of city-owned land southwest of the small craft harbor to create another water area.

"I question the economics of converting seven acres to water, instead of land," Sheeks said. "I'm not sure I see an economic return to the city."

He said the land was a valuable asset to the city, and that the esthetic value could be preserved by having a canal lined with walkways and landscaping.

At one point Sheeks referred to the proposed new water area as "a liquid play yard for kids," and Robert C. Mountjoy, planning commission chairman objected.

"I think this is stretching it," Mountjoy said. "This is just one facet. This is not to say there won't be boating activity there."

During his presentation of the plan, Mountjoy said Mill Valley "has no orientation to water," and the plan would help to achieve this orientation.

He urged not only a "first class harbor," but "first class development around this water area."

Mountjoy said dredging of seven of the 23.5 acres owned by the city "could provide a second harbor, one more passive that children could use; a pedestrian-oriented area."

A second city water area could function also as a flood control measure "and complement the Alcan and Bothin developments," Mountjoy said.

Aside from the proposed new water area, the plan covers the Mill Valley Yacht Harbor, the Alcan-Marin harbor, and the proposed harbor on the Bothin land near Tamalpais Junction.

Harvey Bragdon, city planning duirector, said the acreage covered by the plan "is two-thirds in the city and one-third in the unincorporated area."

The planning commission will require planned unit development in the area, Bragdon said.

"Almost all the area covered by the plan is under consideration for development and most will be developed in the next 10 years," he said.

Land owners and their representatives generally concurred with the plan, but questioned the proposed commercial-recreation zoning in several areas.

George Artz, representing Alcan-Marin, said that firm agreed with the plan but may have to ask for a zoning variation for development along Highway 101. "We have plans on 10 acres for a hotel-motel complex, but we may wish to use only a portion of this and we may need small neighborhood shops to complement our residential area," he said.

Richard Gatley, representing Bothin Real Estate Co., said the company "is generally in accord," but wants commercial zoning for a neighborhood shopping center on its nine-acre site at Camino Alto and Miller Avenue.

The council also received a letter from Herbert A. Shapiro asking that his seven-acre parcel along Miller Avenue, now special commercial, be zoned something other than commercial-recreation.

Bragdon said the plan depends on abandonment of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad along the west shore of the bay.

Carl O. Olson, public relations manager for Southern Pacific and Northwestern Pacific, complimented the planning commission and planning staff on the plan and said, "the only way we can help is to abandon the right of way."

Clifford Hansen, representing the Marin Conservation League, requested that an ecological survey be made of the basin to evaluate the effect of development on natural life.

Under the proposed plan, there would be an undulating waterfront line, a wildlife sanctuary at Richardson Bay and Shoreline Highway, horse trails and pedestrian trails connecting with North Ridge and Mount Tamalpais.

Bragdon said the plan recognizes existing land uses, including the commercial area along Highway 101. It also includes a proposed road to carry traffic from Scott Highlands eastward to the east end of East Blithedale Avenue, so it can avoid the Camino Alto-East Blithedale intersection.

The plan also shows a freeway between Highway 101 and the shoreline which will lead to West Marin via Tennessee Valley.

Bragdon said that a federal open area grant or federal flood control funds might be available to finance the proposed new water area.

There was a smattering of applause from the audience of 25 persons when the council adopted the plan, some of it from the planning commission. Planning Commissioner Rodrick L. Robinson was absent.

Last night's hearing was the second on the plan. The first was held in May, after which the plan was sent back to the planning commission for amendments.

Council To Consider Slope Policy Waiver

San Anselmo city council, meeting today at 8 p.m. in city hall, will consider a request for the waiver of the city's slope policy for a 10-lot subdivision off the Alameda near Caletta Drive.

The San Anselmo Homes Assn., at its last meeting, voted to oppose the waiver, which was approved by the planning commission. Harry Johnson, the applicant, asks to build on 10,000 square foot lots. The steep terrain requires 18,000 square foot lots, according to the city slope policy.

Teen Rotary Club Forms

Formation of a teen-age Rotary Club at Novato High School and selection of a project for the club were announced today by Randy English, club advisor.

Greg Sulser is club president; Frank Perachotti, vice president; Bob Saunders, treasurer, and John Youngs, sergeant-at-arms.

"Adoption" of a Canadian orphan was selected for a club project.

Plan Commission

The Larkspur Planning Commission, meeting at 8 p.m. today in city hall, will be asked to approve a tentative map for the Meadow, a 33-lot subdivision next to Heather Gardens, off William Avenue.

Parade Slated In Sausalito

The Sausalito Children's Halloween costume parade, sponsored the Sausalito Lions Club, will be held Friday at 7 p.m., starting at Caledonia and Johnson Streets.

Paraders, preceded by a Sausalito Fire Department truck, will march to Central School where a short movie will be shown and costume awards will be presented.

Pree-school children as well as kindergarten through the sixth grade pupils will participate, according to parade chairman Jack Perry.

Surburbia Home To Be Discussed

The education of women will be discussed tomorrow at the second of a series of programs called "Home in Suburbia—Pandora's Box" in the Board of Supervisors' Room, Civic Center, at 8 p.m.

Co-sponsore of the program are the Marin Assn. of Mental Health, Young Women's Christian Assn., Family Service League, and Planned Parenthood Inc.

Speakers will be Dr. George Hedley, retired faculty member and chaplain at Mills College, Oakland, who will talk on "Education—for What?" and Adeline Daley, freelance writer, whose subject will be "The Untrapped Housewife."

Marinite Sponsors American Indian

William H. Wright of 1722 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, has become sponsor of a 12-year-old American Indian boy from Arizona, announced the Save the Children Federation of Norwalk, Conn.

Wright will provide the boy with clothing, school supplies, books and spending money to enable him to continue his school activities. The average Indian leaves school before the eighth grade, according to the federation.

Prison Road, Conservation Operations To End Monday

San Quentin Prison's 50-year road and conservation camp operation will end Monday when the camp system is transferred to jurisdiction of the California Conservation Center at Susanville, Lassen County.

Seven forestry and two road camps, employing 630 minimum custody inmates, will be involved in the transfer.

The first San Quentin camp was established at Rattlesnake Summit in Mendocino County in September, 1915, according to Associate Warden James W. L. Park.

"For more than 30 years, the prison camps were involved primarily with road construction in difficult terrain," he said. "Hundreds of miles of scenic highways, such as Highway 1, both along the North Coast and in the Carmel area, are enjoyed by motorists today as a result of these early camps."

In 1940 planning began for the present system of conservation camps, operated in conjunction with the Division of Forestry.

"The onset of war in 1941 delayed activation of these plans until 1948, when the first San Quentin forestry camp was built at Parlin Fork, near Willits, Mendocino County," Park related.

During World War II a series of prison agriculture camps were established under former Warden Clinton T. Duffy, with inmates harvesting crops that would not have been harvested because of the wartime manpower shortage.

"The primary mission of the conservation camps is fire suppression," Park said. "In 1964 San Quentin camp inmates spent 168,227 hours in fire fighting."

Inmates also have engaged in searches for lost children and hunters, have helped to remove injured hikers from remote area, and engaged in rescue work and levee repair during the disastrous floods last December, Park said.

Other camp activities include reforestration, stream clearance, improvement of public camp sites and operation of tree nurseries,he said. "Tree farms at Parlin Fork, provides thousands of seedlings each year for the replanting of devasted areas," Park noted.

The conservation camps are operated jointly by the department of corrections and the state division of forestry, and the road camps in conjunction with the state division of highways.

School Club Officials Elected

Four clubs at Tamalpais High School have recently elected officers.

The International Club has elected Jackie Brand, president; Catherine Buel, vice president, and Leslie Hail, secretary-treasurer.

Douglas Railton has been elected president of the Electronics Club; Ronald Olivera, vice president; Edward Stewart, secretary, and Tom Harris, treasurer.

New Russian Club officers are Wendy Jacobs, president; Chris Matson, vice president, and Rebecca Hammond, secretary-treasurer.

The German Club elected Mary Stroube, president; Tom Adams, vice president; Kris Dilcher, secretary, and Mary Stroh, treasurer.

IGNORING THE WIZARD—House Un-American Activities Committee chief investigator Donald T. Appell pores over papers as chairman Edwain E. Willis, D-La., (left) confers with committee member John M. Ashbrook, R-Ohio, before start of today's hearings. The committee decided to ignore charges made by Ku Klux Klan's Imperial Wizard Robert Shelton that Appell had told him the committee knew he was "clean." Appell had asked to be put under oath to testify against Shelton's claims. (AP Wirephoto)

you were in the Klan to gather information, some were in as ideological Klansmen," Appell said.

"Evidently," the sheriff replied. "Well, this one in particular, Goodwin was."

He said Goodwin is still on the sheriff's force but he does not believe the deputy is now a member of the Klan.

At the start of today's hearing Chairman Edwin E. Willis, D-La., of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, disclosed the committee had changed signals on how to handle charges made by Imeperial Wizard Robert Shelton.

Chief investigator Donald T. Appell had announced he would take the witness stand today to challenge statements Shelton made yesterday at a news conference. Shelton had declined to answer all questions when he was a witness before the committee.

Shelton said Appell came up to him in the dining room of the Congressional Hotel last Wednesday night and made a "half-hearted apology" for the treatment Shelton got on the stand.

He also quoted Appell as saying, "We know that you are clean and had not been taking Klan money or failing to report your income."

Willis, a Louisiana Democrat, said "Mr. Appell has informed the committee that he never made such a statement to Shelton either in the dining room of the Congressional Hotel or anywhere else. The committee has complete confidence in Mr. Appell."

Fairfax Council Holds Session On Lawsuits

The Fairfax City Council in a closed session last night discussed "possible future litigation," but took no action.

The talk did not concern any suits now in court, according to Councilman Robert R. Souza.

District Due To Tie Arks Onto Sewer Lines

Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District directors took the first step last night to meet requirements of the Bay Regional Water Quality board in getting house boats, arks and dwellings from Richardson Bay Bridge to the Sausalito city boundary to hook into sanitary facilities.

The board authorized the district's engineer and legal counsel to prepare necessary papers to set up an assessment district. In about 90 days after papers are prepared, bids will be called and a public hearing set, said Cyril G. Hansen, district president.

Directors also heard a request to service the proposed development on the Dias Ranch via Tamalpais Valley Sanitary District.

They agreed to hire a new sanitary plant employee, setting the salary at $510 monthly.

Shirt-Sleeve Weather Still Holds Sway

Relief from the heat is on the way, say the weather experts, but to the shirt-sleeved man in the street, it's taking its time.

Temperatures in Marin County and other coastal areas were expected to lower today but at noon in San Rafael it looked like a repeat performance of the past five days with the mercury at 79, only two degrees below the reading at that hour yesterday.

The forecast indicates that cooler weather, with temperatures drops of from two to nine degrees at some coast weather stations, will continue tomorrow although inland it will remain hot and dry.

One of the warmest places in the county yesterday was Inverness, where 95 degrees was reported for the third day running.

Other high readings ranged from 82 at Sausalito to 90 at Mill Valley, with Point Reyes Station recording 86 and San Anselmo 88.

The abnormal high temperatures have been blamed on a persistant high pressure system over the Far West, extending out into the Pacific and blocking off incoming storms from Alaska.

High, Low Mercury

NEW YORK (UPI) — The highest temperature reported yesterday to the U.S. Weather Bureau, excluding Alaska and Hawaii, was 193 degrees at Palm Springs, Calif. The lowest reported this morning was 20 at Craig, Colo.

Ex-Marin Post Office Worker Injured In Fall

Aubrey Olson, 25-year-old former postman at Tiburon and son-in-law of Marin County Undersheriff Eugene L. Meyer, was reported in critical condition today in a Placerville, El Dorado County, hospital following a fishing accident Sunday.

Olson fell more than 250 feet into a canyon of the American River while fishing with a companion. It took 26 men five hours to get him out.

He was taken to Marshall Hospital, Placerville, with multiple injuries and is in the intensive care unit, his mother-in-law, Mrs. Meyer, said today.

Olson worked as a postman at Tiburon six years. He left three months ago with his wife, Marilynn, and three-year-old daughter, Rhonda. He is employed at Placerville Post Office.

Ambulance Fees Policy Clarified

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch has ruled that fire districts may set and collect fees for furnishing ambulance services both within and without their districts.

The ruling, written by Deputy Atty. Gen. Edmund E. White, was requested by Richard W. Dickenson, county counsel of San Joaquin County.

Dickenson said the Ripon consolidated fire district was considering purchase of an ambulance. However, in order to prevent non-emergency use of the ambulance service and to help defray the operational costs, the district proposed to establish a fee schedule for use of the service.

The opinion said such districts have the power to estabilsh and maintain ambulance services and it would follow that they also have the power to set fees for such services.

Three Roofers Are Injured In Falls At Peacock Gap

In a pair of accidents two hours apart at San Rafael's Peacock Gap, yesterday, three roofers fell from where they were working on separate buildings. Two were seriously injured.

Lafayette Walker, 46, of 3 Boulevard Terrace, Novato, was reported in poor condition at Marin General Hospital today with broken ribs, and John J. Boque, 64, of Santa Rosa, was in fair condition with head injuries.

The two tumbled from a scaffold 24 feet to the ground as they were working on a new building at 36 Greenside Way at 12:38 p.m. The men were placing shingles on a steep roof, working for Novato Roofing Co.

At 2:58 p.m. at nearby St. Sylvester's Church, roofer Frank J. Murphy, 24, of Daly City, was working for Custom Builders when he tumbled from the roof to the ground. He was treated for an injured foot at Marin General Hospital and then taken by car to St. Francis Hospital, San Francisco, where he was reported in good condition.

Demos Talk Organization Of Precincts

A small turnout of 11 Democrats last night discussed precinct organization at the monthly meeting of the Marin Democratic Central Committee.

Chairman Robert D. Carrow asked a three-man committee composed of Jack Cedarblade of Terra Linda, Thomas A. Skornia of Ross and Ernest Schallinger of Novato to nominate area precinct chairmen.

The Democrats also considered several candidates for postmaster at Forest Knolls and San Quentin but made no recommendations.

Mrs. Letitia Campbell and Mrs. Leona Ragle have been mentioned as candidates for the San Quentin post, and Mrs. Marlene Dougan at Forest Knolls.

Next meeting of the Marin Democratic Central Committee is set for 8 p.m. Nov. 22 at the San Rafael courthouse.

DECK

kinds of motions on transportation in general.

The motion was not voted on after County Administrator Alan Bruce, who returned from a six-week vacation last week, said he would get busy on the study right away.

Among speakers at today's hearing was E. R. Foley, chief engineer of the Division of Bay Toll Crossings, who told about a comprehensive study of all proposals his organization is conducting under a $850,000 legislative appropriation.

Margaret Azevedo of Tiburon, a county planning commissioner, proposed the second deck.

Bridge district directors George H. Ludy of Inverness, and Thomas D. Hardcastle of Novato, said directors Friday are only to act on the "principle" of the second deck, and final decision may not be made for 90 days.

County Aide Studies Bids On Bond Sale

Bank of America appeared today to be the lowest of six bidders on purchase of $7.75 million in bonds that will help finance construction of the Hall of Justice addition to the Marin County Civic Center, a job that will cost a total of $11 million.

The low bid, quoted at 3.2918 per cent in bid openings before the board of supervisors, may contain a slight error, County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell said. However, even with adjustment for the error, it appeared Bank of America would remain the lowest bidder.

Interest estimates had ranged from 3.25 to 3.5 per cent.

Other bidders were United California Bank, 3.3102; Crocker-Citizens National Bank, 3.3488 per cent; Wells Fargo Bank, 3.3587 per cent; Halsey-Stuart and Co., 3.8422 per cent, and Bank of California, 3.401 per cent.

Hunters Claim Cow's Squirrel

SPENCER, W.Va. (AP)—Two hunters who said they mistook a cow for a squirrel are charged with malicious killing of livestock.

The cow was shot with a .12-gauge shotgun.

State police later arrested the hunters, Guy Turpin of Quick and George W. Shafer Jr. of Pinch.

Officers said they found the two skinning the animal where it fell.

High School Space

The need for more high school space will be outlined tomorrow noon for the San Anselmo Rotary Club by William R. Davis, San Anselmo businessman, and member of the Citizens for Tam District committee. The committee seeks approval of a $5,750,000 bond issue on Nov. 16.

AIRPORT

ing and improving airports, has turned down Marin County's application because Harry O. Tollefson has exclusive right to operate the airport facilities under a lease that runs until 1972.

County officials are seeking to close out the lease, but have not reached agreement with Tollefson.

DeYoung said if the Burdell site gets FAA approval, he'll be ready to move ahead. "If the county can't go, we're ready to go," he said.

DeYoung is an employee of the W. K. McClellan Co., a contracting company with headquarters on Smith Ranch Road in Santa Venetia.

Trial Delay Rescheduled In Dope Case

Trial of a trio of suspects charged with selling marijuana was rescheduled in Marin Superior Court today for Dec. 20 when one defendant failed to appear for the second straight day.

The missing defendant is Wilhelf Alexander Rossknecht, 27, of 10 Reed Lane, Sausalito. Judge Thomas F. Keating yesterday issued a bench warrant for his arrest. Today he declared Rossknecht's $4,400 bail forfeited and denied bail on the new arrest warrant.

The continuance was granted at request of George Walker, San Francisco attorney represeting Peter Wright Lenihan, 31, of 420 B Street, Sausalito. Walker contended Rossknecht is a material witness in Lenihan's defense.

Third suspect is Ronald Keith Maska, 29, of Orange County.

The defendants were among 11 adults arrested in a June 4 southern Marin County roundup of persons suspected of selling or possessing marijuana.

Tape Recorder Taken At Home

Burglars ransacked the home of Robert W. Bruce, 135 Crown Road, Kentfield, making off with a tape recorder, typewriter, and pellet pistol, sheriff's officers reported today.

Bruce told deputies he returned from a vacation yesterday to find entry had been made through an unlocked rear window. He valued the tape recorder at $197, and the typewriter at $170.

Raymond E. Hughes of Santa Rosa reported a burglary of his automobile while it was parked at the Lodge, 8141 Redwood Highway, Novato. Hughes told officers a side window was forced and clothing and a tape recorder, total value of $400, were taken.

Informal Request For Sewers Studied

Homestead Valley Sanitary District directors last night took under consideration an informal request to supply sewers to a portion of the proposed community development on the Dias Ranch.

Chairman Warren I. Jacobs said the district could service the portion of the proposed residential development which is south and west of Homestead Valley.

OBITUARIES

Robert H. Silberberg Dies At 42

Robert H. Silberberg of 50 Corte Loyola, Greenbrae, died yesterday in a San Francisco hospital. He was 42.

A native of San Francisco, Silberberg was an estimating engineer employed by James A. Nelson & Co. Inc., of San Francisco.

He was a patron and manager with the Kentfield-Greenbrae Little League Assn. and managed the Guasco team for nine years.

Surviving him are his wife, Dorothee J. Silberberg; three sons, Daniel, Michael and Kelly Silberberg; his parents, I. Harry and Hilarita Silberberg of San Rafael, and a brother, Mervyn.

Requiem mass will be offered Thursday at 9:30 a.m. in St. Patrick's Church, San Francisco. Burial will be in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno, directed by McAvoy-O'Hara Co., San Francisco. The family prefers that tributes be contributions to the Cancer Fund.

GEORGE MINAHEN

A Requiem Mass for George E. Minahen Jr., 51, who died Sunday, apparently of a heart attack, will be held at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at Our Lady of Loretto Church in Novato.

Minahen, who lived at 17 Kent Street, Fairfax, had been working as a truck driver and was a member of Teamsters Union, Local 624 of San Rafael. He had last worked for George Howard of Nicasio.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Rae Minahen of Sonoma; two daughters, Kathleen Minahen of Kentfield, and Mrs. William W. Wright of Novato; one son, Ted Minahen of Chemult, Ore., and one grandchild.

The Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at Redwood Chapel funeral home in Novato. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael. Memorial contributions to the Heart Fund would be appreciated by the family.

WILLIAM DE WOLF

Funeral for William Waldo De Wolf, retired San Francisco real estate broker and brother of Mrs. Lillie Lyser of Corte Madera, will be held Thursdays at 1 p.m. at N. Gray and Co., San Francisco.

De Wolf, 77, died Sunday at his home in San Francisco, where for decades he was owner-manager of De Wolf Realty Co.

His father, the late William Morrison De Wolf, founded the real estate-insurance firm in 1879.

He is survived by his wife, Cecile De Wolf his sister, and a stepdaughter, Cecile Mery Calvi.

Burial will be in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

OSCAR H. DAHL

Oscar H. Dahl, real estate dealer and veteran of the two world wars, died yesterday at his home at 1208 Lynwood Drive, Novato, after a long illness.

A native of North Dakota, he was 76 years old. He had worked as a grain salesman in North Dakota until moving to San Francisco in 1941, when he went into the insurance business. For the past 13 years he had lived in Marin County, working for Tiburon Realty.

He is survived by his wife, Borgina M. Dahl of the home; two sisters, Miss Minnie Dahl of Minot, N.D., and Mrs. A. H. Borgerson of Long Prairie, Minn.; and three brothers, Manuel Dahl of Minot, N. D.; Joseph Dahl of Naples, S.D., and Arnold Dahl of Minneapolis, Minn.

Funeral will be at 12:15 p.m. Thursday at the Chapel of Marin Funeral Home, Novato. Burial will be in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

DAVID GADLOW

Memorial services for David B. Gadlow, real estate broker, of 1355 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, San Anselmo will be held tomorrow at 2 p.m. at Keaton's, Fifth Avenue and E Street, San Rafael.

Gadlow, who operated from an office in San Francisco, died in a San Francisco hospital Friday after a three months illness.

A native of New York, he came to California 45 years ago.

He is survived by a brother, Ralph B. Gadlow and a sister, Mrs. Esther Pollak, both of New York.

DAVID THORNTON

Graveside funeral for Dr. David Thornton, Spanish-American War veteran and longtime doctor in Los Angeles, will be held at 10:15 a.m. Thursday at Golden Gate National Cemetery in San Bruno.

He died Sunday in a Novato convalescent hospital, where he had been since 1962. He was 94 years ago.

A native of Peapack, N.J., he attended medical school in Colorado. At the outbreak of the Spanish-American war, he became the staff surgeon for the First Volunteer Colorado Infantry, and served with it during the ensuing Philippine insurrection.

He practiced medicine until 1942 in Los Angeles, when he moved to Weaverville, where he served as Trinity County physician until 1962.

Survivors include a daughter Lt. Col. (Ret.) Margaret M. Thornton of Sausalito, and a stepson, Dean Breeze, a judge in Las Vegas, Nev.

Funeral arrangements were made by Redwood Chapel Funeral Home, Novato.

SCHOOLS

Therefore, any innovation is good. I think all the people here are here to applaud the superintendent. I would like to express my extreme gratitude."

"It seems to me," said Robert O. Berdahl, "that with the best will in the world it is premature to come to any judgment as to whether cluster grouping is working or not." he said it should be given a fair trial, particularly with the changes made in the district.

"Are you behind in your school program?" a woman asked. Superintendent Lavaroni replied he has been no evidence of being behind and the three principals echoed this.

Dr. Wolfgang Lederer said, "I would feel on more solid ground if I heard not only of the assets but of the liabilities."

"In all sincerity, we were not able to pinpoint these," answered Lavaroni. Magnuson said there were discipline problems the first week or two but they are mostly under control.

Staten Webster, hired by Sausalito and Mill Valley school districts and the county superintendent of schools office as interacial group consultant, said the district is working toward understanding among "parents of all communities."

Mailers Picket News Plant

Pickets from the Mailers Union today patrolled in front of the office and plant of Marin Guide Publications in Sausalito.

Union printers refused to pass the picket lines, making uncertain whether the Marin Guide and its companion publication, the Sausalito News, would appear this week.

Marin Guide Publications has not had any contract with the Mailers Union, but the union reportedly is attempting to organize the plant.

IGNORING THE WIZARD—House Un-American Activities Committee chief investigator Donald T. Appell pores over papers as chairman Edwain E. Willis, D-La., (left) confers with committee member John M. Ashbrook, R-Ohio, before start of today's hearings. The committee decided to ignore charges made by Ku Klux Klan's Imperial Wizard Robert Shelton that Appell had told him the committee knew he was "clean." Appell had asked to be put under oath to testify against Shelton's claims. (AP Wirephoto) you were in the Klan to gather information, some were in as ideological Klansmen," Appell said.

KLAN

"Evidently," the sheriff replied. "Well, this one in particular, Goodwin was."

He said Goodwin is still on the sheriff's force but he does not believe the deputy is now a member of the Klan.

At the start of today's hearing Chairman Edwin E. Willis, D-La., of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, disclosed the committee had changed signals on how to handle charges made by Imeperial Wizard Robert Shelton.

Chief investigator Donald T. Appell had announced he would take the witness stand today to challenge statements Shelton made yesterday at a news conference. Shelton had declined to answer all questions when he was a witness before the committee.

Shelton said Appell came up to him in the dining room of the Congressional Hotel last Wednesday night and made a "half-hearted apology" for the treatment Shelton got on the stand.

He also quoted Appell as saying, "We know that you are clean and had not been taking Klan money or failing to report your income."

Willis, a Louisiana Democrat, said "Mr. Appell has informed the committee that he never made such a statement to Shelton either in the dining room of the Congressional Hotel or anywhere else. The committee has complete confidence in Mr. Appell."

Fairfax Council Holds Session On Lawsuits

The Fairfax City Council in a closed session last night discussed "possible future litigation," but took no action.

The talk did not concern any suits now in court, according to Councilman Robert R. Souza.

District Due To Tie Arks Onto Sewer Lines

Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District directors took the first step last night to meet requirements of the Bay Regional Water Quality board in getting house boats, arks and dwellings from Richardson Bay Bridge to the Sausalito city boundary to hook into sanitary facilities.

The board authorized the district's engineer and legal counsel to prepare necessary papers to set up an assessment district. In about 90 days after papers are prepared, bids will be called and a public hearing set, said Cyril G. Hansen, district president.

Directors also heard a request to service the proposed development on the Dias Ranch via Tamalpais Valley Sanitary District.

They agreed to hire a new sanitary plant employee, setting the salary at $510 monthly.

Shirt-Sleeve Weather Still Holds Sway

Relief from the heat is on the way, say the weather experts, but to the shirt-sleeved man in the street, it's taking its time.

Temperatures in Marin County and other coastal areas were expected to lower today but at noon in San Rafael it looked like a repeat performance of the past five days with the mercury at 79, only two degrees below the reading at that hour yesterday.

The forecast indicates that cooler weather, with temperatures drops of from two to nine degrees at some coast weather stations, will continue tomorrow although inland it will remain hot and dry.

One of the warmest places in the county yesterday was Inverness, where 95 degrees was reported for the third day running.

Other high readings ranged from 82 at Sausalito to 90 at Mill Valley, with Point Reyes Station recording 86 and San Anselmo 88.

The abnormal high temperatures have been blamed on a persistant high pressure system over the Far West, extending out into the Pacific and blocking off incoming storms from Alaska.

High, Low Mercury

NEW YORK (UPI) — The highest temperature reported yesterday to the U.S. Weather Bureau, excluding Alaska and Hawaii, was 193 degrees at Palm Springs, Calif. The lowest reported this morning was 20 at Craig, Colo.

Ex-Marin Post Office Worker Injured In Fall

Aubrey Olson, 25-year-old former postman at Tiburon and son-in-law of Marin County Undersheriff Eugene L. Meyer, was reported in critical condition today in a Placerville, El Dorado County, hospital following a fishing accident Sunday.

Olson fell more than 250 feet into a canyon of the American River while fishing with a companion. It took 26 men five hours to get him out.

He was taken to Marshall Hospital, Placerville, with multiple injuries and is in the intensive care unit, his mother-in-law, Mrs. Meyer, said today.

Olson worked as a postman at Tiburon six years. He left three months ago with nis wife, Marilynn, and three-year-old daughter, Rhonda. He is employed at Placerville Post Office.

Ambulance Fees Policy Clarified

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch has ruled that fire districts may set and collect fees for furnishing ambulance services both within and without their districts.

The ruling, written by Deputy Atty. Gen. Edmund E. White, was requested by Richard W. Dickenson, county counsel of San Joaquin County.

Dickenson said the Ripon consolidated fire district was considering purchase of an ambulance. However, in order to prevent non-emergency use of the ambulance service and to help defray the operational costs, the district proposed to establish a fee schedule for use of the service.

The opinion said such districts have the power to estabilsh and maintain ambulance services and it would follow that they also have the power to set fees for such services.

Three Roofers Are Injured In Falls At Peacock Gap

In a pair of accidents two hours apart at San Rafael's Peacock Gap, yesterday, three roofers fell from where they were working on separate buildings. Two were seriously injured.

Lafayette Walker, 46, of 3 Boulevard Terrace, Novato, was reported in poor condition at Marin General Hospital today with broken ribs, and John J. Boque, 64, of Santa Rosa, was in fair condition with head injuries.

The two tumbled from a scaffold 24 feet to the ground as they were working on a new building at 36 Greenside Way at 12:38 p.m. The men were placing shingles on a steep roof, working for Novato Roofing Co.

At 2:58 p.m. at nearby St. Sylvester's Church, roofer Frank J. Murphy, 24, of Daly City, was working for Custom Builders when he tumbled from the roof to the ground. He was treated for an injured foot at Marin General Hospital and then taken by car to St. Francis Hospital, San Francisco, where he was reported in good condition.

Demos Talk Organization Of Precincts

A small turnout of 11 Democrats last night discussed precinct organization at the monthly meeting of the Marin Democratic Central Committee.

Chairman Robert D. Carrow asked a three-man committee composed of Jack Cedarblade of Terra Linda, Thomas A. Skornia of Ross and Ernest Schallinger of Novato to nominate area precinct chairmen.

The Democrats also considered several candidates for postmaster at Forest Knolls and San Quentin but made no recommendations.

Mrs. Letitta Campbell and Mrs. Leona Ragle have been mentioned as candidates for the San Quentin post, and Mrs. Marlene Dougan at Forest Knolls.

Next meeting of the Marin Democratic Central Committee is set for 8 p.m. Nov. 22 at the San Rafael courthouse.

County Aide Studies Bids On Bond Sale

Bank of America appeared today to be the lowest of six bidders on purchase of $7.75 million in bonds that will help finance construction of the Hall of Justice addition to the Marin County Civic Center, a job that will cost a total of $11 million.

The low bid, quoted at 3.2918 per cent in bid openings before the board of supervisors, may contain a slight error, County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell said. However, even with adjustment for the error, it appeared Bank of America would remain the lowest bidder.

Interest estimates had ranged from 3.25 to 3.5 per cent.

Other bidders were United California Bank, 3.3102; Crocker-Citizens National Bank, 3.3488 per cent; Wells Fargo Bank, 3.3587 per cent; Halsey-Stuart and Co., 3.8422 per cent, and Bank of California, 3.401 per cent.

Trial Delay Rescheduled In Dope Case

Trial of a trio of suspects charged with selling marijuana was rescheduled in Marin Superior Court today for Dec. 20 when one defendant failed to appear for the second straight day.

The missing defendant is Wilhelf Alexander Rossknecht, 27, of 10 Reed Lane, Sausalito. Judge Thomas F. Keating yesterday issued a bench warrant for his arrest. Today he declared Rossknecht's $4,400 bail forfeited and denied bail on the new arrest warrant.

The continuance was granted at request of George Walker, San Francisco attorney represeting Peter Wright Lenihan, 31, of 420 B Street, Sausalito. Walker contended Rossknecht is a material witness in Lenihan's defense.

Third suspect is Ronald Keith Maska, 29, of Orange County.

The defendants were among 11 adults arrested in a June 4 southern Marin County roundup of persons suspected of selling or possessing marijuana.

Tape Recorder Taken At Home

Burglars ransacked the home of Robert W. Bruce, 135 Crown Road, Kentfield, making off with a tape recorder, typewriter, and pellet pistol, sheriff's officers reported today.

Bruce told deputies he returned from a vacation yesterday to find entry had been made through an unlocked rear window. He valued the tape recorder at $197, and the typewriter at $170.

Raymond E. Hughes of Santa Rosa reported a burglary of his automobile while it was parked at the Lodge, 8141 Redwood Highway, Novato. Hughes told officers a side window was forced and clothing and a tape recorder, total value of $400, were taken.

Informal Request For Sewers Studied

Homestead Valley Sanitary District directors last night took under consideration an informal request to supply sewers to a portion of the proposed community development on the Dias Ranch.

Chairman Warren I. Jacobs said the district could service the portion of the proposed residential development which is south and west of Homestead Valley.

OBITUARIES

Robert H. Silberberg Dies At 42

Robert H. Silberberg of 50 Corte Loyola, Greenbrae, died yesterday in a San Francisco hospital. He was 42.

A native of San Francisco, Silberberg was an estimating engineer employed by James A. Nelson & Co. Inc., of San Francisco.

He was a patron and manager with the Kentfield-Greenbrae Little League Assn. and managed the Guasco team for nine years.

Surviving him are his wife, Dorothee J. Silberberg; three sons, Daniel, Michael and Kelly Silberberg; his parents, I. Harry and Hilarita Silberberg of San Rafael, and a brother, Mervyn.

Requiem mass will be offered Thursday at 9:30 a.m. in St. Patrick's Church, San Francisco. Burial will be in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno, directed by McAvoy-O'Hara Co., San Francisco. The family prefers that tributes be contributions to the Cancer Fund.

GEORGE MINAHEN

A Requiem Mass for George E. Minahen Jr., 51, who died Sunday, apparently of a heart attack, will be held at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at Our Lady of Loretto Church in Novato.

Minahen, who lived at 17 Kent Street, Fairfax, had been working as a truck driver and was a member of Teamsters Union, Local 624 of San Rafael. He had last worked for George Howard of Nicasio.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Rae Minahen of Sonoma; two daughters, Kathleen Minahen of Kentfield, and Mrs. William W. Wright of Novato; one son, Ted Minahen of Chemult, Ore., and one grandchild.

The Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at Redwood Chapel funeral home in Novato. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael. Memorial contributions to the Heart Fund would be appreciated by the family.

WILLIAM DE WOLF

Funeral for William Waldo De Wolf, retired San Francisco real estate broker and brother of Mrs. Lillie Lyser of Corte Madera, will be held Thursdays at 1 p.m. at N. Gray and Co., San Francisco.

De Wolf, 77, died Sunday at his home in San Francisco, where for decades he was owner-manager of De Wolf Realty Co.

His father, the late William Morrison De Wolf, founded the real estate-insurance firm in 1879.

He is survived by his wife, Cecile De Wolf his sister, and a stepdaughter, Cecile Mery Calvi.

Burial will be in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

OSCAR H. DAHL

Oscar H. Dahl, real estate dealer and veteran of the two world wars, died yesterday at his home at 1208 Lynwood Drive, Novato, after a long illness.

A native of North Dakota, he was 76 years old. He had worked as a grain salesman in North Dakota until moving to San Francisco in 1941, when he went into the insurance business. For the past 13 years he had lived in Marin County, working for Tiburon Realty.

He is survived by his wife, Borgina M. Dahl of the home; two sisters, Miss Minnie Dahl of Minot, N.D., and Mrs. A. H. Borgerson of Long Prairie, Minn.; and three brothers, Manuel Dahl of Minot, N. D.; Joseph Dahl of Naples, S.D., and Arnold Dahl of Minneapolis, Minn.

Funeral will be at 12:15 p.m. Thursday at the Chapel of Marin Funeral Home, Novato. Burial will be in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

DAVID GADLOW

Memorial services for David B. Gadlow, real estate broker, of 1355 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, San Anselmo will be held tomorrow at 2 p.m. at Keaton's, Fifth Avenue and E Street, San Rafael.

Gadlow, who operated from an office in San Francisco, died in a San Francisco hospital Friday after a three months illness.

A native of New York, he came to California 45 years ago.

He is survived by a brother, Ralph B. Gadlow and a sister, Mrs. Esther Pollak, both of New York.

DAVID THORNTON

Graveside funeral for Dr. David Thornton, Spanish-American War veteran and longtime doctor in Los Angeles, will be held at 10:15 a.m. Thursday at Golden Gate National Cemetery in San Bruno.

He died Sunday in a Novato convalescent hospital, where he had been since 1962. He was 94 years ago.

A native of Peapack, N.J., he attended medical school in Colorado. At the outbreak of the Spanish-American war, he became the staff surgeon for the First Volunteer Colorado Infantry, and served with it during the ensuing Philippine insurrection.

He practiced medicine until 1942 in Los Angeles, when he moved to Weaverville, where he served as Trinity County physician until 1962.

Survivors include a daughter Lt. Col. (Ret.) Margaret M. Thornton of Sausalito, and a stepson, Dean Breeze, a judge in Las Vegas, Nev.

Funeral arrangements were made by Redwood Chapel Funeral Home, Novato.

SCHOOLS

Therefore, any innovation is good. I think all the people here are here to applaud the superintendent. I would like to express my extreme gratitude."

"It seems to me," said Robert O. Berdahl, "that with the best will in the world it is premature to come to any judgment as to whether cluster grouping is working or not." he said it should be given a fair trial, particularly with the changes made in the district.

"Are you behind in your school program?" a woman asked. Superintendent Lavaroni replied he has been no evidence of being behind and the three principals echoed this.

Dr. Wolfgang Lederer said, "I would feel on more solid ground if I heard not only of the assets but of the liabilities."

"In all sincerity, we were not able to pinpoint these," answered Lavaroni. Magnuson said there were discipline problems the first week or two but they are mostly under control.

Staten Webster, hired by Sausalito and Mill Valley school districts and the county superintendent of schools office as interacial group consultant, said the district is working toward understanding among "parents of all communities."

Mailers Picket News Plant

Pickets from the Mailers Union today patrolled in front of the office and plant of Marin Guide Publications in Sausalito.

Union printers refused to pass the picket lines, making uncertain whether the Marin Guide and its companion publication, the Sausalito News, would appear this week.

Marin Guide Publications has not had any contract with the Mailers Union, but the union reportedly is attempting to organize the plant.

Board Approves Fire Station

The Corte Madera Board of Design last night approved plans for the Corte Madera Volunteer Fire Department substation on Paradise Drive.

The station, which will serve Corte Madera east of Highway 101, was designed by Wagstaff and McDonald.

Novato Feels Most Effect Of Higher Taxes

Residents of Novato will feel the increase in property taxes most sharply of any area in the county this year, according to figures released by County Auditor - Controller Michael Mitchell.

County Treasurer-Tax Collector Stanley J. Fontez mailed out property tax bills last week. First installment payments are due Dec. 10.

A small area of Novato which was once in the San Jose School District has the honor of the highest tax rate in the county this year $12.605 per $100 assessed valuation.

For a home with a market value of $25,000, that will mean a tax bill of $724.78, about $55 above last year. Most of the increase is caused by generous hikes in the Novato city and Novato Unified School District taxes.

The lowest tax rate, as in years past, is at Point Reyes, with a rate of $4.835, but that, too is a jump from the $4.320 of last year, mainly because of an increase in the Tomales High School District rate.

On paper, the city of Belvedere showed the greatest increase in the tax rate, but the figures do not take into account the fact that the property in the area was reassessed sharply upward this spring.

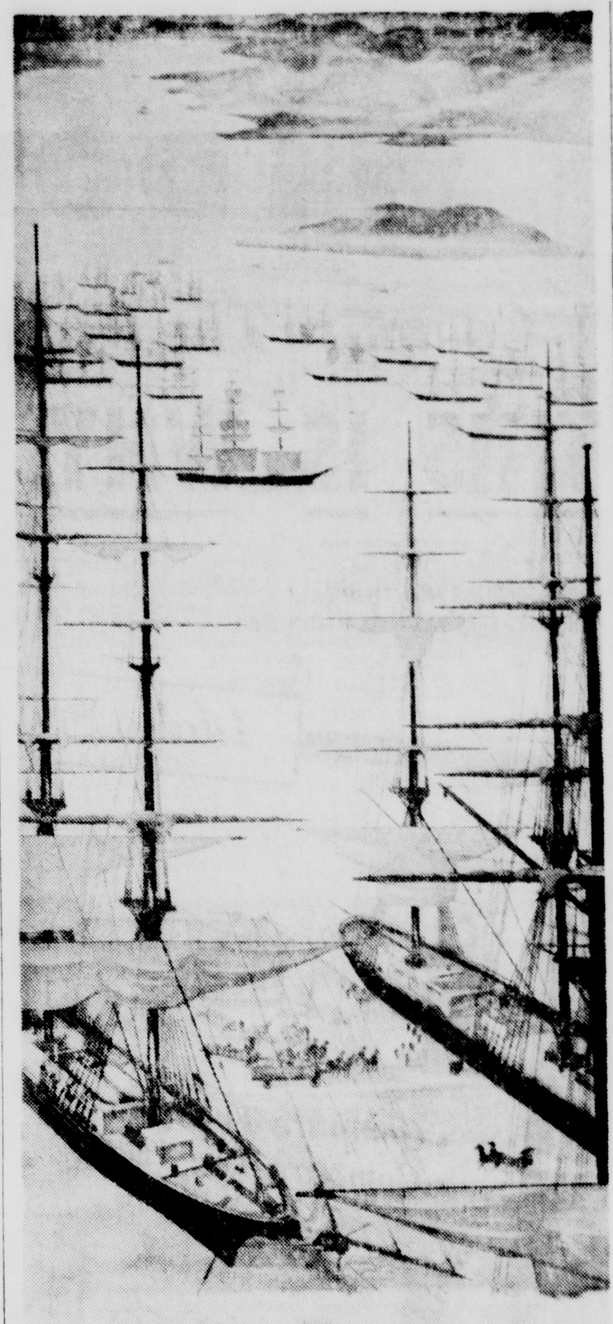
In a representative area of Belvedere, the tax rate dropped from $11.425 to $10.775, thanks to rate cuts by the city and the Reed School District. For a $25,000 home, that would mean a $37.41 cut in the tax bill to $619.52.

But a home which was listed on the assessor's rolls in 1964 as worth $25,000 was almost certain to be listed as worth much more this year, thus overriding the effect of the cut in the tax rate.

On a county-wide basis, according to Mitchell, 59.8 cents out of every property tax dollar collected will go to schools. Another 22.6 cents will go to the county, 9.0 cents to cities, and 8.6 cents to special districts.

Mitchell listed the total tax bill on a $25,000 home, compared to the previous year but not counting assessed valuation changes, for 14 representative areas in the county:

Belvedere, $619.52, down $37.41; Corte Madera, $641.37, down $16.14; Fairfax, $582.44, up $10.61; Larkspur, $617.79, down $16.72; Mill Valley, $587.61, down $28.21; Ross, $582.43, up $33.60; San Anselmo, $614.35, up $8.59; Sausalito, $544.19, up $39.63; West Marin, $365.67, up $13.77; Marinwood, $587.89, up $9.44; San Rafael, $515.45, up $6.29; Novato, $638.50, up $55.46; Terra Linda, $592.49, up $19.79; Kentfield, $572.36, up $14.61.



SAILING SHIPS AND STEAMERS — This mural by Mill Valley painter John Stoll shows a fleet of sailing ships and four steamers from the days of President Polk. Stoll recently supervised mounting of the mural aboard the newly built American President Line's S.S. President Polk. Bogalusa Strife May Curb Cal's Newspaper

BERKELEY (AP)—The Daily Californian said today it may suspend publication because of a boycott on paper products imposed by the Associated Students of the University of California.

The campus newspaper's editor, Peggy Krause, said it either must stop publication or lose its longtime Berkeley printshop, unless the ASUC Senate reconsiders the boycott at a meeting tonight.

The boycott requires the ASUC "to cease as soon as legally possible the use of or purchase of Crown Zellerbach Corp. products."

This boycott was an outgrowth of alleged racial trouble in Bogalusa, La., where Crown Zellerbach operates three plants.

A spokesman for Crown Zellerbach said today "we have an equal rights contract in our employment agreement and we are definitely making progress in implementing it at the Bogalusa plants."

The campus chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality, in a picket line demonstration yesterday in front of Sproul Hall, contended that Crown Zellerbach should "do more to solve Bogalusa's racial problems.

The Berkeley firm of Lederer, Street and Zeus, which for many years has printed the Daily Californian, has refused to adjust its operation for paper provided by suppliers other than Crown Zellerbach.

Forest Tregea, ASUC executive director, said the legal interpretation of the boycott requires immediate suspension of the newspaper. He said he hoped the student Senate would reconsider its wording.

Iron Lung Patient Dies As Light Company Cuts Power

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Audie Barrett, 11 died early today in an iron lung after Nashville Electric Service, unaware that he suffered from polio, shut off power because no one was paying the bill.

A company spokesman said the power was shut off Friday because no bills had been paid since a former occupant moved last June. He said no one had contacted the company since the power was discontinued.

The boy, who had suffered from the after-effects of polio six years, died after his mother, Helen Barrett, tried to operate the respirator by hand.

Mrs. Barrett said her son was not required to be in the iron lung during the day, but spent most nights there.

"I was trying to break him from the lung and we kept him out of it a lot of time," the distraught mother said.

Dr. W. J. Core, metropolitan medical examiner, was authorized to make an autopsy to determine the exact cause of death.

A company spokesman first said the power had been shut off yesterday, but later General Manager J. L. Sisk said a check of records showed it was turned off Friday.

Police said Mrs. Barrett left the machine for a few minutes and when she returned she realized the boy was dead.

Indonesia Army Chief Hits Reds

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Armed forces chief Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution has called for a purge of Idonesia's Communists and their sympathizers.

He warned in a speech broadcast by Jakarta Radio that unless the Reds and their fellow travelers are rooted out, they will attempt to overthrow the government again.

"All these institutions should purge these elements. . . all their followers and sympathizers should be eliminated; otherwise the incident will recur," Nasution said.

Probation Is Given In Marijuana Case

A three-year-old probation period was given Susan Kerrigan, 22, today in Marin Superior Court by Judge Samuel W. Gardiner. She had pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana and carrying a concealed weapon.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales asked a 10-day jail sentence also commenting he felt defendants in possession cases often fail to take the charge seriously, and that probation only would tend to show that the court concurred.

Judge Gardiner, however, replied that the double felony conviction and probation period were sufficiently severe for a first offender, and a short jail term would appear only as "a slap on the wrist."

Miss Kerrigan, of Sausalito, was one of 11 adults arrested in a southern Marin County roundup of suspected marijuana sellers and users last June 5.

Ex-Marinite's Plea Studied In Tax Case

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Gordon I. Smith, Sierra County district attorney, attempted today to plead no contest to a charge of failing to file federal income tax returns.

U.S. District Judge William T. Sweigert said he wanted more background on the case before accepting a plea of no contest rather than guilty. The judge said he would rule Nov. 9.

Thomas Martin, Sacramento attorney, said that Smith, 51, has paid all the taxes in question as well as 25 per cent penalty. Martin said he wishes to plead no contest in order to safeguard his license to practice law.

Smith formerly was a deputy district attorney in Marin county and a superior court judge in Sierra County.

Smith has been district attorney since 1958. The government said he failed to file returns for 1959 through 1962 on a total income of $24,491, representing half of community income with his wife.

Teen-Ager Killed By Shotgun Accident

REDWOOD CITY (AP)—Gerald Leprevost, 15, was found shot to death Monday night in the back yard of his Redwood City hime.

Police said he apparently had shot himself accidentally while cleaning a shotgun.

Longshoremen Lose Suit Again

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A suit by 45 discharged San Francisco longshoremen against longshore leader Harry Bridges and waterfront employers has been dismissed in Federal Court for the fourth time, it was disclosed today.

Judge George B. Harris dismissed the suit "with prejudice." That means the 45 onetime longshoremen can't bring the suit again. But they can appeal. Their attorneys said they would.

On the three previous occasions, the action was dismissed for "lack of clarity."

30 Days Are Given In Home Burglary

Lindell W. Griffin, 21, was sentenced to 30 days in county jail and placed on two years probation in Marin Superior Court today for burglary of the home of Ronald George McAllister at 120 Miramar Avenue, San Rafael.

Griffin, of 122 Myrtle Avenue, San Rafael, took $300 worth of clothing in the July 7 break-in. He pleaded guilty.

No Session

There was no meeting of the Mill Valley School District board last night because of lack of a quorum. The next meeting will be Nov. 8, reported Supt. G. R. McConnell.

Slaying Case Is Continued To Tuesday

Cases of Marc Charles Osuna, 30, and Jack R. Gorman, 36, charged with murder, and Harold Frank Percell, 24, accused of a liquor store robbery, were continued in Marin Superior Court today until 9:30 a.m. Tuesday for plea entries.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner, who last week appointed Thomas P. Boyd, San Rafael attorney, to represent Osuna, today appointed attorney Richard Tarrant to aid in Osuna's defense.

The public defender's office represents Gorman. Percell is defended by David J. Costamagna.

Osuna and Gorman, both San Quentin prisoners as parole violators, allegedly killed Mario Ferrari at Mission Inn in San Rafael on Labor Day. Gorman and Percell are jointly charged with robbing Rudy's Liquor Store, 1835 Fourth Street, San Rafael, on Aug. 30.

Two Guilty Pleas To Perjury Charges

Michael West, 18, pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court today to perjury in two preliminary hearings in Marin Municipal Court. Judge Samuel W. Gardiner scheduled judgement for Nov. 16.

West, of 254 Adobestone Court, Marinwood, falsely testified as a witness in examinations of Thomas Dean Scahill, 21, of 131 Bolinas Road, Fairfax, charged with disposing of a stolen automobile trarnsmission with intent to defraud an insurance company.

Blithedale Canyon Map Back On Agenda

Mill Valley planning commissioners will hold a hearing at their 8 p.m. meeting today on a request for planned unit development for 15 homes in Blithedale Canyon, using the main access from West Blithedale Avenue. A former proposal recommended access from Manzanita Place.

The commission will also discuss the proposed community development on the Dias Ranch as it relates to the City of Mill Valley and consider permitting a driveway on Cascade Reservoir property to serve as access to property of Kenneth W. Conant.

Marin Muralist Depicts Famous Old Sailing Ships

Famous sailing ships which plied San Francisco Bay in the era of President James K. Polk (1795-1849) are captured in a 21-foot-tal mural painted by Mill Valley artist John Stoll.

Stoll, who terms himself "a painter of the sea," supervised installation of the mounting of the mural last week in San Diego aboard the newly built ship, S.S. President Polk.

An American President liner, the ship will soon voyage to San Francisco, said Stoll.

Stoll spent five months painting the mural, using the top deck of the old Mold Loft building, now the Industrial Center building, in Sausalito as his studio.

"All is calm," he said of his painting, "and all the ships are recognizable according to their stepping of masts and rake."

The 10-food-wide mural stands three decks high on the ship.

Stoll, who lives at 491 Ethel Avenue, is painter, sculptor and etcher. He is ex-president of the California Society of Etchers and once studied at the Academy of Fine Arts, Dresden, Germany. He has exhibited his works in the United States, Italy, Mexico and Venezuela and is represented in collections in London, Tel Aviv and Jerusalem.

Jury Trial Set In Grand Theft

Jury trial for Archie Joe Fields, 28, charged with grand theft of about $5,000 from Sausalito Pharmacy, was scheduled in Marin Superior Court today for Nov. 15.

Fields, a part-time Sausalito bookkeeper residing at Del Monte Hotel, 7 Excelsior Lane, allegedly embezzled the money over a 16-month period.

Of 1000 persons aged 35, 33% will be disabled by illness or injury—for three months or more—before they reach age 65. That's what the statistics show.

What kind of statistic will you be?

It makes sense to look into a Manufacturers Life Personal Income Protector Plan. Nothing can give you such peace of mind as the sure knowledge that if you are disabled and cannot work, a guaranteed income will come your way.

Our Plan has many advantages. It offers you a wide flexibility in amount of income and the length of time it will be paid. You can co-ordinate the plan with your other resources; tailor it to your needs and your pocketbook. Manufacturers Life cannot cancel the policy nor can your premium rate be raised—ever. The plan can be adjusted to correct the inadequacy of any short-term coverage you already have.

If you are interested, call the Man from Manufacturers. When advising you on disability income he offers you the same competent counsel available to you when you are planning your life insurance security.

On a county-wide basis, according to Mitchell, 59.8 cents out of every property tax dollar collected will go to schools. Another 22.6 cents will go to the county, 9.0 cents to cities, and 8.6 cents to special districts.

Mitchell listed the total tax bill on a $25,000 home, compared to the previous year but not counting assessed valuation changes, for 14 representative areas in the county:

Belvedere, $619.52, down $37.41; Corte Madera, $641.37, down $16.14; Fairfax, $582.44, up $10.61; Larkspur, $617.79, down $16.72; Mill Valley, $587.61, down $28.21; Ross, $582.43, up $33.60; San Anselmo, $614.35, up $8.59; Sausalito, $544.19, up $39.63; West Marin, $365.67, up $13.77; Marinwood, $587.89, up $9.44; San Rafael, $515.45, up $6.29; Novato, $638.50, up $55.46; Terra Linda, $592.49, up $19.79; Kentfield, $572.36, up $14.61.

Marin Muralist Depicts Famous Old Sailing Ships

Famous sailing ships which plied San Francisco Bay in the era of President James K. Polk (1795-1849) are captured in a 21-foot-tal mural painted by Mill Valley artist John Stoll.

Stoll, who terms himself "a painter of the sea," supervised installation of the mounting of the mural last week in San Diego aboard the newly built ship, S.S. President Polk.

An American President liner, the ship will soon voyage to San Francisco, said Stoll.

Stoll spent five months painting the mural, using the top deck of the old Mold Loft building, now the Industrial Center building, in Sausalito as his studio.

"All is calm," he said of his painting, "and all the ships are recognizable according to their stepping of masts and rake."

The 10-food-wide mural stands three decks high on the ship.

Stoll, who lives at 491 Ethel Avenue, is painter, sculptor and etcher. He is ex-president of the California Society of Etchers and once studied at the Academy of Fine Arts, Dresden, Germany. He has exhibited his works in the United States, Italy, Mexico and Venezuela and is represented in collections in London, Tel Aviv and Jerusalem.

Bogalusa Strife May Curb Cal's Newspaper

BERKELEY (AP)—The Daily Californian said today it may suspend publication because of a boycott on paper products imposed by the Associated Students of the University of California.

The campus newspaper's editor, Peggy Krause, said it either must stop publication or lose its longtime Berkeley printshop, unless the ASUC Senate reconsiders the boycott at a meeting tonight.

The boycott requires the ASUC "to cease as soon as legally possible the use of or purchase of Crown Zellerbach Corp. products."

This boycott was an outgrowth of alleged racial trouble in Bogalusa, La., where Crown Zellerbach operates three plants.

A spokesman for Crown Zellerbach said today "we have an equal rights contract in our employment agreement and we are definitely making progress in implementing it at the Bogalusa plants."

The campus chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality, in a picket line demonstration yesterday in front of Sproul Hall, contended that Crown Zellerbach should "do more to solve Bogalusa's racial problems.

The Berkeley firm of Lederer, Street and Zeus, which for many years has printed the Daily Californian, has refused to adjust its operation for paper provided by suppliers other than Crown Zellerbach.

Forest Tregea, ASUC executive director, said the legal interpretation of the boycott requires immediate suspension of the newspaper. He said he hoped the student Senate would reconsider its wording.

Iron Lung Patient Dies As Light Company Cuts Power

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Audie Barrett, 11 died early today in an iron lung after Nashville Electric Service, unaware that he suffered from polio, shut off power because no one was paying the bill.

A company spokesman said the power was shut off Friday because no bills had been paid since a former occupant moved last June. He said no one had contacted the company since the power was discontinued.

The boy, who had suffered from the after-effects of polio six years, died after his mother, Helen Barrett, tried to operate the respirator by hand.

Mrs. Barrett said her son was not required to be in the iron lung during the day, but spent most nights there.

"I was trying to break him from the lung and we kept him out of it a lot of time," the distraught mother said.

Dr. W. J. Core, metropolitan medical examiner, was authorized to make an autopsy to determine the exact cause of death.

A company spokesman first said the power had been shut off yesterday, but later General Manager J. L. Sisk said a check of records showed it was turned off Friday.

Police said Mrs. Barrett left the machine for a few minutes and when she returned she realized the boy was dead.

Indonesia Army Chief Hits Reds

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Armed forces chief Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution has called for a purge of Idonesia's Communists and their sympathizers.

He warned in a speech broadcast by Jakarta Radio that unless the Reds and their fellow travelers are rooted out, they will attempt to overthrow the government again.

"All these institutions should purge these elements. . . all their followers and sympathizers should be eliminated; otherwise the incident will recur," Nasution said.

Probation Is Given In Marijuana Case

A three-year-old probation period was given Susan Kerrigan, 22, today in Marin Superior Court by Judge Samuel W. Gardiner. She had pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana and carrying a concealed weapon.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales asked a 10-day jail sentence also commenting he felt defendants in possessiion cases often fail to take the charge seriously, and that probation only would tend to show that the court concurred.

Judge Gardiner, however, replied that the double felony conviction and probation period were sufficiently severe for a first offender, and a short jail term would appear only as "a slap on the wrist."

Miss Kerrigan, of Sausalito, was one of 11 adults arrested in a southern Marin County roundup of suspected marijuana sellers and users last June 5.

Ex-Marinite's Plea Studied In Tax Case

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Gordon I. Smith, Sierra County district attorney, attempted today to plead no contest to a charge of failing to file federal income tax returns.

U.S. District Judge William T. Sweigert said he wanted more background on the case before accepting a plea of no contest rather than guilty. The judge said he would rule Nov. 9.

Thomas Martin, Sacramento attorney, said that Smith, 51, has paid all the taxes in question as well as 25 per cent penalty. Martin said he wishes to plead no contest in order to safeguard his license to practice law.

Smith formerly was a deputy district attorney in Marin county and a superior court judge in Sierra County.

Smith has been district attorney since 1958. The government said he failed to file returns for 1959 through 1962 on a total income of $24,491, representing half of community income with his wife.

Teen-Ager Killed By Shotgun Accident

REDWOOD CITY (AP)—Gerald Leprevost, 15, was found shot to death Monday night in the back yard of his Redwood City hime.

Police said he apparently had shot himself accidentally while cleaning a shotgun.

Longshoremen Lose Suit Again

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A suit by 45 discharged San Francisco longshoremen against longshore leader Harry Bridges and waterfront employers has been dismissed in Federal Court for the fourth time, it was disclosed today.

Judge George B. Harris dismissed the suit "with prejudice." That means the 45 one-time longshoremen can't bring the suit again. But they can appeal. Their attorneys said they would.

On the three previous occasions, the action was dismissed for "lack of clarity."

30 Days Are Given In Home Burglary

Lindell W. Griffin, 21, was sentenced to 30 days in county jail and placed on two years probation in Marin Superior Court today for burglary of the home of Ronald George McAllister at 120 Miramar Avenue, San Rafael.

Griffin, of 122 Myrtle Avenue, San Rafael, took $300 worth of clothing in the July 7 break-in. He pleaded guilty.

No Session

There was no meeting of the Mill Valley School District board last night because of lack of a quorum. The next meeting will be Nov. 8, reported Supt. G. R. McConnell.

Slaying Case Is Continued To Tuesday

Cases of Marc Charles Osuna, 30, and Jack R. Gorman, 36, charged with murder, and Harold Frank Percell, 24, accused of a liquor store robbery, were continued in Marin Superior Court today until 9:30 a.m. Tuesday for plea entries.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner, who last week appointed Thomas P. Boyd, San Rafael attorney, to represent Osuna, today appointed attorney Richard Tarrant to aid in Osuna's defense.

The public defender's office represents Gorman. Percell is defended by David J. Costamagna.

Osuna and Gorman, both San Quentin prisoners as parole violators, allegedly killed Mario Ferrari at Mission Inn in San Rafael on Labor Day. Gorman and Percell are jointly charged with robbing Rudy's Liquor Store, 1835 Fourth Street, San Rafael, on Aug. 30.

Two Guilty Pleas To Perjury Charges

Michael West, 18, pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court today to perjury in two preliminary hearings in Marin Municipal Court. Judge Samuel W. Gardiner scheduled judgement for Nov. 16.

West, of 254 Adobestone Court, Marinwood, falsely testified as a witness in examinations of Thomas Dean Scahill, 21, of 131 Bolinas Road, Fairfax, charged with disposing of a stolen automobile trarnsmission with intent to defraud an insurance company.

Blithedale Canyon Map Back On Agenda

Mill Valley planning commissioners will hold a hearing at their 8 p.m. meeting today on a request for planned unit development for 15 homes in Blithedale Canyon, using the main access from West Blithedale Avenue. A former proposal recommended access from Manzanita Place.

The commission will also discuss the proposed community development on the Dias Ranch as it relates to the City of Mill Valley and consider permitting a driveway on Cascade Reservoir property to serve as access to property of Kenneth W. Conant.

Jury Trial Set In Grand Theft

Jury trial for Archie Joe Fields, 28, charged with grand theft of about $5,000 from Sausalito Pharmacy, was scheduled in Marin Superior Court today for Nov. 15.

Fields, a part-time Sausalito bookkeeper residing at Del Monte Hotel, 7 Excelsior Lane, allegedly embezzled the money over a 16-month period.

If you think you don't need disability insurance, you haven't seen the statistics.

Of 1000 persons aged 35, 33% will be disabled by illness or injury—for three months or more—before they reach age 65. That's what the statistics show.

What kind of statistic will you be?

It makes sense to look into a Manufacturers Life Personal Income Protector Plan. Nothing can give you such peace of mind as the sure knowledge that if you are disabled and cannot work, a guaranteed income will come your way.

Our Plan has many advantages. It offers you a wide flexibility in amount of income and the length of time it will be paid. You can co-ordinate the plan with your other resources; tailor it to your needs and your pocketbook. Manufacturers Life cannot cancel the policy nor can your premium rate be raised—ever. The plan can be adjusted to correct the inadequacy of any short-term coverage you already have.

If you are interested, call the Man from Manufacturers. When advising you on disability income he offers you the same competent counsel available to you when you are planning your life insurance security.

Marincello Pros, Cons Heard—But No Decision Made

Board Of Supervisors Plan Second Hearing Nov. 8

The pros and cons of Marincello were heard for seven hours before the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday with no conclusion in sight.

Only decision by the board on the proposed city of 20,000 was to set a second hearing for 9:30 a.m., Nov. 8, at the Civic Center.

At that time E. Warren McGuire, one of the attorneys for Frouge Corp., developers of Marincello, will have a chance to rebut some of the criticisms aired yesterday.

McGuire told supervisors he particularly wanted to reply to the Marin Conservation League, which recommended that the county:

1. Adopt the West Marin Master Plan prior to consideration of Marincello, because the West Marin plan will require a decision on scenic Highway 1. Marincello threatens two of the proposed routes, according to the league.

2. Prepare a master plan for the Golden Gate headlands area before considering Marincello, which would sit among the headlands.

The recommendation of the conservation league, the reservations cited by Dobbs, and the close 4-3 vote by which the plan-

3. Require that any county development conform to establish slope and density policies.

4. Include in the zoning ordinance a precise definition of "cluster development."

Clifford E. Hanssen, vice president of the league, charged that Marincello proponents have tried to equate clustering with higher density. He said true clustering maintains the same average density that would be possible with conventional development.

Marincello would have a density of 3.5 dwelling units an acre.

County Planning Director B. D. Dobbs repeated the same reservations on Marincello that he made several weeks ago before the planning commission.

"I feel it's untimely to go into this type of development at this time," Dobbs said. He also declared that the 3.5 density allowed as a maximum in planned community zoning is being taken as a standard in a plan where the terrain does not justify it.

This will be used by other developers, he said. Already a plan has been proposed for the nearby Dias Ranch with 3.5 density.

ning commission approved the master plan comprised the main arguments from the Marincello opposition late yesterday.

The crowd, which grew from 40 at the start of the session to 150 by mid-afternoon, appeared to be equally split, judging from applause.

Former County Supervisor Vera B. Schultz, a consultant for Marincello, made a strong defense of the development, saying it provides the "basic answer to proliferating taxes and slurb."

She said the high-rise apartments (there would be 19 of them in Marincello) are a means of conserving open space. She declared that 91 per cent of the 2,139 acres in Marincello will be left open.

"If that's not real conservation, I don't know it," Mrs. Schultz declared.

Others speaking for the development were:

Clinton De Lap of the Marin Visitors' Bureau, Melvin J. Rupp of the Marin Property Owners Assn., Lyle Leverich of the Atheneum Arts Foundation, Douglas Roberts and George Scott of the Marin Labor-Management Committee, Stuart Smith of the Mechanical Contractors Assn., William Reedy of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers;

Artist Robert Shinn of Sausalito, banker A. L. Nieri of Novato, attorney Edward R. Fitzsimmons of Berkeley, who owns 100 acres on Wolfback Ridge adjacent to Marincello, Emerson Burnett of Wolfback Ridge, Ross Tankersly of the Novato Chamber of Commerce, title insurance man William Corbett of San Rafael, title insurance man William F. Fergus of Novato;

Henry Torget of Carpenters Union Local 35, Marin Summer Festival producer Shela Xoregos of San Francisco, Franz Glenn of International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, William Jennings of Local 38 of Plumbers and Pipefitters Union, John Petrini of Carpet, Linoleum and Soft Tile Workers Local 35 of San Francisco, Nick Georgedes of Bartenders and Culinary Workers Local 126, Stanley Smith of the Glaziers Union, Louise Childs of San Francisco, William Bergeron of San Rafael, and Harold R. Lever of Tiburon.

Lever said his firm, Power Engineering and Equipment Co. of Berkeley, might move to the industrial area of Marincello. The firm makes electronic flow devices and employs about 45, he said.

Speaking against Marincello were:

Eleanor O'Hara Chapin, Sausalito city councilman; Michael Wornum, Mill Valley mayor; Anne L. Stanford Hires Medical Official

PALO ALTO (AP) — A young Rutgers University professor has been appointed associate dean of the Stanford University School of Medicine.

Stanford announced the appointment yesterday of Dr. LeRoy Allen Pesch, 34, professor and chairman of the department of medicine at Rutgers.

Dr. Robert J. Glanor, dean of the Stanford medical school, said the appointment represented "an extremely important step forward in strengthening our overall program in medical education."

A university spokesman said Dr. Pesch will devote more time to student affairs than has been customary at Stanford.

Trustees See Kent School's Shop Problems

Kentfield seventh and eighth graders need better equipment for shop, physical education and home economics classes, the Kentfield School District Board was told last night during a tour of classrooms at Adaline E. Kent School.

The district is due soon to build a new shop, and later will build a home economics laboratory, Supt. Howard C. Harmon reminded board members. The present shop will be remodeled as a shower and locker room.

In the tour, board members were given outlines of the programs in the shop, art, home economics and physical education courses.

Shop teacher Duane Johnk made a plea for two years of shop classes, rather than one year as is now the case. He said the new shop, when built, will be slightly smaller than the present one, but space will be more efficiently used.

Betty Heilig in the home economics class said she needed much more room. The present class deals mainly with sewing, she said, because there is not room or equipment to teach cooking.

Principal Thomas H. Smith said plans are being worked out so that boys and girls can both take both shop and home economics courses. Girls will need to know how to fix leaky faucets, and boys how to set tables, he said.

Mrs. Christine Limm and Henry Yamagata, the school's new physical education teachers, said the main need was more time and space for students to change clothes for gymnasium classes.

Art teacher Marianne Willmarth presented the board with a room full of displays to show progress in art class through a year. She said ceramic work allowed some children to do well who could not draw, and added that more potters wheels would be needed.

The Kentfield School District Board also:

1. Approved a new district policy for bargaining with teachers' organizations to conform to new state law.

2. Hired Mrs. Dotti Stevens as superintendent's secretary at $567 a month, replacing Mrs. Valerie Husbands, who resigned as of next Friday because her husband is moving from Marin.

Convalescent Hospital Plans Are Delayed

Marin County zoning administrator Thomas E. Cordill yesterday put off until Nov. 8 any decision on a permit asked by Marlin Properties, Inc., to operate a 49-bed convalescent hospital on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Kentfield.

The hospital would be built opposite College Avenue, just south of the Kentfield firehouse.

Defense Attorneys Hit Worthington Evidence

Closing arguments in San Francisco's Sally Stanford burglary trial were expected to wind up today, with the case going to the seven-man, five-woman jury tomorrow.

Scheduled today were final arguments on behalf of two of the five defendants, ex-convicts Wesley Gant, 56, and Louis Romero, 28.

Yesterday, the jury in San Francisco Superior Court heard from attorneys representing veteran safe-cracker Winston Major, 51, and two San Francisco police officers: Salvatore Polani, 44, and Patrick Buchman, 27.

Threaded throughout their arguments were attacks on the integrity of the prosecution's chief witness, contractor Robert K. Worthington of Point Reyes Station.

Worthington has been credited with tipping police last April about the plan to burglarize the San Francisco home of Mrs. Marsha Owen, better known as Sally Stanford.

Buckman's attorney, Gregory Stout, painted a different picture.

Terming Worthington a "self-congratulating informer," Stout said his client was an innocent victim of the conspiracy. Buckman earlier testified he thought he was on a private duty investigation in a divorce case until he was arrested in a parked car near Mrs. Owen's home.

Polani's attorney, Emmett Hagerty, reiterated Polani's testimony that it was actually Worthington, not Polani, who masterminded the burglary plot.

In fact, he said, Polani was trying to trap Worthington.

"The whole case depends on whether you believe Polani or are convinced of the truth of Worthington's testimony," declared Hagerty.

Major's attorney, J. Bruce Fratis, conceded "Major was there to burgle the safe." But he contended his client had been "suckered into the deal by Polani."

"I submit it was a classic case of entrapment by a police officer," he said.

Both Worthington and Polani, said Fratis, were trying to trap each other, and Major got caught in the middle.

Fratis then joined in the attacks on Worthington.

Saying the contractor had displayed "the most amazing flexibility of fabrication," Fratis said he "tells lies when the truth would do."

Worthington, he said, "could lie on one foot standing in a hammock in a phone booth."

Tiburon Votes To Enlarge Plans Body

The Tiburon City Council, meeting last night at Del Mar School, instructed City Atty. Robert I. Conn to draw up an ordinance increasing the planning commission from five to seven members.

The action had been requested by the commission.

The council authorized City Mgr. Lawrence D. Rose to contract with landscape architect Anthony Guzzardo to draw up a master plan for landscaping the highway construction area on Tiburon Boulevard.

The area runs from Reed Ranch Road to the western boundary of the city. The plan will be financed with $1,000 from the city and $500 from the Reedlands Property Owners Assn. It is hoped the state division of highways will do the landscaping when the plan is completed.

The Tiburon City Council also:

1. Instructed City Attorney Conn to draft a new business ordinance.

2. Set for Nov. 8 public hearing on a proposal to limit building use permits to one year.

3. Continued hearing on creation of a city parks and recreation commission.

4. Approved a cross walk and stop sign at Lyford Drive and Rock Hill Road.

5. Sent back to the planning commission for further study a proposal to start work on revising the 1956 master plan.

Conversation For Robbing A Bank

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Teller Jaclyn Finney, 21, said a man handed her a note at the 16th and Mission street Bank of America branch yesterday asking of she had $5,000.

"No," Miss Finney replied.

After a threat from the man, she handed him $1,000.

Assistant cashier John Canepa, 30, alerted police, who identified the holdup man as Samuel Hall, 33.

Latter-Day Saints Booth Wins First Prize Of $100

The Latter-Day Saints Relief Society won first prize for its booth at the Charity Fair last Thursday, Friday and Saturday in the Northgate Shopping Center.

The prize, a check for $100, was presented to the group by William Luebbke, manager of Hastings for the Northgate Merchants Assn. The award was based on creativity effort among 29 charity organizations participating in the fair.

The Latter-Day Saints' booth was in the design of a gingerbread house, with a tiled roof of painted paper plates, and was decorated with cellophane-wrapped candy and sugar canes. The group took orders for gingerbread houses for Christmas.

Judging the competition were Jack Alvarado, manager of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce; Harry Crotty, design instructor at College of Marin, and Benjamin Howard, advertising executive with Fawcett McDermott Associates.

Proceeds from sales made by the various charities during the three-day period were estimated as averaging $200 a booth.

FEARS CAN KILL

Researcher Tells Heart Discovery

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Modern man may be in danger of frightening himself to death with psychosomatically induced heart attacks, a leading heart specialist suggests.

Dr. E. Grey Dimond, director of the Institute for Cardio-Pulmonary Disease of the Scripps Clinic and Research Foundation in La Jolla, reported yesterday an experiment with coronary patients.

He told of 20 men suffering from severe Angina pectoris, the chest pains and feeling of pressure that are symptoms of coronary disease.

Dimond said 10 of the subjects were given a circulation-restoring operation. In the other 10 only an incision was made.

"The incisions were as effective in curing angina as the operations were," he said, noting that 90 per cent of American men over 40 suffer from some kind of coronary condition, usually a diminishing supply of blood and oxygen to the heart muscle.

He concluded:

"The angina is triggered by the coronary condition. But many men go on from there to frighten themselves to death and these are men who would probably have got over angina.

"The fact is, angina is a reversible condition in most men. If the man with angina doesn't get too anxious and if he can be persuaded that he is not going to drop dead any minute, the chances are good he will get over it."

Dr. Dimond addressed the 17th annual meeting of the California Academy of General Practice.

Anti-Draft Group Reported Sending Blood To Viet Reds

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York World-Telegram and Sun said today an antidraft group known as the May Second Movement is sending blood, first aid supplies and money to the Communist Viet Cong.

The movement was among those involved in recent demonstrations against the war in Viet Nam.

The World-Telegram report said a blood donor drive has been organized in the movement's West Coast chapter, and blood and first aid material already has been shipped to North Viet Nam.

The New York chapter, the newspaper said, plans to send blood donated by its members and send the money to the Viet Cong through the Algerian National Liberation Front.

The report said the movement has 17 chapters across the country, with the New York City chapter having 200 members.

The World-Telegram account also quoted one unidentified Columbia University student it said is a member of the May Second Movement as indicating that the movement in Michigan is training volunteers to join the Communist forces in Viet Nam.

The student, when asked about the report, was quoted as saying: "That's not far from the truth."

Goldstein Still Is Critical

Peter L. Goldstein of San Anselmo remained unconscious and in critical condition at Marin General Hospital today — seven days after he suffered head injuries in a freak auto accident on the Waldo Grade.

His family today appealed to the public to help doctors in the fight for his life by giving blood at the Marin Blood Center, 506 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

Goldstein, 31-year-old publicist and political campaign of 65 Alder Avenue, is in the intensive care unit at the hospital.

Woman With Meat In Throat Critical

Abigail Rowland, 75, of 5495 Redwood Highway, Novato, remained in poor condition in the intensive care unit of Marin General Hospitial today after being admitted Saturday with a piece of meat lodged in her throat.

Police and firemen were called after Mrs. Rowland collapsed, choking, at Marin Joe's at Corte Madera.

Bay Drowning Victim's Body Finally Found

The body of George David Sims, 35, of 520 Canal Street, San Rafael, has been found in the bay near a San Francisco pier.

Sims tumbled overboard from his boat near Point San Quentin the night of Oct. 13.

The body, according to the San Francisco coroner's office, was seen floating near Pier 48 at 7:20 a.m. Saturday by Leon Minnie of San Francisco. It was picked up a few minutes later by the Coast Guard.

Sims' wife, Dorothy, told authorities she saw her husband fall over the side of their 27-foot cabin cruiser just after she relieved him at the wheel.

He was on his way home from his job as a Tiburon bartender.

With the couple was a passenger, Ken Scaruffar of San Francisco. Mrs. Sims said he was below deck at the time Sims fell over.

Pathology tests were under way today in San Francisco to determin the exact cause of Sims' death. The coroner's office said the test results would probably be ready by the end of this week.

Sims was a native of McFadden, Wyo.

Surviving, in addition to his wife, are his parents, George Sims of McFadden, and Mrs. Agnes Wilson of Anchorage, Alaska.

Funeral will be at 10:45 a.m. Thursday at Halsted and Co., 1123 Sutter Street, San Francisco. Burial will be in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

Street Opponents Fail To Put Off Rezoning

The Novato Planning Commission last night approved a planned commercial zone for Alfred Bellucci and John Novak for a lot south of Clausing Street and east of Highway 101.

Approximately 20 residents of Clausing Street attended to protest opening of their street as an access.

Commissioners assured the people that access to Clausing Street had already been denied in previous rezoning.

The Novato Planning Commission also:

1. Approved the tentative map of 22-lot Vineyard Manor on six acres on Vineyard Road, submitted by Pacific Coast Development Co.

2. Approved plans for a laundry at 849 Sweetzer Avenue for Frank S. Yee, owner of the Novato Laundry at 1049 Third Street.

3. Approved the request of Meadowbrook Developers Inc. to develop 25 acres of the Scottsdale assessment district independent of the rest of the Scottsdale master plan.

4. Granted Bahia Properties Corp. a permit for community recreation and yacht club on five acres on Bahia Drive.

5. Granted the Protestant Episcopal Church a permit for addition of a fellowship hall to St. Francis of Assisi Episcopal Church at 967 Fifth Street.

6. Postponed until Nov. 8, action on the Novato Square master plan for the old Grant School property at Grant Avenue and Highway 101, submitted by Douglas M. Christensen Construction Co.

7. Changed the public hearing on the streets and highways phase of the Novato master plan from 8 p.m. Thursday to the same hour next Monday, and set for 8 p.m., Nov. 15, second public hearing on the entire master plan. Both hearings will be at the Community House.

Welding Gear Taken At Construction Site

Someone walked into an unlocked storage shed in the Upland subdivision on Paradise Drive, Corte Madera, Friday afternoon and stole two pressure gauges and a burning torch worth $250, it was reported yesterday.

The stolen items belong to Structural Iron Inc. of Cotati. The theft was reported by employee Alex J. Demetriff.

Railroads Sue Over Firemen's Job Insurance

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Two western railroads are seeking to keep unemployment insurance from firemen who accept a national mediation severance pay award.

The firms, Western Pacific and Southern Pacific, filed suit yesterday in federal court.

They charged that acceptance of severance pay is voluntary termination of employment. If firemen also are paid unemployment insurance under the Railroad Retirement Act, the roads contend, they will unlawfully collect $640,000 a year.

The railroads' figures were based on 500 firemen taking advantage of the arbitration award. This award was the basis for settlement of the long push by railroads to eliminate firemen from diesel engine trains.

Scientists Still Chasing Comet

HONOLULU (AP)—Scientists and astrnomers flew over the Pacific again today, continuing their chase of the Ikeya-Seki comet.

Following their yesterday flight the scientists said the comet apparently suffered no structural deformation in its brush with the sun last Wednesday.

They reported the comet's tail to be about 12 degrees in length, or about 25 million miles long.

Guerneville Educator To Be Sausalito Aide

Joseph Amato, superintendent-principal of Guerneville School District in Sonoma County, next Monday will become assistant superintendent of Sausalito School District in charge of special projects.

Amato was hired for the newly created position last night by the Sausalito School District Board. He will receive $13,500 per year.

His abrupt departure from Guerneville reportedly surprised the Sonoma County schools office, although Amato said he had told his school board two weeks ago that he applied for the Sausalito position. He recommended his assistant principal replace him in Guerneville.

The Guerneville School District Board today called a special meeting for Friday to consider the replacement.

Amato, who is 45, has been superintendent-principal of the one-school Guerneville district for eight years. The district has been in financial difficulties since the December flood last year wrecked much equipment and damaged the school building.

Amato was selected by the Sausalito trustees from among six applicants. He and his wife, Edith Marie, have one child, Jennifer Jo.

The Sausalito board voted to use $9,000 of compensatory education funds received from the federal government toward Amato's salary, and the additional $3,100 so far received from that source to pay noontime supervisors.

Crucial Parleys On In Rhodesia

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP)—The prime ministers of Britain and Rhodesia open crucial new talks today on the Rhodesian government's explosive drive for independence.

Harold Wilson and Ian Smith scheduled a midmorning session still hunting an area of agreement.

Wilson arrived last night from London in an attempt to head off the declaration of independence which Smith's government threatens in an attempt to preserve white rule in the Central African colony.

Marincello Pros, Cons Heard—But No Decision Made

Board Of Supervisors Plan Second Hearing Nov. 8

The pros and cons of Marincello were heard for seven hours before the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday with no conclusion in sight.

Only decision by the board on the proposed city of 20,000 was to set a second hearing for 9:30 a.m., Nov. 8, at the Civic Center.

At that time E. Warren McGuire, one of the attorneys for Frouge Corp., developers of Marincello, will have a chance to rebut some of the criticisms aired yesterday.

McGuire told supervisors he particularly wanted to reply to the Marin Conservation League, which recommended that the county:

1. Adopt the West Marin Master Plan prior to consideration of Marincello, because the West Marin plan will require a decision on scenic Highway 1. Marincello threatens two of the proposed routes, according to the league.

2. Prepare a master plan for the Golden Gate headlands area before considering Marincello, which would sit among the headlands.

The recommendation of the conservation league, the reservations cited by Dobbs, and the close 4-3 vote by which the planning commission approved the master plan comprised the main arguments from the Marincello opposition late yesterday.

The crowd, which grew from 40 at the start of the session to 150 by mid-afternoon, appeared to be equally split, judging from applause.

Former County Supervisor Vera B. Schultz, a consultant for Marincello, made a strong defense of the development, saying it provides the "basic answer to proliferating taxes and slurb."

She said the high-rise apartments (there would be 19 of them in Marincello) are a means of conserving open space. She declared that 91 per cent of the 2,139 acres in Marincello will be left open.

"If that's not real conservation, I don't know it," Mrs. Schultz declared.

Others speaking for the development were:

Clinton De Lap of the Marin Visitors' Bureau, Melvin J. Rupp of the Marin Property Owners Assn., Lyle Leverich of the Atheneum Arts Foundation, Douglas Roberts and George Scott of the Marin Labor-Management Committee, Stuart Smith of the Mechanical Contractors Assn., William Reedy of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers;

Artist Robert Shinn of Sausalito, banker A. L. Nieri of Novato, attorney Edward R. Fitzsimmons of Berkeley, who owns 100 acres on Wolfback Ridge adjacent to Marincello, Emerson Burnett of Wolfback Ridge, Ross Tankersly of the Novato Chamber of Commerce, title insurance man William Corbett of San Rafael, title insurance man William F. Fergus of Novato;

Henry Torget of Carpenters Union Local 35, Marin Summer Festival producer Shela Xoregos of San Francisco, Franz Glenn of International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, William Jennings of Local 38 of Plumbers and Pipefitters Union, John Petrini of Carpet, Linoleum and Soft Tile Workers Local 35 of San Francisco, Nick Georgedes of Bartenders and Culinary Workers Local 126, Stanley Smith of the Glaziers Union, Louise Childs of San Francisco, William Bergeron of San Rafael, and Harold R. Lever of Tiburon.

Lever said his firm, Power Engineering and Equipment Co. of Berkeley, might move to the industrial area of Marincello. The firm makes electronic flow devices and employs about 45, he said.

Speaking against Marincello were:

Eleanor O'Hara Chapin, Sausalito city councilman; Michael Wornum, Mill Valley mayor; Anne L. Ellinwood, Tiburon councilman; Helen Vandermale of the Wolfback Ridge Assn.; Max Janoff of the Muir Woods Park Improvement Assn.; Luella Sawyer and Maynard Munaer Jr. of the executive committee of the San Francisco Bay Chapter of the Sierra Club;

Esmond Milsner of the Tamalpais Conservation Club; Bernard M. Weinstein of the Homestead Valley Improvement Club; Peter D. Whitney of the Scenic Roads Assn.; Abraham Schwartz of Fairfax, and Francois Leydet of Belvedere.

"I feel it's untimely to go into this type of development at this time." Dobbs said. He also declared that the 3.5 density allowed as a maximum in planned community zoning is being taken as a standard in a plan where the terrain does not justify it.

This will be used by other developers, he said. Already a plan has been proposed for the nearby Dias Ranch with 3.5 density.

Stanford Hires Medical Official

PALO ALTO (AP) — A young Rutgers University professor has been appointed associate dean of the Stanford University School of Medicine.

Stanford announced the appointment yesterday of Dr. LeRoy Allen Pesch, 34, professor and chairman of the department of medicine at Rutgers.

Dr. Robert J. Glanor, dean of the Stanford medical school, said the appointment represented "an extremely important step forward in strengthening our overall program in medical education."

A university spokesman said Dr. Pesch will devote more time to student affairs than has been customary at Stanford.

Trustees See Kent School's Shop Problems

Kentfield seventh and eighth graders need better equipment for shop, physical education and home economics classes, the Kentfield School District Board was told last night during a tour of classrooms at Adaline E. Kent School.

The district is due soon to build a new shop, and later will build a home economics laboratory, Supt. Howard C. Harmon reminded board members. The present shop will be remodeled as a shower and locker room.

In the tour, board members were given outlines of the programs in the shop, art, home economics and physical education courses.

Shop teacher Duane Johnk made a plea for two years of shop classes, rather than one year as is now the case. He said the new shop, when built, will be slightly smaller than the present one, but space will be more efficiently used.

Betty Heilig in the home economics class said she needed much more room. The present class deals mainly with sewing, she said, because there is not room or equipment to teach cooking.

Principal Thomas H. Smith said plans are being worked out so that boys and girls can both take both shop and home economics courses. Girls will need to know how to fix leaky faucets, and boys how to set tables, he said.

Mrs. Christine Limm and Henry Yamagata, the school's new physical education teachers, said the main need was more time and space for students to change clothes for gymnasium classes.

Art teacher Marianne Willmarth presented the board with a room full of displays to show progress in art class through a year. She said ceramic work allowed some children to do well who could not draw, and added that more potters wheels would be needed.

The Kentfield School District Board also:

1. Approved a new district policy for bargaining with teachers' organizations to conform to new state law.

2. Hired Mrs. Dotti Stevens as superintendent's secretary at $567 a month, replacing Mrs. Valerie Husbands, who resigned as of next Friday because her husband is moving from Marin.

Two Take Part In Patrol Test

Two Marin youths participated in sea and air patrol of waters off South Viet Nam this past summer to choke off infiltration of Viet Cong weapons and men into the country.

Quartermaster 3/c Robert H. Weiss, son of Dr. and Mrs. Mortimer Weiss, 400 Nova Albion Way, San Rafael, served aboard the ocean-minesweeper USS Embattle. He is now serving in Long Beach.

Quartermaster 2/c Stephen O. Breuer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Breuer, 712 Del Mar Avenue, Novato, served aboard the ocean minesweeper Prime.

Convalescent Hospital Plans Are Delayed

Marin County zoning administrator Thomas E. Cordill yesterday put off until Nov. 8 any decision on a permit asked by Marlin Properties, Inc., to operate a 49-bed convalescent hospital on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Kentfield.

The hospital would be built opposite College Avenue, just south of the Kentfield firehouse.

Defense Attorneys Hit Worthington Evidence

Closing arguments in San Francisco's Sally Stanford burglary trial were expected to wind up today, with the case going to the seven-man, five-woman jury tomorrow.

Scheduled today were final arguments on behalf of two of the five defendants, ex-convicts Wesley Gant, 56, and Louis Romero, 28.

Yesterday, the jury in San Francisco Superior Court heard from attorneys representing veteran safe-cracker Winston Major, 51, and two San Francisco police officers: Salvatore Polani, 44, and Patrick Buchman, 27.

Threaded throughout their arguments were attacks on the integrity of the prosecution's chief witness, contractor Robert K. Worthington of Point Reyes Station.

Worthington has been credited with tipping police last April about the plan to burglarize the San Francisco home of Mrs. Marsha Owen, better known as Sally Stanford.

Buckman's attorney, Gregory Stout, painted a different picture.

Terming Worthington a "self-congratulating informer," Stout said his client was an innocent victim of the conspiracy. Buckman earlier testified he thought he was on a private duty investigation in a divorce case until he was arrested in a parked car near Mrs. Owen's home.

Polani's attorney, Emmett Hagerty, reiterated Polani's testimony that it was actually Worthington, not Polani, who masterminded the burglary plot.

In fact, he said, Polani was trying to trap Worthington.

"The whole case depends on whether you believe Polani or are convinced of the truth of Worthington's testimony," declared Hagerty.

Major's attorney, J. Bruce Fratis, conceded "Major was there to burgle the safe." But he contended his client had been "suckered into the deal by Polani."

"I submit it was a classic case of entrapment by a police officer," he said.

Both Worthington and Polani, said Fratis, were trying to trap each other, and Major got caught in the middle.

Fratis then joined in the attacks on Worthington.

Saying the contractor had displayed "the most amazing flexibility of fabrication," Fratis said he "tells lies when the truth would do."

Worthington, he said, "could lie on one foot standing in a hammock in a phone booth."

Tiburon Votes To Enlarge Plans Body

The Tiburon City Council, meeting last night at Del Mar School, instructed City Atty. Robert I. Conn to draw up an ordinance increasing the planning commission from five to seven members.

The action had been requested by the commission.

The council authorized City Mgr. Lawrence D. Rose to contract with landscape architect Anthony Guzzardo to draw up a master plan for landscaping the highway construction area on Tiburon Boulevard.

The area runs from Reed Ranch Road to the western boundary of the city. The plan will be financed with $1,000 from the city and $500 from the Reedlands Property Owners Assn. It is hoped the state division of highways will do the landscaping when the plan is completed.

The Tiburon City Council also:

1. Instructed City Attorney Conn to draft a new business ordinance.

2. Set for Nov. 8 public hearing on a proposal to limit building use permits to one year.

3. Continued hearing on creation of a city parks and recreation commission.

4. Approved a cross walk and stop sign at Lyford Drive and Rock Hill Road.

5. Sent back to the planning commission for further study a proposal to start work on revising the 1956 master plan.

Conversation For Robbing A Bank

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Teller Jaclyn Finney, 21, said a man handed her a note at the 16th and Mission street Bank of America branch yesterday asking of she had $5,000.

"No," Miss Finney replied.

After a threat from the man, she handed him $1,000.

Assistant cashier John Canepa, 30, alerted police, who identified the holdup man as Samuel Hall, 33.

Latter-Day Saints Booth Wins First Prize Of $100

The Latter-Day Saints Relief Society won first prize for its booth at the Charity Fair last Thursday, Friday and Saturday in the Northgate Shopping Center.

The prize, a check for $100, was presented to the group by William Luebbke, manager of Hastings for the Northgate Merchants Assn. The award was based on creativity effort among 29 charity organizations participating in the fair.

The Latter-Day Saints' booth was in the design of a gingerbread house, with a tiled roof of painted paper plates, and was decorated with cellophane-wrapped candy and sugar canes. The group took orders for gingerbread houses for Christmas.

Judging the competition were Jack Alvarado, manager of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce; Harry Crotty, design instructor at College of Marin, and Benjamin Howard, advertising executive with Fawcett McDermott Associates.

Proceeds from sales made by the various charities during the three-day period were estimated as averaging $200 a booth.

FEARS CAN KILL

Researcher Tells Heart Discovery

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Modern man may be in danger of frightening himself to death with psychosomatically induced heart attacks, a leading heart specialist suggests.

Dr. E. Grey Dimond, director of the Institute for Cardio-Pulmonary Disease of the Scripps Clinic and Research Foundation in La Jolla, reported yesterday an experiment with coronary patients.

He told of 20 men suffering from severe Angina pectoris, the chest pains and feeling of pressure that are symptoms of coronary disease.

Dimond said 10 of the subjects were given a circulation-restoring operation. In the other 10 only an incision was made.

"The incisions were as effective in curing angina as the operations were," he said, noting that 90 per cent of American men over 40 suffer from some kind of coronary condition, usually a diminishing supply of blood and oxygen to the heart muscle.

He concluded:

"The angina is triggered by the coronary condition. But many men go on from there to frighten themselves to death and these are men who would probably have got over angina.

"The fact is, angina is a reversible condition in most men. If the man with angina doesn't get too anxious and if he can be persuaded that he is not going to drop dead any minute, the chances are good he will get over it."

Dr. Dimond addressed the 17th annual meeting of the California Academy of General Practice.

Anti-Draft Group Reported Sending Blood To Viet Reds

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York World-Telegram and Sun said today an antidraft group known as the May Second Movement is sending blood, first aid supplies and money to the Communist Viet Cong.

The movement was among those involved in recent demonstrations against the war in Viet Nam.

The World-Telegram report said a blood donor drive has been organized in the movement's West Coast chapter, and blood and first aid material already has been shipped to North Viet Nam.

The New York chapter, the newspaper said, plans to send blood donated by its members and send the money to the Viet Cong through the Algerian National Liberation Front.

The report said the movement has 17 chapters across the country, with the New York City chapter having 200 members.

The World-Telegram account also quoted one unidentified Columbia University student it said is a member of the May Second Movement as indicating that the movement in Michigan is training volunteers to join the Communist forces in Viet Nam.

The student, when asked about the report, was quoted as saying: "That's not far from the truth."

Goldstein Still Is Critical

Peter L. Goldstein of San Anselmo remained unconscious and in critical condition at Marin General Hospital today — seven days after he suffered head injuries in a freak auto accident on the Waldo Grade.

His family today appealed to the public to help doctors in the fight for his life by giving blood at the Marin Blood Center, 506 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

Goldstein, 31-year-old publicist and political campaign of 65 Alder Avenue, is in the intensive care unit at the hospital.

Bay Drowning Victim's Body Finally Found

The body of George David Sims, 35, of 520 Canal Street, San Rafael, has been found in the bay near a San Francisco pier.

Sims tumbled overboard from his boat near Point San Quentin the night of Oct. 13.

The body, according to the San Francisco coroner's office, was seen floating near Pier 48 at 7:20 a.m. Saturday by Leon Minnie of San Francisco. It was picked up a few minutes later by the Coast Guard.

Sims' wife, Dorothy, told authorities she saw her husband fall over the side of their 27-foot cabin cruiser just after she relieved him at the wheel.

He was on his way home from his job as a Tiburon bartender.

With the couple was a passenger, Ken Scaruffar of San Francisco. Mrs. Sims said he was below deck at the time Sims fell over.

Pathology tests were under way today in San Francisco to determin the exact cause of Sims' death. The coroner's office said the test results would probably be ready by the end of this week.

Sims was a native of McFadden, Wyo.

Surviving, in addition to his wife, are his parents, George Sims of McFadden, and Mrs. Agnes Wilson of Anchorage, Alaska.

Funeral will be at 10:45 a.m. Thursday at Halsted and Co., 1123 Sutter Street, San Francisco. Burial will be in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

Street Opponents Fail To Put Off Rezoning

The Novato Planning Commission last night approved a planned commercial zone for Alfred Bellucci and John Novak for a lot south of Clausing Street and east of Highway 101.

Approximately 20 residents of Clausing Street attended to protest opening of their street as an access.

Commissioners assured the people that access to Clausing Street had already been denied in previous rezoning.

The Novato Planning Commission also:

1. Approved the tentative map of 22-lot Vineyard Manor on six acres on Vineyard Road, submitted by Pacific Coast Development Co.

2. Approved plans for a laundry at 849 Sweetzer Avenue for Frank S. Yee, owner of the Novato Laundry at 1049 Third Street.

3. Approved the request of Meadowbrook Developers Inc. to develop 25 acres of the Scottsdale assessment district independent of the rest of the Scottsdale master plan.

4. Granted Bahia Properties Corp. a permit for community recreation and yacht club on five acres on Bahia Drive.

5. Granted the Protestant Episcopal Church a permit for addition of a fellowship hall to St. Francis of Assisi Episcopal Church at 967 Fifth Street.

6. Postponed until Nov. 8, action on the Novato Square master plan for the old Grant School property at Grant Avenue and Highway 101, submitted by Douglas M. Christensen Construction Co.

7. Changed the public hearing on the streets and highways phase of the Novato master plan from 8 p.m. Thursday to the same hour next Monday, and set for 8 p.m., Nov. 15, second public hearing on the entire master plan. Both hearings will be at the Community House.

Welding Gear Taken At Construction Site

Someone walked into an unlocked storage shed in the Upland subdivision on Paradise Drive, Corte Madera, Friday afternoon and stole two pressure gauges and a burning torch worth $250, it was reported yesterday.

The stolen items belong to Structural Iron Inc. of Cotati. The theft was reported by employee Alex J. Demetriff.

Radarman 3c Theodore D. Anthony, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Anthony of 5 Bayview Terrace, Mill Valley, has returned to the United States aboard the destroyer Frank E. Evans, following seven months in the South China Sea and off the coast of Viet Nam with the Seventh Fleet.

Railroads Sue Over Firemen's Job Insurance

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Two western railroads are seeking to keep unemployment insurance from firemen who accept a national mediation severance pay award.

The firms, Western Pacific and Southern Pacific, filed suit yesterday in federal court.

They charged that acceptance of severance pay is voluntary termination of employment. If firemen also are paid unemployment insurance under the Railroad Retirement Act, the roads contend, they will unlawfully collect $640,000 a year.

The railroads' figures were based on 500 firemen taking advantage of the arbitration award. This award was the basis for settlement of the long push by railroads to eliminate firemen from diesel engine trains.

Scientists Still Chasing Comet

HONOLULU (AP)—Scientists and astrnomers flew over the Pacific again today, continuing their chase of the Ikeya-Seki comet.

Following their yesterday flight the scientists said the comet apparently suffered no structural deformation in its brush with the sun last Wednesday.

They reported the comet's tail to be about 12 degrees in length, or about 25 million miles long.

Bell For Kennedy

MOUNT GRAN SASSO, Italy (UPI)—A John F. Kennedy memorial bell was dedicated yesterday at the shrine of St. Gabriels on the slopes of 9,585-foot Mount Gran Sasso, highest mountain in the Apennine range.

Guerneville Educator To Be Sausalito Aide

Joseph Amato, superintendent-principal of Guerneville School District in Sonoma County, next Monday will become assistant superintendent of Sausalito School District in charge of special projects.

Amato was hired for the newly created position last night by the Sausalito School District Board. He will receive $13,500 per year.

His abrupt departure from Guerneville reportedly surprised the Sonoma County schools office, although Amato said he had told his school board two weeks ago that he applied for the Sausalito position. He recommended his assistant principal replace him in Guerneville.

The Guerneville School District Board today called a special meeting for Friday to consider the replacement.

Amato, who is 45, has been superintendent-principal of the one-school Guerneville district for eight years. The district has been in financial difficulties since the December flood last year wrecked much equipment and damaged the school building.

Amato was selected by the Sausalito trustees from among six applicants. He and his wife, Edith Marie, have one child, Jennifer Jo.

The Sausalito board voted to use $9,000 of compensatory education funds received from the federal government toward Amato's salary, and the additional $3,100 so far received from that source to pay noontime supervisors.

Crucial Parleys On In Rhodesia

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP)—The prime ministers of Britain and Rhodesia open crucial new talks today on the Rhodesian government's explosive drive for independence.

Harold Wilson and Ian Smith scheduled a midmorning session still hunting an area of agreement.

Wilson arrived last night from London in an attempt to head off the declaration of independence which Smith's government threatens in an attempt to preserve white rule in the Central African colony.

Flood Control On Tap At Ross Town Council

A special meeting of Ross Town Council has been called for 8 p.m. tomorrow to discuss the Corte Madera Flood Control project.

The next regular meeting of the council will be held at 8 p.m. Nov. 12 instead of Nov. 11 which is a legal holiday.

Woman With Meat In Throat Critical

Abigail Rowland, 75, of 5495 Redwood Highway, Novato, remained in poor condition in the intensive care unit of Marin General Hospitial today after being admitted Saturday with a piece of meat lodged in her throat.

Police and firemen were called after Mrs. Rowland collapsed, choking, at Marin Joe's at Corte Madera.

Gun Fancying Mother Killed In Accident

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Jo Ann Brackman, 30, mother of three and a pistol shooter, was shot dead by her fast draw artist husband last night while her son watched a television western.

Coroner's officers, who listed both the victim and her husband as target shooters who practiced the fast draw, said the death appeared accidental.

Booked on a manslaughter charge was Richard P. Brackman, 27. Police said he told them he jokingly loaded the pistol to "get" or "protect" himself from a possible intruder while she was at a grocery.

Officers said the weapon fired as Brackman was pointing it or cleaning it in the kitchen of their home. Her son, Ronald, 9, who was watching a "Jesse James" show, told police he saw his stepfather point the gun toward the ceiling and behind him and then heard a shot.

Mrs. Brackman was dead on arrival at a hospital from a 22-caliber bullet wound in the chest.

Guilty Plea Made To Reduced Charge

A 20-year-old airman at Hamilton Air Force Base yesterday pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of petty theft in Sonoma County Municipal Court, Santa Rosa.

James Brownlow McCoy was sentenced to two years on court probation after he admitted stealing $37 from Walter Strayer, who lives in an apartment next to McCoy's in Petaluma. He originally was charged with burglary.

Irate Kentfield Parents Force Closed Hearing On Aide's Swap

About 30 irate parents of children in the Wolfe Grade School left the Kentfield School District Board meeting early today frustrated in their attempt to learn in detail why a popular secretary at the school, Mrs. Eleanor Ceglarz, was transferred to Adaline E. Kent School.

They did learn that the transfer was made as an alternative to asking for the secretary's resignation. But they were never told why the school administration had wanted to get rid of her, other than that she and her boss did not get along.

Mrs. Ceglarz was not present, and that fact caused the school board members to stymie discussion whenever it started to touch on specifics.

Finally, the board reluctantly went into a closed session to hear individual citizens voice complaints, and to hear explanations from Supt. Howard C. Harmon and Principal George Stratton.

At the end of the closed session, at 2 a.m. today, the board agreed to invite Mrs. Ceglarz to another closed meeting Nov. 8 to give her side herself.

The discussion began near midnight as final item of a board meeting that began at 8 p.m.

Harmon said Stratton had asked originally for Mrs. Ceglarz's resignation. She gave it, but then withdrew it, asking for a transfer instead, he reported.

When it was learned a secretary at the Kent School was willing to trade, a switch was ordered, but Mrs. Ceglarz then objected, although she has since been working at Kent School.

Her side was taken by Edward Hennessy, 107 Laurel Grove Avenue, who has children in both schools. Hennessy said he actually wanted to discuss general conditions at the Wolfe Grade School and "the high rate of attrition."

"There has been one teacher who resigned, and now this transfer . . ." he started.

"You call that a high rate of attrition for one year?" asked board member Mary Bingham.

Board member Lawrence Goldberg said he thought the teacher, fifth grade instructor George Hurley, left so he could teach in Petaluma, where he lived. He acknowledged he had never seen Hurley's letter of resignation, however.

Hennessy then began to discuss Stratton's letter to Mrs. Ceglarz, outlining specific charges against her.

"The reasons in my letter to her are not a subject for a public meeting," shouted Stratton. Board President J. R. B. Ellis then said that apparently a closed session could not be avoided.

Another parent, Richard C. Paine of 361 North Alemar Drive, Greenbrae, suggested that parents have a private meeting of their own at which Hennessy could tell what he knew about Stratton's letter.

"It's a question whether anything will be brought out here tonight," he commented.

Ellis said he was only trying to protect Mrs. Ceglarz's reputation, since she had not given permission to have charges against her heard in public.

"We are here specifically to protect an individual's name and reputation," answered a member of the audience.

Ellis sympathized, but then called for the closed session, agreeing to hear each person who wanted to speak, one at a time, while others waited outside.

The bulk of the parents then went home. Hennessy and a few others remained to appear individually before the board in closed session. After about a half hour in the closed meeting, Hennessy refused to comment.

Reed Board May Purchase Site

The Reed Union School District board, meeting at 8 p.m. today at Reed School, is expected to approve continued negotiations for a site for a new seventh-eighth grade school at the end of Blackfield Drive in the Bel Aire area of Tiburon.

The district has been negotiating with Lytton Savings and Loan Assn. for a year for a 23.5-acre site, Supt. Edward C. Pino reports.

The school, seventh for the district, will be financed through the bond issue authorized in January, 1963, and a state loan approved in February, 1964.

The board will also discuss financing of the committee to seek a successor to Pino, who has resigned effective next June 30.

Assemblymen Speed Work On Medicare

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Working fast under an adjournment deadline, the Assembly headed today toward a vote on a Republican - Democratic compromise medicare plan revised on short notice.

At issue is the attempt to bring in about $6 million a month to California in federal medicare funds above the amount guaranteed to those over 65 in the recent bill passed by Congress.

The money would go to 1.1 million persons, primarily in the 18 to 64 age bracket, and primarily those on state welfare. About 200,000 are those not on welfare, but who couldn't cope with a major medical bill without help.

When the bill came up on the floor yesterday, the sponsor of the county-backed amendments, Assemblywoman Pauline Davis, D-Portola, said they were meant: "To assure taxpayers in the counties that they're not going to be saddled with more taxes," as a result of increased health care costs.

Acting chairman of the Fairfax Planning Commission is Roland Watts.

Why Children Ride Bus Past School

Some Sausalito school children ride the school bus past Central School to Marin City, then back to Central School.

They do it, Supt. Charles Lavaroni told the school board last night, because it is better to have them sitting on the bus than waiting at the school yard.

Also, he said, it gives them an opportunity to meet other children on the bus.

The unusual bussing arrangement had been questioned at a previous meeting by trustee Harold L. Sleight.

The Sausalito School District Board also:

1. Accepted the sole bid of Gillig Brothers, Hayward, for lease-purchase of two 66-passenger buses at $18,430 each, to be delivered in 45 to 60 days.
2. Adopted a board policy in accordance with the Winton Act on teacher-board negotiations.
3. Hired Mrs. Barbara M. Thurman at $9,072 per year as an additional first grade teacher.
4. Accepted $1,500 settlement from Lang Construction Co. for 29 eucalyptus trees the company chopped down on Richardson Bay school grounds in August, 1963.
5. Agreed to spend $900 to provide bus transportation to Central School in afternoons for the study center program.
6. Voted 4-1 supporting the $5,750,000 Tamalpais Union High School District bond issue to be voted on Nov. 16. Sleight voted "No," saying this will not benefit students from the Sausalito area.

State Gets Real Bargain In Trees

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state has acquired 1,556 acres of beach-front land at Prairie Creek Redwoods State Park on California's north coast.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown said yesterday the purchase was made from the Save-the-Redwoods League, which in turn had purchased the area from the Pacific Lumber Co. earlier this year. The league, Brown said, had agreed to sell it to the state for $1,025,444, one-half the amount paid to the lumber company.

Brown said the purchase would complete the acquisition of Gold Beach and that it was the first acquisition under the 1964 State Beach, Park, Recreational and Historical Facilities Bond Act passed by voters.

Seminary Second In Student Total

San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo this year claims the second largest enrollment for any Presbyterian seminary in the world.

Enrollment figures show 323 students enrolled, representing 33 states and 15 foreign countries. Largest Presbyterian seminary is in Princeton, N.J.

Use Plan Is Asked Near CHP Office Site

The Corte Madera Planning Commission recommended last night that owners of 27 acres of property around the California Highway Patrol Office on Paradise Drive prepare a plan for use of the land.

The property is now zoned for light industry. Property owners seek rezoning to commercial. The commission recommended planned unit development after discussing such uses as a convention center and motel and additional auto sales agencies.

The commission also asked town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher to prepare two amendments to the section of the zoning ordinance dealing with commercial signs.

Usher said the first amendment would grant up to 20 square feet of sign area to any business, even if part of a shopping center. At present, the ordinance grants an amount of sign area and asks the center merchants to split it up.

The second amendment, he said, would place a maximum of 200 square feet of sign area for businesses zoned highway commercial. At present, there is a maximum for any one sign at such a business, but no maximum on the number of signs or their total size.

Guns Returned To Man, Son

Corte Madera police today said they had returned guns they confiscated from Paul K. O'Neal and his son Gary, of 126 Yola Street, Corte Madera, following complaints of duck shooting within city limits.

A resident of Corte Madera Passage complained Saturday that someone was shooting guns near his home.

Police found the O'Neals on marshland some distance from the house.

Police Chief Frank L. Nelson said today the two were carrying guns and were within gunshot range of the house.

Many Marinites Will Attend Green Rock Hunt Club Fete

By MOLLY MARIN

Pheasantettes and smoked pheasant will be on the menu when the Green Rock Pheasant Hunting Club holds its second annual dinner in the Trafalgar Room at Trader Vic's in San Francisco on Nov. 10. The Pheasants are raised on a ranch north of Novato and the private hunting club is on St. Vincent's Drive, north of San Rafael.

Marin members of the private club and their guests who will be attending the dinner include Drs. W. Scott Polland, William Magladry and Russel Kline, Messrs. Howard Bernhard, D. M. Christensen, Conrad Abbett, Larry D. Dingus and Manuel T. Freitas, all of San Rafael.

From Mill Valley are John L. Castleman, Joe Bergeron, Malcolm Brown, William J. Rosa, Alfred J. Santas, John D. Biggane and George E. B. King. From Novato, Howard O. Kinsey, R. H. "Tiny" Garzoli, Fernando Clementino, Dr. Raymond D. Rediske, Paul Putnam, Leif W. Evensen and Gen. (Ret.) Edison W. Berlin.

San Anselmo members include Mrs. E. H. Pedroli, Dr. O. W. Jones, and Don Scagliola. From Sausalito, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Doble, Bruce Shafer, Capt. Taylor W. McGee and Richard Urbais. Joseph Sullivan Bertram Rude, Charles O. Jones and Harry J. Lehman Jr. of Kentfield, Ernest H. Gates and Christopher S. Peacock of Belvedere, Paul E. Garzoli of Nicasio, Robert Skelton of Corte Madera and Clarence Doctor and Whitman K. Alger of Tiburon.

BRONWYN HUGHES of Kentfield, and Pauline S. Livermore, San Rafael, are members of the Wellesley College Choir which will open its 1965-66 season with the traditional Fall Vesper Concert at Wellesley Sunday.

Bronwyn Hughes, a senior at Wellesley, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. Hughes. Majoring in Physics, she has been active in both dramatic and musical productions during her college years. Last year she was a member of the casts of two productions of the Greek Drama Organization on the campus.

Pauline Livermore, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Norman B. Livermore, Jr., is a sophomore at Wellesley, where in addition to singing in the Choir, she is a member of the campus guiding organization which conducts visitors on tours of the campus.

SAUSALITO WAS well represented in the four-weeks charter trip to Europe sponsored by the San Francisco Symphony Foundation.

Just returned to Sausalito last Sunday were Dr. and Mrs. Clifford Raisbeck, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Quinn Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome A. Adams and Mrs. John B. Ehlen who was accompanied by Mr. Ehlen's sister, Miss Martha Ehlen of Orange, Calif.

The plane landed in Frankfort, Germany, and the travelers followed their own itineraries from then until they met again in Paris for the return trip.

Mrs. Ehlen and Miss Ehlen picked up a car in Hamburg, where they visited relatives. They especially enjoyed driving along the Rhine and Mosel rivers in the beautiful castle country and drove as far southeast in Germany as Nurnberg.

The Quinns and Andersons took the same tour of the Greek Islands before the Quinns went on to visit relatives in Germany and England and the Andersons proceeded to Santa Marguerita on the Italian Riviera.

High point of the trip for the Adamses was a ten-days' cruise through the Aegean on the "Daphne," a yacht they chartered with some friends from San Francisco. They also spent ten days in Spain.

The Raisbecks visited Rome, Florence and Venice in Italy and spent a week in London. Since they are especially interested in historical aspects of places they saw a great deal of Rome and London on walking tours to historical spots.

Patricia A. Nolan Becomes A Bride

Patricia Anne Nolan of Mill Valley became the bride of David Steven Moritz Saturday at St. Patrick's Church in Larkspur.

The single ring ceremony was performed at noon by Msgr. Edward M. Dullea.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Nolan of Mill Valley, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Steven Moritz of Baltimore, Md., and the late Mr. Moritz.

Given in marriage by her father, Patricia wore a full length gown of white peau de soie having a chapel train and trimmed with Alencon lace and seed pearls.

Her attendants were Mrs. Harry Hansen of Van Nuys, matron of honor; and bridesmaids Mrs. Michael Conley of San Francisco and the bride's sisters, Catherine and Mary Nolan of Mill Valley. They wore full length sheaths of willow green satin.

Nora Nolan, the youngest sister, was flower girl.

John W. Anderson of San Francisco served the bridegroom as best man, and ushers were the bride's brother, Terrance Nolan of Mill Valley, Ted Gurich and Michael Conley, both of San Francisco.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Deer Park Villa in Fairfax. On their return from a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe and to the Pacific Northwest, the young couple will live in San Francisco.

The new Mrs. Moritz is a graduate of Marin Catholic High School and attended the College of Marin and San Francisco State College. She is employed by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. in San Francisco. She has another brother, Timothy Nolan of Mill Valley.

David is a graduate of Sparrows Point High School in Baltimore and attended Golden Gate College in San Francisco. He is employed as an underwriter with the Continental Insurance Co. in San Francisco.

Marin Women

Educator To Give Lecture In Series

"What Woman are you — Creatively?" is the subject of the second lecture in a series sponsored by the Westminister Presbyterian Church, Tiburon. Dr. George Hedley, distinguished educator, author and lecturer, will speak at 10 a.m., November 2 at the church.

Dr. Hedley is chaplain emeritus and professor emeritus of sociology and economics at Mills College, where he was a member of the faculty from 1940 until June of this year. He was ordained to the ministry in both the Methodist and Protestant Episcopal churches. His published works include books on religion, sociology and poetry.

Coffee will be served before the lecture, to which all women of Marin are invited, according to Mrs. George Faye, committee member of the women's organization of the Westminister Presbyterian Church.

Women's League To Fete Founding

The Lutheran Women's Missionary League of Grace Lutheran Church in Novato will hold an Anniversary Tea at 2 p.m., tomorrow in the church parlors.

Mrs. Andrew Bretz is general chairman of the event which will celebrate the 15th anniversary of the founding of the congregation.

Mrs. Irwin Swett, tea chairman will be assisted by mesdames Stuart Floyd and William Schlake.

Bolinas Author To Be Speaker For Rebekahs

Mrs. Louis Pepper of Bolinas, who had her first book published at the age of 85 by Vantage Press, will be the guest speaker on Thursday evening at the 7:30 p.m. meeting of the Golden Star Rebekah Lodge, Independent Order of Odd Fellows.

Mrs. Nina Washburn, noble grand, will preside for the meeting and the Rainbow Sewing Club will be hostess. Mrs. Robert Arbini is program chairman.

The town of Bolinas furnished the title and material for Mrs. Pepper's book, which goes back to the days when Bolinas was a Spanish land grant, Rancho de los Baulinas.

Our Lady Of Loretto Group Plans Carnival On Sunday

A Halloween Carnival will be sponsored by the Our Lady of Loretto Parents' Guild from 1 to 6 p.m., Sunday at the school grounds in Novato.

Mrs. James Henderson is chairman and is being assisted by Mesdames William Tobin and Gerald Cullen, co-chairmen.

Extra attractions this year will be pony cart and horse rides under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Buck Azevedo and Pat Healy will be the "Pocket Man."

A costume parade will be held with awards to be presented for the best costumes. As an art project, students are making posters and decorating their rooms for the event.

Various booths will include cake walk, darts, fish pond, grab bag, toss games and make-up booths will be manned by Parents' Guild members.

Proceeds from the Carnival will benefit the Parents' Guild Athletic Fund.

Meeting Locale Changed By Club

Marin County Business and Professional Women's Club meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. tonight at the home of Mrs. Lee McClennan in San Rafael instead of at Sabella's Restaurant as originally announced.

Spook House New Feature For Glenwood P-TA Event

The headless wonder, luminous skulls and stereophonic witches music will be among the horrors in the Spook House at the Glenwood School Parent-Teacher Assn. Halloween Carnival on Saturday from 11:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., at the school.

Fun booths, white elephant treasures, the homemade baked goods, popcorn and cotton candy will form the mainstay of the midway.

The costume parade will begin at 4 p.m..

General carnival chairman is Mrs. Gary Williams. Committee chairmen are Mesdames Frank Dill and R. N. McCormick, food; Leon Fish, Kountry Kitchen bakery; Elmer Welcher, decorations; Richard Barclay and William Stark, prizes; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Christensen, pa-House decorations, and Mrs. Peter Clute, Spook House coordinator.

Gun Fancying Mother Killed In Accident

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Jo Ann Brackman, 30, mother of three and a pistol shooter, was shot dead by her fast draw artist husband last night while her son watched a television western.

Coroner's officers, who listed both the victim and her husband as target shooters who practiced the fast draw, said the death appeared accidental.

Booked on a manslaughter charge was Richard P. Brackman, 27. Police said he told them he jokingly loaded the pistol to "get" or "protect" himself from a possible intruder while she was at a grocery.

Officers said the weapon fired as Brackman was pointing it or cleaning it in the kitchen of their home. Her son, Ronald, 9, who was watching a "Jesse James" show, told police he saw his stepfather point the gun toward the ceiling and behind him and then heard a shot.

Mrs. Brackman was dead on arrival at a hospital from a 22-caliber bullet wound in the chest.

Irate Kentfield Parents Force Closed Hearing On Aide's Swap

About 30 irate parents of children in the Wolfe Grade School left the Kentfield School District Board meeting early today frustrated in their attempt to learn in detail why a popular secretary at the school, Mrs. Eleanor Ceglarz, was transferred to Adaline E. Kent School.

They did learn that the transfer was made as an alternative to asking for the secretary's resignation. But they were never told why the school administration had wanted to get rid of her, other than that she and her boss did not get along.

Mrs. Ceglarz was not present, and that fact caused the school board members to stymie discussion whenever it started to touch on specifics.

Finally, the board reluctantly went into a closed session to hear individual citizens voice complaints, and to hear explanations from Supt. Howard C. Harmon and Principal George Stratton.

At the end of the closed session, at 2 a.m. today, the board agreed to invite Mrs. Ceglarz to another closed meeting Nov. 8 to give her side herself.

The discussion began near midnight as final item of a board meeting that began at 8 p.m.

Harmon said Stratton had asked originally for Mrs. Ceglarz's resignation. She gave it, but then withdrew it, asking for a transfer instead, he reported.

When it was learned a secretary at the Kent School was willing to trade, a switch was ordered, but Mrs. Ceglarz then objected, although she has since been working at Kent School.

Her side was taken by Edward Hennessy, 107 Laurel Grove Avenue, who has children in both schools. Hennessy said he actually wanted to discuss general conditions at the Wolfe Grade School and "the high rate of attrition."

"There has been one teacher who resigned, and now this transfer . . ." he started.

"You call that a high rate of attrition for one year?" asked board member Mary Bingham.

Board member Lawrence Goldberg said he thought the teacher, fifth grade instructor George Hurley, left so he could teach in Petaluma, where he lived. He acknowledged he had never seen Hurley's letter of resignation, however.

Hennessy then began to discuss Stratton's letter to Mrs. Ceglarz, outlining specific charges against her.

"The reasons in my letter to her are not a subject for a public meeting," shouted Stratton. Board President J. R. B. Ellis then said that apparently a closed session could not be avoided.

Another parent, Richard C. Paine of 361 North Alemar Drive, Greenbrae, suggested that parents have a private meeting of their own at which Hennessy could tell what he knew about Stratton's letter.

"It's a question whether anything will be brought out here tonight," he commented.

Ellis said he was only trying to protect Mrs. Ceglarz's reputation, since she had not given permission to have charges against her heard in public.

"We are here specifically to protect an individual's name and reputation," answered a member of the audience.

Ellis sympathized, but then called for the closed session, agreeing to hear each person who wanted to speak, one at a time, while others waited outside.

The bulk of the parents then went home. Hennessy and a few others remained to appear individually before the board in closed session. After about a half hour in the closed meeting, Hennessy refused to comment.

Guilty Plea Made To Reduced Charge

A 20-year-old airman at Hamilton Air Force Base yesterday pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of petty theft in Sonoma County Municipal Court, Santa Rosa.

James Brownlow McCoy was sentenced to two years on court probation after he admitted stealing $37 from Walter Strayer, who lives in an apartment next to McCoy's in Petaluma. He originally was charged with burglary.

Reed Board May Purchase Site

The Reed Union School District board, meeting at 8 p.m. today at Reed School, is expected to approve continued negotiations for a site for a new seventh-eighth grade school at the end of Blackfield Drive in the Bel Aire area of Tiburon.

The district has been negotiating with Lytton Savings and Loan Assn. for a year for a 23.5-acre site, Supt. Edward C. Pino reports.

The school, seventh for the district, will be financed through the bond issue authorized in January, 1963, and a state loan approved in February, 1964.

The board will also discuss financing of the committee to seek a successor to Pino, who has resigned effective next June 30.

Assemblymen Speed Work On Medicare

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Working fast under an adjournment deadline, the Assembly headed today toward a vote on a Republican - Democratic compromise medicare plan revised on short notice.

At issue is the attempt to bring in about $6 million a month to California in federal medicare funds above the amount guaranteed to those over 65 in the recent bill passed by Congress.

The money would go to 1.1 million persons, primarily in the 18 to 64 age bracket, and primarily those on state welfare. About 200,000 are those not on welfare, but who couldn't cope with a major medical bill without help.

When the bill came up on the floor yesterday, the sponsor of the county-backed amendments, Assemblywoman Pauline Davis, D-Portola, said they were meant: "To assure taxpayers in the counties that they're not going to be saddled with more taxes," as a result of increased health care costs.

Acting chairman of the Fairfax Planning Commission is Roland Watts.

Why Children Ride Bus Past School

Some Sausalito school children ride the school bus past Central School to Marin City, then back to Central School.

They do it, Supt. Charles Lavaroni told the school board last night, because it is better to have them sitting on the bus than waiting at the school yard.

Also, he said, it gives them an opportunity to meet other children on the bus.

The unusual bussing arrangement had been questioned at a previous meeting by trustee Harold L. Sleight.

The Sausalito School District Board also:

1. Accepted the sole bid of Gillig Brothers, Hayward, for lease-purchase of two 66-passenger buses at $18,430 each, to be delivered in 45 to 60 days.
2. Adopted a board policy in accordance with the Winton Act on teacher-board negotiations.
3. Hired Mrs. Barbara M. Thurman at $9,072 per year as an additional first grade teacher.
4. Accepted $1,500 settlement from Lang Construction Co. for 29 eucalyptus trees the company chopped down on Richardson Bay school grounds in August, 1963.
5. Agreed to spend $900 to provide bus transportation to Central School in afternoons for the study center program.
6. Voted 4-1 supporting the $5,750,000 Tamalpais Union High School District bond issue to be voted on Nov. 16. Sleight voted "No," saying this will not benefit students from the Sausalito area.

State Gets Real Bargain In Trees

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state has acquired 1,556 acres of beach-front land at Prairie Creek Redwoods State Park on California's north coast.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown said yesterday the purchase was made from the Save-the-Redwoods League, which in turn had purchased the area from the Pacific Lumber Co. earlier this year. The league, Brown said, had agreed to sell it to the state for $1,025,444, one-half the amount paid to the lumber company.

Brown said the purchase would complete the acquisition of Gold Beach and that it was the first acquisition under the 1964 State Beach, Park, Recreational and Historical Facilities Bond Act passed by voters.

Seminary Second In Student Total

San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo this year claims the second largest enrollment for any Presbyterian seminary in the world.

Enrollment figures show 323 students enrolled, representing 33 states and 15 foreign countries. Largest Presbyterian seminary is in Princeton, N.J.

Use Plan Is Asked Near CHP Office Site

The Corte Madera Planning Commission recommended last night that owners of 27 acres of property around the California Highway Patrol Office on Paradise Drive prepare a plan for use of the land.

The property is now zoned for light industry. Property owners seek rezoning to commercial. The commission recommended planned unit development after discussing such uses as a convention center and motel and additional auto sales agencies.

The commission also asked town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher to prepare two amendments to the section of the zoning ordinance dealing with commercial signs.

Usher said the first amendment would grant up to 20 square feet of sign area to any business, even if part of a shopping center. At present, the ordinance grants an amount of sign area and asks the center merchants to split it up.

The second amendment, he said, would place a maximum of 200 square feet of sign area for businesses zoned highway commercial. At present, there is a maximum for any one sign at such a business, but no maximum on the number of signs or their total size.

Guns Returned To Man, Son

Corte Madera police today said they had returned guns they confiscated from Paul K. O'Neal and his son Gary, of 126 Yola Street, Corte Madera, following complaints of duck shooting within city limits.

A resident of Corte Madera Passage complained Saturday that someone was shooting guns near his home.

Police found the O'Neals on marshland some distance from the house.

Police Chief Frank L. Nelson said today the two were carrying guns and were within gunshot range of the house.

KNOWING WHEN to stop talking is often more important than having something worthwhile to say and the good judgment when to say it. Perhaps the most important secret in avoiding becoming a bore is to cultivate interests and seek out new experiences which others will want to hear about. Like "Discovering America" with pleasant stays at our country's fascinating wayside inns and city-within-a-city metropolitan hotels and motels.

ME, MYSELF AND I

How Do You Score As A Bore?

Almost everyone is boring part of the time, yet few people really know when they are boring, what causes boredom among friends or how we can minimize our tendency to be dull.

Here's a quiz to help you rate yourself, plus tips on how to improve.

ARE YOU BORED? Bored people are often boring. If you're bored, why not try to get to the bottom of the problem and do something about it? Perhaps you're bored because you haven't tried your hand at anything new for too long. Nobody enjoys having a drudge around.

Think back to the last time you tackled a new hobby, read a good book or went on a journey. A short trip—even an overnight jaunt—with a stay in a hotel or motel, can help open your eyes to the interesting things around you, give you something new to talk about when you return home.

DO YOU FIND YOURSELF "TALKING AT" PEOPLE MORE OFTEN THAN CONVERSING WITH THEM? Few of us are such great orators that we can hold an audience spellbound for long. True, everybody likes to talk about himself, but if your conversation is mainly about "Me, Myself and I," don't be too surprised if you start to detect tell-tale signs of boredom in your listener.

How can you avoid these conversational calamities? Remember that the listener's time is just as important as your own, whether he has a lot of it, or only a little. Getting your listener involved is an excellent way to hold his attention. For example, you might start off a conversation by asking his opinion of something—a movie he may have seen recently, or a book he's read. But avoid using this trick as a platform from which to launch into your own diatribe on "what the whole thing is all about." By showing a genuine interest in what your friend has to say—even when he talks about himself—you can involve him in the conversation.

DO YOU SEEM TO HAVE A KNACK FOR TURNING CONVERSATIONS INTO ARGUMENTS? If you're the aggressive, self-asserting type, you may have to hold back a bit. Respect the other fellow's opinions, even if you don't happen to agree with them. After he's stated his case, you can politely offer your own views.

DO YOU JUMP AT THE CHANCE TO "MOVE IN ON" PEOPLE? While your friends or relatives may seem eager to have you sleep in their house, do your laundry and feed you when you visit them on vacation—the odds are you'll be more welcome if you stay in a near-by hotel or motel. Cutting down your "exposure time" on long visits will spare them and your frazzled nerves.

DO YOU TEND TO OVERSTAY YOUR WELCOME? Your hosts may appreciate the fact that you're enjoying yourself. But when heads start to nod, it's high time to say, "So long and thanks!"

DO YOU HAVE A LINE A MILE LONG? Some people have a tendency to stretch their "story" a little in an attempt to make themselves seem and feel more important. Others lay the flattery on thick, thinking it will make people like them better. But if your friends finally catch on, you may end up as the guy or gal who isn't invited a second time. Be yourself; your friends should accept you for what you are—that is, of course, unless you score high as a bore!

ARE YOU ABLE TO KEEP THE FRIENDS YOU MAKE? It's natural that close friends should enjoy seeing each other often, but it's also a good policy to strive for a happy medium. Don't neglect friends, but keep in mind the old saying, "familiarity breeds contempt."

By following these simple tips, you can help minimize your tendency to be dull—and raise your popularity quotient at the same time.

Club To Discuss Improvement Plan

The National Community Improvement Plan will be discussed by Mrs. Joseph E. Barca at Thursday's meeting of the garden section of the Sausalito Woman's Club.

It will be held at 10:30 a.m. at the clubhouse.

Mrs. Barca is chairman of the community improvement program for the Golden Gate District of the California Federation of Women's Clubs.

She will describe the contest set up in a national community improvement program, for which Sears & Roebuck has contributed a $10,000 prize and other smaller prizes.

Today's Woman Needs College Education Says School Donor

Today's woman needs a college education, no matter if she never goes into a profession, says a woman who has just given $1 million to furthering education.

"They also serve — who only do housework," said Mrs. Fairleigh Dickinson, widow of the businessman who helped found the north New Jersey university which bears the Dickinson name.

The $1 million gift is the largest single one ever made to the school's endowment fund, which now stands at $11.5 million. The grant is to be used primarily for scholarships, with emphasis on help for women students and for all who might not be able to attend college otherwise.

"THERE JUST aren't as many scholarships for girls around as there are for men," said Mrs. Dickinson. "I think everyone should have a chance to go to college . . . but there are so many who can't afford it.

"You ask me, why educate a girl who settles down to marriage during or after college.

"WELL, HER degree may not help her hang curtains. But it makes her a better helpmate. Married to a college man, she has to be able to talk to him.

"Don't forget too that there are many demands on women today . . . to fill their role in community life."

"I think education is required of us all . . . it has nothing to do with sex," said Grace Smith Dickinson.

Mrs. Dickinson is an active woman in her 70's — although she won't confirm the exact number of years. She travels a great deal, plays competitive golf, and once made a hole in one at the Ridgewood, N.J. Country Club where she is a member. Her figure is as erect as a girl's, and as slim.

I talked with Mrs. Dickinson prior to a dinner here to honor her and to announce her $1 million gift.

She shared the interests of her late husband in helping to found the school 25 years ago with an initial gift of $50,000.

Her husband was the head of Becton, Dickinson & Co., makers of surgical instruments. Their son, Fairleigh Dickinson Jr., now is head of the company and also is on the university's board of trustees.

MRS. DICKINSON recalled that the first library on the campus was patterned after that in their home. And one of the first things her husband did was to decide where the flagpole should be located—in front of "The Castle", the original home of the school and still the administration building.

The first year's enrollment was 153 students. Today, the university is fully accredited with undergraduate and graduate schools and a branch, Wroxton College near Oxford, England. Mrs. Dickinson dedicated the foreign branch last June.

ENROLLMENT has reached close to 18,000, and Mrs. Dickinson, educated at Rogers Hall in Massachusetts said her husband "would be very proud to see where they (the students) have gone."

Lillian Adele Dittli Bride Of William Robert Glaeser

Lillian Adele Dittli became the bride of William Robert Glaeser, Airman Second Class U.S. Air Force at a two o'clock service at St. Hilary's Church, Tiburon, Saturday

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father, Albin Dittli, of Tiburon. The Rev. William Mena officiated at the double ring ceremony.

For the vow exchange, Lillian wore a floor length gown of ivory de luster satin, with an empire waist. The bodice and elbow length sleeves were re-embroidered lace. The gown had a cowl neckline with satin detail and full train. The shoulder length veil was held in place by a satin rose.

Mrs. Dieter W. Bayer of San Francisco, the bride's sister, was matron of honor. Mrs. Robert Stickney of San Francisco, Mrs. Richard Campagna of Corte Madera, and Jari Fowler of Larkspur were bridesmaids. The attendents were gowned alike in floor length dresses of russet crepe, fashioned in the empire line. They wore short-sleeved jackets embroidered in autumn tones.

Robert Stickney of San Francisco was best man. Richard Campagna of Corte Madera, Randy Ross, of Larkspur, Steve Paris of San Francisco, Albin L. Dittli of Tiburon, the bride's brother, and Brian Glaeser of Corte Madera, the bridegroom's brother, were ushers.

Eric Griesmer of Mill Valley was altar boy, and Helen Griesmer was in charge of the guest book.

The couple received at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albin Dittli in Tiburon. Lillian is the granddaughter of Mrs. Madelaine Lanz of San Francisco.

William is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Glaeser of Corte Madera. He is the grandson of Mrs. Erland Ericson of Corte Madera and Mrs. Frank Schaeffer of San Jose.

Both Lillian and William are graduates of Redwood High School. William attended the College of Marin before enlisting in the Air Force. He is now stationed at Stead Air Force Base near Reno. The couple will reside in Reno following a wedding trip to Los Angeles.

Many Marinites Will Attend Green Rock Hunt Club Fete

By MOLLY MARIN

Pheasantettes and smoked pheasant will be on the menu when the Green Rock Pheasant Hunting Club holds its second annual dinner in the Trafalgar Room at Trader Vic's in San Francisco on Nov. 10. The Pheasants are raised on a ranch north of Novato and the private hunting club is on St. Vincent's Drive, north of San Rafael.

Marin members of the private club and their guests who will be attending the dinner include Drs. W. Scott Polland, William Magladry and Russel Kline, Messrs. Howard Bernhard, D. M. Christensen, Conrad Abbett, Larry D. Dingus and Manuel T. Freitas, all of San Rafael.

From Mill Valley are John L. Castleman, Joe Bergeron, Malcolm Brown, William J. Rosa, Alfred J. Santas, John D. Biggane and George E. B. King. From Novato, Howard O. Kinsey, R. H. "Tiny" Garzoli, Fernando Clementino, Dr. Raymond D. Rediske, Paul Putnam, Leif W. Evensen and Gen. (Ret.) Edison W. Berlin.

San Anselmo members include Mrs. E. H. Pedroli, Dr. O. W. Jones, and Don Scagliola. From Sausalito, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Doble, Bruce Shafer, Capt. Taylor W. McGee and Richard Urbais. Joseph Sullivan Bertram Rude, Charles O. Jones and Harry J. Lehman Jr. of Kentfield, Ernest H. Gates and Christopher S. Peacock of Belvedere, Paul E. Garzoli of Nicasio, Robert Skelton of Corte Madera and Clarence Doctor and Whitman K. Alger of Tiburon.

BRONWYN HUGHES of Kentfield, and Pauline S. Livermore, San Rafael, are members of the Wellesley College Choir which will open its 1965-66 season with the traditional Fall Vesper Concert at Wellesley Sunday.

Bronwyn Hughes, a senior at Wellesley, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. Hughes. Majoring in Physics, she has been active in both dramatic and musical productions during her college years. Last year she was a member of the casts of two productions of the Greek Drama Organization on the campus.

Pauline Livermore, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Norman B. Livermore, Jr., is a sophomore at Wellesley, where in addition to singing in the Choir, she is a member of the campus guiding organization which conducts visitors on tours of the campus.

SAUSALITO WAS well represented in the four-weeks charter trip to Europe sponsored by the San Francisco Symphony Foundation.

Just returned to Sausalito last Sunday were Dr. and Mrs. Clifford Raisbeck, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Quinn Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome A. Adams and Mrs. John B. Ehlen who was accompanied by Mr. Ehlen's sister, Miss Martha Ehlen of Orange, Calif.

The plane landed in Frankfort, Germany, and the travelers followed their own itineraries from then until they met again in Paris for the return trip.

Mrs. Ehlen and Miss Ehlen picked up a car in Hamburg, where they visited relatives. They especially enjoyed driving along the Rhine and Mosel rivers in the beautiful castle country and drove as far southeast in Germany as Nurnberg.

The Quinns and Andersons took the same tour of the Greek Islands before the Quinns went on to visit relatives in Germany and England and the Andersons proceeded to Santa Marguerita on the Italian Riviera.

High point of the trip for the Adamses was a ten-days' cruise through the Aegean on the "Daphne," a yacht they chartered with some friends from San Francisco. They also spent ten days in Spain.

The Raisbecks visited Rome, Florence and Venice in Italy and spent a week in London. Since they are especially interested in historical aspects of places they saw a great deal of Rome and London on walking tours to historical spots.

Patricia A. Nolan Becomes A Bride

Patricia Anne Nolan of Mill Valley became the bride of David Steven Moritz Saturday at St. Patrick's Church in Larkspur.

The single ring ceremony was performed at noon by Msgr. Edward M. Dullea.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Nolan of Mill Valley, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Steven Moritz of Baltimore, Md., and the late Mr. Moritz.

Given in marriage by her father, Patricia wore a full length gown of white peau de soie having a chapel train and trimmed with Alencon lace and seed pearls.

Her attendants were Mrs. Harry Hansen of Van Nuys, matron of honor; and bridesmaids Mrs. Michael Conley of San Francisco and the bride's sisters, Catherine and Mary Nolan of Mill Valley. They wore full length sheaths of willow green satin.

Nora Nolan, the youngest sister, was flower girl.

John W. Anderson of San Francisco served the bridegroom as best man, and ushers were the bride's brother, Terrance Nolan of Mill Valley, Ted Gurich and Michael Conley, both of San Francisco.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Deer Park Villa in Fairfax. On their return from a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe and to the Pacific Northwest, the young couple will live in San Francisco.

The new Mrs. Moritz is a graduate of Marin Catholic High School and attended the College of Marin and San Francisco State College. She is employed by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. in San Francisco. She has another brother, Timothy Nolan of Mill Valley.

David is a graduate of Sparrows Point High School in Baltimore and attended Golden Gate College in San Francisco. He is employed as an underwriter with the Continental Insurance Co. in San Francisco.

Girl Friday Secretaries Are Almost Irreplacable

By ROBERT A. BAKER

UPI—Who has the diplomacy of a statesman and the sense of humor of a comedian; who cheers up her boss when he is blue and remains calm when he is angry?

If you answer secretary, you're right.

She has one other thing going for her: she is not likely to be fired for anything short of treason, for she is virtually irreplacable. And she is virtually irreplacable in the strictest sense of the word because, for every two employers who want a "girl Friday," there is one applicant for the job.

Herman Miller, president of the Stenotype Co. of California, says there is a definite shortage of qualified secretaries, not only in this area, but nationwide.

"GIRLS WITH good shorthand and typing skills can call their own shots when it comes to job opportunities," Miller said.

He said the clamor for secretaries reaches its peak every Sunday in the "Help Wanted, Female" section of the classified ads.

Miller noted that the city of Los Angeles will pay $375 a month for a girl just out of high school and trained in shorthand and typing.

And, he said, there is evidence to indicate the secretarial situation will not improve in the near future. Miller said it does not appear the school systems are turning out enough qualified girls.

HE SAID THAT, between 1949 and 1962, the number of school girls enrolled in advanced shorthand classes in the Los Angeles City School System increased by only 400 despite the huge expansion of business in the area.

The U.S. Department of Labor said "a shortage of worker with stenographic and typing skills has existed in many areas since World War II." The department said the demand has often exceeded the supply.

Miller said even in jobs where secretaries work side-by-side with complicated office machines, there are two employers fighting for every graduate.

Those in the know say the reason the supply of secretaries is so low is the fact that women who want to work now have a wider choice of jobs.

VOCATIONAL AVENUES previously closed to women are now opening up and many are choosing other fields of work.

Miller and other authorities see two answers to the problem. High school counselors must point out to students the excellent career possibilities available in the secretarial field. Also, women who did not take secretarial courses in high school must be encouraged to go to business schools or night classes to acquire the necessary skills.

COSTS A BIT MORE -POPS A LOT MORE!

KNOWING WHEN to stop talking is often more important than having something worthwhile to say and the good judgment when to say it. Perhaps the most important secret in avoiding becoming a bore is to cultivate interests and seek out new experiences which others will want to hear about. Like "Discovering America" with pleasant stays at our country's fascinating wayside inns and city-within-a-city metropolitan hotels and motels.

ME, MYSELF AND I

How Do You Score As A Bore?

Almost everyone is boring part of the time, yet few people really know when they are boring, what causes boredom among friends or how we can minimize our tendency to be dull.

Here's a quiz to help you rate yourself, plus tips on how to improve.

ARE YOU BORED? Bored people are often boring. If you're bored, why not try to get to the bottom of the problem and do something about it? Perhaps you're bored because you haven't tried your hand at anything new for too long. Nobody enjoys having a drudge around.

Think back to the last time you tackled a new hobby, read a good book or went on a journey. A short trip—even an overnight jaunt—with a stay in a hotel or motel, can help open your eyes to the interesting things around you, give you something new to talk about when you return home.

DO YOU FIND YOURSELF "TALKING AT" PEOPLE MORE OFTEN THAN CONVERSING WITH THEM? Few of us are such great orators that we can hold an audience spellbound for long. True, everybody likes to talk about himself, but if your conversation is mainly about "Me, Myself and I," don't be too surprised if you start to detect tell-tale signs of boredom in your listener.

How can you avoid these conversational calamities? Remember that the listener's time is just as important as your own, whether he has a lot of it, or only a little. Getting your listener involved is an excellent way to hold his attention. For example, you might start off a conversation by asking his opinion of something—a movie he may have seen recently, or a book he's read. But avoid using this trick as a platform from which to launch into your own diatribe on "what the whole thing is all about." By showing a genuine interest in what your friend has to say—even when he talks about himself—you can involve him in the conversation.

DO YOU SEEM TO HAVE A KNACK FOR TURNING CONVERSATIONS INTO ARGUMENTS? If you're the aggressive, self-asserting type, you may have to hold back a bit. Respect the other fellow's opinions, even if you don't happen to agree with them. After he's stated his case, you can politely offer your own views.

DO YOU JUMP AT THE CHANCE TO "MOVE IN ON" PEOPLE? While your friends or relatives may seem eager to have you sleep in their house, do your laundry and feed you when you visit them on vacation—the odds are you'll be more welcome if you stay in a near-by hotel or motel. Cutting down your "exposure time" on long visits will spare them and your frazzled nerves.

DO YOU TEND TO OVERSTAY YOUR WELCOME? Your hosts may appreciate the fact that you're enjoying yourself. But when heads start to nod, it's high time to say, "So long and thanks!"

DO YOU HAVE A LINE A MILE LONG? Some people have a tendency to stretch their "story" a little in an attempt to make themselves seem and feel more important. Others lay the flattery on thick, thinking it will make people like them better. But if your friends finally catch on, you may end up as the guy or gal who isn't invited a second time. Be yourself; your friends should accept you for what you are—that is, of course, unless you score high as a bore!

ARE YOU ABLE TO KEEP THE FRIENDS YOU MAKE? It's natural that close friends should enjoy seeing each other often, but it's also a good policy to strive for a happy medium. Don't neglect friends, but keep in mind the old saying, "familiarity breeds contempt."

By following these simple tips, you can help minimize your tendency to be dull—and raise your popularity quotient at the same time.

Lillian Adele Dittli Bride Of William Robert Glaeser

Lillian Adele Dittli became the bride of William Robert Glaeser, Airman Second Class U.S. Air Force at a two o'clock service at St. Hilary's Church, Tiburon, Saturday

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father, Albin Dittli, of Tiburon. The Rev. William Mena officiated at the double ring ceremony.

For the vow exchange, Lillian wore a floor length gown of ivory de luster satin, with an empire waist. The bodice and elbow length sleeves were reembroidered lace. The gown had a cowl neckline with satin detail and full train. The shoulder length veil was held in place by a satin rose.

Mrs. Dieter W. Bayer of San Francisco, the bride's sister, was matron of honor. Mrs. Robert Stickney of San Francisco, Mrs. Richard Campagna of Corte Madera, and Jari Fowler of Larkspur were bridesmaids. The attendents were gowned alike in floor length dresses of russet crepe, fashioned in the empire line. They wore short-sleeved jackets embroidered in autumn tones.

Robert Stickney of San Francisco was best man. Richard Campagna of Corte Madera, Randy Ross, of Larkspur, Steve Paris of San Francisco, Albin L. Dittli of Tiburon, the bride's brother, and Brian Glaeser of Corte Madera, the bridegroom's brother, were ushers.

Eric Griesmer of Mill Valley was altar boy, and Helen Griesmer was in charge of the guest book.

The couple received at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albin Dittli in Tiburon. Lillian is the granddaughter of Mrs. Madelaine Lanz of San Francisco.

William is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Glaeser of Corte Madera. He is the grandson of Mrs. Erland Ericson of Corte Madera and Mrs. Frank Schaeffer of San Jose.

Both Lillian and William are graduates of Redwood High School. William attended the College of Marin before enlisting in the Air Force. He is now stationed at Stead Air Force Base near Reno. The couple will reside in Reno following a wedding trip to Los Angeles.

Club To Discuss Improvement Plan

The National Community Improvement Plan will be discussed by Mrs. Joseph E. Barca at Thursday's meeting of the garden section of the Sausalito Woman's Club.

It will be held at 10:30 a.m. at the clubhouse.

Mrs. Barca is chairman of the community improvement program for the Golden Gate District of the California Federation of Women's Clubs.

She will describe the contest set up in a national community improvement program, for which Sears & Roebuck has contributed a $10,000 prize and other smaller prizes.

Today's Woman Needs College Education Says School Donor

Today's woman needs a college education, no matter if she never goes into a profession, says a woman who has just given $1 million to furthering education.

"They also serve — who only do housework," said Mrs. Fairleigh Dickinson, widow of the businessman who helped found the north New Jersey university which bears the Dickinson name.

The $1 million gift is the largest single one ever made to the school's endowment fund, which now stands at $11.5 million. The grant is to be used primarily for scholarships, with emphasis on help for women students and for all who might not be able to attend college otherwise.

"THERE JUST aren't as many scholarships for girls around as there are for men," said Mrs. Dickinson. "I think everyone should have a chance to go to college . . . but there are so many who can't afford it.

"You ask me, why educate a girl who settles down to marriage during or after college.

"WELL, HER degree may not help her hang curtains. But it makes her a better helpmate. Married to a college man, she has to be able to talk to him.

"Don't forget too that there are many demands on women today . . . to fill their role in community life."

"I think education is required of us all . . . it has nothing to do with sex," said Grace Smith Dickinson.

Mrs. Dickinson is an active woman in her 70's — although she won't confirm the exact number of years. She travels a great deal, plays competitive golf, and once made a hole in one at the Ridgewood, N.J. Country Club where she is a member. Her figure is as erect as a girl's, and as slim.

I talked with Mrs. Dickinson prior to a dinner here to honor her and to announce her $1 million gift.

She shared the interests of her late husband in helping to found the school 25 years ago with an initial gift of $50,000.

Her husband was the head of Becton, Dickinson & Co., makers of surgical instruments. Their son, Fairleigh Dickinson Jr., now is head of the company and also is on the university's board of trustees.

MRS. DICKINSON recalled that the first library on the campus was patterned after that in their home. And one of the first things her husband did was to decide where the flagpole should be located—in front of "The Castle", the original home of the school and still the administration building.

The first year's enrollment was 153 students. Today, the university is fully accredited with undergraduate and graduate schools and a branch, Wroxton College near Oxford, England. Mrs. Dickinson dedicated the foreign branch last June.

ENROLLMENT has reached close to 18,000, and Mrs. Dickinson, educated at Rogers Hall in Massachusetts said her husband "would be very proud to see where they (the students) have gone."

TENSE MOMENT—Feelings begin to run high among the hysterical citizenry of early day Salem, Mass., in this scene from Arthur Miller's "The Crucible," to be presented by the Tam Valley Players for three weekends starting Nov. 5. Shown are (left to right) Dixie Garrett, Tom Leith and Morrie Batz. Leith also is directing the play.

Tam Players Plan Run Of Miller's 'Crucible'

Tam Valley Players will open a three-week run of Arthur Miller's "The Crucible," at 8:30 p.m. Nov. 5, at Old Mill School, Mill Valley.

The play, dealing with the Salem, Mass., witch trials and superstitious townspeople, also will be given Nov. 6, 12, 13, 19 and 20.

Director is Tom Leith, drama teacher at College of Marin, who also has a lead role. He has appeared in the New York production of "Beckett' with Laurence Olivier, played in the pre-Broadway production of William Inge's "Natural Affection" and was on a national road tour of Arthur Miller's "View From the Bridge."

Leith directed the Ann Arbor, Mich. Players in plays including "All My Sons," "The Glass Menagerie," "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" and "Three Penny Opera." He has a feature role in the forthcoming Metro-Goldwyn Mayer film, "Dr. Zhivago."

Others in the cast are Dick Dawe, Barbara Raggio, Sandra Crinner, Dixie Garrett, Mary Collins, Miriam Burdick, Dick Miller, Petra Chambers, Valice Harder, Irene Pritzker, Jack Adams, Maurie Batz, Esther Allen, Andy Castle, George Pritzker, Fred Collins, Kitty Adams, Jay Irving, John Eshleman, Peter Holter and Ray Nielson.

Reservations may be made through Mrs. Richard Dawe of Mill Valley.

MUSIC REVIEW

Pianist, Cellist Give Superb Sonata Recital

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

A superb sonata recital by pianist Adolph Baller and cellist Gabor Retjo opened this year's Dominican College concert artist series last night before an overflow audience in Pennafort Hall.

It was the annual college scholarship benefit performed by the musicians in memory of their late colleague in the Alma Trio, violinist Maurice Wilk.

It was the kind of concert for which the high point probably depended upon the musical taste of the individual listener, because each work was given a flawless performance in the idiom of its composer, and the composers varied widely in their style.

The first half of the program consisted of J. S. Bach's sonata in G Major and Brahms's Sonata in F Major, Opus 99, and the second half was composed of Kodaly's Sonata Fantaisie, Opus 4 and Beethoven's Sonata in F Major, Opus 5, No. 1.

The excellence of Baller's and Rejto's playing consists not only of the fact that each is a master of the full resources of his instrument, but also in their perfectly synchronized rhythm and phrasing and expressive rapport. They maintain an exquisite balance in their readings between the intellectual and emotional elements of the music.

Their performance as a whole was characterized by vigor, strength and controlled feeling.

Banbury Cross Faces Relocation

BANBURY, England (AP) — The town council voted 14-9 last night to move Banbury Cross, the subject of the nursery rhyme.

It stands in the main crossroads in the center of town. Those who wanted it moved said it was a traffic hazard. Opponents said to move it would upset the tradition of centuries.

Councillor Donald Batts said the present cross has no tradition at all. He said it was only about 100 years old and does not stand on the site of the original cross.

A new site hasn't been chosen.

Subscriptions Sold

Subscriptions are sold out to the Homestead Valley Improvement Club-sponsored candlelight concert series at Brown's Hall in Mill Valley. Mrs. Martin Goldschmidt, music chairman, said today that tickets are available only on a single admission basis.

Report Card Talk Scheduled By Board

The Larkspur School District board, meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the district offices, is scheduled to hear several reports from Supt. Milton S. Cohen.

One report will concern the district's three types of report cards for different grade groups. Another will be on money available to the district under the elementary and secondary education act.

Chamber Ensemble To Debut

The newly formed Marin Chamber Ensemble, directed by S. Drummond Wolff, will make its debut Sunday at 4 p.m. in a concert at Holy Innocents Church, Corte Madera.

The ensemble consists of 12 instrumentalists (strings and woodwinds) and 12 singers from the community who meet regularly to practice music of the Baroque Period of 1600 to 1750.

Program for the first hour-long concert of a series open to the public without charge will consist of a Vivaldi-Bach organ concerto; the cantata "Rejoice Earth and Heaven" for chorus and orchestra by Buxtehude; concerto for oboe, strings and continuo by Valentini; concerto for organ and orchestra by Handel; Sonata for flute, oboe and bassoon by Vivaldi; motets for double chorus by Schutz and Weelkes; cantata for solo voice, chorus and orchestra by Johann Beyer, and music by Byrd, Daquin and Clerembault.

Singing Echo

Soprano Gwen Curatilo, only member of the San Francisco Opera Company from Marin, is singing the role of Echo tonight in the company's presentation of "Ariadne Auf Naxos" by Richard Strauss in the War Memorial Opera House.

Children's Libraries Set Book Week Through Nov. 6

Children's libraries in Marin County are preparing special displays and, in some cases, special programs to commemorate National Children's Book Week, Sunday through Nov. 6.

At the Mill Valley Library, about 250 new books will be displayed and elementary school children will be brought to the library, usually a grade at a time, to view the selections. But no one will be allowed to check out a new book.

Then on Nov. 6, at 10 a.m., each child will be allowed to check out one of the new books, on a first-come-first-served basis. It's usually a scramble, according to library officials.

At Sausalito, where about 100 books will be displayed, Mike Healy, editor of the Sausalito News, will speak on writing and books to the fourth grade class of Mrs. Helen Shippey at Central School.

The San Anselmo Library is featuring a special display of the books the city's junior patrons have decided are the most popular in a recent survey. New books will also be shown and special bookmarks commemorating the week will be issued.

The San Rafael and Larkspur libraries will have displays of new books. No special plans were made this year for the Marin County libraries.

Bernstein Weds For Second Time

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Composer-Conductor Elmer Bernstein, 43, was married yesterday in Acapulco, Mexico, to Eve Adamson, 26. It was the first marriage for Miss Adamson, the second for Bernstein, who was divorced last August.

Bernstein's agent said the couple will hold receptions in Los Angeles and New York, then will honeymoon in England. they will visit her mother, Mrs. Josephine Adamson.

Bernstein wrote the Emmy Award-winning score for "The Making of the President - 1960" on television.

No Session

Marin Council of Democratic Clubs will not meet tomorrow night, Chairman Thomas A. Skornia announced today. The meeting date has been changed to next Wednesday, Nov. 3, at 8 p.m. in the San Rafael courthouse.

James Fisher Claims Bride In Larkspur

Mr. and Mrs. Verner B. Anderson of Larkspur have announced the engagement of their daughter, Sandra Gayle, to James Barry Fisher of Sausalito. The couple plans a Nov. 27 wedding in Redwoods Presbyterian Church, Larkspur.

Sandra is the sister of Arlene Anderson of Larkspur and the granddaughter of Mrs. C. J. Dykes and Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Anderson of San Anselmo. She was graduated from Redwood High School and Oregon State University where she was a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority.

The future bride is employed as a teacher in Santa Barbara.

James is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Fisher of Sausalito and the brother of Mrs. Ronald Misener of New Haven, Conn., and Richard E. Fisher who is serving with the U.S. Navy.

The future bridegroom attended George Washington High School in San Francisco. Following their wedding, the couple plan to reside in Santa Barbara.

Girl Friday Secretaries Are Almost Irreplacable

By ROBERT A. BAKER

UPI—Who has the diplomacy of a statesman and the sense of humor of a comedian; who cheers up her boss when he is blue and remains calm when he is angry?

If you answer secretary, you're right.

She has one other thing going for her: she is not likely to be fired for anything short of treason, for she is virtually irreplacable. And she is virtually irreplacable in the strictest sense of the word because, for every two employers who want a "girl Friday," there is one applicant for the job.

Herman Miller, president of the Stenotype Co. of California, says there is a definite shortage of qualified secretaries, not only in this area, but nationwide.

"GIRLS WITH good shorthand and typing skills can call their own shots when it comes to job opportunities," Miller said.

He said the clamor for secretaries reaches its peak every Sunday in the "Help Wanted, Female" section of the classified ads.

Miller noted that the city of Los Angeles will pay $375 a month for a girl just out of high school and trained in shorthand and typing.

And, he said, there is evidence to indicate the secretarial situation will not improve in the near future. Miller said it does not appear the school systems are turning out enough qualified girls.

HE SAID THAT, between 1949 and 1962, the number of school girls enrolled in advanced shorthand classes in the Los Angeles City School System increased by only 400 despite the huge expansion of business in the area.

The U.S. Department of Labor said "a shortage of worker with stenographic and typing skills has existed in many areas since World War II." The department said the demand has often exceeded the supply.

Miller said even in jobs where secretaries work side-by-side with complicated office machines, there are two employers fighting for every graduate.

Those in the know say the reason the supply of secretaries is so low is the fact that women who want to work now have a wider choice of jobs.

VOCATIONAL AVENUES previously closed to women are now opening up and many are choosing other fields of work.

Miller and other authorities see two answers to the problem. High school counselors must point out to students the excellent career possibilities available in the secretarial field. Also, women who did not take secretarial courses in high school must be encouraged to go to business schools or night classes to acquire the necessary skills.

CRIME REPORT

State Report Doesn't Tell Why Juvenile Rate Fell

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON
(Second in a series)

There were 3,920 arrests of juveniles in Marin County last year, compared to 5,204 in 1963.

These figures are contained in "Crime in California," a comprehensive statistical report prepared by the Bureau of Criminal Statistics of the State Department of Justice.

The same year that saw this 24.7 per cent decline in juvenile arrests saw a 32.5 per cent increase in the felony crime rate in Marin — second highest increase in the state—and an 8.6 per cent increase in arrests of adults on felony charges.

There is, of course, no way to assess how much of the increased crime was by juveniles, if any. Evidence left at the scene of the crime rarely includes anything that tells the age of the perpetrator.

Statewide, however, last year saw a 10.3 per cent increase in juvenile arrests, along with a 10 per cent increase in felony crime—almost identical rates.

The state report does not explain Marin's sharp departure from the norm, although it does make note of it.

Leaving that aside for the moment, who made the juvenile arrests in Marin County, and what became of them?

The 3,020 juvenile arrests in Marin in '64 included 468 for major offenses, all of which would be felonies if committed by adults; 658 arrests for minor offenses, most of which would be misdemeanors, and 2,794 for "delinquent tendencies."

The sheriff's department made 1,401 arrests of juveniles; San Rafael police, 1,037; Novato police, 518; San Anselmo police, 424; Fairfax police, 154; Larkspur police, 116; Sausalito police, 111; Mill Valley police, 69; Corte Madera police, 57; Belvedere police, 31, and Ross police, two.

Of the 468 juvenile arrests for major offenses, 205 were by the sheriff's office, with police departments accounting for the following: San Rafael, 111; Novato, 43; Sausalito, 27; Mill Valley and San Anselmo, each 20; Corte Madera and Larkspur, each 14; Belvedere and Fairfax, each seven; Ross, none.

"Crime in California" reports dispositions of juvenile arrests in three categories: (1) handled within the police (or sheriff's) department; (2) referred to other agencies, not the county probation department, and (3) referred to the probation department and juvenile court.

The first category includes cases let off with a warning to the youth and/or his parents. The second includes principally persons turned over to other law enforcement agencies who might have a graver charge against them, and the third, those who follow the route through probation department and juvenile court.

Statewide, 51.2 per cent of the juvenile arrest cases last year were handled within the arresting department, with 44 per cent going to juvenile court. Most of those arrested for major crimes (71.1 per cent) went the court route.

Handling of the cases in Marin County showed rather wide variation among the enforcement agencies.

The sheriff's office disposed of a major percentage within the department itself—1,078 of the 1,401 it arrested. It sent only 283 to court.

Belvedere police sent all the 31 juveniles arrested to the probation department; Corte Madera sent 37 out of 57; Fairfax, 37 of 154; Larkspur, 50 of 116; Mill Valley, 64 of 69; Novato, 160 of 518; Ross, one of two; San Anselmo, 100 of 424; San Rafael, 378 of 1,037, and Sausalito, 45 of 111.

It appears obvious that some departments made a far greater percentage of arrests for mere "delinquent tendencies," and probable that other departments disposed of many such cases with mere informal warnings that were not made part of official reports.

As to what happened to the juveniles turned over to probation department and courts, the state made no figures available.

TENSE MOMENT—Feelings begin to run high among the hysterical citizenry of early day Salem, Mass., in this scene from Arthur Miller's "The Crucible," to be presented by the Tam Valley Players for three weekends starting Nov. 5. Shown are (left to right) Dixie Garrett, Tom Leith and Morrie Batz. Leith also is directing the play.

Tam Players Plan Run Of Miller's 'Crucible'

Tam Valley Players will open a three-week run of Arthur Miller's "The Crucible," at 8:30 p.m. Nov. 5, at Old Mill School, Mill Valley.

The play, dealing with the Salem, Mass., witch trials and superstitious townspeople, also will be given Nov. 6, 12, 13, 19 and 20.

Director is Tom Leith, drama teacher at College of Marin, who also has a lead role. He has appeared in the New York production of "Beckett' with Laurence Olivier, played in the pre-Broadway production of William Inge's "Natural Affection" and was on a national road tour of Arthur Miller's "View From the Bridge."

Leith directed the Ann Arbor, Mich. Players in plays including "All My Sons," "The Glass Menagerie," "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" and "Three Penny Opera." He has a feature role in the forthcoming Metro-Goldwyn Mayer film, "Dr. Zhivago."

MUSIC REVIEW

Pianist, Cellist Give Superb Sonata Recital

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

A superb sonata recital by pianist Adolph Baller and cellist Gabor Retjo opened this year's Dominican College concert artist series last night before an overflow audience in Pennafort Hall.

It was the annual college scholarship benefit performed by the musicians in memory of their late colleague in the Alma Trio, violinist Maurice Wilk.

It was the kind of concert for which the high point probably depended upon the musical taste of the individual listener, because each work was given a flawless performance in the idiom of its composer, and the composers varied widely in their style.

The first half of the program consisted of J. S. Bach's sonata in G Major and Brahms's Sonata in F Major, Opus 99, and the second half was composed of Kodaly's Sonata Fantaisie, Opus 4 and Beethoven's Sonata in F Major, Opus 5, No. 1.

The excellence of Baller's and Rejto's playing consists not only of the fact that each is a master of the full resources of his instrument, but also in their perfectly synchronized rhythm and phrasing and expressive rapport. They maintain an exquisite balance in their readings between the intellectual and emotional elements of the music.

Their performance as a whole was characterized by vigor, strength and controlled feeling.

Banbury Cross Faces Relocation

BANBURY, England (AP) — The town council voted 14-9 last night to move Banbury Cross, the subject of the nursery rhyme.

It stands in the main crossroads in the center of town. Those who wanted it moved said it was a traffic hazard. Opponents said to move it would upset the tradition of centuries.

Councillor Donald Batts said the present cross has no tradition at all. He said it was only about 100 years old and does not stand on the site of the original cross.

A new site hasn't been chosen.

Subscriptions Sold

Subscriptions are sold out to the Homestead Valley Improvement Club-sponsored candlelight concert series at Brown's Hall in Mill Valley. Mrs. Martin Goldschmidt, music chairman, said today that tickets are available only on a single admission basis.

Report Card Talk Scheduled By Board

The Larkspur School District board, meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the district offices, is scheduled to hear several reports from Supt. Milton S. Cohen.

One report will concern the district's three types of report cards for different grade groups. Another will be on money available to the district under the elementary and secondary education act.

Chamber Ensemble To Debut

The newly formed Marin Chamber Ensemble, directed by S. Drummond Wolff, will make its debut Sunday at 4 p.m. in a concert at Holy Innocents Church, Corte Madera.

The ensemble consists of 12 instrumentalists (strings and woodwinds) and 12 singers from the community who meet regularly to practice music of the Baroque Period of 1600 to 1750.

Program for the first hour-long concert of a series open to the public without charge will consist of a Vivaldi-Bach organ concerto; the cantata "Rejoice Earth and Heaven" for chorus and orchestra by Buxtehude; concerto for oboe, strings and continuo by Valentini; concerto for organ and orchestra by Handel; Sonata for flute, oboe and bassoon by Vivaldi; motets for double chorus by Schutz and Weelkes; cantata for solo voice, chorus and orchestra by Johann Beyer, and music by Byrd, Daquin and Clerembault.

Singing Echo

Soprano Gwen Curatilo, only member of the San Francisco Opera Company from Marin, is singing the role of Echo tonight in the company's presentation of "Ariadne Auf Naxos" by Richard Strauss in the War Memorial Opera House.

Children's Libraries Set Book Week Through Nov. 6

Children's libraries in Marin County are preparing special displays and, in some cases, special programs to commemorate National Children's Book Week, Sunday through Nov. 6.

At the Mill Valley Library, about 250 new books will be displayed and elementary school children will be brought to the library, usually a grade at a time, to view the selections. But no one will be allowed to check out a new book.

Then on Nov. 6, at 10 a.m., each child will be allowed to check out one of the new books, on a first-come-first-served basis. It's usually a scramble, according to library officials.

At Sausalito, where about 100 books will be displayed, Mike Healy, editor of the Sausalito News, will speak on writing and books to the fourth grade class of Mrs. Helen Shippey at Central School.

The San Anselmo Library is featuring a special display of the books the city's junior patrons have decided are the most popular in a recent survey. New books will also be shown and special bookmarks commemorating the week will be issued.

The San Rafael and Larkspur libraries will have displays of new books. No special plans were made this year for the Marin County libraries.

Bernstein Weds For Second Time

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Composer-Conductor Elmer Bernstein, 43, was married yesterday in Acapulco, Mexico, to Eve Adamson, 26. It was the first marriage for Miss Adamson, the second for Bernstein, who was divorced last August.

Bernstein's agent said the couple will hold receptions in Los Angeles and New York, then will honeymoon in England. they will visit her mother, Mrs. Josephine Adamson.

Bernstein wrote the Emmy Award-winning score for "The Making of the President - 1960" on television.

No Session

Marin Council of Democratic Clubs will not meet tomorrow night, Chairman Thomas A. Skornia announced today. The meeting date has been changed to next Wednesday, Nov. 3, at 8 p.m. in the San Rafael courthouse.

Next Legislature Should Expand Tam Park Lands

Not much can be done during this special legislative session for acquisition of land to expand Mount Tamalpais State Park.

However, the next chance for approval of the land acquisition will come when the legislative budget session opens next February.

We are encouraged to note that our legislators are already looking ahead to the coming session, drumming up support for Mount Tamalpais expansion.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, who tried unsuccessfully to get the Governor to put park acquisition as an item for the current special session, has written letters to legislators in the Bay Area.

"My point in writing at this time is simply to alert you to the necessity for continued interest and legislative pressure leading to acquisition of this particular land," Bagley writes. "Please do all you can to assist me in seeing that this project, to be recommended by Beaches and Parks personnel, will be approved by the Legislature at our next budget session."

Financing will come from the $150 million park bond issue voted by the people last November.

The proposal for the Mount Tamalpais State Park expansion involves state acquisition of the area known as Frank's Valley adjacent to Muir Woods National Monument.

Acquisition of surplus military land for Marin Headlands State Park is already in progress. Appropriation for purchase of 320 acres of the military land was made at the last session.

This, and the Mount Tamalpais expansion, are included in the long range plan for a single state park from the Golden Gate to Point Reyes National Seashore.

This recreation area is of more than countywide interest. In Governor Brown's own words, "The project is considered the best opportunity of providing high-quality outdoor recreation to meet the population pressures generated in the San Francisco Bay metropolitan area."

We count on Bay Area legislators to join with Assemblyman Bagley and Sen. John F. McCarthy in supporting the expansion of Mount Tamalpais State Park next February.

Labor Will Work Hard To Win 1966 Congressional Friends

By NEIL GILBRIDE
(James Marlow is on vacation)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like President Johnson, organized labor has a vital stake in the 1966 congressional elections in trying to save the political hides of the current crop of new Democratic liberals.

Union chiefs, miffed at the poor record on labor legislation in the first half of the 89th Congress, really have no choice.

THEIR CHANCES of winning union shop, minimum wage, unemployment compensation and other labor measures could go glimmering next year if their liberal Democratic allies waver in the face of election year pressures.

"They'll be sitting ducks," said one labor spokesman of the 38 freshman House Democrats who last year ousted long-entrenched Republicans from Maine to California and then voted down the line for labor and the Johnson administration.

But it will be an uphill battle for Johnson and organized labor to prevent Republicans from recouping many of these seats.

NOT SINCE President Franklin D. Roosevelt and the Democrats pulled the trick in 1934 has the party in power bucked the historic trend of losing seats in Congress in a non-presidential election year.

AFL-CIO President George Meany already has sounded the call for labor to repeat its 1964 political blitz tactics on behalf of the Democrats next year.

LABOR SPOKESMEN admit however, it will be far more difficult to whip up flagging enthusiasm among dissappointed union men after failure to win the big fight to annul state power to ban union shop contracts — agreements under which all employees must join a union.

The 38 "sitting ducks" voted for the bill when it passed the House, but it was blocked by a Senate filibuster and pushed aside until next year.

Labor is also dissappointed that a bill to increase the present $1.25 federal minimum wage didn't at least get through the House.

OTHER LABOR measures were also pigeonholed until next year.

The AFL-CIO, convening in San Francisco in December, will start laying plans for a running start at keeping its friends in Congress after the 1966 elections.

Hoping to win the labor measures it failed to get this year, the AFL-CIO has compiled a confidential list of 51 Democrats who will get all-out labor support in 1966 — including two who voted against repeal of 14B — the union shop legislation — and one who didn't vote at all.

THE TWO ARE Rep. James A. MacKay of Georgia and Rep. Clair A. Callan of Nebraska—both from states with so-called right-to-work laws banning union shop contracts.

Labor forgave them their "no" votes on the basis of their record on other legislation favored by labor.

The man who didn't vote was Rep. Roy H. McVicker of Colorado, who went home to a sick wife during the union shopbattle. "He would have voted for repeal of 14B," an aide said.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Reporter Praised By Schools Unit

Editor, Independent-Journal:

At the request of our board of directors, I am writing to express our appreciation to the I-J and to its reporter Robert Strebeigh for the excellent coverage given to our recent workshop at Granada School on financing quality education.

The problems of school finance and tax reform are of deep concern to our school trustees in Marin County. We feel there is a real need to provide relevant facts in these critical areas to our citizens. We hope the I-J will continue to do its part by providing its readers with meaningful information on these vital subjects.

Americans Should Stop Communism

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I would like to remind certain people of a few words taken from our late President John F. Kennedy's inaugural address:

"It is not what your country can do for you, but what you can do for your country."

As one fellow stationed in Viet Nam put it:

"We know it is our job to be here, we are fighting not only because it is our duty, but because we love our families too much to ever want to live under communism.

"What is bugging us is the peace groups, Viet Nam Day group, the left wing groups and the citizens who are naive and have the careless attitude —'it never can happen here'."

I know that I will be called and have been called an alarmist, but I can remember when I was growing up hearing about the Japanese and how they were preparing to take over the United States. Well, if the same attitude of the people prevailed then as it does today, we wouldn't be sitting here, fat, dumb and happy sponsoring communists.

Let us all return to the old-fashioned idea of being patriotic and instead of giving aid and comfort to our enemy, let us back Uncle Sam and our men . . . If ever there was a time to practice what our late President preached, it is now. . . . Think of the lives that have been lost in the military since 1945 because of communism. My husband's life was one of these . . . We do not like to think that he gave his life in vain.

Communism is not a "fantastic story" as a person once stated to me. It is real, it is happening and it can happen here.

Think—stamp out communism—stop encouraging it.

Viet Opinion Is Divided

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Gen. Maxwell Taylor decried the Viet Nam day protests because he was afraid the communists (and the rest of the world) would think that there was "some division of opinion" on American (military) foreign policy in Southeast Asia! What a tragic laugh. There d--- well IS a division of opinion! As 15,000 serious and patriotic Americans marched in Berkeley to protest our undeclared war, a pitiful few hecklers obscenely defended the Administration policy with crude and inane epithets. On the following day, Johnson's war was gloriously supported by the "Hell's Angels."

Sanity demands that we stop bombing now. Sanity demands that we negotiate with the Viet Cong now for a peaceful election and eventual U.S. withdrawal.

America Discoverer Was Naked Savage

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Every year about this time there is a renewed bubbling of that tempest in a teapot about who discovered America first, Columbus or Ericson, though it is pretty generally agreed now that Leif beat Chris to our shores. However, it has also been proved that the Phoenicians, the Romans, the Chinese, the Irish (a whole colony of monks) and even other Vikings, were here long before either.

And did you know that Columbus expected to meet a king or some other high government officials when he landed in the new world? Quote: "Soon after the cannon on the Pinta boomed to announce its arrival in what Columbus thought was an East Indian port, he decked himself in his finery and insignia as an admiral and viceroy. Then, wrapped in a big purple cloak, he had himself rowed ashore to greet whatever potentate he should find. He was greeted by nearly naked native Indians."

The very first discoverer of America was a Paleolithic-Mongoloid Asian hunter, who came during or after the Fourth Glaciation or, if you prefer, the last Ice Age. He came 10,000 years ago or 20 or 25, or 30 or even farther back in time. He came across, or around, the huge glacier, which engulfed a great part of North America but left Alaska ice-free. (I copied this last material from a book entitled "They All Discovered America").

Angels' Doings For Isvestia

Editor, Independent-Journal:

If the news editors of Pravda or Isvestia have any sense, they will use two local news items to score the propaganda coup of the decade.

These are:

1. The Hell's Angels thugs loudly protesting their 200 per cent Americanism.

2. The efforts of the hyperthyroid right to raise help for them.

All these Russian newsmen need to do is to give worldwide circulation to these two news events without editorial comment on their part.

San Rafael Merchants Best

Editor, Independent-Journal:

This letter is one I have been intending to write for some months. This is a tribute to the trades people of San Rafael.

As an Army family we have lived all over the world and on the whole have been most happy wherever we have lived. But there has never been, in our experience, any place quite like San Rafael. Without exception we found everyone we came in contact with during the year we lived there to be unfailingly courteous and helpful. This is most unique in this day and age of high pressure selling.

We left your area last May, and this letter has been on my mind all these months. In this way we thank them, for we feel the thanks are certainly in order.

DIETER LOSES RECORD POUNDAGE

One man who started on a diet didn't stop until he had lost 570 pounds.

The Georgia-born wrestler reduced from 802 to a trim 232 by manfully sticking to a rigid diet prescribed by doctors in Augusta.

When asked how he lost the astounding quarter of a ton, the man replied: "There's a heap more will power connected with it than anything else."

The old adage, "Where there's a will, there's a way" applies in many areas besides dieting. Perseverance can lead to success, even when the going is far from easy.

Will power can be developed in many ways. First we need high goals—ideals worth aiming for. Single-minded purpose helps us to concentrate on our task.

A sense of mission, by which we think, pray and act in behalf of others for love of God Himself, provides motivation that is second to none.

In the long run, the things we value the most are those we work hardest for.

"He who has persevered to the end will be saved." (Matthew 10:22)

Give me the vision to see things as You see them, O Lord, and the strength to carry out my task as You will.

Job Training Courses In State Total 1,911 Under Federal Act

By EDWIN S. CAPPS

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—Does it take more training to become a nursing aide, a chambermaid or a janitor?

According to some new schools just announced, under the national Manpower Development and Training Act, the janitor training is tops. Of course, the job title is not janitor.

The department of employment said the position is referred to as a porter in the San Francisco Bay Area but, in southern California, they're known as floor maintenance mechanics.

THE DEPARTMENT recently announced federal approval of 33 more vocational training classes in California. They will acccommodate 796 trainees. The courses ranged from licensed vocational nurses, to hotel clerks to waiters and waitresses.

The course in janitoring will be conducted by the Palo Alto adult education department and will consist of 30 hours a week for 13 weeks. The department said the course will be entirely classroom study, with no actual training with the broom, mop or dust cloth.

"SOME OF THE requests for janitorial help indicate the employers want persons with a basic education," a department spokesman said. "He needs to know how to read and write and follow instructions. Sometimes they may have to use poisonous cleaning elements and must be able to read the labels."

SOME OF THE OTHER training courses just approved include: licensed vocational nurse, Glendale College, 50 weeks at 32 hours a week; hotel clerk, at College of the Desert, Riverside, 13 weeks, 30 hours a week, and at Riverside Business College, 10 weeks, 30 hours a week; plant wireman, Adult Day School, Oakland, one class for 49 weeks, 30 hours a week, others for 30 weeks at 35 hours a week.

Clerk-typist, Adult Day School, Oakland, 46 weeks, 35 hours; shipping and receiving clerks, also Oakland, 31, 35-hour weeks; general clerk, also Oakland, 10, 30-hour weeks; waiter and waitress, Monterey Peninsula College, Salinas, 18 weeks at 35 hours a week; phone operator, John Adams Adult School, San Francisco, 49 weeks, at 35 hours a week; and nurse's aid, San Jose Adult Education Department, six weeks, 30 hours a week, and College of Marin, Kentfield, seven weeks, 30 hours a week.

Persons enrolling in the courses are paid subsistence ranging from $45 to $60 per week. Courses are developed on the basis of job surveys conducted by the department.

The Salinas waiter and waitress training course is a unique one. The program has leased a downtown restaurant building, where courses also are being given for chefs and cooks. The trainees actually operate a restaurant, on several levels.

There is a drive-in, a regular restaurant and others are given training in serving gourmet banquets. Only customers of the restaurant, if they choose, are students at the Monterey Peninsula College.

Approval of the 33 new MDTA courses brought to a total of 1,911 the courses approved for California. To date, 26,175 trainees have been enrolled in the program.

The department keeps a check on the trainees when they leave the school, at three, six and 12 month intervals. One check showed about 75 per cent of the trainees entered jobs in that field and about half of them still were in jobs related to the training a year later.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Assassination Probe Account Demanded

BY ROBERT S. ALLEN AND PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The four congressional members of the special commission that investigated the assassination of President John F. Kennedy are asking for a financial accounting of the year-long inquiry.

No report has ever been submitted to the seven-member commission — which formally concluded its work in September 1964.

The bipartisan group of legislators (two Democrats, two Republicans) decided, after discussing the matter for some time, that a detailed financial accounting should be presented and made part of the official records of the commission.

IT WAS THEIR understanding this would be done before the commission disbanded. But for some unclear reason, nothing came of that.

So in identical letters to Chief Justice Earl Warren, chairman, and Lee Rankin, general counsel, who was solicitor general in the Eisenhower administration, the four congressional leaders have requested that the commission be reconvened for the express purpose of receiving and acting on a comprehensive financial statement.

They also proposed that an announcement be issued on the final disposition of the huge mass of documents, transcripts, exhibits and other material, and their availability for study by authorized individuals. This also has never been done.

All the commission's records are in the custody of the U.S. Archives, on historic Pennsylvania Avenue halfway between the Capitol and the White House.

The legislators are Senators Richard Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Armed Services Committee; John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., former ambassador to India; Representatives Hale Boggs, D-La., majority whip, and Gerald Ford, R-Mich., minority leader.

In addition to Chief Justice Warren, the other members are Allen Dulles, former head of the Central Intelligence Agency, and John McCloy, one-time chief of the World Bank.

On May 5 of this year, this column disclosed that the commission's year-long investigation had cost $1.2 million.

BIGGEST SINGLE expenditure was $556,500 for printing.

Second largest expenditure was $225,650, for "salaries and related benefits."

This information was contained in an unpublished "financial statement" compiled by the budget division of the General Services Administration.

There was no indication of the source of the $1.2 million in the GSA report. It was authoritatively understood the money came from contingency funds available to President Lyndon B. Johnson — who initiated the investigation and appointed the seven members.

The GSA report notes that "expenses of personnel detailed to the commission from other government agencies are not included in the above figures."

The FBI did a great deal of such work for the investigation. Commission sources have indicated that Rankin received around $35,000 as general counsel.

The commission's 888-page report is still in popular demand.

As of Oct. 1 of this year, the Government Printing Office has sold more than 142,000 copies for a total of $444,418. Significantly, of these sales, 116,164 were hard cover at $3.25; 26,754, paperback at $2.50.

In addition, the GPO has sold 1,684 sets of the 26-volume hearings at $76 a set for a total of $127,984.

Over-all total of these sales is $572,402.

In addition, 8,250 complete sets of findings and hearings were distributed free. This has never been officially revealed.

CRIME REPORT

State Report Doesn't Tell Why Juvenile Rate Fell

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON
(Second in a series)

There were 3,920 arrests of juveniles in Marin County last year, compared to 5,204 in 1963.

These figures are contained in "Crime in California," a comprehensive statistical report prepared by the Bureau of Criminal Statistics of the State Department of Justice.

The same year that saw this 24.7 per cent decline in juvenile arrests saw a 32.5 per cent increase in the felony crime rate in Marin — second highest increase in the state—and an 8.6 per cent increase in arrests of adults on felony charges.

There is, of course, no way to assess how much of the increased crime was by juveniles, if any. Evidence left at the scene of the crime rarely includes anything that tells the age of the perpetrator.

Statewide, however, last year saw a 10.3 per cent increase in juvenile arrests, along with a 10 per cent increase in felony crime—almost identical rates.

The state report does not explain Marin's sharp departure from the norm, although it does make note of it.

Leaving that aside for the moment, who made the juvenile arrests in Marin County, and what became of them?

The 3,020 juvenile arrests in Marin in '64 included 468 for major offenses, all of which would be felonies if committed by adults; 658 arrests for minor offenses, most of which would be misdemeanors, and 2,794 for "delinquent tendencies."

The sheriff's department made 1,401 arrests of juveniles; San Rafael police, 1,037; Novato police, 518; San Anselmo police, 424; Fairfax police, 154; Larkspur police, 116; Sausalito police, 111; Mill Valley police, 69; Corte Madera police, 57; Belvedere police, 31, and Ross police, two.

Of the 468 juvenile arrests for major offenses, 205 were by the sheriff's office, with police departments accounting for the following: San Rafael, 111; Novato, 43; Sausalito, 27; Mill Valley and San Anselmo, each 20; Corte Madera and Larkspur, each 14; Belvedere and Fairfax, each seven; Ross, none.

"Crime in California" reports dispositions of juvenile arrests in three categories: (1) handled within the police (or sheriff's) department; (2) referred to other agencies, not the county probation department, and (3) referred to the probation department and juvenile court.

The first category includes cases let off with a warning to the youth and/or his parents. The second includes principally persons turned over to other law enforcement agencies who might have a graver charge against them, and the third, those who follow the route through probation department and juvenile court.

Statewide, 51.2 per cent of the juvenile arrest cases last year were handled within the arresting department, with 44 per cent going to juvenile court. Most of those arrested for major crimes (71.1 per cent) went the court route.

Handling of the cases in Marin County showed rather wide variation among the enforcement agencies.

The sheriff's office disposed of a major percentage within the department itself—1,078 of the 1,401 it arrested. It sent only 283 to court.

Belvedere police sent all the 31 juveniles arrested to the probation department; Corte Madera sent 37 out of 57; Fairfax, 37 of 154; Larkspur, 50 of 116; Mill Valley, 64 of 69; Novato, 160 of 518; Ross, one of two; San Anselmo, 100 of 424; San Rafael, 378 of 1,037, and Sausalito, 45 of 111.

It appears obvious that some departments made a far greater percentage of arrests for mere "delinquent tendencies," and probable that other departments disposed of many such cases with mere informal warnings that were not made part of official reports.

As to what happened to the juveniles turned over to probation department and courts, the state made no figures available.

(Next: How does Marin's crime rate compare with other counties?)

By THERON NEWELL

Diablo, De Long Avenues Plan Is Joint Effort By City, State

The Public Works Department of the city of Novato and the Division of Highways are working out plans to straighten out the intersection of Highway 101 and Diablo-De Long avenues.

This intersection has long been a source of irritation for motorists who have to make a ridiculous left turn to make a right turn onto the highway. It has been a bottleneck for that reason, and also for the traffic going straight ahead to Front street tying up the traffic coming off the highway.

THE NEW plans call for straightening out Diablo Avenue; moving the traffic lights approximately 100 feet to the south, and bringing De Long Avenue that far south to meet it.

This will leave the present De Long Avenue from the top of the hill west of the community house to Highway 101 as a useless piece of road. The city council last Tuesday set Nov. 23 for a public hearing on vacating this portion of the street.

Douglas M. Christensen, who purchased the Grant School property from the Division of Highways, would like to see De Long Avenue placed in its new alignment so he can proceed with the development of the old school property. The portion of De Long to be vacated lies adjacent to his property.

ALL THIS RAISES a question. Should Novato just vacate the street and let Christensen have the approximately 5,000 square feet of the present road? Or should the city go ahead and develop a little green belt park with benches on it, which would be near the community house and the city business district.

There are four beautiful tall pine trees on the side of the present road, which would help with the natural landscaping of it as a green belt. Some members of the Novato Civic Foundation, the non-profit organization devoted to getting parks for Novato, feels that this area should be kept by the city for a small park.

SOMETIMES CITY councils talk endlessly and around in circles. The Novato City Council was in this mood last Tuesday when it considered lending its support to a request by the city of Long Beach that the state make it a felony to use Molotov cocktails. A few minutes later, it was considering lending its support to Supervisor Thomas Storer's request that the state make a study of using ferry boats for commuter traffic.

The talk was so meaningless that the press representatives were not sure, but it sounded as if the council favored outlawing ferry boats in Long Beach if Molotov was serving cocktails on them.

Tam Master Plan Awaits Passage Of Bond Issue

(First of Four Articles)

Twice postponed, the next stage of the Tamalpais High School District master plan awaits voter approval of a $5,750,000 bond issue in a Nov. 16 special election.

The money would be used to complete Redwood High School in Larkspur-Corte Madera (adding 900 students to that school's capacity) and to build the first stage of a new high school in the San Geronimo Valley.

Trustees of the district held off on the bond proposal while two unification issues were being decided—and defeated—in June, 1964, and April of this year.

Although trustees and architects have readied plans and permits, it will still take two years after money becomes available before students can occupy the new premises. If voters give the proposal the two-thirds majority required for passage, it will be September, 1967, before doors swing open.

During that two year wait, this is what will happen, according to Supt. Chester G. Carlisle of the Tamalpais district:

Based upon recent enrollment figures in the 11 elementary school districts feeding the tamalpais secondary system, more than 1,450 students will be ready to enter high school in 1966 and 1967.

In addition to these students now on hand, an unknown number will enter district high schools as their parents take up residence in Marin.

Ignoring this second group of "immigrants," enrollment in the three district high schools, based on current residency, will total nearly 5,500 in 1966 and nearly 6,000 in 1967.

Tamalpais, Redwood and Drake high schools are now operating near or over capacity. In the 1965-66 school year there are 5,457 students attending these three schools with rated total capacity of 5,375.

Redwood High is 51 students short of its capacity of 2,100. Tam is just 33 short of its 1,800 capacity. Drake, rated by a Stanford University survey with a capacity of 1,475, this year has 1,641 enrolled.

Crowded classrooms and science lab facilities, jammed workshops and physical education layouts are the rule for students and for their teachers.

At Drake particularly, when the bell rings, corridors become bottlenecks, lunch at the canteen is an exercise in impatience, student body meetings in the gymnasium leave an overflow seated uncomfortably on the floor.

Of 46 classrooms at Drake, Principal Harold Allison reports, 43 are used by two or more teachers. This means a constant shuttling of the faculty, carting materials to the next class. It means a minimum of preparatory time for instructors, often in subjects like the arts and sciences where setting up materials eats into teaching time.

The same sort of pressures are approaching at Tamalpais and Redwood high schools.

(Tomorrow: What will the bond proposal provide?)

Halloween Party

The Larkspur-Corte Madera School Parent-Teacher Assn. will sponsor a Halloween carnival at that school Friday from 7 to 8:30 p.m. The carnival will include a costume parade at 7:30 p.m. and a variety of booths.

Council To Hear Parking Report

Report on a parking study on Grant Avanue is to be presented to the Novato City Council at its meeting at 8 p.m. today in the Novato Community House.

The council will consider an appeal by E. H. Chapman, contractor for the city's San Marin fire station, from the requirement that he pay a building permit fee.

Edward H. Adams, parks and recreation director, will report on prograss toward acquiring four park sites. City Mgr. J. Julien Baget will present a proposal for a city personnel classification and salary survey.

MORRIE RYSKIND

There's A Right-Wing Plot To Probe India Rhinoceros

The air already crackles with horrendous exposures of righ-wing conspiracies: One would attempt to coerce ministers, while in the pulpit, to preach from the Gospel instead of the Democratic platform; another seeks to force the P-TA to stick to the projects it was organized for and eschew politics.

Yet I have unearthed still another, this one of such menacing proportions that it calls for the attention of all nonviolent groups, especially Dr. Robert Hutchins and his Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions at Santa Barbara.

THE CENTER, as you doubtless know, is really a navel observatory where the Doctor and his Little Group of Serious Thinkers (as Don Marquis would have termed them) sit around and observe their navels while ruminating on the ills of the outside world. When one of the brain trust achieves nirvana, he issues a pronouncement which is immediately broadcast to a palpitating universe and becomes standard doctrine for eggheads who hope one day to be tapped by Dr. Hutchins to join his fraternity and then live happily ever after on the tax-free funds of the Ford Foundation.

I myself am not much of a navel-watcher, having gone on the theory that when you've seen one, you've seen 'em all. But then I was brought up in an uncultured era when the schools stuck mainly to the three Rs. As one incisive critic has just charged in a letter to the editor, my second-grade class — unlike her children's —left me in complete ignorance of what a pterodactyl was.

THAT ACCUSATION, regrettably, is beyond refutation. For that was a Puritanical age, and pterodactyls were not deemed a fit subject for second-graders. All I ever learned about them I picked up from the older boys on the block—and you know how wrong they can be.

Yet, though I lack a formal education, I know a Fascist scheme when I see one. What makes this one so particularly insidious is that it is being put over in the name of a good cause and might, without my eagle eye, have gone unnoticed.

Slipped into our current foreign aid appropriations is an item for $82,155 for "investigation of the rhinoceros" in India. On the surface, it is innocent enough and many voted for it unsuspectingly.

But clearly the phrasing is right-wing. Had a genuine liberal inserted that item, it would have read something like "for slum clearance among India's underprivileged rhinoceroses."

But no — "investigation," if you please, of the rhinoceros. The very wording carries the brazen innuendo that Indian rhinos are, per se, subversive. Otherwise, why investigate? And we know from our own bitter experience that such investigations tend to become inquisitions.

SOME WRETCHED informer — probably an Indian FBI agent — will testify he has often seen Rhino A in the company of Rhino B, whose uncle comes from Pakistan and is, therefore, "un-Indian." And thus, by the vicious technique of "guilt by association," not only will A and B suffer obloguy as "subversives," but odium will attach to any rhinos who, no matter how innocently, wallowed in the same muddy waters with them.

It is, too, a covert attack upon India's religion, which respects animal life. For start with the rhino, and how long will it be before the smear extends to the sacred cows.

AND HOW LONG before the right-wing Establishment uses this as propaganda material in America so that the rhinos in our own zoos (who didn't ask to come here) are regarded with suspicion and perhaps sent back to their homelands as undesirable aliens?

I can almost foresee the leading editorial in National Review and similar extremist organs. They will point out that the African rhino has two horns, while the Indian has but one: and, instead of trying to equalize things by giving him another horn, they will say that his defect is due to lack of initiative and his unwillingness to support free enterprise.

If American money is thus to be used to promote McCarthyism in India, surely we cannot stand idly by. So sound the trumpet from Santa Barbara, Dr. Hutchins, in defense of your fellow navel-observers in India! And sound it soon!

Next Legislature Should Expand Tam Park Lands

Not much can be done during this special legislative session for acquisition of land to expand Mount Tamalpais State Park.

However, the next chance for approval of the land acquisition will come when the legislative budget session opens next February.

We are encouraged to note that our legislators are already looking ahead to the coming session, drumming up support for Mount Tamalpais expansion.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, who tried unsuccessfully to get the Governor to put park acquisition as an item for the current special session, has written letters to legislators in the Bay Area.

"My point in writing at this time is simply to alert you to the necessity for continued interest and legislative pressure leading to acquisition of this particular land," Bagley writes. "Please do all you can to assist me in seeing that this project, to be recommended by Beaches and Parks personnel, will be approved by the Legislature at our next budget session."

Financing will come from the $150 million park bond issue voted by the people last November.

The proposal for the Mount Tamalpais State Park expansion involves state acquisition of the area known as Frank's Valley adjacent to Muir Woods National Monument.

Acquisition of surplus military land for Marin Headlands State Park is already in progress. Appropriation for purchase of 320 acres of the military land was made at the last session.

This, and the Mount Tamalpais expansion, are included in the long range plan for a single state park from the Golden Gate to Point Reyes National Seashore.

This recreation area is of more than countywide interest. In Governor Brown's own words, "The project is considered the best opportunity of providing high-quality outdoor recreation to meet the population pressures generated in the San Francisco Bay metropolitan area."

We count on Bay Area legislators to join with Assemblyman Bagley and Sen. John F. McCarthy in supporting the expansion of Mount Tamalpais State Park next February.

DIETER LOSES RECORD POUNDAGE

One man who started on a diet didn't stop until he had lost 570 pounds.

The Georgia-born wrestler reduced from 802 to a trim 232 by manfully sticking to a rigid diet prescribed by doctors in Augusta.

When asked how he lost the astounding quarter of a ton, the man replied: "There's a heap more will power connected with it than anything else."

The old adage, "Where there's a will, there's a way" applies in many areas besides dieting. Perseverance can lead to success, even when the going is far from easy.

Will power can be developed in many ways. First we need high goals—ideals worth aiming for. Single-minded purpose helps us to concentrate on our task.

A sense of mission, by which we think, pray and act in behalf of others for love of God Himself, provides motivation that is second to none.

In the long run, the things we value the most are those we work hardest for.

"He who has persevered to the end will be saved." (Matthew 10:22)

Give me the vision to see things as You see them, O Lord, and the strength to carry out my task as You will.

Job Training Courses In State Total 1,911 Under Federal Act

By EDWIN S. CAPPS

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—Does it take more training to become a nursing aide, a chambermaid or a janitor?

According to some new schools just announced, under the national Manpower Development and Training Act, the janitor training is tops. Of course, the job title is not janitor.

The department of employment said the position is referred to as a porter in the San Francisco Bay Area but, in southern California, they're known as floor maintenance mechanics.

THE DEPARTMENT recently announced federal approval of 33 more vocational training classes in California. They will acccommodate 796 trainees. The courses ranged from licensed vocational nurses, to hotel clerks to waiters and waitresses.

The course in janitoring will be conducted by the Palo Alto adult education department and will consist of 30 hours a week for 13 weeks. The department said the course will be entirely classroom study, with no actual training with the broom, mop or dust cloth.

"SOME OF THE requests for janitorial help indicate the employers want persons with a basic education," a department spokesman said. "He needs to know how to read and write and follow instructions. Sometimes they may have to use poisonous cleaning elements and must be able to read the labels."

SOME OF THE OTHER training courses just approved include: licensed vocational nurse, Glendale College, 50 weeks at 32 hours a week; hotel clerk, at College of the Desert, Riverside, 13 weeks, 30 hours a week, and at Riverside Business College, 10 weeks, 30 hours a week; plant wireman, Adult Day School, Oakland, one class for 49 weeks, 30 hours a week, others for 30 weeks at 35 hours a week.

Clerk-typist, Adult Day School, Oakland, 46 weeks, 35 hours; shipping and receiving clerks, also Oakland, 31, 35-hour weeks; general clerk, also Oakland, 10, 30-hour weeks; waiter and waitress, Monterey Peninsula College, Salinas, 18 weeks at 35 hours a week; phone operator, John Adams Adult School, San Francisco, 49 weeks, at 35 hours a week; and nurse's aid, San Jose Adult Education Department, six weeks, 30 hours a week, and College of Marin, Kentfield, seven weeks, 30 hours a week.

Persons enrolling in the courses are paid subsistence ranging from $45 to $60 per week. Courses are developed on the basis of job surveys conducted by the department.

The Salinas waiter and waitress training course is a unique one. The program has leased a downtown restaurant building, where courses also are being given for chefs and cooks. The trainees actually operate a restaurant, on several levels.

There is a drive-in, a regular restaurant and others are given training in serving gourmet banquets. Only customers of the restaurant, if they choose, are students at the Monterey Peninsula College.

Approval of the 33 new MDTA courses brought to a total of 1,911 the courses approved for California. To date, 26,175 trainees have been enrolled in the program.

The department keeps a check on the trainees when they leave the school, at three, six and 12 month intervals. One check showed about 75 per cent of the trainees entered jobs in that field and about half of them still were in jobs related to the training a year later.

Reporter Praised By Schools Unit

Editor, Independent-Journal:

At the request of our board of directors, I am writing to express our appreciation to the I-J and to its reporter Robert Strebeigh for the excellent coverage given to our recent workshop at Granada School on financing quality education.

The problems of school finance and tax reform are of deep concern to our school trustees in Marin County. We feel there is a real need to provide relevant facts in these critical areas to our citizens. We hope the I-J will continue to do its part by providing its readers with meaningful information on these vital subjects.

Americans Should Stop Communism

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I would like to remind certain people of a few words taken from our late President John F. Kennedy's inaugural address:

"It is not what your country can do for you, but what you can do for your country."

As one fellow stationed in Viet Nam put it:

"We know it is our job to be here, we are fighting not only because it is our duty, but because we love our families too much to ever want to live under communism.

"What is bugging us is the peace groups, Viet Nam Day group, the left wing groups and the citizens who are naive and have the careless attitude —'it never can happen here'."

I know that I will be called and have been called an alarmist, but I can remember when I was growing up hearing about the Japanese and how they were preparing to take over the United States. Well, if the same attitude of the people prevailed then as it does today, we wouldn't be sitting here, fat, dumb and happy sponsoring communists.

Let us all return to the old-fashioned idea of being patriotic and instead of giving aid and comfort to our enemy, let us back Uncle Sam and our men . . . If ever there was a time to practice what our late President preached, it is now. . . . Think of the lives that have been lost in the military since 1945 because of communism. My husband's life was one of these . . . We do not like to think that he gave his life in vain.

Communism is not a "fantastic story" as a person once stated to me. It is real, it is happening and it can happen here.

Think—stamp out communism—stop encouraging it.

Viet Opinion Is Divided

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Gen. Maxwell Taylor decried the Viet Nam day protests because he was afraid the communists (and the rest of the world) would think that there was "some division of opinion" on American (military) foreign policy in Southeast Asia! What a tragic laugh. There d--- well IS a division of opinion! As 15,000 serious and patriotic Americans marched in Berkeley to protest our undeclared war, a pitiful few hecklers obscenely defended the Administration policy with crude and inane epithets. On the following day, Johnson's war was gloriously supported by the "Hell's Angels."

Sanity demands that we stop bombing now. Sanity demands that we negotiate with the Viet Cong now for a peaceful election and eventual U.S. withdrawal.

America Discoverer Was Naked Savage

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Every year about this time there is a renewed bubbling of that tempest in a teapot about who discovered America first, Columbus or Ericson, though it is pretty generally agreed now that Leif beat Chris to our shores. However, it has also been proved that the Phoenicians, the Romans, the Chinese, the Irish (a whole colony of monks) and even other Vikings, were here long before either.

And did you know that Columbus expected to meet a king or some other high government officials when he landed in the new world? Quote: "Soon after the cannon on the Pinta boomed to announce its arrival in what Columbus thought was an East Indian port, he decked himself in his finery and insignia as an admiral and viceroy. Then, wrapped in a big purple cloak, he had himself rowed ashore to greet whatever potentate he should find. He was greeted by nearly naked native Indians."

The very first discoverer of America was a Paleolithic-Mongoloid Asian hunter, who came during or after the Fourth Glaciation or, if you prefer, the last Ice Age. He came 10,000 years ago or 20 or 25, or 30 or even farther back in time. He came across, or around, the huge glacier, which engulfed a great part of North America but left Alaska ice-free. (I copied this last material from a book entitled "They All Discovered America").

Angels' Doings For Isvestia

Editor, Independent-Journal:

If the news editors of Pravda or Isvestia have any sense, they will use two local news items to score the propaganda coup of the decade.

These are:

1. The Hell's Angels thugs loudly protesting their 200 per cent Americanism.

2. The efforts of the hyperthyroid right to raise help for them.

All these Russian newsmen need to do is to give worldwide circulation to these two news events without editorial comment on their part.

San Rafael Merchants Best

Editor, Independent-Journal:

This letter is one I have been intending to write for some months. This is a tribute to the trades people of San Rafael.

As an Army family we have lived all over the world and on the whole have been most happy wherever we have lived. But there has never been, in our experience, any place quite like San Rafael. Without exception we found everyone we came in contact with during the year we lived there to be unfailingly courteous and helpful. This is most unique in this day and age of high pressure selling.

We left your area last May, and this letter has been on my mind all these months. In this way we thank them, for we feel the thanks are certainly in order.

Labor Will Work Hard To Win 1966 Congressional Friends

By NEIL GILBRIDE
(James Marlow is on vacation)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like President Johnson, organized labor has a vital stake in the 1966 congressional elections in trying to save the political hides of the current crop of new Democratic liberals.

Union chiefs, miffed at the poor record on labor legislation in the first half of the 89th Congress, really have no choice.

THEIR CHANCES of winning union shop, minimum wage, unemployment compensation and other labor measures could go glimmering next year if their liberal Democratic allies waver in the face of election year pressures.

"They'll be sitting ducks," said one labor spokesman of the 38 freshman House Democrats who last year ousted long-entrenched Republicans from Maine to California and then voted down the line for labor and the Johnson administration.

But it will be an uphill battle for Johnson and organized labor to prevent Republicans from recouping many of these seats.

NOT SINCE President Franklin D. Roosevelt and the Democrats pulled the trick in 1934 has the party in power bucked the historic trend of losing seats in Congress in a non-presidential election year.

AFL-CIO President George Meany already has sounded the call for labor to repeat its 1964 political blitz tactics on behalf of the Democrats next year.

LABOR SPOKESMEN admit however, it will be far more difficult to whip up flagging enthusiasm among dissappointed union men after failure to win the big fight to annul state power to ban union shop contracts — agreements under which all employees must join a union.

The 38 "sitting ducks" voted for the bill when it passed the House, but it was blocked by a Senate filibuster and pushed aside until next year.

Labor is also dissappointed that a bill to increase the present $1.25 federal minimum wage didn't at least get through the House.

OTHER LABOR measures were also pigeonholed until next year.

The AFL-CIO, convening in San Francisco in December, will start laying plans for a running start at keeping its friends in Congress after the 1966 elections.

Hoping to win the labor measures it failed to get this year, the AFL-CIO has compiled a confidential list of 51 Democrats who will get all-out labor support in 1966 — including two who voted against repeal of 14B — the union shop legislation — and one who didn't vote at all.

THE TWO ARE Rep. James A. MacKay of Georgia and Rep. Clair A. Callan of Nebraska—both from states with so-called right-to-work laws banning union shop contracts.

Labor forgave them their "no" votes on the basis of their record on other legislation favored by labor.

The man who didn't vote was Rep. Roy H. McVicker of Colorado, who went home to a sick wife during the union shopbattle. "He would have voted for repeal of 14B," an aide said.

Assassination Probe Account Demanded

BY ROBERT S. ALLEN AND PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The four congressional members of the special commission that investigated the assassination of President John F. Kennedy are asking for a financial accounting of the year-long inquiry.

No report has ever been submitted to the seven-member commission — which formally concluded its work in September 1964.

The bipartisan group of legislators (two Democrats, two Republicans) decided, after discussing the matter for some time, that a detailed financial accounting should be presented and made part of the official records of the commission.

IT WAS THEIR understanding this would be done before the commission disbanded. But for some unclear reason, nothing came of that.

So in identical letters to Chief Justice Earl Warren, chairman, and Lee Rankin, general counsel, who was solicitor general in the Eisenhower administration, the four congressional leaders have requested that the commission be reconvened for the express purpose of receiving and acting on a comprehensive financial statement.

They also proposed that an announcement be issued on the final disposition of the huge mass of documents, transcripts, exhibits and other material, and their availability for study by authorized individuals. This also has never been done.

All the commission's records are in the custody of the U.S. Archives, on historic Pennsylvania Avenue halfway between the Capitol and the White House.

The legislators are Senators Richard Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Armed Services Committee; John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., former ambassador to India; Representatives Hale Boggs, D-La., majority whip, and Gerald Ford, R-Mich., minority leader.

In addition to Chief Justice Warren, the other members are Allen Dulles, former head of the Central Intelligence Agency, and John McCloy, one-time chief of the World Bank.

On May 5 of this year, this column disclosed that the commission's year-long investigation had cost $1.2 million.

BIGGEST SINGLE expenditure was $556,500 for printing.

Second largest expenditure was $225,650, for "salaries and related benefits."

This information was contained in an unpublished "financial statement" compiled by the budget division of the General Services Administration.

There was no indication of the source of the $1.2 million in the GSA report. It was authoritatively understood the money came from contingency funds available to President Lyndon B. Johnson — who initiated the investigation and appointed the seven members.

The GSA report notes that "expenses of personnel detailed to the commission from other government agencies are not included in the above figures."

The FBI did a great deal of such work for the investigation. Commission sources have indicated that Rankin received around $35,000 as general counsel.

The commission's 888-page report is still in popular demand.

As of Oct. 1 of this year, the Government Printing Office has sold more than 142,000 copies for a total of $444,418. Significantly, of these sales, 116,164 were hard cover at $3.25; 26,754, paperback at $2.50.

In addition, the GPO has sold 1,684 sets of the 26-volume hearings at $76 a set for a total of $127,984.

Over-all total of these sales is $572,402.

In addition, 8,250 complete sets of findings and hearings were distributed free. This has never been officially revealed.

Diablo, De Long Avenues Plan Is Joint Effort By City, State

The Public Works Department of the city of Novato and the Division of Highways are working out plans to straighten out the intersection of Highway 101 and Diablo-De Long avenues.

This intersection has long been a source of irritation for motorists who have to make a ridiculous left turn to make a right turn onto the highway. It has been a bottleneck for that reason, and also for the traffic going straight ahead to Front street tying up the traffic coming off the highway.

THE NEW plans call for straightening out Diablo Avenue; moving the traffic lights approximately 100 feet to the south, and bringing De Long Avenue that far south to meet it.

This will leave the present De Long Avenue from the top of the hill west of the community house to Highway 101 as a useless piece of road. The city council last Tuesday set Nov. 23 for a public hearing on vacating this portion of the street.

Douglas M. Christensen, who purchased the Grant School property from the Division of Highways, would like to see De Long Avenue placed in its new alignment so he can proceed with the development of the old school property. The portion of De Long to be vacated lies adjacent to his property.

ALL THIS RAISES a question. Should Novato just vacate the street and let Christensen have the approximately 5,000 square feet of the present road? Or should the city go ahead and develop a little green belt park with benches on it, which would be near the community house and the city business district.

There are four beautiful tall pine trees on the side of the present road, which would help with the natural landscaping of it as a green belt. Some members of the Novato Civic Foundation, the non-profit organization devoted to getting parks for Novato, feels that this area should be kept by the city for a small park.

SOMETIMES CITY councils talk endlessly and around in circles. The Novato City Council was in this mood last Tuesday when it considered lending its support to a request by the city of Long Beach that the state make it a felony to use Molotov cocktails. A few minutes later, it was considering lending its support to Supervisor Thomas Storer's request that the state make a study of using ferry boats for commuter traffic.

The talk was so meaningless that the press representatives were not sure, but it sounded as if the council favored outlawing ferry boats in Long Beach if Molotov was serving cocktails on them.

There's A Right-Wing Plot To Probe India Rhinoceros

The air already crackles with horrendous exposures of righ-wing conspiracies: One would attempt to coerce ministers, while in the pulpit, to preach from the Gospel instead of the Democratic platform; another seeks to force the P-TA to stick to the projects it was organized for and eschew politics.

Yet I have unearthed still another, this one of such menacing proportions that it calls for the attention of all nonviolent groups, especially Dr. Robert Hutchins and his Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions at Santa Barbara.

THE CENTER, as you doubtless know, is really a navel observatory where the Doctor and his Little Group of Serious Thinkers (as Don Marquis would have termed them) sit around and observe their navels while ruminating on the ills of the outside world. When one of the brain trust achieves nirvana, he issues a pronouncement which is immediately broadcast to a palpitating universe and becomes standard doctrine for eggheads who hope one day to be tapped by Dr. Hutchins to join his fraternity and then live happily ever after on the tax-free funds of the Ford Foundation.

I myself am not much of a navel-watcher, having gone on the theory that when you've seen one, you've seen 'em all. But then I was brought up in an uncultured era when the schools stuck mainly to the three Rs. As one incisive critic has just charged in a letter to the editor, my second-grade class — unlike her children's —left me in complete ignorance of what a pterodactyl was.

THAT ACCUSATION, regrettably, is beyond refutation. For that was a Puritanical age, and pterodactyls were not deemed a fit subject for second-graders. All I ever learned about them I picked up from the older boys on the block—and you know how wrong they can be.

Yet, though I lack a formal education, I know a Fascist scheme when I see one. What makes this one so particularly insidious is that it is being put over in the name of a good cause and might, without my eagle eye, have gone unnoticed.

Slipped into our current foreign aid appropriations is an item for $82,155 for "investigation of the rhinoceros" in India. On the surface, it is innocent enough and many voted for it unsuspectingly.

But clearly the phrasing is right-wing. Had a genuine liberal inserted that item, it would have read something like "for slum clearance among India's underprivileged rhinoceroses."

But no — "investigation," if you please, of the rhinoceros. The very wording carries the brazen innuendo that Indian rhinos are, per se, subversive. Otherwise, why investigate? And we know from our own bitter experience that such investigations tend to become inquisitions.

SOME WRETCHED informer — probably an Indian FBI agent — will testify he has often seen Rhino A in the company of Rhino B, whose uncle comes from Pakistan and is, therefore, "un-Indian." And thus, by the vicious technique of "guilt by association," not only will A and B suffer obloguy as "subversives," but odium will attach to any rhinos who, no matter how innocently, wallowed in the same muddy waters with them.

It is, too, a covert attack upon India's religion, which respects animal life. For start with the rhino, and how long will it be before the smear extends to the sacred cows.

AND HOW LONG before the right-wing Establishment uses this as propaganda material in America so that the rhinos in our own zoos (who didn't ask to come here) are regarded with suspicion and perhaps sent back to their homelands as undesirable aliens?

I can almost foresee the leading editorial in National Review and similar extremist organs. They will point out that the African rhino has two horns, while the Indian has but one: and, instead of trying to equalize things by giving him another horn, they will say that his defect is due to lack of initiative and his unwillingness to support free enterprise.

If American money is thus to be used to promote McCarthyism in India, surely we cannot stand idly by. So sound the trumpet from Santa Barbara, Dr. Hutchins, in defense of your fellow navel-observers in India! And sound it soon!

Tam Master Plan Awaits Passage Of Bond Issue

(First of Four Articles)

Twice postponed, the next stage of the Tamalpais High School District master plan awaits voter approval of a $5,750,000 bond issue in a Nov. 16 special election.

The money would be used to complete Redwood High School in Larkspur-Corte Madera (adding 900 students to that school's capacity) and to build the first stage of a new high school in the San Geronimo Valley.

Trustees of the district held off on the bond proposal while two unification issues were being decided—and defeated—in June, 1964, and April of this year.

Although trustees and architects have readied plans and permits, it will still take two years after money becomes available before students can occupy the new premises. If voters give the proposal the two-thirds majority required for passage, it will be September, 1967, before doors swing open.

During that two year wait, this is what will happen, according to Supt. Chester G. Carlisle of the Tamalpais district:

Based upon recent enrollment figures in the 11 elementary school districts feeding the tamalpais secondary system, more than 1,450 students will be ready to enter high school in 1966 and 1967.

In addition to these students now on hand, an unknown number will enter district high schools as their parents take up residence in Marin.

Ignoring this second group of "immigrants," enrollment in the three district high schools, based on current residency, will total nearly 5,500 in 1966 and nearly 6,000 in 1967.

Tamalpais, Redwood and Drake high schools are now operating near or over capacity. In the 1965-66 school year there are 5,457 students attending these three schools with rated total capacity of 5,375.

Redwood High is 51 students short of its capacity of 2,100. Tam is just 33 short of its 1,800 capacity. Drake, rated by a Stanford University survey with a capacity of 1,475, this year has 1,641 enrolled.

Crowded classrooms and science lab facilities, jammed workshops and physical education layouts are the rule for students and for their teachers.

At Drake particularly, when the bell rings, corridors become bottlenecks, lunch at the canteen is an exercise in impatience, student body meetings in the gymnasium leave an overflow seated uncomfortably on the floor.

Of 46 classrooms at Drake, Principal Harold Allison reports, 43 are used by two or more teachers. This means a constant shuttling of the faculty, carting materials to the next class. It means a minimum of preparatory time for instructors, often in subjects like the arts and sciences where setting up materials eats into teaching time.

The same sort of pressures are approaching at Tamalpais and Redwood high schools.

(Tomorrow: What will the bond proposal provide?)

Halloween Party

The Larkspur-Corte Madera School Parent-Teacher Assn. will sponsor a Halloween carnival at that school Friday from 7 to 8:30 p.m. The carnival will include a costume parade at 7:30 p.m. and a variety of booths.

Report on a parking study on Grant Avanue is to be presented to the Novato City Council at its meeting at 8 p.m. today in the Novato Community House.

The council will consider an appeal by E. H. Chapman, contractor for the city's San Marin fire station, from the requirement that he pay a building permit fee.

Edward H. Adams, parks and recreation director, will report on prograss toward acquiring four park sites. City Mgr. J. Julien Baget will present a proposal for a city personnel classification and salary survey.

UNICEF Playday Set For Children Friday

Marin youngsters wearing Halloween costumes will gather at the Tamalpais Theater in San Anselmo from 4 to 5:30 p.m., Friday, for the Marin UNICEF Playday.

Laura Weber of KQED will sing folk songs, and children will see "The Golden Fish," the film which was directed by Edmond Sechan, also director of the award-winning movie, "The Red Balloon." Jack Hansen will be master of ceremonies.

The program will be sponsored by the Marin UNICEF Committee and the 14th district Parent-Teacher Assn., Pixie Parents and the Council of Cooperative Nurseries.

Proceeds from donations and from sale of games, calendars and cards will go to UNICEF.

Hospital Board To Award Plaques

The Marin Hospital District board, meeting at 7 p.m. today in Marin General Hospital, will award plaques honoring past board members.

A posthumous award, honoring the late Charles Rowe, will be presented to Mrs. Rowe. Paul Kent, Ernest N. Kettenhofen and Herman J. Hale will also receive plaques. The board will also hear a progress report on the mental health facilities.

Study Slated By Preserve Zoning Group

Directors of the Marin County Farm Bureau yesterday named a committee to further study agricultural preserve zoning.

The committee is to meet Friday with Douglas Maloney, county counsel.

Named to the committee were Fred Turza of Fallon, William Barboni of Hicks Valley, Roy Parks and James A. Marshall of Tomales.

Donald Collins of the California Farm Bureau Federation research department at Berkeley, discussed the proposed agricultural preserve agreements with the directors at the bureau's regular board meeting.

It was announced that the annual Dairy Herd Improvement Assn. meeting will be held at 8 p.m., Nov. 4. at the Point Reyes Community House.

Landscape Plan

The Corte Madera Park and Recreation Commission, meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in the town hall, will be asked to approve a landscaping plan for the remodeled town hall.

Inmates Plan To Play Santa

Inmates at San Quentin Prison can play Santa Claus to the folks back home this Christmas, but they must limit their buying to two mail order houses.

Warden Lawrence E. Wilson announced prisoners who have sufficient funds in their accounts may place orders for Christmas gifts selected from Montgomery Ward and Sears-Roebuck catalogues.

There was no explanation of what the prison has against Spiegel's.

DAD'S DREAM
Time we give a thought to Dad
He's wanted a workshop since a lad
A separate room — where he putters and bangs
And where his dearest trophy hangs.
For Mother—here's a kitchen great
3 bedrooms and a den, to state
Only a few of the features here
To stores and school so very near.
Wood paneled rooms thruout the home
Warmth from the fireplace — you'll never roam.
$27,000

PROMISE HER ANYTHING
But give her a paintbrush.
You know she can do it
Bring out the buckets and make her stick to it
Two bedrooms waiting—a den and a view
A large living room and a dining room too
The price is so low there's no way to lose
A Chapman Hill Special, there's no time to snooze.
Snap $21,500

DISTRESSED
Because I must be sold
3 bedrooms, 2 baths, three years old
I boast a view—seclusion too
Built-in kitchen, decks of two
2 car attached garage
$32,500 and no mirage.

DAD'S DREAM
Time we give a thought to Dad
He's wanted a workshop since a lad
A separate room — where he putters and bangs
And where his dearest trophy hangs.
For Mother—here's a kitchen great
3 bedrooms and a den, to state
Only a few of the features here
To stores and school so very near.
Wood paneled rooms thruout the home
Warmth from the fireplace — you'll never roam.
$27,000

PROMISE HER ANYTHING
But give her a paintbrush.
You know she can do it
Bring out the buckets and make her stick to it
Two bedrooms waiting—a den and a view
A large living room and a dining room too
The price is so low there's no way to lose
A Chapman Hill Special, there's no time to snooze.
Snap $21,500

DISTRESSED
Because I must be sold
3 bedrooms, 2 baths, three years old
I boast a view—seclusion too
Built-in kitchen, decks of two
2 car attached garage
$32,500 and no mirage.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE
No. 77977-JFB

On Monday, the 1st day of November, 1965, at the hour of 2:00 o'clock P.M., of said day, at the Fourth Street entrance to the Court House in the City of San Rafael, County of Marin, State of California, MARIN TITLE GUARANTY COMPANY, a corporation, as trustee, will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash, in lawful money of the United States, all payable at the time of sale, the following described real property, situated in the County of Marin, State of California, and described as follows, to-wit:

COMMENCING at a point on the Northeasterly line of Lot 125 as shown on that certain map entitled, "Subdivision A and B of the Novato Ranch, Marin County, California," filed November 18, 1909, in Map Book 3, page 36, Marin County Records; distant thereon North 60° 45' West 250 feet from the Northeasterly corner of said lot; and running thence South 29° 15' West 132 feet and North 60° 45' West 80 feet to the Northwesterly line of said lot; thence along said line North 29° 15' East 132 feet to the most Northerly corner of said lot and thence South 60° 45' East 80 feet to the point of commencement.

Said sale will be made without covenant or warranty regarding title, possession or encumbrances to satisfy the obligation secured by and pursuant to the power of sale conferred in a certain deed of trust executed by ELWIN E. BRIDGES and EDITH BRIDGES, his wife, who acquired title as EDITH J. BRIDGES, trustors, to MARIN TITLE GUARANTY COMPANY, a California corporation as trustee, for the benefit and security of CYRIL LA LANCET and PAULINE E. LA LANCET, his wife, dated November 28, 1962 and recorded December 5, 1962, in the office of the County Recorder of the County of Marin, State of California, in Liber 1637 of Official Records at page 187.

SUMMONS
No. 540536

In the Municipal Court in the City and County of San Francisco, State of California.
ABE FOLEY, Plaintiff vs.
DORIS MARCH, FIRST DOE, SECOND DOE, Defendants

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA to the above named Defendants:

The above named Plaintiff having brought action against you in the Municipal Court, in the City and County of San Francisco, State of California, by filing therein a complaint (copy of which is required to be served herewith):

YOU ARE HEREBY DIRECTED to appear at Room 300, City Hall, and answer (in writing) the said complaint within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this Summons, if served within this City and County, otherwise within thirty days. And you are hereby notified that unless you so appear and answer (in writing) the said complaint as above required, said Plaintiff will take judgment for any money or damages demanded in the complaint, as arising upon contract, or will apply to the Court for any other relief demanded in the complaint.

Given under my hand and seal of the Municipal Court in the City and County of San Francisco, State of California.

Dated July 2, 1965.

NOTICE OF SALE OF PROPERTY DELINQUENT FOR PAYMENT OF BOND NO. 119, SERIES "1958-1" ISSUED FOR THE IMPROVEMENT OF EAST SAN RAFAEL ASSESSMENT DISTRICT NO. 1

Default having been made in the payment of the following named coupons PRINCIPAL NOS. 7 and 8 — INTEREST NOS. 13 - 14 and 15 and the holder of said bond having demanded in writing that the Treasurer of the CITY OF SAN RAFAEL proceed to advertise and sell the lot or parcel of land mentioned in said bond.

NOW, THEREFORE, I GIVE NOTICE that I will on the 10th day of NOVEMBER, 1965, at the hour of 10:00 o'clock A.M. of said day, sell at public auction the lot or parcel of land mentioned in said bond, or so much thereof as may be necessary at SAN RAFAEL CITY HALL — 5TH AND A STREETS — SAN RAFAEL — CALIFORNIA.

Unless the amount due on said bond and the accrued interest thereon, together with the cost of the publication of this notice are paid; and that I will so sell the same to the person who will take the least amount of said lot or parcel of land and pay the full amount of unpaid principal and interest on said bond, together with costs of publication. The lot or parcel of land mentioned in said bond and to be sold, is more particularly described, to-wit:

EAST SAN RAFAEL ASSESSMENT DISTRICT NO. 1 — LOT 6 — BLOCK 8 TRACT 35-2-6.

The amount due on said bond up to the date of this Notice, is:

Due on the Principal thereof, ONE THOUSAND FOUR HUNDRED AND THIRTY FIVE AND 14/100 DOLLARS ($1,435.10)

Due on Account of Interest, ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY THREE AND 1/100 DOLLARS ($123.01)

Due on Account of Penalties, SEVENTEEN AND 95/100 DOLLARS ($17.95)

Total amount due on said bond: ONE THOUSAND FIVE HUNDRED AND SEVENTY SIX AND 10/100 DOLLARS ($1,576.10).

In order to avoid this sale, paying of the total amount above named will be required, together with the cost of publication made before such payment and the additional interest accruing up to the date of payment. Bond may be reinstated upon payment of the amounts due, interest, penalties, and fees, in the manner provided by law.

In the event of sale, such sale will include interest in addition to the above total amount due accruing up to date of sale, the cost of publication of notice of sale, and one dollar ($1.00) for the issuing of certificate of sale, the INDEPENDENT-JOURNAL is designated as the newspaper in which this notice shall be published.

DATED: OCTOBER 26TH, 1965.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Lazy Thyroid Can Wreak Havoc With Man's Work, Social Life

VAN DELLEN

A lazy thyroid can slow up the most vigorous individual and many things may happen unless the condition is recognized and treated. This is true when the manifestations are confined to the lack of thyroid stimulation on one or two organs.

One of our fine athletes was married in his late twenties. Three or four years later he began to fatigue more and more easily and became irritable, not only at work, but at home. He began to fall asleep in the middle of important business meetings. His wife noticed changes in his interest in her, an increasing tendency to be asocial, and a greater desire to sleep. Sex had all but vanished from their lives.

WHEN A vacation failed to help, he saw his physician who told him that he was going through an early male change of life (climacteric). Testosterone was given but the lethargy continued. The clue came when the skin became dry and puffiness of the face developed. A blood (PBI) and metabolism test were abnormal.

Thyroid extract made a new man of him in less than a month. He was alert and full of pep. The puffed dry skin on the face returned to normal and he was no longer grouchy.

An insurance salesman had a similar experience. He was on the way up in business when his work began to slip because of lack of energy and ambition. He needed a nap in the afternoon, gained weight despite a poor appetite, and complained of being cold even though the weather was warm. His skin and scalp became dry and the nails and hair were brittle.

THYROID EXTRACT also made a new man of him and within a few years he was eligible for the insurance industry's million-dollar club.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

NOSE BAND

H. T. writes: The tip of my nose droops and I was told that if I put an elastic band around my head, with the tip of my nose lifted back, the droopy part eventually would straighten out. What do you think of this idea?

REPLY

Not much. Elastic bands have many uses, but I do not think that propping up the nose is a good one. Plastic surgery is a better solution to your problem.

WHY THINK THE WORST?

C. R. writes: I'm developing white spots on the skin in different parts of the body. Could I have leprosy?

REPLY

Your description suggests vitiligo (leucodermal), a condition in which there is a patchy loss of skin pigment. Send a stamped, self-addresed envelope for leaflet on vitiligo.

DROOPY EYELIDS

G. B. writes: Every once in a while I have trouble keeping my eyelids from drooping and must force them open. How can I correct this disorder?

REPLY

If you are not sleepy, consult your physician because this may be an early indication of a nerve condition such as myasthenia gravis.

EAR TAPING

M. H. writes: Will taping back an infant's protruding ears help keep them back?

REPLY

Yes, while the tape is on but they will flap out again once it is removed. Plastic surgery offers the best cure.

WATER FOR CARDIACS

N. B. writes: Can a person with heart trouble drink all the water he wants?

REPLY

Yes, provided the heart is not failing and dropsy does not exist. Limit the intake of salt in these circumstances.

Today's Health Hint — Never manipulate hairpins or similar objects in the ear.

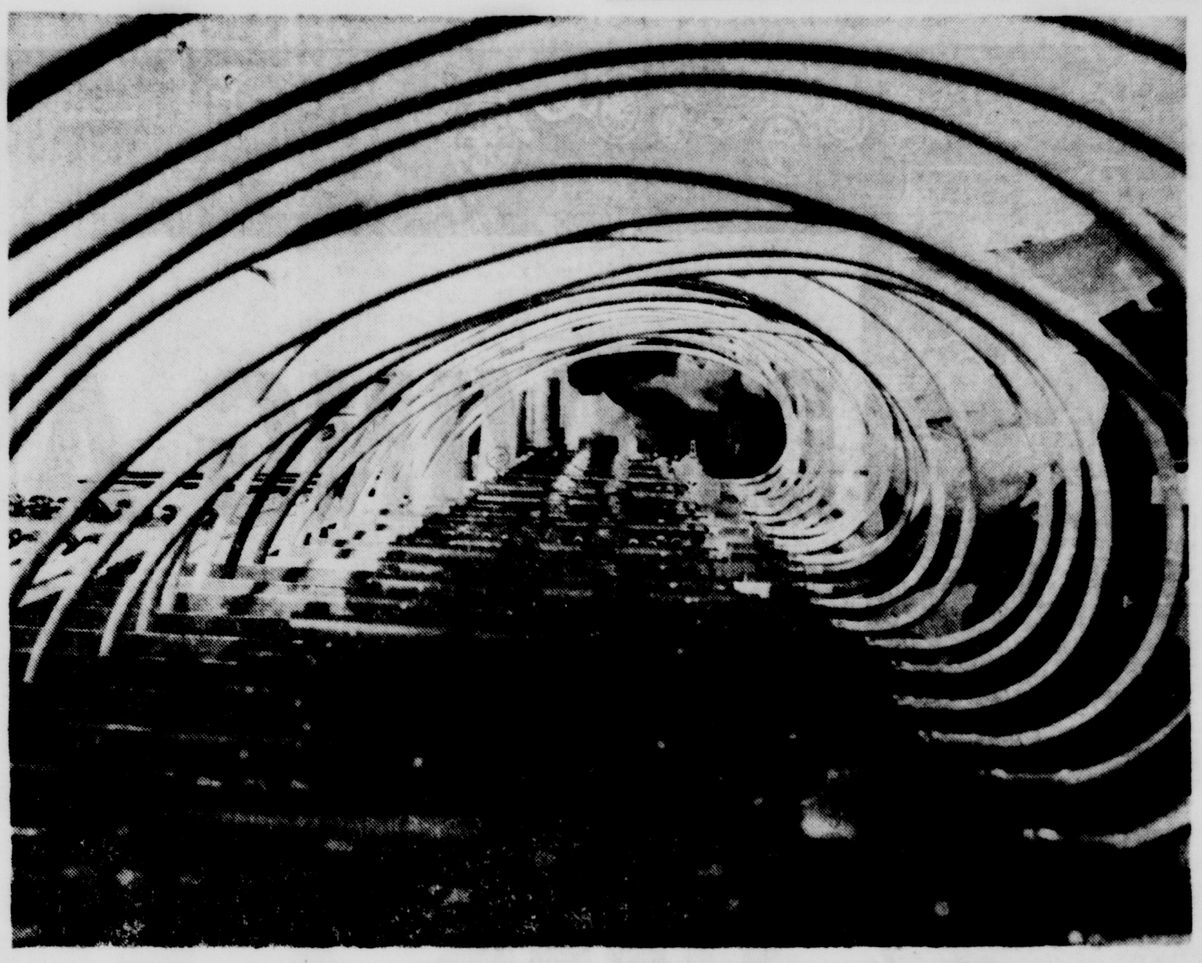
Encyclopedia Selling Illegal

San Anselmo police are investigating complaints that a woman is calling at homes in the area selling encyclopedias in violation of the city's new "Green River" anti-soliciting ordinance, Police Chief Raymond R. Buchignani said today.

A housewife reported the woman offers the books "free" providing the set is kept up-to-date with supplements amounting to $365.

Bonsai Chairmen

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Ashley of Kentfield have been named co-chairmen in Marin County for the seventh annual show of the Kusamura Bonsai Club, scheduled for Nov. 7 in the Art Gallery on Stanford University campus.



SPACE AGE EXPLOSIVES CHECKED

At Fairfield (Solano County) a technician for Explosives Technology, Inc., inspects a maze of special tubes loaded with Jetcord explosive material intended to separate Gemini capsules from their Titan boosters in future orbital launchings. The firm provides separation and destruct systems for Polaris, Minuteman, Saturn and other space and military hardware. The City of Fairfield and Fairfield-Suisun Chamber of Commerce will sponsor an open house Nov. 13, in honor of the community's newest industry.

Here's One Way To Run A Railroad

By EDWARD J. MOWERY
Advance News Service

ARCADE, N.Y.—Vista domes, snack bars, 150-mile-per-hour monorail streamliners, mergers and federal subsidies may eventually solve the nation's railroad problems.

But none of these gimmicks has appeal to the 165 stockholders of the venerable Arcade and Attica Railroad. Through sheer enterprise, the A&A is hauling freight, carrying passengers and making money with its 15-mile right-of-way in this Wyoming County dairy country, 40 miles from Buffalo.

As for government handouts to spruce up the line, A&A president Richard I. Cartwright, 71, vows it'll never happen. For two-score years, he's guided the tiny carrier through lush and belt-tightening periods, and maintained its proud independence.

"We'll carry around 50,000 passengers this year," Cartwright said. "And our balance sheet is in very good shape. No problems . . ."

The A&A story is one of intiative and perseverance. Founded in 1881, the little line ran out of steam during World War I upheavals in 1917, faced bankruptcy and oblivion. Farmers along its trackage took over and, with astounding community support, the A&A responded with a bounce.

By 1947, its then 371 stockholders acquired a diesel-electric locomotive to replace a second-hand steam engine and beefed up the freight volume. Shippers found the A&A had "muscle"—connections with the mighty Pennsylvania at Arcade, the New York Central and Erie at Attica.

And the line's progress got good exposure. Once a year, its farmer-owners piled their families into an A&A train for an express ride to the stockholders' festive meeting. They had a ball, with dinner on the "house."

The board then announced the size of dividends. Reversals, however, were on the horizon. Trucks began eating into the A&A's originating freight traffic. Passenger volume slipped. Washouts and industries' conversion to natural gas whittled proceeds from incoming coal.

The railroad retrenched by halting passenger traffic and reducing its 28-mile stretch to 15 miles—Arcade to North Java—which lopped off connections with the NYC and Erie. Then things brightened.

The road paid a $10 dividend in 1957, battled a $26,000 deficit through 1961 and decided on a bold move. With a steam engine and four coaches purchased from the Erie-Lackawanna, Cartwright resumed passenger service (excursions) in August, 1962, tallying 18,000 passengers by the end of the year.

Today the A&A boasts two diesel-electric and two steam locomotives, six steel coaches, one Pullman (circa Grover Cleveland), two cabooses and a flat-car. Its total personnel: four on the train crew, two in the shop, three on sections and three in the office. No unions. Harmonious employee-management relations prevail.

Beaming over popularity of the 90-minute, 15-mile round trip excursions on weekends from May to late October, Cartwright observed:

"We take passengers from Arcade to Curriers and entertain them en route with an accordionist. There's a hot dog stand and refreshments at Curriers. The Pullman car? It's very popular. We've restored it . . . like it was in 1886."

Business and professional men are now majority stockholders in the A&A, and its "book value" is $98,000. But you couldn't buy it for that. Without gimmicks, government handouts or luxury lures, the little carrier is prospering.

The recipe? The noted publication, Railway Age, says "nostalgia" is the A&A's chief stock in trade. And it adds:

"This is private enterprise in its purest form."

Chronic Alcoholic Gets Blame For Being Worst Road Menace

By CHARLES SCHAEFFER
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON — A California researcher has found evidence showing that the social drinker may not be the highway menace he is cracked up to be.

The real culprit in at least half the alcohol - related accidents killing drivers, passengers or pedestrians is turning out to be the chronic alcoholic.

Dr. Julian A. Waller, of the California Department of Public Health, offered new evidence of the alcoholic role in traffic accidents and a plan on how to curb these chronic offenders.

Autopsy findings, he said, reveal that a significant percentage of drivers and pedestrians killed in San Francisco over a two-year period had cirrhosis of the liver attributable to heavy drinking.

He told a national conference on "alcohol and accidental injury" here that the studies have "reasonably clinched" his theory that alcoholism rather than social drinking is the bigger highway problem.

Most anti-alcohol campaigns warn "If you drink, don't drive." The appeal is aimed mainly at social drinkers who presumably understand the message.

No wonder it hasn't worked if the big offenders are alcoholics, he told the conference which was sponsored by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Participants were urged by President Lyndon B. Johnson to try to reduce the "toll in human suffering" from all alcohol-linked problems.

Dr. Waller based his San Francisco study on the theory that if alcoholism is chiefly responsible for the highway massacre he would find more people with cirrhosis and fatty livers among highway fatalities. The fact that San Francisco routinely autopsies all traffic victims and records the blood alcohol level of those involved aided the study.

In the survey of those between 25 and 65 years doctors found alcohol levels that would declare at least half of them legally drunk. This level is 15/100 of one per cent alcohol content.

The researchers found cirrhotic or fatty livers in nearly two-thirds of those with that level of alcohol content who died within six hours after the accident.

In contrast, only 15 per cent of the alcohol-free fatalities had similar liver trouble.

Alcohol levels were lower in the older and younger groups. For example, there were traces of alcohol in about 78 per cent of the under-25 group, but in comparatively low volume. Dr. Waller theorized that even a little bit of drinking hinders the novice driver, while the older experienced driver can handle his cocktails better.

The public health official suggested a program he believes could identify at least half of the unknown alcoholic drivers over a 10-year period.

Early identification should be bolstered by improved laws on blood-alcohol tests, rehabilitation for alcoholic drivers, education for young drivers and a let-up on pat slogans that bounce off the alcoholic's befogged brain.

Chilling The Stomach Helps Some Peptic Ulcer Patients

By CHARLES SCHAEFFER
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON—"Deep freezing" has helped heal the peptic ulcers of half of a large group of patients treated at the Minnesota Medical center which pioneered the therapy.

Symptoms returned in about one third, and some 17 per cent of the group finally had to undergo surgery to achieve relief.

The latest results of the still-controversial technique of chilling the stomach from the inside to heal ulcers were reported by Dr. Harold O. Peterson to the annual meeting of the American Roentgen Ray Society here.

Dr. Peterson is chief of radiology at the University of Minnesota, where the freezing procedure was developed in 1961 by Dr. Owen Wagensteen. Peterson ran X-ray tests on a sampling of patients before and after freezing.

He said the Minnesota surgical team as of May had chilled the ulcers of 675 patients.

All felt better almost immediately, he said, because the cooling slowed the flow of irritating hydrochloric acid over the ulcer.

But most striking results were achieved in only about one-third of the patients. Their ulcers have healed and the patients have been freed from all diet restrictions except a ban on coffee and alcohol, he said.

Another 17 per cent have milder symptoms and lower acid production. "So about half (the patients) think it is great," Dr. Peterson said.

Ulcer freezing is accomplished by passing a compact stomach-shaped balloon down the esophagus. A coolant is shot through one tube into the balloon and returned by another tube.

Recently, the Wagensteen team substituted a safer silicone fluid as the coolant. There were fears that the regularly used alcohol might escape and poison the patient, though this never happened.

The cooling process at about 30 degrees fahrenheit takes about 30 minutes and is relatively painless.

All the patients undergoing the procedure were facing surgery after the failure of conventional therapy, such as bland diets and anti-acid medication. The idea behind freezing is to suppress the acid-secreting glands. With less irritation an ulcer tends to heal.

The freeze treatment fails if the glands reactivate and start pouring out excess acid. One patient, Dr. Peterson said, has undegone the stomach freeze eight times.

Over four years there has been just one death, which was probably not directly related to therapy, he said. The patient died of a thrombosis, or stroke-like complication.

Other complications include post-freeze bleeding and the appearance of gastric ulcers from the treatment in 27 patients.

Recently, Dr. Wagensteen told a European medical meeting that "both the virtues and limitations of this method are becoming increasingly apparent."

While the acomplishments to date are "modest," the number of patients who have been able to achieve improvement without surgery justifies its use, he said.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE
No. 77977-JFB

On Monday, the 1st day of November, 1965, at the hour of 2:00 o'clock P.M., of said day, at the Fourth Street entrance to the Court House in the City of San Rafael, County of Marin, State of California, MARIN TITLE GUARANTY COMPANY, a corporation, as trustee, will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash, in lawful money of the United States, all payable at the time of sale, the following described real property, situated in the County of Marin, State of California, and described as follows, to-wit:

COMMENCING at a point on the Northeasterly line of Lot 125 as shown on that certain map entitled, "Subdivision A and B of the Novato Ranch, Marin County, California," filed November 18, 1909, in Map Book 3, page 36, Marin County Records; distant thereon North 60° 45' West 250 feet from the Northeasterly corner of said lot; and running thence South 29° 15' West 132 feet and North 60° 45' West 80 feet to the Northwesterly line of said lot; thence along said line North 29° 15' East 132 feet to the most Northerly corner of said lot and thence South 60° 45' East 80 feet to the point of commencement.

Said sale will be made without covenant or warranty regarding title, possession or encumbrances to satisfy the obligation secured by and pursuant to the power of sale conferred in a certain deed of trust executed by ELWIN E. BRIDGES and EDITH BRIDGES, his wife, who acquired title as EDITH J. BRIDGES, trustors, to MARIN TITLE GUARANTY COMPANY, a California corporation as trustee, for the benefit and security of CYRIL LA LANCET and PAULINE E. LA LANCET, his wife, dated November 28, 1962 and recorded December 5, 1962, in the office of the County Recorder of the County of Marin, State of California, in Liber 1637 of Official Records at page 187.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Lazy Thyroid Can Wreak Havoc With Man's Work, Social Life

VAN DELLEN

A lazy thyroid can slow up the most vigorous individual and many things may happen unless the condition is recognized and treated. This is true when the manifestations are confined to the lack of thyroid stimulation on one or two organs.

One of our fine athletes was married in his late twenties. Three or four years later he began to fatigue more and more easily and became irritable, not only at work, but at home. He began to fall asleep in the middle of important business meetings. His wife noticed changes in his interest in her, an increasing tendency to be asocial, and a greater desire to sleep. Sex had all but vanished from their lives.

WHEN A vacation failed to help, he saw his physician who told him that he was going through an early male change of life (climacteric). Testosterone was given but the lethargy continued. The clue came when the skin became dry and puffiness of the face developed. A blood (PBI) and metabolism test were abnormal.

Thyroid extract made a new man of him in less than a month. He was alert and full of pep. The puffed dry skin on the face returned to normal and he was no longer grouchy.

An insurance salesman had a similar experience. He was on the way up in business when his work began to slip because of lack of energy and ambition. He needed a nap in the afternoon, gained weight despite a poor appetite, and complained of being cold even though the weather was warm. His skin and scalp became dry and the nails and hair were brittle.

THYROID EXTRACT also made a new man of him and within a few years he was eligible for the insurance industry's million-dollar club.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

NOSE BAND

H. T. writes: The tip of my nose droops and I was told that if I put an elastic band around my head, with the tip of my nose lifted back, the droopy part eventually would straighten out. What do you think of this idea?

REPLY

Not much. Elastic bands have many uses, but I do not think that propping up the nose is a good one. Plastic surgery is a better solution to your problem.

WHY THINK THE WORST?

C. R. writes: I'm developing white spots on the skin in different parts of the body. Could I have leprosy?

REPLY

Your description suggests vitiligo (leucodermal), a condition in which there is a patchy loss of skin pigment. Send a stamped, self-addresed envelope for leaflet on vitiligo.

DROOPY EYELIDS

G. B. writes: Every once in a while I have trouble keeping my eyelids from drooping and must force them open. How can I correct this disorder?

REPLY

If you are not sleepy, consult your physician because this may be an early indication of a nerve condition such as myasthenia gravis.

EAR TAPING

M. H. writes: Will taping back an infant's protruding ears help keep them back?

REPLY

Yes, while the tape is on but they will flap out again once it is removed. Plastic surgery offers the best cure.

WATER FOR CARDIACS

N. B. writes: Can a person with heart trouble drink all the water he wants?

REPLY

Yes, provided the heart is not failing and dropsy does not exist. Limit the intake of salt in these circumstances.

Today's Health Hint — Never manipulate hairpins or similar objects in the ear.

Here's One Way To Run A Railroad

By EDWARD J. MOWERY
Advance News Service

ARCADE, N.Y.—Vista domes, snack bars, 150-mile-per-hour monorail streamliners, mergers and federal subsidies may eventually solve the nation's railroad problems.

But none of these gimmicks has appeal to the 165 stockholders of the venerable Arcade and Attica Railroad. Through sheer enterprise, the A&A is hauling freight, carrying passengers and making money with its 15-mile right-of-way in this Wyoming County dairy country, 40 miles from Buffalo.

As for government handouts to spruce up the line, A&A president Richard I. Cartwright, 71, vows it'll never happen. For two-score years, he's guided the tiny carrier through lush and belt-tightening periods, and maintained its proud independence.

"We'll carry around 50,000 passengers this year," Cartwright said. "And our balance sheet is in very good shape. No problems . . ."

The A&A story is one of intiative and perseverance. Founded in 1881, the little line ran out of steam during World War I upheavals in 1917, faced bankruptcy and oblivion. Farmers along its trackage took over and, with astounding community support, the A&A responded with a bounce.

By 1947, its then 371 stockholders acquired a diesel-electric locomotive to replace a second-hand steam engine and beefed up the freight volume. Shippers found the A&A had "muscle"—connections with the mighty Pennsylvania at Arcade, the New York Central and Erie at Attica.

And the line's progress got good exposure. Once a year, its farmer-owners piled their families into an A&A train for an express ride to the stockholders' festive meeting. They had a ball, with dinner on the "house."

The board then announced the size of dividends. Reversals, however, were on the horizon. Trucks began eating into the A&A's originating freight traffic. Passenger volume slipped. Washouts and industries' conversion to natural gas whittled proceeds from incoming coal.

The railroad retrenched by halting passenger traffic and reducing its 28-mile stretch to 15 miles—Arcade to North Java—which lopped off connections with the NYC and Erie. Then things brightened.

The road paid a $10 dividend in 1957, battled a $26,000 deficit through 1961 and decided on a bold move. With a steam engine and four coaches purchased from the Erie-Lackawanna, Cartwright resumed passenger service (excursions) in August, 1962, tallying 18,000 passengers by the end of the year.

Today the A&A boasts two diesel-electric and two steam locomotives, six steel coaches, one Pullman (circa Grover Cleveland), two cabooses and a flatcar. Its total personnel: four on the train crew, two in the shop, three on sections and three in the office. No unions. Harmonious employee-management relations prevail.

Beaming over popularity of the 90-minute, 15-mile round trip excursions on weekends from May to late October, Cartwright observed:

"We take passengers from Arcade to Curriers and entertain them en route with an accordionist. There's a hot dog stand and refreshments at Curriers. The Pullman car? It's very popular. We've restored it . . . like it was in 1886."

Business and professional men are now majority stockholders in the A&A, and its "book value" is $98,000. But you couldn't buy it for that. Without gimmicks, government handouts or luxury lures, the little carrier is prospering.

The recipe? The noted publication, Railway Age, says "nostalgia" is the A&A's chief stock in trade. And it adds:

"This is private enterprise in its purest form."

Chronic Alcoholic Gets Blame For Being Worst Road Menace

By CHARLES SCHAEFFER
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON — A California researcher has found evidence showing that the social drinker may not be the highway menace he is cracked up to be.

The real culprit in at least half the alcohol - related accidents killing drivers, passengers or pedestrians is turning out to be the chronic alcoholic.

Dr. Julian A. Waller, of the California Department of Public Health, offered new evidence of the alcoholic role in traffic accidents and a plan on how to curb these chronic offenders.

Autopsy findings, he said, reveal that a significant percentage of drivers and pedestrians killed in San Francisco over a two-year period had cirrhosis of the liver attributable to heavy drinking.

He told a national conference on "alcohol and accidental injury" here that the studies have "reasonably clinched" his theory that alcoholism rather than social drinking is the bigger highway problem.

Most anti-alcohol campaigns warn "If you drink, don't drive." The appeal is aimed mainly at social drinkers who presumably understand the message.

No wonder it hasn't worked if the big offenders are alcoholics, he told the conference which was sponsored by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Participants were urged by President Lyndon B. Johnson to try to reduce the "toll in human suffering" from all alcohol-linked problems.

Dr. Waller based his San Francisco study on the theory that if alcoholism is chiefly responsible for the highway massacre he would find more people with cirrhosis and fatty livers among highway fatalities. The fact that San Francisco routinely autopsies all traffic victims and records the blood-alcohol level of those involved aided the study.

In the survey of those between 25 and 65 years doctors found alcohol levels that would declare at least half of them legally drunk. This level is 15/100 of one per cent alcohol content.

The researchers found cirrhotic or fatty livers in nearly two-thirds of those with that level of alcohol content who died within six hours after the accident.

In contrast, only 15 per cent of the alcohol-free fatalities had similar liver trouble.

Alcohol levels were lower in the older and younger groups. For example, there were traces of alcohol in about 78 per cent of the under-25 group, but in comparatively low volume. Dr. Waller theorized that even a little bit of drinking hinders the novice driver, while the older experienced driver can handle his cocktails better.

The public health official suggested a program he believes could identify at least half of the unknown alcoholic drivers over a 10-year period.

Early identification should be bolstered by improved laws on blood-alcohol tests, rehabilitation for alcoholic drivers, education for young drivers and a let-up on pat slogans that bounce off the alcoholic's befogged brain.

Chilling The Stomach Helps Some Peptic Ulcer Patients

By CHARLES SCHAEFFER
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON—"Deep freezing" has helped heal the peptic ulcers of half of a large group of patients treated at the Minnesota Medical center which pioneered the therapy.

Symptoms returned in about one third, and some 17 per cent of the group finally had to undergo surgery to achieve relief.

The latest results of the still-controversial technique of chilling the stomach from the inside to heal ulcers were reported by Dr. Harold O. Peterson to the annual meeting of the American Roentgen Ray Society here.

Dr. Peterson is chief of radiology at the University of Minnesota, where the freezing procedure was developed in 1961 by Dr. Owen Wagensteen. Peterson ran X-ray tests on a sampling of patients before and after freezing.

He said the Minnesota surgical team as of May had chilled the ulcers of 675 patients.

All felt better almost immediately, he said, because the cooling slowed the flow of irritating hydrochloric acid over the ulcer.

But most striking results were achieved in only about one-third of the patients. Their ulcers have healed and the patients have been freed from all diet restrictions except a ban on coffee and alcohol, he said.

Another 17 per cent have milder symptoms and lower acid production. "So about half (the patients) think it is great," Dr. Peterson said.

Ulcer freezing is accomplished by passing a compact stomach-shaped balloon down the esophagus. A coolant is shot through one tube into the balloon and returned by another tube.

Recently, the Wagensteen team substituted a safer silicone fluid as the coolant. There were fears that the regularly used alcohol might escape and poison the patient, though this never happened.

The cooling process at about 30 degrees fahrenheit takes about 30 minutes and is relatively painless.

All the patients undergoing the procedure were facing surgery after the failure of conventional therapy, such as bland diets and anti-acid medication. The idea behind freezing is to suppress the acid-secreting glands. With less irritation an ulcer tends to heal.

The freeze treatment fails if the glands reactivate and start pouring out excess acid. One patient, Dr. Peterson said, has undegone the stomach freeze eight times.

Over four years there has been just one death, which was probably not directly related to therapy, he said. The patient died of a thrombosis, or stroke-like complication.

Other complications include post-freeze bleeding and the appearance of gastric ulcers from the treatment in 27 patients.

Recently, Dr. Wagensteen told a European medical meeting that "both the virtues and limitations of this method are becoming increasingly apparent."

While the acomplishments to date are "modest," the number of patients who have been able to achieve improvement without surgery justifies its use, he said.

McAlister Fund Directors To Be Honored

Newly named directors of the Msgr. McAlister Memorial Scholarship Fund will be honored at a luncheon meeting tomorrow in St. Raphael's Parish rectory.

The fund was established last January in memory of Msgr. Daniel McAlister, former chaplain at San Quentin Prison and administrator of St. Raphael's parish. It aids Marin County high school students.

The new directors are: G. F. Byrne, Irving Chapman, Mrs. George A. Cheda, Jack Craemer, Rev. Edward Dingberg, Louis G. Freitas, Edward F. O'Day, Mrs. Ralph E. Tobener and Richard Sims.

Hosting the meeting will be the steering committee under chairman Thomas P. Boyd, with Mrs. John Bennett, secretary; Mrs. Robert Andrews, treasurer, and Rev. Thomas Kennedy, adviser.

Racial Equality Group Elects

Free, a Redwood High School organization dedicated to promoting racial equality in education has chosen officers for the new school year.

Serving on the board of directors, decided on in place of the usual officers, will be Marcia Steadman and Gretchen Walford of Corte Madera, Rachel Rice of Larkspur, and Cele Hanzel of Kentfield. Lynn Hanzel of Kentfield will serve as secretary.

Medical Insurance Cards Due In Mail By March 31

The medical insurance enrollment cards in kits already mailed to Marin County residents 65 or over on the Social Security and railroad retirement benefit rolls must be returned no later than next March 31, Patrick Stevens, the county's Social Security district manager, said today.

The deadline is important, he said, if beneficiaries want full protection when Medicare goes into effect July 1, 1966.

Some persons not on the benefit rolls have already been in touch with the Social Security office in San Rafael but others still need to take action to protect Medicare rights.

They include elderly people still working full time or who have retired and never had Social Security coverage.

About one-third of those not reached by direct mailing are receiving old-age assistance payments and will hear from their welfare agencies.

Mum Show Winners Announced

Mrs. Bernard H. Keener of Sleepy Hollow was principal winner at the "Autumn Enchantment" show staged by the Chrysanthemum Society of Marin in San Rafael last weekend.

She won trophies for the best cut flower, best spider 'mum, best theme flower, the best companion theme flower and the best container of eight cut flowers. She also won the sweepstakes trophy.

Mrs. Thelma Fried received the ward for best in show in the arrangement section and Orvin Noah was the best junior exhibitor.

Other special awards went to Ivan Johnson, best horticultural and best novelty form culture; and Lt. Col. Poul Sibbitt, best new introduction and best potted plant.

First place winners were: Mrs. E. P. Davis, Mrs. Esther Herena, Mrs. Charles Giggy, Mrs. J. Murray, Mrs. Melvin Hien, Mrs. Paul Sibbitt, Mrs. A. J. Fried, O. Noah and Dan Keener.

School Dance Rule Changed

New, stricter rules to govern school dances at Novato High School were announced today by Barbara Jones, commissioner of student activities.

The new rules apply to the bands and policemen at the dances.

Band members must dress fittingly, must not smoke in the gymnasium. Bands will be allowed two 10-minute breaks.

Policemen patrolling the dance and parking lots must abide by the no-smoking rule.

'Placerville' Most Popular

"Placerville—1860" by Albert Bellas was the most popular painting at the North Bay artists show Saturday and Sunday at the Novato Community House, according to the votes cast by more than 400 who attended the show.

"Autumn" by Thal Maitland was the most popular sculpture, and "Earthenware Pot," also by Maitland, was the most popular in "other media" class.

A close runner-up in paintings was "Sailing Through Fog," by Linda Pederson, who was the 1965 North Bay artists scholarship winner.

Mrs. Frank Havick is president of the Auxiliary to the Fraternal Order of Eagles, San Rafael Aerie 256.

Institute Day In San Rafael

An Institute Day tomorrow for San Rafael schools means early school dismissals for students, announced William R. Jordan, assistant superintendent.

Kindergarten through third grade classes will be dismissed at 1:40 p.m., grades four through eight will be dismissed at 2:15 p.m., and high school classes will be dismissed at 12:30 p.m.

The institute has been called to allow school district teachers to hear a talk by Dr. Martin Diamond, professor of American political institutions at Claremont College.

Bermuda is a 21-square-mile island.

Car Wash Set

The youth group of St. Francis of Assisi Church in Novato will hold a car wash by the Novato post office from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Saturday for the benefit of the youth activities in the church.

Institute Day In San Rafael

An Institute Day tomorrow for San Rafael schools means early school dismissals for students, announced William R. Jordan, assistant superintendent.

Kindergarten through third grade classes will be dismissed at 1:40 p.m., grades four through eight will be dismissed at 2:15 p.m., and high school classes will be dismissed at 12:30 p.m.

The institute has been called to allow school district teachers to hear a talk by Dr. Martin Diamond, professor of American political institutions at Claremont College.

Bermuda is a 21-square-mile island.

Car Wash Set

The youth group of St. Francis of Assisi Church in Novato will hold a car wash by the Novato post office from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Saturday for the benefit of the youth activities in the church.

McAlister Fund Directors To Be Honored

Newly named directors of the Msgr. McAlister Memorial Scholarship Fund will be honored at a luncheon meeting tomorrow in St. Raphael's Parish rectory.

The fund was established last January in memory of Msgr. Daniel McAlister, former chaplain at San Quentin Prison and administrator of St. Raphael's parish. It aids Marin County high school students.

The new directors are: G. F. Byrne, Irving Chapman, Mrs. George A. Cheda, Jack Craemer, Rev. Edward Dingberg, Louis G. Freitas, Edward F. O'Day, Mrs. Ralph E. Tobener and Richard Sims.

Hosting the meeting will be the steering committee under chairman Thomas P. Boyd, with Mrs. John Bennett, secretary; Mrs. Robert Andrews, treasurer, and Rev. Thomas Kennedy, adviser.

Racial Equality Group Elects

Free, a Redwood High School organization dedicated to promoting racial equality in education has chosen officers for the new school year.

Serving on the board of directors, decided on in place of the usual officers, will be Marcia Steadman and Gretchen Walford of Corte Madera, Rachel Rice of Larkspur, and Cele Hanzel of Kentfield. Lynn Hanzel of Kentfield will serve as secretary.

Medical Insurance Cards Due In Mail By March 31

The medical insurance enrollment cards in kits already mailed to Marin County residents 65 or over on the Social Security and railroad retirement benefit rolls must be returned no later than next March 31, Patrick Stevens, the county's Social Security district manager, said today.

The deadline is important, he said, if beneficiaries want full protection when Medicare goes into effect July 1, 1966.

Some persons not on the benefit rolls have already been in touch with the Social Security office in San Rafael but others still need to take action to protect Medicare rights.

They include elderly people still working full time or who have retired and never had Social Security coverage.

About one-third of those not reached by direct mailing are receiving old-age assistance payments and will hear from their welfare agencies.

Mum Show Winners Announced

Mrs. Bernard H. Keener of Sleepy Hollow was principal winner at the "Autumn Enchantment" show staged by the Chrysanthemum Society of Marin in San Rafael last weekend.

She won trophies for the best cut flower, best spider 'mum, best theme flower, the best companion theme flower and the best container of eight cut flowers. She also won the sweepstakes trophy.

Mrs. Thelma Fried received the ward for best in show in the arrangement section and Orvin Noah was the best junior exhibitor.

Other special awards went to Ivan Johnson, best horticultural and best novelty form culture; and Lt. Col. Poul Sibbitt, best new introduction and best potted plant.

First place winners were: Mrs. E. P. Davis, Mrs. Esther Herena, Mrs. Charles Giggy, Mrs. J. Murray, Mrs. Melvin Hien, Mrs. Paul Sibbitt, Mrs. A. J. Fried, O. Noah and Dan Keener.

School Dance Rule Changed

New, stricter rules to govern school dances at Novato High School were announced today by Barbara Jones, commissioner of student activities.

The new rules apply to the bands and policemen at the dances.

Band members must dress fittingly, must not smoke in the gymnasium. Bands will be allowed two 10-minute breaks.

Policemen patrolling the dance and parking lots must abide by the no-smoking rule.

'Placerville' Most Popular

"Placerville—1860" by Albert Bellas was the most popular painting at the North Bay artists show Saturday and Sunday at the Novato Community House, according to the votes cast by more than 400 who attended the show.

"Autumn" by Thal Maitland was the most popular sculpture, and "Earthenware Pot," also by Maitland, was the most popular in "other media" class.

A close runner-up in paintings was "Sailing Through Fog," by Linda Pederson, who was the 1965 North Bay artists scholarship winner.

Mrs. Frank Havick is president of the Auxiliary to the Fraternal Order of Eagles, San Rafael Aerie 256.

Hearts of Celery Salad
HERB STUFFED CHICKEN
Eggplant Valenciene
Crusty French Bread
Sherbet

HERB STUFFED CHICKEN

- 2 Jolly broilers split in two
- 1 bunch finely chopped parsley
- 2 bunches green onions, finely chopped
- 1 tbsp. tarragon,
- 1 tsp. Beau Monde salt
- Black pepper
- 2 cubes butter

Cream the butter until fluffy and mix parsley, onions, tarragon, Beau Monde salt, pepper. Now wash and dry the chicken and separate skin from flesh and stuff generously with the above mixture. Chill overnight. Broil chickens breast up for about 20 minutes. Turn and broil breast down for 5 minutes and serve. A different, tasty way to broil chicken!

EGGPLANT VALENCIENE

- 2 medium-size eggplants, sliced ½ inch thick
- Olive oil
- 1 bunch finely chopped green onion
- 1 bell pepper, sliced in strips
- 1 clove garlic
- 2 fresh tomatoes, diced
- Salt and pepper
- 1 tsp. oregano
- Grated Cheese

Saute eggplant in olive oil and drain on paper towelling as each slice is browned. Saute green onion, pepper, garlic and fresh tomatoes. Season with salt and pepper. Add oregano. Arrange eggplant, overlapping, in baking dish and top with green pepper mixture. Top with generous amount of grated cheese. Bake in 350° 30 minutes . . .

Same Old Lip Pops Off As New Manager Of Cubbies

By JOE MOOSHIL

CHICAGO (AP) — Leo Durocher, the man who coined the phrase "nice guys finish last," has lost none of his brashness or self confidence despite a 10-year layoff from the major league managerial picture.

Immediately after the Chicago Cubs had announced Durocher had been signed to a three-year contract yesterday, the Lip popped off.

"Anyone who makes a deal with me is going to be a loser," said Durocher, "because I'm going to get the best of it."

In reference to the Cubs' plight of 19 straight second division finishes, Leo chortled, "All that is going to change as soon as possible."

In less than 45 minutes, the man who managed three pennant winners, swept a four-game World Series from Cleveland in 1954 and was once suspended from the game for one year, laid out his plans for the Cubs, who finished eighth last season in the fifth and final year of experimentation with rotating coaches.

Durocher retained only Verlon Walker from the Cub coaching system and named Whitey Lockman and Fred Fitzsimmons to round out his immediate staff.

Lockman, who formerly played for Durocher with the New York Giants, managed the Cub farm at Dallas-Fort Worth last season. Fitzsimmons, who had previously coached under Durocher, was out of baseball last year.

Lou Klein, who finished the 1965 season as head coach of the Cubs, will remain in the Cub organization.

The 59-year-old Durocher lost no time in showing who is boss. When Cub Vice President John Holland announced the hiring of Durocher, a press release was handed out which stated, "There is no immediate announcement as to Durocher's title."

Independent-Journal Sports

FOURTH SECTION Tues., Oct. 26, 1965 33

Asked about this, Leo snapped back, "Well, if they haven't given me a title, I'll give myself one. I'm the manager and the only manager. Don't ever call me coach."

Durocher's stormy career as manager began with Brooklyn in 1939. He led the Dodgers to the pennant in 1941 and six years later was suspended for one year by then Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler for "conduct detrimental to baseball."

Duroocher returned in 1948 but in midseason, he was fired by the Dodgers and hired by the New York Giants, replacing the late Mel Ott. He won pennants with the Giants in 1951 and 1954 and topped the 1954 season with the famous four-game sweep.

Durocher was asked about his 10-year managerial layoff, and he answered, "The diamond is still the same size, and you still need to score more runs than the other team in order to win.

"Winning is the important thing. I didn't come here to win any popularity contests. I came to win games, and that's what we're going to do. The Cubs have the nucleus of a good team with players like Ron Santo, Billy Williams and Ernie Banks.

"I'd have to say those three are our untouchables at the moment. The first thing I look for is speed. If the book says bunt, I might hit and run. I want to play baseball, not sit around in the dugout and wait for someone to hit the ball out of the park.

"I'm a gambler, not a safety first man. Guys who want to play safety first ball won't be around me very long.

"Handling players has never been a problem with me. Some guys like Sal Maglie I'd have to needle and get him mad. You can't do that with a guy like Willie Mays. You have to rub Willie the right way.

"I'm not a dictator. Anyone who thinks he can run a club all alone is crazy. That's why I have coaches."

Holland, who talked owner P. K. Wrigley into hiring Durocher, said the new Cub manager would have complete authority on the field. "On any and all player deals, Leo and I will work together," said Holland.

Mets Coach Heffner Named Cincy Reds Manager

Replaces Sisler; 2-Year Contract

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Don Heffner, a coach for the New York Mets the last two years, was named today as the 1966 manager of the Cincinnati Reds.

Heffner succeeds Dick Sisler, who was fired Oct. 4 after managing the club to a fourth-place finish this year.

Reds President William O. Dewitt said the 54-year-old Heffner, a former major league second baseman and minor league manager, is being given a two-year contract. Terms were not disclosed.

Heffner formerly was in the Reds' organization as the manager of San Diego of the Pacific Coast League in 1962 and 1963.

"I'm very happy Don is with us again," said Dewitt. "We have looked over the field of available managers and those who have applied and believe he is the best man for our job.

"He knows the players and he knows the National League. At his age, and with his managerial experience, he has the maturity to get the best out of the players."

The graying Heffner called the appointment "one of the biggest thrills of my life....it is something to be offered a big league managing job by a man I have thought a lot of for more than 27 years."

It was Dewitt who gave Heffner his first job as a minor league manager when Dewitt headed the old St. Louis Browns.

Heffner is a native of Rouzerville, Pa., but now lives in Arcadia, Calif., ith his wife Dorothy.

During his playing career, he was with the New York Yankees, St. Louis Browns, Philadelphia Athletics and Detroit Tigers. He finished his major league career in 1944.

His first managing job was in 1947 with Aberdeen of the Northern League. He later managed at Globe and Miami, Ariz., Elmira, N.Y., San Antonio, Tex., Baltimore when it was in the International League, Reading, Pa., Mobile, Ala., and San Diego.

He also served as a coach with the Kansas City Athletics and Detroit.

During his playing career he had a lifetime batting average of .241 and his best hitting year in the majors was with the old Browns when he batted .267 in 1939.

The appointment of Heffner was no surprise in that he had been mentioned prominently ever since Sisler was released.

Lip May Give Cubs A Boost, Says Marinite Johnny Boc

The good looking, strapping young man who just yesterday started delivering merchandise for United Parcel may be delivering the goods for the Chicago Cubs next season.

Johnny Boccabella awoke in his San Anselmo apartment this morning with a groan. "Oh, am I stiff," he winced after his first day of trucking on down the avenues for U.P. This from a 24-year-old strong man who played more than 100 professional baseball games last summer should strengthen your respect for the brown-uniformed gents who delivereth the goodies to your door.

LABELLED A good bet to stick with the Cubs next year, Johnny Boc was quizzed about Chicago's new manager, Leo Durocher. "It's hard for me to say," the former Marin Catholic and Santa Clara All-American slugger said. "I've really never met the man, although I've certainly heard a lot about him and have seen him on TV. Maybe he's just what the Cubs need to pick them up. I saw him on TV last night and he certainly seems rarin' to go."

BOCCABELLA NOTED that Durocher named Whitey Lockman a Cub coach for next season. "I played for Lockman at Fort Worth (Texas League) last season," he said, "and he's a tremendous guy. He ran the ball club like a major league team. He'll help the Cubs."

WHAT ABOUT John D. Boccabella? "Well," big Jawn well'd, "the way they (the Cubs) talked I have a good chance of sticking with Chicago next season. The talk was that I might be used as a left fielders against left handed pitchers and occasionally spell (Ernie) Banks at first base. That way I'd get to play half the games. But then again they may trade for an outfielder so I just don't know what to expect." A natural first baseman, Boc explained: "I'll play any position if I can stay in the major leagues. If you play a position enough you can become adequate at it—not great, but adequate."

JOHN WAS signed to an estimated $25,000 bonus contract by the Cubs when he received his diploma from Santa Clara in June of 1963. He has spent most of the past three seasons in the minors, what with the veteran Banks giving the Cubs all the first sacking they need.

Although he hits the long ball and drives in a mess of runs, John hasn't hit for the average in the minors. Last season in Texas he batted a lowly .235, but his 95 RBI total was second in the league.

YET, WHEN the Cubbies called him up in early September he hit major league ball at a .333 clip, a 98 point increase, including a wild debut against the Giants at Candlestick. That was the Sunday game in which he homered twice off Warren Spahn. In his first three major league games this year he was three-for-six. Johnny Sock-a-ball-a.

John says he hits major league pitching better than minor leaguers because, "It's different being in the big leagues. There's more at stake and you seem to try harder. In the minors you get in a routine and it's just going through the motions. I feel I can play in the big leagues."

BOCCABELLA SAID he'll stay completely away from baseball until spring training, unlike the past couple of years when he toiled away in winter instructional leagues. "I think I went stale in winter leagues," he said, "it's just too much baseball."

With that he smooched his lovely wife on the cheek and scooted out the front door of their apartment for his second day on the parcel delivery route. He is one Marin athlete who has always delivered the goods.

P.S. The fine paisani in the audience might get a kick out of the fact that Boccabella, which means "beautiful mouth" in Italian, will be playing for the Lip next year. Shamus, you said a mouthful.

Huskies Worry Indians

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Coach John Ralston of Stanford counts on his speedy secondary defenses to stop Washington passing when the Indians meet the Huskies on Saturday at Se-

Craig Richey, John Guillory, Dale Rubin and Dave Nelson compose the secondary foursome and all are fast.

Ralston complimented each for his work last Saturday in the Stanford 31-14 victory over Army. This week they try to stop the Huskies and the Indians haven't won at Seattle since 1957.

The coach pointed out that Washington had ball control in beating Oregon 24-20 last week and that his team didn't have the control in its game with the Ducks, even though victorious 17-14.

"It appears Washington has come into its own," Ralston told the Northern California Football Writers yesterday.

Coach Ray Willsey of California faces the job of bringing his Bears back to face Penn State after losing to UCLA 56-3.

Injuries have hit four tackles and it could be that sophomore Greg Kammann, who has not played yet this season, will start at a defensive tackle spot.

Willsey said offensive halfback Ted Parks may be switched to defense this week to give more depth in the secondary. A shortage developed through injury to veteran Greg Palamountain.

On the injured list and questionable for the Penn State game at Berkeley are tackles Dan Sinclair, also the team's place kicker, John Cantlon, Dan Goich and Dick Williams.

"We face a test in reassembling and realigning our team for this game," said Willsey who did such a job after Notre Dame beat the Bears 48-6 in the opener.

"We have the type of player who is as disappointed in the outcome of Saturday night's game as the coaching staff," said Willsey. "I don't think I'll have one lick of trouble getting them up again."

San Jose State coach Harry Anderson said his Spartans aimed for a third straight victory over a foe from the Western Athletic Conference, the league they hope to join.

COLT ALL-STAR HURT, MAY MIS 49ER CONTEST

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Fred Miller, all-National Football League defensive tackle of the Baltimore Colts, is a doubtful starter in Sunday's game at San Francisco.

He suffered contusion of the thigh and a possible sprained knee against the Los Angeles Rams.

"I don't know at this time," said trainer Ed Block about Miller's readiness for next Sunday.

If not, he will be replaced by Guy Reese, a four-year veteran.

USC Coach Beaten, But Still Witty

LOS ANGELES (AP) —C Coach John McKay of the University of Southern California lost none of his well known wit in the Trojans' 28-7 loss to Notre Dame.

He appeared at the weekly football writers' luncheon yesterday in good humor and said: "We have no excuses. We just got the hell kicked out of us."

McKay recalled the opening play when Notre Dame kicked off and the crowd at South Bend, Ind., was in a frenzy of excitement.

"Our receiver took the ball and moved up to about the 13-yard line. There wasn't anybody within 15 yards of him, and he fell down.

"One of my assistant coaches leaned over and screamed:

"'For goodness sakes, they shot him!'

"I thought, I knew they were up for this game but this is ridiculous."

Southern Cal has no game scheduled this week.

"After that one, we need the week off. We should have taken it last week," he concluded.

AFTER VIEWING FILMS

Chris Won't Blame Refs

San Francisco 49er coach Jack Christiansen has refused to join the fans' rumblings about two key penalty calls in last Sunday's madcap 42-41 Minnesota Viking win over San Francisco.

One was an interference call against Jimmy Johnson that gave the Vikings a 35-yard gain. Christiansen commented "from our game films, it could have been called either way. I'm not going to criticize the officiating."

On another questionable call, Dave Parks seemingly caught a touchdown pass but was called for offensive interference. Christiansen said "the incident was off the edge of the picture" of the game films.

Christiansen gave full credit to the Vikings, who rallied from a 35-14 halftime deficit. He also still had happy memories of his team's first half as an indication of how it can play when all the pieces fall into place.

"We couldn't have asked for a more perfect first half," he said. "The blocking and running was good and the passing was great. John Brodie hit 10 out of 12."

Christiansen said the team was still confident that it can take Baltimore next Sunday at Kezar Stadium. "We thought we could have beaten the Colts last time at Baltimore," he said. "We still think we can beat them."

Rams Svare At NFL Officiating

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles Ram Coach Harland Svare awaited results today of criticism he leveled at officiating within he National Football League.

The result he hoped for, he told Southern California football writers yesterday, was a change in what he termed officials' "conditioned reflex to the crowds."

Another possible result could be a fine from the NFL for publicly criticizing officiating. In New York a league official said there would be no comment on Svare's remarks.

"I don't question the integrity or ability of our officials, but I say they are being intimidated in large stadiums away from Los Angeles," Svare said.

"It happened in Baltimore and it happens in Chicago and other places," Svare said. "It doesn't happen in Los Angeles because we don't get the same crowd reaction here — possibly because we've been a loser for so long.

"NFL officiating never has been of a better caliber than now, but I want to call public attention to what is happening to us," Svare said.

Svare cited the Rams' 35-20 loss to Baltimore Saturday.

"There were nine calls against us at crucial times in Baltimore and only four against the Colts," Svare said. "The noise was so terrific at Baltimore that we couldn't hear our snap numbers, let alone audibles. That situation wasn't taken care of for us.

"I have to speak out because something must be done about it. The officials seem to have a conditioned reflex to the crowds in some other cities. I'm trying to get them to have a different reflex."

Terra Linda J.V. Gridders Win, 12-0

Terra Linda's Jim Clifford caught two passes for touchdowns to lead the Trojans' junior varsity football team to a 12-0 win over San Rafael last Friday.

In other J.V. grid games, Redwood boat Marin Catholic 6-0 and Rohnert Park varsity topped the Drake jayvees 19-13. Mike Gaffney and Bob Reynolds scored Drake touchdowns.

HERB STUFFED CHICKEN

- 2 Jolly broilers split in two
- 1 bunch finely chopped parsley
- 2 bunches green onions, finely chopped
- 1 tbsp. tarragon,
- 1 tsp. Beau Monde salt
- Black pepper
- 2 cubes butter

Cream the butter until fluffy and mix parsley, onions, tarragon, Beau Monde salt, pepper. Now wash and dry the chicken and separate skin from flesh and stuff generously with the above mixture. Chill overnight. Broil chickens breast up for about 20 minutes. Turn and broil breast down for 5 minutes and serve. A different, tasty way to broil chicken!

EGGPLANT VALENCIENE

PREP NOTES

A BIG Role For Giants

By RALPH CHATOIAN

The way things look at this stage of the Marin Athletic League football race, the chances are better than even there will be more than one champion team.

As most observers predicted, it's been a dogfight so far and will be the rest of the way. There's a strong possibility of two, or even three teams tying for the championship. At the moment, three teams—Drake, Novato and Tam—are tied for first place with 2-1 records. Each of the leaders has three games in front of it. They've already played each other.

Only one team plays all three of the leaders—Redwood. How does with the three top teams will have BIG bearing on the chase.

In front of Drake are San Rafael, Terra Linda and Redwood, in that order. Novato has scheduled dates with Redwood, San Rafael and Marin Catholic, and in front of Tam are Marin Catholic, Redwood and Terra Linda, also in that order. This is going to be a hectic three weeks.

DEAN LAZZARINI, that green and white flash you see on the Drake High School football field in San Anselmo, made quite a splash on his TV debut.

After watching that Drake-Riordan game Saturday morning (it was played Friday night and taped for Saturday viewing) the viewer didn't have to wait for the sportswriters to hand in their ballots for outstanding performer of the game.

After all, he only picked up 226 yards and scored three touchdowns to lead the Pirates to a 28-20 triumph. He was the unanimous pick for TV prep player of the day, needless to say.

More than one Marin County coach has commented that if he doesn't get picked for the Shrine North-South All-Star game it would be the year's biggest California prep injustice.

TALK ABOUT a defense, that Terra Linda bunch has been too much. In the last 14 quarters the Trojans have played, they have given up just one touchdown, and that one TD was on an offensive mistake.

Terra Linda gave up 20 points to Novato in the first half of its league opener and then held the Hornets scoreless the final two quarters, barely losing 20-19. Marin Catholic was blanked by the Trojans 32-0 and Redwood tied them 6-6. Redwood got a big break late (last eight seconds) in the first half when Terra Linda faked a punt on fourth down and tried a run. Redwood ended up with a first down on the one-yard stripe, and easily scored a TD.

Then last Friday the Trojans shut out San Rafael 6-0. Watch out, Manteca, you just may be shut out Friday night.

MARIN CATHOLIC football coach Chuck Vaughan is ready to start doubling up on knee pads for his boys. "We've already had 10 or 11 knee injuries this season," said Chuck, who plans to check around the rest of the league to see how this stacks with other teams.

Last week he feared he would have only 18 kids dressed for the Redwood game, so he sent a rush order to the junior varsity. By the time the game rolled around, Vaughan had 27 uniformed players on the bench, but some were too injured to play.

"WE TOOK the olive," were the words of San Rafael Military Academy assistant grid coach Jim Hickey in explaining the Cadets' loss to Emery last Friday. To you fans who don't know, that expression is very symbolic in sports lingo. Like when the olive gets caught in your throat.

Both the Emeryville team and the Cadets were undefeated in the Bay Counties League going into the game. After that 35-14 win, Emery is 3-0 and the Cadets are 2-1 in league play. It was the first loss for SRMA after five straight wins.

The high-rolling SRMA offense piled up 450 yards, but fumbles and penalties killed too many scorinng opportunities.

Mel Baruh, that San Rafael Academy back who is leading Northern California preps both in rushing and scoring, had another big day with 150 yards and a touchdown. His yardage total now, after six games, is 1,138. And that's a fair amount of running.

By the time halftime came, the Cadets were trailing 21-0. "It was a complete breakdown," said Hickey.

KEN JOHNSON, that sophomore quarterback for Redwood who was called up from the junior varsity a few days ago, is quite an athlete, and most likely will see more action this season. One of the passes he threw in the Marin Catholic game last Friday went 50 yards in the air as this youngster showed off a mighty fine arm.

He's quite a shortstop and "he has a darned good chance of playing varsity baseball next season as a sophomore," said Al Endriss, head baseball coach and assistant football coach at Redwood.

In that Redwood-Marin Catholic game, Johnson connected on three of 10 passes for 101 yards. That's an impressive debut for a sophomore "rookie."

SINCE IT'S better weather for baseball than football anyway, let's talk about winter ball. Redwood's varsity baseballers are staying in shape in a San Francisco league, playing under the sponsorship of Indian Valley Lumber. Some of the players on the team do their prepping at other high schools, but most of them are Redwoodites.

They lost last Saturday to Poly High School players, 2-1, and Kevin Wilson was stung for the loss, although allowing only three hits. They evened up Sunday by beating Pacifica 10-5. Bob Tobin, a Drake athlete, pitched the win and Russ Smith and Kevin Wilson paced the hitting with two safeties each.

REF SAW THIS ONE—Novato's Dick Otis (40) dives for two yards against Tamalpais last Saturday in Kentfield before being brought down by Tam's Honor Jackson (88). But if you look closely, you'll see Jackson's right hand on Otis' face mask. The referee saw it and called a 15-yard penalty. Other identifiable players are Novato's Mike Mazzoni (35), John Youngs (75) and George Sheehan (82), and Tam's Gary Stephens (74) and Don Smith (44). Novato bombed Tam 34-0, the Indians' first loss of the year.

Did Ford Frick Nix Milwaukee?

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (ap) — Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick was quoted by a state official yesterday as saying Milwaukee had been at the top of a National League expansion list but was eliminated because of antitrust suits and detrogatory remarks.

C. Hayden Jamison, executive director of the Wisconsin Investment board, testified in a deposition hearing that he met Frick last Sept. 2 in an attempt to determine whether the board could purchase the Braves club from its present owners, a syndicate of young Chicago area businessmen.

Testifying under questioning by Earl A. Jinkinson, representing the Braves and the National League in antitrust suits brought by Milwaukee County and the State of Wisconsin in connection with the Braves' scheduled move to Atlanta, Jamison said:

"Ford said he could assure me that the Braves would be in Atlanta in 1966. He said that Milwaukee would have obtained a franchise if it had not been for the antitrust suits and if the Milwaukee official would just shut up.

"He also said to me, 'If you repeat this, I'll deny it.' "

Asked whether Frick had referred specifically to Eugene Grobschmidt, chairman of the Milwaukee County Board of Supervisors, as the public official who had been so outspoken, Jamison said, "It was suggested that it might be Grobschmidt."

Three-Way Deadlock In Warner Football

The Novato Junior Hornets handed San Rafael its first loss of the year in Marin County Pop Warner Football League action Saturday, throwing the league into a three-way tie for the top spot.

Novato blanked San Rafael 13-0. In other games, also shutouts, Drake bumped Tam 12-0 and Terra Linda whipped Redwood 19-0. All three games were played at San Rafael High School's field.

Scoring touchdowns for Novato were Vince LaGoy on a six-yard run and Tom Cox with a nine-yarder. Cox also added an extra point with a run.

It was Drake's first league win of the season and first time the Junior Pirates have scored any points in league play. The Junior Pirated touchdowns were scored by Clint Hubbard on a two-yard run and Tony Cassin on a six-yard burst.

Mike Bridges was the star for the Terra Linda Junior Trojans, scoring all three touchdowns in the triumph over Redwood. He tallied on runs of 50, 34 and 4 yards. Rick Payne scored a point on a conversion.

Drake Vs. San Rafael In Game Of The Week Friday

Drake and San Rafael high schools clash Friday night at 8 o'clock on the San Rafael field in the Marin County game of the week.

Drake, currently tied for first place in the Marin Athletic League scramble with Tam and Novato, is expected to get a stiff fight from the Bulldogs, playing on their home field.

In other Marin Athletic League games, Tam and Marin Catholic battle Friday night at 8 o'clock in College of Marin stadium, and Redwood hosts Novato Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at the COM stadium.

College of Marin Tars will be after their second Golden Valley Conference win Saturday night at 8 when they tangle with Yuba College in Marysville. In non-league action, Terra Linda travels to Manteca Friday night at 8 o'clock, and the San Rafael Military Academy Cadets host the Redwood junior varsity Friday at 3:15 p.m.

Same Old Lip Pops Off As New Manager Of Cubbies

By JOE MOOSHIL

CHICAGO (AP) — Leo Durocher, the man who coined the phrase "nice guys finish last," has lost none of his brashness or self confidence despite a 10-year layoff from the major league managerial picture.

Immediately after the Chicago Cubs had announced Durocher had been signed to a three-year contract yesterday, the Lip popped off.

"Anyone who makes a deal with me is going to be a loser," said Durocher, "because I'm going to get the best of it."

In reference to the Cubs' plight of 19 straight second division finishes, Leo chortled, "All that is going to change as soon as possible."

In less than 45 minutes, the man who managed three pennant winners, swept a four-game World Series from Cleveland in 1954 and was once suspended from the game for one year, laid out his plans for the Cubs, who finished eighth last season in the fifth and final year of experimentation with rotating coaches.

Durocher retained only Verlon Walker from the Cub coaching system and named Whitey Lockman and Fred Fitzsimmons to round out his immediate staff.

Lockman, who formerly played for Durocher with the New York Giants, managed the Cub farm at Dallas-Fort Worth last season. Fitzsimmons, who had previously coached under Durocher, was out of baseball last year.

Lou Klein, who finished the 1965 season as head coach of the Cubs, will remain in the Cub organization.

The 59-year-old Durocher lost no time in showing who is boss. When Cub Vice President John Holland announced the hiring of Durocher, a press release was handed out which stated, "There is no immediate announcement as to Durocher's title."

Independent-Journal Sports

FOURTH SECTION Tues., Oct. 26, 1965 33

Asked about this, Leo snapped back, "Well, if they haven't given me a title, I'll give myself one. I'm the manager and the only manager. Don't ever call me coach."

Durocher's stormy career as manager began with Brooklyn in 1939. He led the Dodgers to the pennant in 1941 and six years later was suspended for one year by then Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler for "conduct detrimental to baseball."

Duroocher returned in 1948 but in midseason, he was fired by the Dodgers and hired by the New York Giants, replacing the late Mel Ott. He won pennants with the Giants in 1951 and 1954 and topped the 1954 season with the famous four-game sweep.

Durocher was asked about his 10-year managerial layoff, and he answered, "The diamond is still the same size, and you still need to score more runs than the other team in order to win.

"Winning is the important thing. I didn't come here to win any popularity contests. I came to win games, and that's what we're going to do. The Cubs have the nucleus of a good team with players like Ron Santo, Billy Williams and Ernie Banks.

"I'd have to say those three are our untouchables at the moment. The first thing I look for is speed. If the book says bunt, I might hit and run. I want to play baseball, not sit around in the dugout and wait for someone to hit the ball out of the park.

"I'm a gambler, not a safety first man. Guys who want to play safety first ball won't be around me very long.

"Handling players has never been a problem with me. Some guys like Sal Maglie I'd have to needle and get him mad. You can't do that with a guy like Willie Mays. You have to rub Willie the right way.

"I'm not a dictator. Anyone who thinks he can run a club all alone is crazy. That's why I have coaches."

Holland, who talked owner P. K. Wrigley into hiring Durocher, said the new Cub manager would have complete authority on the field. "On any and all player deals, Leo and I will work together," said Holland.

Mets Coach Heffner Named Cincy Reds Manager

Replaces Sisler; 2-Year Contract

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Don Heffner, a coach for the New York Mets the last two years, was named today as the 1966 manager of the Cincinnati Reds.

Heffner succeeds Dick Sisler, who was fired Oct. 4 after managing the club to a fourth-place finish this year.

Reds President William O. Dewitt said the 54-year-old Heffner, a former major league second baseman and minor league manager, is being given a two-year contract. Terms were not disclosed.

Heffner formerly was in the Reds' organization as the manager of San Diego of the Pacific Coast League in 1962 and 1963.

"I'm very happy Don is with us again," said Dewitt. "We have looked over the field of available managers and those who have applied and believe he is the best man for our job.

"He knows the players and he knows the National League. At his age, and with his managerial experience, he has the maturity to get the best out of the players."

The graying Heffner called the appointment "one of the biggest thrills of my life....it is something to be offered a big league managing job by a man I have thought a lot of for more than 27 years."

It was Dewitt who gave Heffner his first job as a minor league manager when Dewitt headed the old St. Louis Browns.

Heffner is a native of Rouzerville, Pa., but now lives in Arcadia, Calif., ith his wife Dorothy.

During his playing career, he was with the New York Yankees, St. Louis Browns, Philadelphia Athletics and Detroit Tigers. He finished his major league career in 1944.

His first managing job was in 1947 with Aberdeen of the Northern League. He later managed at Globe and Miami, Ariz., Elmira, N.Y., San Antonio, Tex., Baltimore when it was in the International League, Reading, Pa., Mobile, Ala., and San Diego.

He also served as a coach with the Kansas City Athletics and Detroit.

During his playing career he had a lifetime batting average of .241 and his best hitting year in the majors was with the old Browns when he batted .267 in 1939.

The appointment of Heffner was no surprise in that he had been mentioned prominently ever since Sisler was released.

COLT ALL-STAR HURT, MAY MIS 49ER CONTEST

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Fred Miller, all-National Football League defensive tackle of the Baltimore Colts, is a doubtful starter in Sunday's game at San Francisco.

He suffered contusion of the thigh and a possible sprained knee against the Los Angeles Rams.

"I don't know at this time," said trainer Ed Block about Miller's readiness for next Sunday.

If not, he will be replaced by Guy Reese, a four-year veteran.

Lip May Give Cubs A Boost, Says Marinite Johnny Boc

The good looking, strapping young man who just yesterday started delivering merchandise for United Parcel may be delivering the goods for the Chicago Cubs next season.

Johnny Boccabella awoke in his San Anselmo apartment this morning with a groan. "Oh, am I stiff," he winced after his first day of trucking on down the avenues for U.P. This from a 24-year-old strong man who played more than 100 professional baseball games last summer should strengthen your respect for the brown-uniformed gents who delivereth the goodies to your door.

LABELLED A good bet to stick with the Cubs next year, Johnny Boc was quizzed about Chicago's new manager, Leo Durocher. "It's hard for me to say," the former Marin Catholic and Santa Clara All-American slugger said. "I've really never met the man, although I've certainly heard a lot about him and have seen him on TV. Maybe he's just what the Cubs need to pick them up. I saw him on TV last night and he certainly seems rarin' to go."

BOCCABELLA NOTED that Durocher named Whitey Lockman a Cub coach for next season. "I played for Lockman at Fort Worth (Texas League) last season," he said, "and he's a tremendous guy. He ran the ball club like a major league team. He'll help the Cubs."

WHAT ABOUT John D. Boccabella? "Well," big Jawn well'd, "the way they (the Cubs) talked I have a good chance of sticking with Chicago next season. The talk was that I might be used as a left fielders against left handed pitchers and occasionally spell (Ernie) Banks at first base. That way I'd get to play half the games. But then again they may trade for an outfielder so I just don't know what to expect." A natural first baseman, Boc explained: "I'll play any position if I can stay in the major leagues. If you play a position enough you can become adequate at it—not great, but adequate."

JOHN WAS signed to an estimated $25,000 bonus contract by the Cubs when he received his diploma from Santa Clara in June of 1963. He has spent most of the past three seasons in the minors, what with the veteran Banks giving the Cubs all the first sacking they need.

Although he hits the long ball and drives in a mess of runs, John hasn't hit for the average in the minors. Last season in Texas he batted a lowly .235, but his 95 RBI total was second in the league.

YET, WHEN the Cubbies called him up in early September he hit major league ball at a .333 clip, a 98 point increase, including a wild debut against the Giants at Candlestick. That was the Sunday game in which he homered twice off Warren Spahn. In his first three major league games this year he was three-for-six. Johnny Sock-a-ball-a.

John says he hits major league pitching better than minor leaguers because, "It's different being in the big leagues. There's more at stake and you seem to try harder. In the minors you get in a routine and it's just going through the motions. I feel I can play in the big leagues."

BOCCABELLA SAID he'll stay completely away from baseball until spring training, unlike the past couple of years when he toiled away in winter instructional leagues. "I think I went stale in winter leagues," he said, "it's just too much baseball."

With that he smooched his lovely wife on the cheek and scooted out the front door of their apartment for his second day on the parcel delivery route. He is one Marin athlete who has always delivered the goods.

P.S. The fine paisani in the audience might get a kick out of the fact that Boccabella, which means "beautiful mouth" in Italian, will be playing for the Lip next year. Shamus, you said a mouthful.

Terra Linda J.V. Gridders Win, 12-0

Terra Linda's Jim Clifford caught two passes for touchdowns to lead the Trojans' junior varsity football team to a 12-0 win over San Rafael last Friday.

In other J.V. grid games, Redwood boat Marin Catholic 6-0 and Rohnert Park varsity topped the Drake jayvees 19-13. Mike Gaffney and Bob Reynolds scored Drake touchdowns.

Huskies Worry Indians

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Coach John Ralston of Stanford counts on his speedy secondary defenses to stop Washington passing when the Indians meet the Huskies on Saturday at Se-

Craig Richey, John Guillory, Dale Rubin and Dave Nelson compose the secondary foursome and all are fast.

Ralston complimented each for his work last Saturday in the Stanford 31-14 victory over Army. This week they try to stop the Huskies and the Indians haven't won at Seattle since 1957.

The coach pointed out that Washington had ball control in beating Oregon 24-20 last week and that his team didn't have the control in its game with the Ducks, even though victorious 17-14.

"It appears Washington has come into its own," Ralston told the Northern California Football Writers yesterday.

Coach Ray Willsey of California faces the job of bringing his Bears back to face Penn State after losing to UCLA 56-3.

Injuries have hit four tackles and it could be that sophomore Greg Kammann, who has not played yet this season, will start at a defensive tackle spot.

Willsey said offensive halfback Ted Parks may be switched to defense this week to give more depth in the secondary. A shortage developed through injury to veteran Greg Palamountain.

On the injured list and questionable for the Penn State game at Berkeley are tackles Dan Sinclair, also the team's place kicker, John Cantlon, Dan Goich and Dick Williams.

"We face a test in reassembling and realigning our team for this game," said Willsey who did such a job after Notre Dame beat the Bears 48-6 in the opener.

"We have the type of player who is as disappointed in the outcome of Saturday night's game as the coaching staff," said Willsey. "I don't think I'll have one lick of trouble getting them up again."

San Jose State coach Harry Anderson said his Spartans aimed for a third straight victory over a foe from the Western Athletic Conference, the league they hope to join.

USC Coach Beaten, But Still Witty

LOS ANGELES (AP) —C Coach John McKay of the University of Southern California lost none of his well known wit in the Trojans' 28-7 loss to Notre Dame.

He appeared at the weekly football writers' luncheon yesterday in good humor and said:

"We have no excuses. We just got the hell kicked out of us."

McKay recalled the opening play when Notre Dame kicked off and the crowd at South Bend, Ind., was in a frenzy of excitement.

"Our receiver took the ball and moved up to about the 13-yard line. There wasn't anybody within 15 yards of him, and he fell down.

"One of my assistant coaches leaned over and screamed:

" 'For goodness sakes, they shot him!'

"I thought, I knew they were up for this game but this is ridiculous."

Southern Cal has no game scheduled this week.

"After that one, we need the week off. We should have taken it last week," he concluded.

AFTER VIEWING FILMS

Chris Won't Blame Refs

San Francisco 49er coach Jack Christiansen has refused to join the fans' rumblings about two key penalty calls in last Sunday's madcap 42-41 Minnesota Viking win over San Francisco.

One was an interference call against Jimmy Johnson that gave the Vikings a 35-yard gain. Christiansen commented "from our game films, it could have been called either way. I'm not going to criticize the officiating."

On another questionable call, Dave Parks seemingly caught a touchdown pass but was called for offensive interference. Christiansen said "the incident was off the edge of the picture" of the game films.

Christiansen gave full credit to the Vikings, who rallied from a 35-14 halftime deficit. He also still had happy memories of his team's first half as an indication of how it can play when all the pieces fall into place.

"We couldn't have asked for a more perfect first half," he said. "The blocking and running was good and the passing was great. John Brodie hit 10 out of 12."

Christiansen said the team was still confident that it can take Baltimore next Sunday at Kezar Stadium. "We thought we could have beaten the Colts last time at Baltimore," he said. "We still think we can beat them."

Rams Svare At NFL Officiating

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles Ram Coach Harland Svare awaited results today of criticism he leveled at officiating within he National Football League.

The result he hoped for, he told Southern California football writers yesterday, was a change in what he termed officials' "conditioned reflex to the crowds."

Another possible result could be a fine from the NFL for publicly criticizing officiating. In New York a league official said there would be no comment on Svare's remarks.

"I don't question the integrity or ability of our officials, but I say they are being intimidated in large stadiums away from Los Angeles," Svare said.

"It happened in Baltimore and it happens in Chicago and other places," Svare said. "It doesn't happen in Los Angeles because we don't get the same crowd reaction here — possibly because we've been a loser for so long.

"NFL officiating never has been of a better caliber than now, but I want to call public attention to what is happening to us," Svare said.

Svare cited the Rams' 35-20 loss to Baltimore Saturday.

"There were nine calls against us at crucial times in Baltimore and only four against the Colts," Svare said. "The noise was so terrific at Baltimore that we couldn't hear our snap numbers, let alone audibles. That situation wasn't taken care of for us.

"I have to speak out because something must be done about it. The officials seem to have a conditioned reflex to the crowds in some other cities. I'm trying to get them to have a different reflex."

How The Books Set The Price

A peculiar thing happened to me on my way back to Notre Dame. I picked up a paper in Chicago and turned to the page with the football polls on it. Notre Dame was rated seventh on both polls. Southern California was rated fourth.

Right above that on the page was the headline: "Notre Dame Favored Over SC By 9"

In the immortal words of Lizzie Borden, someone is crazy around here.

It can't be us journalists. We pick the teams on the polls. And, naturally, we wouldn't let anything like personal friendships, regional loyalties, prejudices, or the fact we are ignorant of the facts, interfere with our selections.

No, it must be the gamblers who have gone off their rockers. It is well known they are emotional types who lead with their hearts (if they have the ace) and who would not let money stand in the way of their selections. They are out to encourage the youth of America. Right?

I TOOK the problem to Edward "Moose" Krause, the athletic director at Notre Dame. Nothing to it, Moose assured me smoothly. "You see," he said, "the gamblers are preying on the natural sentimentality of the Irish in the Midwest. They know they all go for Notre Dame and they lose their heads. When they get it in their minds Notre Dame will win, they will lay any price. The gamblers know Notre Dame is not 9 points better. It's just their natural cupidity."

As luck would have it, I shortly ran into a guy after the game who claimed to be a book out of Cleveland. I don't know if he is or not. He might be a sheet-metal worker. All I know is, he had a cream-colored Cadillac which barely fit in the city limits of South Bend.

"NAW," HE told me. "The books don't lay a big spread to catch the rah-rah set. You couldn't afford to. Some slicker in Chicago would clobber you with an overlay. They'd spread the action over so many towns and gobble up all the cards, that you would have to rob a bank to pay off."

THE CARDS, as you may or may not know (if you don't, keep it that way) make you a price you can't pick four out of four (or five out of five or more) football games. The only trouble is, it has to be unanimous. The joker is a point spread. Your teams not only have to win but by more than the bookies feel they should.

My new-found friend continued: "The thing you got to remember about Notre Dame," he said, "is there's more crying around here than in a maternity ward. This is a pretty classy football team. If they could throw the ball a little, they'd be the classiest. They got a quarterback, though, who's not even money to throw the ball north if you show him where it is.

"OUR THINKING was USC moves down because our information comes from the coast that Garrett was hurting. He turned an ankle a week ago and told nobody."

I was, to put it mildly, astonished. "That's right," I told him. "But I only found it out the day before the game. And I'm paid to find these things out. Who told you."

HE SMILED, winked. "Sometimes for a $5 phone call, you can save yourself a million-dollar mistake. Know what I mean? We also knew Sherman was so stove up in the legs he would need a cane to run a pass pattern. Also, we were told Troy Winslow, the Southern Cal quarterback, would always rather run the ball than throw it. And you can't run on Notre Dame.

"You put all these things together, and you don't need some Irishman with tears streaming down his cheeks waving a $10 bill at you and looking to get taken."

"WHAT HURT your calculations?" I asked him. "The rain?" He shook his head. "On a dry field, Notre Dame beats 'em worse. We figured Garrett is 70% of the Southern Cal offense but we figured, to be effective, he's got to get the ball 30 times. But we figured Notre Dame would take more time scoring. Our charts show them at about eight minutes a touchdown because they're a ground team and a ground team uses up the clock.

"WE FIGURED SC to score twice because they could score twice against Russia with that McKay offense. We had the game figured 21-12 which gives the books a clear-cut decision."

And that was the first time all day he sounded like a sports writer.

Michigan State Tops College Grid Poll

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Michigan State's victory over highly rated Purdue sent the Big Ten Spartans ahead of Arkansas today in a close vote for the No. 1 position in The Associated Press college football poll.

The undefeated Spartans supplanted the Razorbacks by the narrowest of margins — seven points, less than the total of one first place vote.

Arkansas, 55-20 winner over North Texas State, even outscored Michigan State in first place votes, 23 to 19, but fell off in the second and third positions.

Ten points are given for a first place nomination, nine for second and on down the line. Michigan State drew 473 points from the panel of 51 sports writers and broadcasters while Arkansas, which went to the top last week for the first time in history, collected 466.

Nebraska, like the Spartans and Razorbacks unbeaten and untied in six games, held to its No. 3 place with 424 points, including nine first place votes.

Notre Dame, on the basis of its impressive 28-7 rout of Southern California on national television, surged from seventh to fourth, followed by Louisiana State, No. 5; Purdue, No. 6; Florida, No. 7; Southern California, No. 8; Texas, No. 9, and Alabama, No. 10.

Alabama, the defending national champion, replaced Georgia, which lost to Kentucky 28-10. All other teams in the Top Ten are returnees, although shaken up in position.

Louisiana State, winner over South Carolina 21-7, rose from ninth, Purdue held No. 6 despite its loss and Florida, idle, gained one rung. Southern Cal dropped from fourth and Texas, losing to Rice 20-17 for its second setback, dropped from fifth.

Support for Duffy Daugherty's Michigan Staters apparently grew out of the Spartans' rugged schedule and the triumph Saturday over the fine Boilermaker team which earlier had upset Notre Dame.

North Texas State was regarded as a breather for Arkansas and Nebraska figured to win easily over Colorado, as it did 38-13.

Down 10-0 to Purdue after three periods, Michigan State rallied for two touchdowns in the final 10 minutes for a 14-10 victory.

The Spartans play Northwestern Saturday, Arkansas goes against Texas A&M at Little Rock and Nebraska meets perhaps its toughest test of the year in Missouri.

The Top Ten with first place votes in parentheses, season records and total points figured on 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis:

1.	Michigan State (19)	6-0 473
2.	Arkansas (23)	6-0 466
3.	Nebraska (9)	6-0 424
4.	Notre Dame	4-1 346
5.	Louisiana State	5-1 230
6.	Purdue	4-1-1 201
7.	Florida	4-1 200
8.	Southern California	4-1-1 93
9.	Texas	4-2 68
10.	Alabama	4-1-1 62

Others receiving votes, listed alphabetically: Clemson, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Kentucky, Minnesota, Mississippi State, Missouri, Ohio State, Penn State, Princeton, Stanford, Syracuse, Tennessee, Texas Tech, UCLA, Utah State, Washington State, Wyoming.

SAN PABLO STRIPED BASS RUN IN FULL SWING

After three false starts, it can be said, unequivocally that the seasonal run of striped bass in the San Pablo Bay is now in full swing. You may expect to have a better than 50-50 chance of catching a limit or near limits of fresh-run stripers from now until the first of the year with the exception of a short period in the middle and at the end of November, due to a series of minus tides. You may also expect good fishing in the Napa River, the Carquinez Strait and the Suisun Bay and environs. The back-country spots will likewise furnish some high-grade activity.

For the first time in many moons, the men and maids who fished out of China Camp hit the jackpot. Alice Quan (or was it Grace Quan? I get the two mixed up very often) gave the following report of action on Saturday and on Sunday (until noon): "It was just terrific! Lots of fish, all large. Hot spots were the pumphouse area and near the S.P. Buoy. They were caught on sardines, shrimp and bullheads."

From Dowrelio's Harbor at Crockett came more glowing news! "Both Friday and Saturday were banner days. Limits mostly with fish from 17 to 27 pounds."

The FISHIN' FOOL

By RALPH STEVENS
I-J Fish and Game Writer

As has been usual this year, most reporters stressed the fact that the larger fish were invariably taken on bullheads, and, as is usual, the scuttlebutt has it that a great many anglers fail to make the grade because of A LACK OF KNOWLEDGE ON HOW to fish a bullhead, so it seems right to devote a few lines on the subject of HOW to fish a bullhead.

I have maintained many times that any angler who knows the technique of coiled-line fishing during the late fall and winter months in such places as Sherman Lake, the Big Break, or Franks Tract can successfully and properly fish the faster waters of the San Pablo Bay and adjacent waters using bullheads as bait.

With the above in mind, I decided the best way to impress my readers would be to make an actual fishing trip with a men who consistantly registers limits or near-limits of large bass with bullheads.

I did that on Saturday with Dick Payne, former owner of the San Lorenzo Bait and Tackle Shop who has spent most of his off days fishing.

As I expected, Dick claims that the most frequent mistake made by the novice at bullhead fishing is his eagerness to set the hook when a fish picks up the bullhead. "They rear back on the rod and literally jerk the bait from the bass. You must never do that," said Dick. You must allow your fish to take the bullhead in his mouth and swim away with it—20 or more feet usually. Only when you are certain your fish has actually swallowed the bullhead should you attempt to set the hook. Then, when he has taken 10, 15 or 20 feet of line from your reel without the slightest resistance on your part, and only then will the expert bring his rod-tip up hard.

Was Dick's method the right technique? Well, I watched Mr. Payne practice what he preached, and saw him hook, play and land three beautiful stripers—almost triplets of over 14 pounds.

Another interesting thing: Dick Payne used the same bullhead for all three fish. Nothing will bother the bullhead unless it lands in a compact mass of crabs, otherwise only bass—large bass, will take it.

Casper Hikes '65 Earnings To $129,930

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (UPI) — Billy Casper of Peacock Gap, who already has won four tournaments to match his previous season high, appears headed for $100,000 in official Professional Golfers' Assn. earnings for the first time in his career.

Casper, who added $20,000 to his winnings with a victory in the Sahara Invitational last weekend, boosted his official earnings to $96,772 for third place behind Jack Nicklaus ($138,852) and Tony Lema ($101,817).

Casper also vaulted into second place in over-all earnings with $129,930, which also includes money won in tournaments not sanctioned by the PGA. Nicklaus leads in over-all earnings with $150,347.

The rest of the top 10 official money winners are Doug Sanders ($72,182), Gary Player ($69,964), Bruce Devlin ($67,658), Dave Marr ($63,373), Gene Littler ($58,898), Arnold Palmer ($57,770) and Al Geiberger ($55,724).

Indian Lewis Soars Into Passing Lead

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Stanford's Dave Lewis has taken over the passing leadership in the Pacific Athletic Conference yet ranks only third in total offense.

Usually the aerial leader also tops the total offense list, but Southern California's Mike Garrett took over the latter last week and maintained it despite being checked by Notre Dame.

Lewis took the passing lead with 10 completions in Stanford's 31-14 victory over Army, giving him a season total of 61. Washington State's Tom Roth, who led Lewis by one a week ago, completed eight in the 8-7 victory over Indiana for a season total of 60.

Garrett has 907 yards total offense, 895 of them on the ground for a league lead of nearly 300 yards in the rushing department.

UCLA's Gary Beban, who runs and throws, led the Bruins to a 56-3 victory over California on Saturday night and boosted himself into second place on the total offense list. He has gained 654 yards passing and 247 passing for 901, just six behind Garrett.

In the scoring department, Garrett continues to lead with 48 points, followed by Oregon's Steve Bunker with 38. Bunker leads pass receivers with 29 for 504 yards and six touchdowns.

Stanford sophomore halfback Tim Abena, who took over punting when Lewis suffered a foot injury, continues to lead the department with an average of 45 yards per kick. He booted twice against Army, each time for 45, the same average of his previous 11. Lewis has punted 12 times for a 44 average.

Washington's Tod Hullin ranks third on the passing list with 44 completions but leads in touchdown tosses with seven. Both Lewis and Roth have four.

Cal League May Expand

STOCKTON (AP) — The California League will try to have eight baseball teams again this season.

League President Eddie Mulligan made the announcement Saturday at the annual league meeting in Stockton. The California League consisted of eight teams two years ago but shrank to six in 1965 when Reno and Modesto pulled out.

Before thinking about expansion, however, the league must find a city willing to accept the Salinas franchise which went under because the Cleveland Indians ended their working agreement. Most likely site would be Modesto.

Major league general managers meet Nov. 8 at Palm Springs, Calif., and will apportion minor league working agreements then. This would set the stage for expansion to eight teams.

The league voted to play a 140-game split season in 1966 starting April 19 and finishing Sept. 5, Labor Day. There would be a three-game playoff between the first and second-half winner.

Mulligan was re-elected president for another three years. He's held the post 10 years. Vice President John Inglis also won another three-year term.

PREP NOTES

A BIG Role For Giants

By RALPH CHATOIAN

The way things look at this stage of the Marin Athletic League football race, the chances are better than even there will be more than one champion team.

As most observers predicted, it's been a dogfight so far and will be the rest of the way. There's a strong possibility of two, or even three teams tying for the championship. At the moment, three teams—Drake, Novato and Tam—are tied for first place with 2-1 records. Each of the leaders has three games in front of it. They've already played each other.

Only one team plays all three of the leaders—Redwood. How does with the three top teams will have BIG bearing on the chase.

In front of Drake are San Rafael, Terra Linda and Redwood, in that order. Novato has scheduled dates with Redwood, San Rafael and Marin Catholic, and in front of Tam are Marin Catholic, Redwood and Terra Linda, also in that order. This is going to be a hectic three weeks.

DEAN LAZZARINI, that green and white flash you see on the Drake High School football field in San Anselmo, made quite a splash on his TV debut.

After watching that Drake-Riordan game Saturday morning (it was played Friday night and taped for Saturday viewing) the viewer didn't have to wait for the sportswriters to hand in their ballots for outstanding performer of the game.

After all, he only picked up 226 yards and scored three touchdowns to lead the Pirates to a 28-20 triumph. He was the unanimous pick for TV prep player of the day, needless to say.

More than one Marin County coach has commented that if he doesn't get picked for the Shrine North-South All-Star game it would be the year's biggest California prep injustice.

TALK ABOUT a defense, that Terra Linda bunch has been too much. In the last 14 quarters the Trojans have played, they have given up just one touchdown, and that one TD was on an offensive mistake.

Terra Linda gave up 20 points to Novato in the first half of its league opener and then held the Hornets scoreless the final two quarters, barely losing 20-19. Marin Catholic was blanked by the Trojans 32-0 and Redwood tied them 6-6. Redwood got a big break late (last eight seconds) in the first half when Terra Linda faked a punt on fourth down and tried a run. Redwood ended up with a first down on the one-yard stripe, and easily scored a TD.

Then last Friday the Trojans shut out San Rafael 6-0. Watch out, Manteca, you just may be shut out Friday night.

MARIN CATHOLIC football coach Chuck Vaughan is ready to start doubling up on knee pads for his boys. "We've already had 10 or 11 knee injuries this season," said Chuck, who plans to check around the rest of the league to see how this stacks with other teams.

Last week he feared he would have only 18 kids dressed for the Redwood game, so he sent a rush order to the junior varsity. By the time the game rolled around, Vaughan had 27 uniformed players on the bench, but some were too injured to play.

"WE TOOK the olive," were the words of San Rafael Military Academy assistant grid coach Jim Hickey in explaining the Cadets' loss to Emery last Friday. To you fans who don't know, that expression is very symbolic in sports lingo. Like when the olive gets caught in your throat.

Both the Emeryville team and the Cadets were undefeated in the Bay Counties League going into the game. After that 35-14 win, Emery is 3-0 and the Cadets are 2-1 in league play. It was the first loss for SRMA after five straight wins.

The high-rolling SRMA offense piled up 450 yards, but fumbles and penalties killed too many scorinng opportunities.

Mel Baruh, that San Rafael Academy back who is leading Northern California preps both in rushing and scoring, had another big day with 150 yards and a touchdown. His yardage total now, after six games, is 1,138. And that's a fair amount of running.

By the time halftime came, the Cadets were trailing 21-0. "It was a complete breakdown," said Hickey.

KEN JOHNSON, that sophomore quarterback for Redwood who was called up from the junior varsity a few days ago, is quite an athlete, and most likely will see more action this season. One of the passes he threw in the Marin Catholic game last Friday went 50 yards in the air as this youngster showed off a mighty fine arm.

He's quite a shortstop and "he has a darned good chance of playing varsity baseball next season as a sophomore," said Al Endriss, head baseball coach and assistant football coach at Redwood.

In that Redwood-Marin Catholic game, Johnson connected on three of 10 passes for 101 yards. That's an impressive debut for a sophomore "rookie."

SINCE IT'S better weather for baseball than football anyway, let's talk about winter ball. Redwood's varsity baseballers are staying in shape in a San Francisco league, playing under the sponsorship of Indian Valley Lumber. Some of the players on the team do their prepping at other high schools, but most of them are Redwoodites.

They lost last Saturday to Poly High School players, 2-1, and Kevin Wilson was stung for the loss, although allowing only three hits. They evened up Sunday by beating Pacifica 10-5. Bob Tobin, a Drake athlete, pitched the win and Russ Smith and Kevin Wilson paced the hitting with two safeties each.

REF SAW THIS ONE—Novato's Dick Otis (40) dives for two yards against Tamalpais last Saturday in Kentfield before being brought down by Tam's Honor Jackson (88). But if you look closely, you'll see Jackson's right hand on Otis' face mask. The referee saw it and called a 15-yard penalty. Other identifiable players are Novato's Mike Mazzoni (35), John Youngs (75) and George Sheehan (82), and Tam's Gary Stephens (74) and Don Smith (44). Novato bombed Tam 34-0, the Indians' first loss of the year.

Three-Way Deadlock In Warner Football

The Novato Junior Hornets handed San Rafael its first loss of the year in Marin County Pop Warner Football League action Saturday, throwing the league into a three-way tie for the top spot.

Novato blanked San Rafael 13-0. In other games, also shutouts, Drake bumped Tam 12-0 and Terra Linda whipped Redwood 19-0. All three games were played at San Rafael High School's field.

Scoring touchdowns for Novato were Vince LaGoy on a six-yard run and Tom Cox with a nine-yarder. Cox also added an extra point with a run.

It was Drake's first league win of the season and first time the Junior Pirates have scored any points in league play. The Junior Pirated touchdowns were scored by Clint Hubbard on a two-yard run and Tony Cassin on a six-yard burst.

Mike Bridges was the star for the Terra Linda Junior Trojans, scoring all three touchdowns in the triumph over Redwood. He tallied on runs of 50, 34 and 4 yards. Rick Payne scored a point on a conversion.

Did Ford Frick Nix Milwaukee?

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (ap) — Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick was quoted by a state official yesterday as saying Milwaukee had been at the top of a National League expansion list but was eliminated because of antitrust suits and detrogatory remarks.

C. Hayden Jamison, executive director of the Wisconsin Investment board, testified in a deposition hearing that he met Frick last Sept. 2 in an attempt to determine whether the board could purchase the Braves club from its present owners, a syndicate of young Chicago area businessmen.

Testifying under questioning by Earl A. Jinkinson, representing the Braves and the National League in antitrust suits brought by Milwaukee County and the State of Wisconsin in connection with the Braves' scheduled move to Atlanta, Jamison said:

"Ford said he could assure me that the Braves would be in Atlanta in 1966. He said that Milwaukee would have obtained a franchise if it had not been for the antitrust suits and if the Milwaukee official would just shut up.

"He also said to me, 'If you repeat this, I'll deny it.' "

Asked whether Frick had referred specifically to Eugene Grobschmidt, chairman of the Milwaukee County Board of Supervisors, as the public official who had been so outspoken, Jamison said, "It was suggested that it might be Grobschmidt."

Drake Vs. San Rafael In Game Of The Week Friday

Drake and San Rafael high schools clash Friday night at 8 o'clock on the San Rafael field in the Marin County game of the week.

Drake, currently tied for first place in the Marin Athletic League scramble with Tam and Novato, is expected to get a stiff fight from the Bulldogs, playing on their home field.

In other Marin Athletic League games, Tam and Marin Catholic battle Friday night at 8 o'clock in College of Marin stadium, and Redwood hosts Novato Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at the COM stadium.

College of Marin Tars will be after their second Golden Valley Conference win Saturday night at 8 when they tangle with Yuba College in Marysville. In non-league action, Terra Linda travels to Manteca Friday night at 8 o'clock, and the San Rafael Military Academy Cadets host the Redwood junior varsity Friday at 3:15 p.m.

How The Books Set The Price

A peculiar thing happened to me on my way back to Notre Dame. I picked up a paper in Chicago and turned to the page with the football polls on it. Notre Dame was rated seventh on both polls. Southern California was rated fourth.

Right above that on the page was the headline: "Notre Dame Favored Over SC By 9"

In the immortal words of Lizzie Borden, someone is crazy around here.

It can't be us journalists. We pick the teams on the polls. And, naturally, we wouldn't let anything like personal friendships, regional loyalties, prejudices, or the fact we are ignorant of the facts, interfere with our selections.

No, it must be the gamblers who have gone off their rockers. It is well known they are emotional types who lead with their hearts (if they have the ace) and who would not let money stand in the way of their selections. They are out to encourage the youth of America. Right?

I TOOK the problem to Edward "Moose" Krause, the athletic director at Notre Dame. Nothing to it, Moose assured me smoothly. "You see," he said, "the gamblers are preying on the natural sentimentality of the Irish in the Midwest. They know they all go for Notre Dame and they lose their heads. When they get it in their minds Notre Dame will win, they will lay any price. The gamblers know Notre Dame is not 9 points better. It's just their natural cupidity."

As luck would have it, I shortly ran into a guy after the game who claimed to be a book out of Cleveland. I don't know if he is or not. He might be a sheet-metal worker. All I know is, he had a cream-colored Cadillac which barely fit in the city limits of South Bend.

"NAW," HE told me. "The books don't lay a big spread to catch the rah-rah set. You couldn't afford to. Some slicker in Chicago would clobber you with an overlay. They'd spread the action over so many towns and gobble up all the cards, that you would have to rob a bank to pay off."

THE CARDS, as you may or may not know (if you don't, keep it that way) make you a price you can't pick four out of four (or five out of five or more) football games. The only trouble is, it has to be unanimous. The joker is a point spread. Your teams not only have to win but by more than the bookies feel they should.

My new-found friend continued: "The thing you got to remember about Notre Dame," he said, "is there's more crying around here than in a maternity ward. This is a pretty classy football team. If they could throw the ball a little, they'd be the classiest. They got a quarterback, though, who's not even money to throw the ball north if you show him where it is.

"OUR THINKING was USC moves down because our information comes from the coast that Garrett was hurting. He turned an ankle a week ago and told nobody."

I was, to put it mildly, astonished. "That's right," I told him. "But I only found it out the day before the game. And I'm paid to find these things out. Who told you."

HE SMILED, winked. "Sometimes for a $5 phone call, you can save yourself a million-dollar mistake. Know what I mean? We also knew Sherman was so stove up in the legs he would need a cane to run a pass pattern. Also, we were told Troy Winslow, the Southern Cal quarterback, would always rather run the ball than throw it. And you can't run on Notre Dame.

"You put all these things together, and you don't need some Irishman with tears streaming down his cheeks waving a $10 bill at you and looking to get taken."

"WHAT HURT your calculations?" I asked him. "The rain?" He shook his head. "On a dry field, Notre Dame beats 'em worse. We figured Garrett is 70% of the Southern Cal offense but we figured, to be effective, he's got to get the ball 30 times. But we figured Notre Dame would take more time scoring. Our charts show them at about eight minutes a touchdown because they're a ground team and a ground team uses up the clock.

"WE FIGURED SC to score twice because they could score twice against Russia with that McKay offense. We had the game figured 21-12 which gives the books a clear-cut decision."

And that was the first time all day he sounded like a sports writer.

Michigan State Tops College Grid Poll

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Michigan State's victory over highly rated Purdue sent the Big Ten Spartans ahead of Arkansas today in a close vote for the No. 1 position in The Associated Press college football poll.

The undefeated Spartans supplanted the Razorbacks by the narrowest of margins — seven points, less than the total of one first place vote.

Arkansas, 55-20 winner over North Texas State, even outscored Michigan State in first place votes, 23 to 19, but fell off in the second and third positions.

Ten points are given for a first place nomination, nine for second and on down the line. Michigan State drew 473 points from the panel of 51 sports writers and broadcasters while Arkansas, which went to the top last week for the first time in history, collected 466.

Nebraska, like the Spartans and Razorbacks unbeaten and untied in six games, held to its No. 3 place with 424 points, including nine first place votes.

Notre Dame, on the basis of its impressive 28-7 rout of Southern California on national television, surged from seventh to fourth, followed by Louisiana State, No. 5; Purdue, No. 6; Florida, No. 7; Southern California, No. 8; Texas, No. 9, and Alabama, No. 10.

Alabama, the defending national champion, replaced Georgia, which lost to Kentucky 28-10. All other teams in the Top Ten are returnees, although shaken up in position.

Louisiana State, winner over South Carolina 21-7, rose from ninth, Purdue held No. 6 despite its loss and Florida, idle, gained one rung. Southern Cal dropped from fourth and Texas, losing to Rice 20-17 for its second setback, dropped from fifth.

Support for Duffy Daugherty's Michigan Staters apparently grew out of the Spartans' rugged schedule and the triumph Saturday over the fine Boilermaker team which earlier had upset Notre Dame.

North Texas State was regarded as a breather for Arkansas and Nebraska figured to win easily over Colorado, as it did 38-13.

Down 10-0 to Purdue after three periods, Michigan State rallied for two touchdowns in the final 10 minutes for a 14-10 victory.

The Spartans play Northwestern Saturday, Arkansas goes against Texas A&M at Little Rock and Nebraska meets perhaps its toughest test of the year in Missouri.

The Top Ten with first place votes in parentheses, season records and total points figured on 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis:

1. Michigan State	(19)	6-0 473
2. Arkansas	(23)	6-0 466
3. Nebraska	(9)	6-0 424
4. Notre Dame		4-1 346
5. Louisiana State		5-1 230
6. Purdue		4-1-1 201
7. Florida		4-1 200
8. Southern California		4-1-1 93
9. Texas		4-2 68
10. Alabama		4-1-1 62

Others receiving votes, listed alphabetically: Clemson, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Kentucky, Minnesota, Mississippi State, Missouri, Ohio State, Penn State, Princeton, Stanford, Syracuse, Tennessee, Texas Tech, UCLA, Utah State, Washington State, Wyoming.

SAN PABLO STRIPED BASS RUN IN FULL SWING

The FISHIN' FOOL

By RALPH STEVENS
I-J Fish and Game Writer

After three false starts, it can be said, unequivocally that the seasonal run of striped bass in the San Pablo Bay is now in full swing. You may expect to have a better than 50-50 chance of catching a limit or near limits of fresh-run stripers from now until the first of the year with the exception of a short period in the middle and at the end of November, due to a series of minus tides. You may also expect good fishing in the Napa River, the Carquinez Strait and the Suisun Bay and environs. The back-country spots will likewise furnish some high-grade activity.

For the first time in many moons, the men and maids who fished out of China Camp hit the jackpot. Alice Quan (or was it Grace Quan? I get the two mixed up very often) gave the following report of action on Saturday and on Sunday (until noon): "It was just terrific! Lots of fish, all large. Hot spots were the pumphouse area and near the S.P. Buoy. They were caught on sardines, shrimp and bullheads."

From Dowrelio's Harbor at Crockett came more glowing news! "Both Friday and Saturday were banner days. Limits mostly with fish from 17 to 27 pounds."

As has been usual this year, most reporters stressed the fact that the larger fish were invariably taken on bullheads, and, as is usual, the scuttlebutt has it that a great many anglers fail to make the grade because of A LACK OF KNOWLEDGE ON HOW to fish a bullhead, so it seems right to devote a few lines on the subject of HOW to fish a bullhead.

I have maintained many times that any angler who knows the technique of coiled-line fishing during the late fall and winter months in such places as Sherman Lake, the Big Break, or Franks Tract can successfully and properly fish the faster waters of the San Pablo Bay and adjacent waters using bullheads as bait.

With the above in mind, I decided the best way to impress my readers would be to make an actual fishing trip with a men who consistantly registers limits or near-limits of large bass with bullheads.

I did that on Saturday with Dick Payne, former owner of the San Lorenzo Bait and Tackle Shop who has spent most of his off days fishing.

As I expected, Dick claims that the most frequent mistake made by the novice at bullhead fishing is his eagerness to set the hook when a fish picks up the bullhead. "They rear back on the rod and literally jerk the bait from the bass. You must never do that," said Dick. You must allow your fish to take the bullhead in his mouth and swim away with it—20 or more feet usually. Only when you are certain your fish has actually swallowed the bullhead should you attempt to set the hook. Then, when he has taken 10, 15 or 20 feet of line from your reel without the slightest resistance on your part, and only then will the expert bring his rod-tip up hard.

Was Dick's method the right technique? Well, I watched Mr. Payne practice what he preached, and saw him hook, play and land three beautiful stripers—almost triplets of over 14 pounds.

Another interesting thing Dick Payne used the same bullhead for all three fish. Nothing will bother the bullhead unless it lands in a compact mass of crabs, otherwise only bass—large bass, will take it.

Casper Hikes '65 Earnings To $129,930

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (UPI) — Billy Casper of Peacock Gap, who already has won four tournaments to match his previous season high, appears headed for $100,000 in official Professional Golfers' Assn. earnings for the first time in his career.

Casper, who added $20,000 to his winnings with a victory in the Sahara Invitational last weekend, boosted his official earnings to $96,772 for third place behind Jack Nicklaus ($138,852) and Tony Lema ($101,817).

Casper also vaulted into second place in over-all earnings with $129,930, which also includes money won in tournaments not sanctioned by the PGA. Nicklaus leads in over-all earnings with $150,347.

The rest of the top 10 official money winners are Doug Sanders ($72,182), Gary Player ($69,964), Bruce Devlin ($67,658), Dave Marr ($63,373), Gene Littler ($58,898), Arnold Palmer ($57,770) and Al Geiberger ($55,724).

Indian Lewis Soars Into Passing Lead

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Stanford's Dave Lewis has taken over the passing leadership in the Pacific Athletic Conference yet ranks only third in total offense.

Usually the aerial leader also tops the total offense list, but Southern California's Mike Garrett took over the latter last week and maintained it despite being checked by Notre Dame.

Lewis took the passing lead with 10 completions in Stanford's 31-14 victory over Army, giving him a season total of 61. Washington State's Tom Roth, who led Lewis by one a week ago, completed eight in the 8-7 victory over Indiana for a season total of 60.

Garrett has 907 yards total offense, 895 of them on the ground for a league lead of nearly 300 yards in the rushing department.

UCLA's Gary Beban, who runs and throws, led the Bruins to a 56-3 victory over California on Saturday night and boosted himself into second place on the total offense list. He has gained 654 yards passing and 247 passing for 901, just six behind Garrett.

In the scoring department, Garrett continues to lead with 48 points, followed by Oregon's Steve Bunker with 38. Bunker leads pass receivers with 29 for 504 yards and six touchdowns.

Stanford sophomore halfback Tim Abena, who took over punting when Lewis suffered a foot injury, continues to lead the department with an average of 45 yards per kick. He booted twice against Army, each time for 45, the same average of his previous 11. Lewis has punted 12 times for a 44 average.

Washington's Tod Hullin ranks third on the passing list with 44 completions but leads in touchdown tosses with seven. Both Lewis and Roth have four.

2 Young San Rafael Swimmers Triumph

Kim Knudsen won the 9-10 girls 50-yard breaststroke event and Tom Panages won 11-12 boys 100-yard breast to pace the San Rafael Swim Club last weekend in the Palo Alto A-B meet sanctioned by the AAU.

Other San Rafael point winners were JoAnn Hislop, Melessa Panages, Gary Walraven, Lisa Knudsen and Carl Knudsen.

Cal League May Expand

STOCKTON (AP) — The California League will try to have eight baseball teams again this season.

League President Eddie Mulligan made the announcement Saturday at the annual league meeting in Stockton. The California League consisted of eight teams two years ago but shrank to six in 1965 when Reno and Modesto pulled out.

Before thinking about expansion, however, the league must find a city willing to accept the Salinas franchise which went under because the Cleveland Indians ended their working agreement. Most likely site would be Modesto.

Major league general managers meet Nov. 8 at Palm Springs, Calif., and will apportion minor league working agreements then. This would set the stage for expansion to eight teams.

The league voted to play a 140-game split season in 1966 starting April 19 and finishing Sept. 5, Labor Day. There would be a three-game playoff between the first and second-half winner.

Mulligan was re-elected president for another three years. He's held the post 10 years. Vice President John Inglis also won another three-year term.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

If Cards Had Souls, Perhaps They'd Revolt Against Duffers

Did you ever stop to think that some day the cards may rise up and revolt against people who misuse them?

Put yourself in the place of the ace of hearts: what would you think of a player who wasted you to take a losing finesse?

Partner opens with one spade and the next player passes.

You hold:

♠ Q 8 3
♥ K 7 6 5 2
♦ 6 3
♣ Q J 10.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades.

This shows adequate trump support, with about 6 to 10 points, counting distribution as well as high cards.

Opening lead — ♣ Q

South ruffed the third round of clubs and led a heart to dummy's ace to take a finesse.

The problem was whether to try a spade or a diamond finesse.

'NORMAL' PLAY

South decided that the "normal" play was to draw trumps first. He lost the trump finesse to the queen, and back came a heart, forcing him to ruff again.

Now South was in serious trouble. He drew one more round of trumps with the ace and led out the ace and king of diamonds in the hope that the queen would drop.

When there was no such luck South had to give up a diamond to the queen, and East's club return set up another trump trick for West. Down two.

OTHER FINESSE WORKS

It's easy to see that the diamond finesse would work. Dummy naturally pointed this out, as dummies will, but South said his trump play was correct but unlucky.

Nobody argued with South, but the ace of hearts had his own opinion about South's ability as a bridge player.

South should lead the jack of diamonds from dummy for a finesse instead of taking the spade finesse.

If the diamond finesse works, well and good. If it loses, South can later lead a diamond to dummy's nine and then try the spade finesse.

Two chances for the contract are better than one.

Young Fisherman Surprises Experts

ARVADA, Wyo. (AP)—A 6-year-old Arvada boy, Russell Dexter, surprised Wyoming game and fish commission fish biologists recently, by catching a 29-inch long shovelnose sturgeon in Clear Creek, a tributary of the Powder river.

It was the first sturgeon caught in Wyoming since 1959. The fishery biologists had believed the species was extinct.

Stock Market Closes After Making Advance

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced to new highs at the close today.

Blue chips and the recent high flyers got in gear to produce a substantial gain.

The market was higher from the start and moved upward during the session.

Volume for the day was estimated at 6.9 million shares compared with 7.09 million yesterday.

Many volatile issues which were upset in recent profit taking staged vigorous recoveries. At the same time, motors, steels, selected chemicals, aerospace issues, oils, rails and a wide range of industrials posted solid gains.

The snapback in the wide gainers was symbolized by Fairchild Camera which surged back half a dozen points in a splurge of buying which made it most active.

Gains of around 3 points were made by Zenith, National Airlines, Admiral, Northwest Airlines, Polaroid and Motorola.

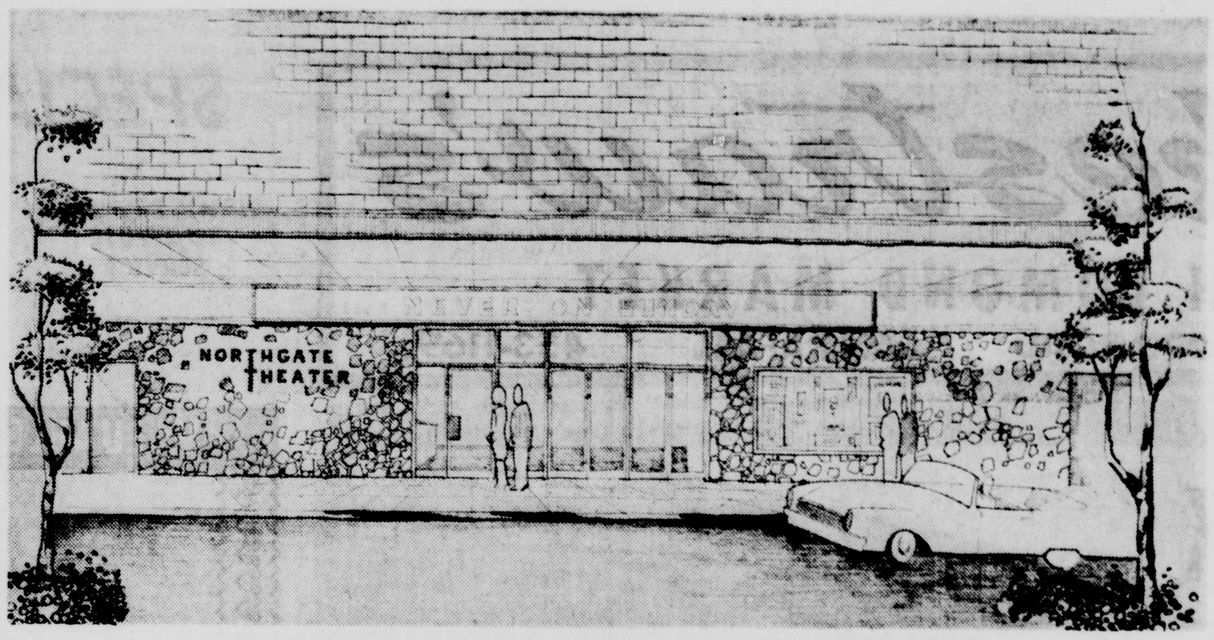
Up a point or better were such stocks as General otors, U.S. teel, Bethlehem, Anaconda, Union Carbide and Du Pont.

Up 2 points or so were Magnavox, Western Union, KLM Airlines and Chicago & North Western.

Ahead a point or better were SCM Corp., Xerox, IBM and Raytheon.

Foster-Wheeler dropped more than 2.

Prices rose in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange.



DESIGN FOR THEATER FACADE

Northgate Theater, new Marin County project of the Blumenfeld Enterprises, will look like this when completed in January. A stadium-type theater, with more than 500 seats all on one floor, it will be located next to Bank of America's Northgate office. Equipment will include a large semi-circular screen and facilities for 70 millimeter film projection. Construction is scheduled to begin immediately.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

If Cards Had Souls, Perhaps They'd Revolt Against Duffers

Did you ever stop to think that some day the cards may rise up and revolt against people who misuse them?

Put yourself in the place of the ace of hearts: what would you think of a player who wasted you to take a losing finesse?

Partner opens with one spade and the next player passes.

You hold:

♠ Q 8 3
♥ K 7 6 5 2
♦ 6 3
♣ Q J 10.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades.

This shows adequate trump support, with about 6 to 10 points, counting distribution as well as high cards.

Opening lead — ♣ Q

South ruffed the third round of clubs and led a heart to dummy's ace to take a finesse.

The problem was whether to try a spade or a diamond finesse.

'NORMAL' PLAY

South decided that the "normal" play was to draw trumps first. He lost the trump finesse to the queen, and back came a heart, forcing him to ruff again.

Now South was in serious trouble. He drew one more round of trumps with the ace and led out the ace and king of diamonds in the hope that the queen would drop.

When there was no such luck South had to give up a diamond to the queen, and East's club return set up another trump trick for West. Down two.

OTHER FINESSE WORKS

It's easy to see that the diamond finesse would work. Dummy naturally pointed this out, as dummies will, but South said his trump play was correct but unlucky.

Nobody argued with South, but the ace of hearts had his own opinion about South's ability as a bridge player.

South should lead the jack of diamonds from dummy for a finesse instead of taking the spade finesse.

If the diamond finesse works, well and good. If it loses, South can later lead a diamond to dummy's nine and then try the spade finesse.

Two chances for the contract are better than one.

DAILY QUESTION

Young Fisherman Surprises Experts

ARVADA, Wyo. (AP)—A 6-year-old Arvada boy, Russell Dexter, surprised Wyoming game and fish commission fish biologists recently, by catching a 29-inch long shovelnose sturgeon in Clear Creek, a tributary of the Powder river.

It was the first sturgeon caught in Wyoming since 1959. The fishery biologists had believed the species was extinct.

ALMANAC

Today is Tuesday, Oct. 26, the 299th day of 1965 with 66 to follow:

The moon is approaching its first quarter; the morning star is Jupiter; the evening stars are Mars, Venus and Saturn.

In 1825, the Erie Canal, first of the great man-made waterways in the United States, was opened for traffic.

In 1920, Terrence MacSwiney, lord mayor of Cork, Ireland, died after fasting for 75 days in a prison cell demanding independence for Ireland.

In 1942, the Japanese sank the U.S. aircraft carrier Hornet after a savage engagement off the Solomon Islands.

In 1951, Rocky Marciano knocked out former heavyweight champion Joe Louis in Madison Square Garden.

A thought for the day: Norwegian dramatist Henrik Ibsen said "A community is like a ship; everyone ought to be prepared to take the helm."

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey, Western District headquarters. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

The column of heights gives the elevation in feet of each tide above or below the plane of Coast Survey chart soundings. The depths are always additive to the chart depths unless preceded by a minus sign (-), when the numbers are subtracted from the depth given in the chart. Light-face type indicates a.m. times; bold-face type indicates p.m. times.

Marin Supervisors Reaffirm Second Deck By Vote Of 3-2

Storer, Behr Still Remain In Minority

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, after a three-hour hearing today, reaffirmed its 3-2 stand favoring a second deck on the Golden Gate Bridge.

Supervisors Thomas T. Storer and Peter H. Behr remained the vocal minority.

The first vote was held Oct. 5 after Storer introduced a non-agenda motion asking delay of a decision by directors of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District.

The supervisors agreed to request the delay, but in addition they took a 3-2 vote in favor of a second deck.

Today's public hearing was held at Storer's request. Again it resulted in some extras being added, and Storer received some sharp criticism from fellow board members.

OFFERS SUBSTITUTE

It was Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen who moved that the board re-affirm its stand favoring the second deck. Supervisor Byron W. Leydecker seconded.

Storer offered a substitute motion saying that any vote on a second deck should be taken by the Marin County Transit Board, recently increased to seven members with addition of two city representatives to sit with the board of supervisors.

Leydecker sharply criticized Storer for not calling the hearing before the transit board in the first place if he thought that body should make the decision.

Storer's substitute motion failed for lack of second and Kettenhofen's motion was approved by the split vote. Supervisor William Gnoss joined in the affirmative.

TWO MOTIONS

Then Leydecker made two rapid motions. The first asked that the county administrator and the two Marin directors on the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District board meet to work out a proposal whereby the bridge district could contribute toward an improved bus system in Marin.

This passed unanimously.

Then Leydecker moved that the State Division of Highways be asked to give top priority to a study of bridge approaches in connection with the second deck. This again received a 3-2 vote, with Behr and Storer dissenting.

Then Kittenhofen renewed a motion passed by the board two months ago, asking the administrator to study means of inducing Greyhound Lines to improve its service in Marin. This was seconded by Leydecker, but protested by Behr, who said the hearing was supposed to be on the second deck, and board members were bringing in all

Tiburon Council Requests Delay On Deck To Bridge

The Tiburon City Council, meeting last night at Del Mar School, voted to ask the Golden Gate Bridge District board to delay action on construction of a second deck for the bridge.

Former city councilman Leo Souza, who appeared before the council last Friday to support Tiburon's stand against the proposed City of Marincello, last night found himself at odds with his one-time colleagues.

"Members of the Tiburon Peninsula Coordinating Council have been working for years to get a second deck," Souza declared. "We thought we were speaking for the city when we sought support on this project. If you vote against it now, that's three years of work down the drain for the coordinating council."

Margaret Azevedo, a county planning commissioner, disagreed. "I don't want to see the door closed on the use of possible lightweight rapid transit trains on the bridge," she said.

Councilman John S. Hoffmire Jr. said that was a closed issue. "The bridge directors have had two engineering studies on the possibility of trains on the bridge and both found they wouldn't work."

"I, too, once worked to get a second deck on the bridge," said Councilman Fred C. Hannahs. "That was when we were fighting against a second crossing with a terminus in Tiburon. but I've changed my mind. We need long term solutions."

"And who is to say," interjected Councilman Jacqueline Parnell, "that in another 10 years, when a second deck might reach its saturation point, that talk won't start again on a bridge to Tiburon?"

Councilman Anne L. Ellinwood moved the resolution, urging the bridge board to delay a second deck until studies are completed on other solutions to Marin's transportation problems.

The motion was seconded by Hannah's and passed by 4-1 vote, with Hoffmire voting "No."

Council Backs Storer Plea In Mill Valley

County Supervisor Thomas T. Storer got fast action last night when he asked the Mill Valley City Council to ask Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors to postpone a decision on building a second deck until they get some results from bay crossing studies.

As soon as Storer finished his presentation, the council voted 4-0 for such delay. Councilman George E. Wickham was absent.

Mayor Michael Wornum noted that the bridge district directors are "in a rather haste to spend money," including $300,000 to refurbish the district headquarters. "If this isn't a waste of public money!" he exclaimed.

Councilman Albert E. White said he wondered what changed the thinking of the bridge board. "The last study showed they couldn't add two trains to the bridge," he remarked.

Private Airport Promoter Asks Federal Nod For Burdell Ranch

A private flyer from Novato has filed an application with the Federal Aviation Agency to permit a 400-acre airport at the Smith Brothers Ranch in Burdell, about two miles north of the Marin County Airport.

Robert DeYoung of 30 Hillswood Drive, who operates a landing strip on the Smith Brothers ranch at Santa Venetia, reported yesterday that he filed the application for the Burdell site.

The proposed airport would have a 4,000-foot land strip about 100 feet wide, DeYoung said. "It would be a regular commercial airport, open to the public, for private and business planes," said DeYoung.

The airport would have hangars, shops for maintenance, charter services, probably a flight school, a small restaurant and transportation to and from the airport, according to DeYoung. Developers of the airport would sub-lease, he said, but he declined to name the men who might finance the development.

DeYoung said fliers who use the private landing strip between the north and south fork of Gallinas Creek are seeking a strip to replace it because it eventually will be developed for other uses.

The Burdell site, east of Highway 101, is the location of the Redwood Sanitary Land Fill operated by the Smith Brothers. The airport would be on filled land.

"We have to wait until we get the FAA report and go on from there," DeYoung reported.

He said he has notified the county planning department of his proposal, but will not seek county approval until he gets FAA approval.

DeYoung said the airport could serve not only Marin but also Sonoma County areas, particularly Petaluma.

Marin County has run into a snag trying to get FAA financing toward a $500,000 improvement program at the county airport at Novato.

The FAA, which puts up 54 per cent of the cost of develop-

Sausalito Parents Support District Cluster Policies

By BRUCE COLEMAN

Sausalito parents in effect gave school district trustees a "vote of confidence" last night, backing not only the current method of grouping pupils in classes but the disciplining and the decision of the board which desegregated the district's four schools.

Prior to the parents speaking out, the three principals and Supt. Charles Lavaroni gave progress reports, saying things are going very well.

Principal Ralph Magnuson at Manzanita School termed progress "excellent" Principal Robert D. Thomson, of Richardson Bay reported student and teacher morale high; Principal Alfred L. Anderson of Central School, said, "sociologically, we're about one million light years ahead."

The audience of about 250 met in Richardson Bay School's multi-purpose room to hear progress reports on "cluster-type grouping" and racial integration.

The board set the meeting two weeks ago after receiving a petition signed by 61 persons expressing dissatisfaction with cluster grouping and disciplining.

A switch was made Sept. 13 from achievement grouping (random grouping of pupils of similar ability levels) to cluster with pupils of various intelligence quotients in the same classroom).

Here's what parents said last night:

"Some of us haven't been outspoken enough to say how pleased we are," said Mrs. Peg Muldary. "From my 'total child,' I think we're doing very well."

Mrs. Betty Cooper said her child, now a kindergartener, went to private school last year. She feels, she said Sausalito kindergartens are "far better than those in private schools" and less costly.

Art Brown, Marin City parent, said: "We had the old form of grouping for a number of years and found it hasn't been valid as kids got to high school.

Smog Law Corrections Added To Brown Call

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Brown today added another item to the special call of the legislature, a measure aimed at correcting technical errors in this year's new auto smog law.

Frank Mesple, Brown's legislative secretary, predicted the measure to be carried by Sen. Vernon L. Sturgeon, R-Paso Robles, would clear both houses without difficulty. It's purely technical.

Most Of Fires Illegally Started

JAMESTOWN (AP) — The State Board of Forestry was told today that of the 114 fires that ravaged Northern California in mid-September, 75 involved law violations.

Deputy State Forester Howard Moore said only 16 of the fires "occurred despite compliance with laws."

"Power lines, incendiarism, smokers and machine use accounted for 85 per cent of the fires," he said. "Only 15 per cent were attributed to all other causes including debris burning, children and matches, dumps, structures and cooking fires."

Plaque Put On Historic Trees

A plaque has been installed on one of the four almond trees, once part of the historic John Reed ranch, on La Goma Avenue between Echo Lane and Sycamore Avenue in Mill Valley. It is a gift of the Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce.

The idea of preserving the trees was advanced last spring by the Outdoor Art Club, which is now working toward getting a state historical plaque for the nearby site of the former Reed adobe.

The four trees which remain of the old orchard are cared for, voluntarily, by Sohner Tree Service Inc., San Anselmo; Warner Tree Service and Erb Tree Service Inc., both of Mill Valley.

Redistricting Bill Signing Meets Delay

SACRAMENTO (UPI)— Gov. Edmund G. Brown's scheduled signing of a landmark reapportionment bill was delayed today while legal minds analyzed technical aspects of the measure.

The governor's office announced that "required legal checks" had not been completed and the bill probably would not be signed today. Brown had planned to sign the measure this morning.

The bill puts the legislative muscle in Southern California and urban centers while wiping out rural and northern domination of the Senate. The measure is called the most significant in the state's 115-year history.

A spokesman said a date for signing would be announced later today.

Cuban Exile Thwarted In Airliner Hijacking

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — An armed passenger tried unsuccessfully today to divert an airliner in flight to Cuba to pick up refugees, the Border Patrol said.

Officers identified the man as a Cuban exile living in Miami. They said he was overcome by the pilot, copilot and two passengers as the Miami-to-Key West National Airlines Flight 209 approached its destination.

Now It's Formal By Christopher

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Republican George Christopher today became a formal candidate for California governor with a jab at "ineptness, inefficiency and indecisiveness" of Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

The former San Francisco mayor also warned in his announcement that the GOP must take a middle road during the 1966 gubernatorial campaign—or face defeat.

Christopher, 57, made his long-expected announcement on a flying tour touching four major cities—San Diego, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Sacramento. It was his third formal bid for statewide office. He lost tries for the U.S. Senate in 1958 and for lieutenant governor in 1962

Christopher, a Greek immigrant who served eight years as San Francisco mayor, was the second Republican to make a formal announcement. The other was former U.S. Atty. Laughlin Waters of Los Angeles.

But the frontrunner in the polls for the June primary is actor Ronald Reagan, who expects to announce a decision in January. Reagan says he is willing to become a candidate—if enough Republicans want him to run.

Brown, now closing out his second four-year term, told a Southern California UPI editors meetg Saturday that he will decide by Jan. 15 whether to bid for an unprecedented third term. No Democrat has won a third term in California history, but Brown is expected to be a candidate.

Christopher assailed Brown for "wavering actions" and "limited abilities" and charged the Democratic administration had vacillated and hesitated on almost every important issue during the past seven years. He said the state could no longer tolerate what he called Brown's "game of political hop-scotch."

Fund Bill Signing Error Revealed

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—The White House erroneously announced that President Johnson had signed today, with misgivings, a $2-billion rivers and harbor authorization bill. Actually, the measure had not yet reached his desk.

Press secretary Bill D. Moyers, who made the original announcement, said later the bill was being rushed here from Washington aboard an Air Force courier and the president would sign it tonight.

At the time it was announced Johnson had signed the bill, Senate officials said it still was awaiting the signature of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

'Infiltration' Of KKK Told By Sheriff

WASHINGTON (AP) — A North Carolina sheriff testified today he and six deputies joined the Ku Klux Klan in 1963 to gather intelligence but got out and couldn't get information to make arrests when a cross was burned last May alongside the courthouse in Wilmington, N.C.

Sheriff Marion W. Millis of New Hanover County also told congressional investigators his force had been unable to get enough information for arrests in connection with a number of other cross burnings in the county.

As Millis related it, he and six deputies joined the Klan at an organizational meeting in 1963. The purpose, he said, was to gather intelligence.

But he told his deputies to get their names off the roll, he said, when word began spreading that the sheriff's office was participating in Klan activities.

Under questioning, he said some of the deputies "did get kind of enthused."

Donald T. Appell, chief investigator for the House Committee on Un-American Activities, said there were reports that Deputy Charles Goodwin later was elected to a state Klan office.

"It is clear that while some of

Hydrofoil Tests Set For Marin

Hydrofoils, the speedy craft that skim over the waves on spoke-like fins, may soon carry commuters between San Francisco and Marin.

Plans for testing the craft by Hydrofoil Boats Inc., were revealed to Marin county supervisors today when attorney Hugh G. Lawrence of Sausalito, representing the firm, said that water transportation might be a workable alternative to a second deck on the Golden Gate Bridge.

Fred Warner of San Francisco, a principal in the firm, told the Independent-Journal that tests will begin on a 48-passenger craft about Dec. 1.

Lawrence said the boat would be "operational" about 60 days after that.

Warner would not say when regularly scheduled runs might be started. However, he said "Marin seems to be our best bet" if the firm goes into the commuter service.

The boat to be tested is an L-548-D developed by Food Machinery Corp. It will cost $350,000, is 51 feet, three inches long; eight feet, two inches wide, and will travel at 45 miles an hour.

Stock Market Closes After Making Advance

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced to new highs at the close today.

Blue chips and the recent high flyers got in gear to produce a substantial gain.

The market was higher from the start and moved upward during the session.

Volume for the day was estimated at 6.9 million shares compared with 7.09 million yesterday.

Many volatile issues which were upset in recent profit taking staged vigorous recoveries. At the same time, motors, steels, selected chemicals, aerospace issues, oils, rails and a wide range of industrials posted solid gains.

The snapback in the wide gainers was symbolized by Fairchild Camera which surged back half a dozen points in a splurge of buying which made it most active.

Gains of around 3 points were made by Zenith, National Airlines, Admiral, Northwest Airlines, Polaroid and Motorola.

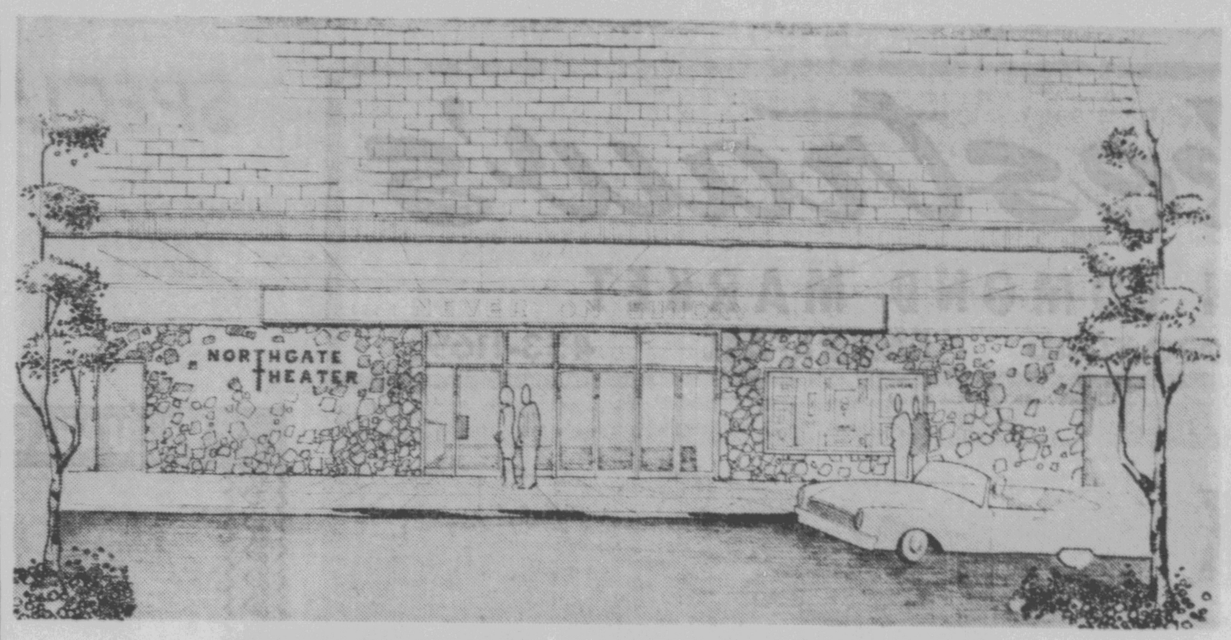
Up a point or better were such stocks as General otors, U.S. teel, Bethlehem, Anaconda, Union Carbide and Du Pont.

Up 2 points or so were Magnavox, Western Union, KLM Airlines and Chicago & North Western.

Ahead a point or better were SCM Corp., Xerox, IBM and Raytheon.

Foster-Wheeler dropped more than 2.

Prices rose in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange.



DESIGN FOR THEATER FACADE

Northgate Theater, new Marin County project of the Blumenfeld Enterprises, will look like this when completed in January. A stadium-type theater, with more than 500 seats all on one floor, it will be located next to Bank of America's Northgate office. Equipment will include a large semicircular screen and facilities for 70 millimeter film projection. Construction is scheduled to begin immediately.

EARLIER ROBBERY — Quebec, Canada, police took this picture of a 20-mm anti-tank gun used last Feb. 28 in an abortive effort to blast open a vault in a Brinks agency in that city. The thieves were scared off before finishing that job; over last weekend, a gang similarly equipped with a cannon got some $400,000 in robbing a Brinks office in Syracuse, N.Y. (UPI Telephoto)

NEW FIGHTING HITS BESIEGED OUTPOST

Viet Cong Snipers Fire At Helicopters Carrying Three Visiting U. S. Senators

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — New fighting broke out at Plei Me today as the Viet Cong attacked with mortars and recoilless rifles and penetrated to within 20 yards of the camp's outer perimeter.

A U.S. military spokesman said there were some casualties at the Special Forces camp 210 miles northeast of Saigon, but he did not say how many.

The Communists struck from the southwest, an area to which a strong U.S. and South Vietnamese relief force had not extended control after lifting a seven-day siege on the camp Monday night.

U.S. jets swarmed in and hammered the Viet Cong with bombs and cannon fire.

The strength of the attacking force was not known. An informant said Monday reports indicated that a regiment of North Vietnamese regulars had been thrown into the fight. A U.S. military informant in Pleiku said about 750 of the 1,200-man Communist force had been knocked out in the past week of fighting around Plei Me.

At Can Tho, Viet Cong snipers fired on Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and three other U.S. lawmakers today as helicopters were preparing to land them at a Special Forces camp in the Mekong Delta.

None of the helicopters was hit and no one was injured. The four visitors said they did not notice the sniper fire although they heard and saw armed helicopters escorting them attack the snipers.

The incident occurred less than two miles from the Cambodian border in Kien Phong Province, about 50 miles west of Can Tho.

The other lawmakers were Sen. Joseph Tydings, D - Md., and Reps. John Culver, D-Iowa, and John Tunney, D-Calif.

The congressional party was approaching the Special Forces camp at Cai Cai with newsmen in four helicopters escorted by three armed helicopters. A pilot aboard one of the gunships estimated four or five rounds of sniper fire greeted the party.

When the firing began, the armed helicopters swooped down and made five passes firing rockets while the other helicopters hovered overhead.

The incident lasted about eight minutes. The first passenger hoelicopter to set down at the camp carried Culver and Tunney and the second Kennedy and Tydings.

"I wouldn't want to overdramatize this while our boys are out on the front lines," Kennedy said.

"It's routine for traffic at this place to get shot at every day," said Capt. Arthur Remling, 27, of Houston, Tex., who is in command of the American detachment at the camp.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

BEMEDALLED BEATLES — Britain's famed singing quartet show off their O.B.E. medals (member of the Order of the British Empire) outside Buckingham Palace in London today, after the decorations were pinned on by Queen Elizabeth in a special ceremony, despite protests from other O.B.E. winners who received their medals for valor or other outstanding deeds. Beatles Made Members Of OBE

LONDON (UPI)—The arrival of the Beatles today at Buckingham Palace, where they were made members of the Order of the British Empire, inspired unprecedented demonstrations outside the historic building.

A horde of squealing teen-agers tried to rush the mopheaded quartet when they rode up in one of their Rolls-Royces. A cordon of police held them back.

When the Beatles had entered the palace grounds, their hysterical fans tried to climb over the ornate iron gates.

Ths award to the four, only three years out of working-class Liverpool, drew bitter protests from other members of the OBE who received the honors for war services.

"If the Rolling Stones ever get it, the Beatles will send theirs back." The Rolling Stones is another pop group.

Police Dragnet Set For Yeggs In Cannon Job

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Police traced the faint track today of a resourceful gang of international thieves who blasted open a Brinks vault with a cannon and looted it of $400,000.

Burglars, whose tracks apparently have criss-crossed the Canadian border, hauled a 20mm cannon into the Brinks Inc. office here over the weekend and shot their way through two-foot-thick vault walls.

In grabbing the vault's contents, the thieves got only about $100,000 in cash or negotiable securities, a company spokesman said. The rest of the loot was in checks.

They also passed up $100,000 in coins, he said.

Police said the burglars mounted the cannon — used in aircraft or as an antiaircraft weapon — on a homemade mount and blasted the vault walls with 30 rounds.

They said passerbys now recall hearing muffled explosions in the vicinity at about 3 a.m. Sunday, but the time of the robbery has not been established.

An FBI spokesman in Albany said the bureau was checking whether the cannon was one of two 20-mm guns stolen from a Railway Express Agency office in Plattsburgh April 8.

The cannon had been shipped from an arms firm in Alexandria, Va., to a fictitious address in that city near the Canadian border. While the cannon was in the agency's office, a rear door was pried open and the guns and a quantity of ammunition were taken.

In the Syracuse Brinks robbery, police said they found four unusued bottles of nitroglycerine at the scene along with gas masks, acetylene torches, the expended shells and unused rounds.

The walls had been lined with mattresses, apparently to deaden the sound of the cannon shots.

Police alerted authorities yesterday in the northeastern United States and adjacent Canada to watch four men in a truck, possibly bearing Canadian license plates.

NASA Reshuffles Gemini Schedules

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla., (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration pushed ahead with plans for the 14-day Gemini 7 flight today while engineering detectives sought the cause of the failure of the Agena rocket that wrecked the Gemini 6 mission.

There also was some second guessing on whether the modified Agena should have been fired for the first time on a mission as important as Gemini 6.

The Agena failure wiped out an intended chase across the sky by astronauts Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Thomas P. Stafford. They had planned to catch and hook onto the Agena in a vital rehearsal for later man-to-the-moon flights.

Their launching was called off when the Agena apparently exploded or broke apart 6 minutes, 10 seconds after launching.

"It's a sweet spacecraft, save it for me," commented a disappointed Schirra.

"We'll have a better go at it next time," said Stafford.

"Next time" will be at least four months off, possibly six.

Robert Seamans, associate director of the space agency, and Robert Gilruth, head of the Manned Spacecraft Center, said the failure would not delay the over-all goal of landing the first Americans on the moon in 1969.

However, additional failures to rendezvous with an Agena in the Gemini program would be a serious setback. The Apollo manned lunar landing program is based on the ability of two astronauts to rendezvous with another vehicle for return to earth after they have explored the moon.

China Again Buys Wheat From Canada

TORONTO (AP) — Canada's wheat farmers looked forward today to three years of prosperity following the announcement that Red China has signed up to buy at least $403 million worth of their crop in that period.

The sale, announced yesterday by Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp, is the third arranged between the two countries and the biggest yet. The trade minister said the contract calls for Red China to buy a minimum of 223.8 million bushels of wheat and flour worth about $403 million. Deliveries would begin next August and run for about three years.

The sale "assures our wheat producers of a market for their wheat crop during this period," said L. A. Boileau of the Saskatchewan wheat pool. "China may well develop into a continuous market for Canadian wheat."

There was no immediate reaction in U.S. grain circles, which had expected the deal.

Canada sold 187 million bushels of wheat to Red China in 1963 and 53.8 million bushels in 1961.

Indians Walk Out As U.N. Argues Thant's Activities

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —In a Security Council session highlighted by an Indian walkout, the United States and Russia last night disputed how far Secretary-General U Thant can go to prevent a revival of the India-Pakistan war.

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko charged that Thant had exceeded his mandate by sending extra observers to patrol the 1,000-mile cease-fire line between the two nighboring enemies.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg replied that Thant had followed the spirit and letter of the council request that he exert every possible effort to obtain compliance with its resolutions calling for a cease-fire and withdrawal of both armies.

India walked out of the council after Pakistan accused the Indians of atrocities in Kashmir reminiscent of Nazi horrors in World War II.

The council meets again tomorrow to continue the debate.

Fanfani Recovering From Leg Injury

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Italian Foreign Minister Amintore Fanfani intends to resume the presidency of the U.N. General Assembly next Monday, an authoritative source says.

Fanfani fell and ruptured a leg tendon Oct. 9. He was operated on a week ago in the New York Columbia - Presbyterian Medical Center.

FLAGS, PARADES

Veterans Mounting Support Of Policy

By JERRY BUCK
Associated Press Writer

Veterans groups in some states are planning to turn Veterans Day observances on Nov. 11 into a show of support for U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

At the forefront is Nevada, where veterans have been asked to fly the American flag and wear their caps as a symbol of protest against the anti-Viet Nam marches.

Throughout Maryland, American Legion posts will hold rallies and parades the week of Veterans Day in opposition to the antiwar demonstrators. The rallies will begin Sunday, Nov. 7, at Brunswick, Md., and end on Veterans Day at the Baltimore War Memorial.

Andy Borg, commander in chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, said in Kansas City today his group would conduct a project known as "Operation Boost" on Veterans Day.

Borg, who recently visited Viet Nam, said "Operation Boost" would demonstrate support for U.S. servicemen in Viet Nam. He said each VFW post "in its own way will organize the demonstration in its own area."

The Legion will stage a downtown rally in Seattle, Wash., Saturday to support the Viet Nam war effort. Dr. John Uno, district commander, said the rally is "to give the people of the city that opportunity to show that they are behind the fighting men."

Iowa Amvets plan a statewide "Viet Nam backup" program of letters from local posts to the home of each Iowan serving in Viet Nam. The letters will express appreciation for the servicemen's efforts and acknowledge support of U.S. policy.

In Nevada, the call for the statewide program was issued by Thomas W. Miller of Reno, national executive committeeman of the American Legion, who said of those opposing the government policy:

Mill Valley Adopts Eastern Area Plan

By FRANK FARRARA

The Mill Valley City Council last night adopted an East Mill Valley General Plan covering "the city's front door," which stresses water uses and commercial-recreation development along the Richardson Bay shoreline.

The plan covers about 1,200 acres, roughly from Corte Madera on the north to the Coyote Creek flood control channel on the south, between Camino Alto and Almonte Boulevard on the west and Highway 101 on the east.

After a two-and-one-half-hour joint public hearing with the city planning commission, the council adopted the plan by 3-1 vote, with Joseph E. Sheeks dissenting. Councilman George E. Wickham was absent due to illness.

Sheeks opposed the portion of the plan calling for dredging of city-owned land southwest of the small craft harbor to create another water area.

"I question the economics of converting seven acres to water, instead of land," Sheeks said. "I'm not sure I see an economic return to the city."

He said the land was a valuable asset to the city, and that the esthetic value could be preserved by having a canal lined with walkways and landscaping.

At one point Sheeks referred to the proposed new water area as "a liquid play yard for kids," and Robert C. Mountjoy, planning commission chairman objected.

"I think this is stretching it," Mountjoy said. "This is just one facet. This is not to say there won't be boating activity there."

During his presentation of the plan, Mountjoy said Mill Valley "has no orientation to water," and the plan would help to achieve this orientation.

He urged not only a "first class harbor," but "first class development around this water area."

Mountjoy said dredging of seven of the 23.5 acres owned by the city "could provide a second harbor, one more passive that children could use; a pedestrian-oriented area."

A second city water area could function also as a flood control measure "and complement the Alcan and Bothin developments," Mountjoy said.

Aside from the proposed new water area, the plan covers the Mill Valley Yacht Harbor, the Alcan-Marin harbor, and the proposed harbor on the Bothin land near Tamalpais Junction.

Harvey Bragdon, city planning duirector, said the acreage covered by the plan "is two-thirds in the city and one-third in the unincorporated area."

The planning commission will require planned unit development in the area, Bragdon said.

"Almost all the area covered by the plan is under consideration for development and most will be developed in the next 10 years," he said.

Land owners and their representatives generally concurred with the plan, but questioned the proposed commercial-recreation zoning in several areas.

George Artz, representing Alcan-Marin, said that firm agreed with the plan but may have to ask for a zoning variation for development along Highway 101. "We have plans on 10 acres for a hotel-motel complex, but we may wish to use only a portion of this and we may need small neighborhood shops to complement our residential area," he said.

Richard Gatley, representing Bothin Real Estate Co., said the company "is generally in accord," but wants commercial zoning for a neighborhood shopping center on its nine-acre site at Camino Alto and Miller Avenue.

The council also received a letter from Herbert A. Shapiro asking that his seven-acre parcel along Miller Avenue, now special commercial, be zoned something other than commercial-recreation.

Bragdon said the plan depends on abandonment of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad along the west shore of the bay.

Carl O. Olson, public relations manager for Southern Pacific and Northwestern Pacific, complimented the planning commission and planning staff on the plan and said, "the only way we can help is to abandon the right of way."

Clifford Hansen, representing the Marin Conservation League, requested that an ecological survey be made of the basin to evaluate the effect of development on natural life.

Under the proposed plan, there would be an undulating waterfront line, a wildlife sanctuary at Richardson Bay and Shoreline Highway, horse trails and pedestrian trails connecting with North Ridge and Mount Tamalpais.

Bragdon said the plan recognizes existing land uses, including the commercial area along Highway 101. It also includes a proposed road to carry traffic from Scott Highlands eastward to the east end of East Blithedale Avenue, so it can avoid the Camino Alto-East Blithedale intersection.

The plan also shows a freeway between Highway 101 and the shoreline which will lead to West Marin via Tennessee Valley.

Bragdon said that a federal open area grant or federal flood control funds might be available to finance the proposed new water area.

There was a smattering of applause from the audience of 25 persons when the council adopted the plan, some of it from the planning commission. Planning Commissioner Rodrick L. Robinson was absent.

Last night's hearing was the second on the plan. The first was held in May, after which the plan was sent back to the planning commission for amendments.

Council To Consider Slope Policy Waiver

San Anselmo city council, meeting today at 8 p.m. in city hall, will consider a request for the waiver of the city's slope policy for a 10-lot subdivision off the Alameda near Caletta Drive.

The San Anselmo Homes Assn., at its last meeting, voted to oppose the waiver, which was approved by the planning commission. Harry Johnson, the applicant, asks to build on 10,000 square foot lots. The steep terrain requires 18,000 square foot lots, according to the city slope policy.

Teen Rotary Club Forms

Formation of a teen-age Rotary Club at Novato High School and selection of a project for the club were announced today by Randy English, club advisor.

Greg Sulser is club president; Frank Perachotti, vice president; Bob Saunders, treasurer, and John Youngs, sergeant-at-arms.

"Adoption" of a Canadian orphan was selected for a club project.

Plan Commission

The Larkspur Planning Commission, meeting at 8 p.m. today in city hall, will be asked to approve a tentative map for the Meadow, a 33-lot subdivision next to Heather Gardens, off William Avenue.

Parade Slated In Sausalito

The Sausalito Children's Halloween costume parade, sponsored the Sausalito Lions Club, will be held Friday at 7 p.m., starting at Caledonia and Johnson Streets.

Paraders, preceded by a Sausalito Fire Department truck, will march to Central School where a short movie will be shown and costume awards will be presented.

Pree-school children as well as kindergarten through the sixth grade pupils will participate, according to parade chairman Jack Perry.

Marinite Sponsors American Indian

William H. Wright of 1722 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, has become sponsor of a 12-year-old American Indian boy from Arizona, announced the Save the Children Federation of Norwalk, Conn.

Wright will provide the boy with clothing, school supplies, books and spending money to enable him to continue his school activities. The average Indian leaves school before the eighth grade, according to the federation.

Prison Road, Conservation Operations To End Monday

San Quentin Prison's 50-year road and conservation camp operation will end Monday when the camp system is transferred to jurisdiction of the California Conservation Center at Susanville, Lassen County.

Seven forestry and two road camps, employing 630 minimum custody inmates, will be involved in the transfer.

The first San Quentin camp was established at Rattlesnake Summit in Mendocino County in September, 1915, according to Associate Warden James W. L. Park.

"For more than 30 years, the prison camps were involved primarily with road construction in difficult terrain," he said. "Hundreds of miles of scenic highways, such as Highway 1, both along the North Coast and in the Carmel area, are enjoyed by motorists today as a result of these early camps."

In 1940 planning began for the present system of conservation camps, operated in conjunction with the Division of Forestry.

"The onset of war in 1941 delayed activation of these plans until 1948, when the first San Quentin forestry camp was built at Parlin Fork, near Willits, Mendocino County," Park related.

During World War II a series of prison agriculture camps were established under former Warden Clinton T. Duffy, with inmates harvesting crops that would not have been harvested because of the wartime manpower shortage.

"The primary mission of the conservation camps is fire suppression," Park said. "In 1964 San Quentin camp inmates spent 168,227 hours in fire fighting."

Inmates also have engaged in searches for lost children and hunters, have helped to remove injured hikers from remote area, and engaged in rescue work and levee repair during the disastrous floods last December, Park said.

Other camp activities include reforestration, stream clearance, improvement of public camp sites and operation of tree nurseries,he said. "Tree farms at Parlin Fork, provides thousands of seedlings each year for the replanting of devasted areas," Park noted.

The conservation camps are operated jointly by the department of corrections and the state division of forestry, and the road camps in conjunction with the state division of highways.

School Club Officials Elected

Four clubs at Tamalpais High School have recently elected officers.

The International Club has elected Jackie Brand, president; Catherine Buel, vice president, and Leslie Hail, secretary-treasurer.

Douglas Railton has been elected president of the Electronics Club; Ronald Olivera, vice president; Edward Stewart, secretary, and Tom Harris, treasurer.

New Russian Club officers are Wendy Jacobs, president; Chris Matson, vice president, and Rebecca Hammond, secretary-treasurer.

The German Club elected Mary Stroube, president; Tom Adams, vice president; Kris Dilcher, secretary, and Mary Stroh, treasurer.

IGNORING THE WIZARD—House Un-American Activities Committee chief investigator Donald T. Appell pores over papers as chairman Edwain E. Willis, D-La., (left) confers with committee member John M. Ashbrook, R-Ohio, before start of today's hearings. The committee decided to ignore charges made by Ku Klux Klan's Imperial Wizard Robert Shelton that Appell had told him the committee knew he was "clean." Appell had asked to be put under oath to testify against Shelton's claims. (AP Wirephoto)

you were in the Klan to gather information, some were in as ideological Klansmen," Appell said.

"Evidently," the sheriff replied. "Well, this one in particular, Goodwin was."

He said Goodwin is still on the sheriff's force but he does not believe the deputy is now a member of the Klan.

At the start of today's hearing Chairman Edwin E. Willis, D-La., of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, disclosed the committee had changed signals on how to handle charges made by Imeperial Wizard Robert Shelton.

Chief investigator Donald T. Appell had announced he would take the witness stand today to challenge statements Shelton made yesterday at a news conference. Shelton had declined to answer all questions when he was a witness before the committee.

Shelton said Appell came up to him in the dining room of the Congressional Hotel last Wednesday night and made a "half-hearted apology" for the treatment Shelton got on the stand.

He also quoted Appell as saying, "We know that you are clean and had not been taking Klan money or failing to report your income."

Willis, a Louisiana Democrat, said "Mr. Appell has informed the committee that he never made such a statement to Shelton either in the dining room of the Congressional Hotel or anywhere else. The committee has complete confidence in Mr. Appell."

Fairfax Council Holds Session On Lawsuits

The Fairfax City Council in a closed session last night discussed "possible future litigation," but took no action.

The talk did not concern any suits now in court, according to Councilman Robert R. Souza.

District Due To Tie Arks Onto Sewer Lines

Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District directors took the first step last night to meet requirements of the Bay Regional Water Quality board in getting house boats, arks and dwellings from Richardson Bay Bridge to the Sausalito city boundary to hook into sanitary facilities.

The board authorized the district's engineer and legal counsel to prepare necessary papers to set up an assessment district. In about 90 days after papers are prepared, bids will be called and a public hearing set, said Cyril G. Hansen, district president.

Directors also heard a request to service the proposed development on the Dias Ranch via Tamalpais Valley Sanitary District.

They agreed to hire a new sanitary plant employee, setting the salary at $510 monthly.

Shirt-Sleeve Weather Still Holds Sway

Relief from the heat is on the way, say the weather experts, but to the shirt-sleeved man in the street, it's taking its time.

Temperatures in Marin County and other coastal areas were expected to lower today but at noon in San Rafael it looked like a repeat performance of the past five days with the mercury at 79, only two degrees below the reading at that hour yesterday.

The forecast indicates that cooler weather, with temperatures drops of from two to nine degrees at some coast weather stations, will continue tomorrow although inland it will remain hot and dry.

One of the warmest places in the county yesterday was Inverness, where 95 degrees was reported for the third day running.

Other high readings ranged from 82 at Sausalito to 90 at Mill Valley, with Point Reyes Station recording 86 and San Anselmo 88.

The abnormal high temperatures have been blamed on a persistant high pressure system over the Far West, extending out into the Pacific and blocking off incoming storms from Alaska.

High, Low Mercury

NEW YORK (UPI) — The highest temperature reported yesterday to the U.S. Weather Bureau, excluding Alaska and Hawaii, was 193 degrees at Palm Springs, Calif. The lowest reported this morning was 20 at Craig, Colo.

A special ritual in observance of Mooseheart, the Loyal Order of Moose city for children, will be held at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Novato Moose Lodge at 855 Vallejo Avenue, Novato, according to Buell W. French, lodge governor.

Frost Library

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — Amherst College has dedicated a $3.5-million library named sor poet Robert Frost. The library has a capacity of 850,000 volumes. Frost taught at Amherst intermittently from 1916 until his death in 1963.

Three Roofers Are Injured In Falls At Peacock Gap

In a pair of accidents two hours apart at San Rafael's Peacock Gap, yesterday, three roofers fell from where they were working on separate buildings. Two were seriously injured.

Lafayette Walker, 46, of 3 Boulevard Terrace, Novato, was reported in poor condition at Marin General Hospital today with broken ribs, and John J. Boque, 64, of Santa Rosa, was in fair condition with head injuries.

The two tumbled from a scaffold 24 feet to the ground as they were working on a new building at 36 Greenside Way at 12:38 p.m. The men were placing shingles on a steep roof, working for Novato Roofing Co.

At 2:58 p.m. at nearby St. Sylvester's Church, roofer Frank J. Murphy, 24, of Daly City, was working for Custom Builders when he tumbled from the roof to the ground. He was treated for an injured foot at Marin General Hospital and then taken by car to St. Francis Hospital, San Francisco, where he was reported in good condition.

Demos Talk Organization Of Precincts

A small turnout of 11 Democrats last night discussed precinct organization at the monthly meeting of the Marin Democratic Central Committee.

Chairman Robert D. Carrow asked a three-man committee composed of Jack Cedarblade of Terra Linda, Thomas A. Skornia of Ross and Ernest Schallinger of Novato to nominate area precinct chairmen.

The Democrats also considered several candidates for postmaster at Forest Knolls and San Quentin but made no recommendations.

Mrs. Letitia Campbell and Mrs. Leona Ragle have been mentioned as candidates for the San Quentin post, and Mrs. Marlene Dougan at Forest Knolls.

Next meeting of the Marin Democratic Central Committee is set for 8 p.m. Nov. 22 at the San Rafael courthouse.

Ex-Marin Post Office Worker Injured In Fall

Aubrey Olson, 25-year-old former postman at Tiburon and son-in-law of Marin County Undersheriff Eugene L. Meyer, was reported in critical condition today in a Placerville, El Dorado County, hospital following a fishing accident Sunday.

Olson fell more than 250 feet into a canyon of the American River while fishing with a companion. It took 26 men five hours to get him out.

He was taken to Marshall Hospital, Placerville, with multiple injuries and is in the intensive care unit, his mother-in-law, Mrs. Meyer, said today.

Olson worked as a postman at Tiburon six years. He left three months ago with his wife, Marilynn, and three-year-old daughter, Rhonda. He is employed at Placerville Post Office.

Ambulance Fees Policy Clarified

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch has ruled that fire districts may set and collect fees for furnishing ambulance services both within and without their districts.

The ruling, written by Deputy Atty. Gen. Edmund E. White, was requested by Richard W. Dickenson, county counsel of San Joaquin County.

Dickenson said the Ripon consolidated fire district was considering purchase of an ambulance. However, in order to prevent non-emergency use of the ambulance service and to help defray the operational costs, the district proposed to establish a fee schedule for use of the service.

The opinion said such districts have the power to estabilsh and maintain ambulance services and it would follow that they also have the power to set fees for such services.

AIRPORT

ing and improving airports, has turned down Marin County's application because Harry O. Tollefson has exclusive right to operate the airport facilities under a lease that runs until 1972.

County officials are seeking to close out the lease, but have not reached agreement with Tollefson.

DeYoung said if the Burdell site gets FAA approval, he'll be ready to move ahead. "If the county can't go, we're ready to go," he said.

DeYoung is an employee of the W. K. McClellan Co., a contracting company with headquarters on Smith Ranch Road in Santa Venetia.

DECK

kinds of motions on transportation in general.

The motion was not voted on after County Administrator Alan Bruce, who returned from a six-week vacation last week, said he would get busy on the study right away.

Among speakers at today's hearing was E. R. Foley, chief engineer of the Division of Bay Toll Crossings, who told about a comprehensive study of all proposals his organization is conducting under a $850,000 legislative appropriation.

Margaret Azevedo of Tiburon, a county planning commissioner, proposed the second deck.

Bridge district directors George H. Ludy of Inverness, and Thomas D. Hardcastle of Novato, said directors Friday are only to act on the "principle" of the second deck, and final decision may not be made for 90 days.

County Aide Studies Bids On Bond Sale

Bank of America appeared today to be the lowest of six bidders on purchase of $7.75 million in bonds that will help finance construction of the Hall of Justice addition to the Marin County Civic Center, a job that will cost a total of $11 million.

The low bid, quoted at 3.2918 per cent in bid openings before the board of supervisors, may contain a slight error, County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell said. However, even with adjustment for the error, it appeared Bank of America would remain the lowest bidder.

Interest estimates had ranged from 3.25 to 3.5 per cent.

Other bidders were United California Bank, 3.3102; Crocker-Citizens National Bank, 3.3488 per cent; Wells Fargo Bank, 3.3587 per cent; Halsey-Stuart and Co., 3.8422 per cent, and Bank of California, 3.401 per cent.

Hunters Claim Cow's Squirrel

SPENCER, W.Va. (AP)—Two hunters who said they mistook a cow for a squirrel are charged with malicious killing of livestock.

The cow was shot with a .12-gauge shotgun.

State police later arrested the hunters, Guy Turpin of Quick and George W. Shafer Jr. of Pinch.

Officers said they found the two skinning the animal where it fell.

High School Space

The need for more high school space will be outlined tomorrow noon for the San Anselmo Rotary Club by William R. Davis, San Anselmo businessman, and member of the Citizens for Tam District committee. The committee seeks approval of a $5,750,000 bond issue on Nov. 16.

Trial Delay Rescheduled In Dope Case

Trial of a trio of suspects charged with selling marijuana was rescheduled in Marin Superior Court today for Dec. 20 when one defendant failed to appear for the second straight day.

The missing defendant is Wilhelf Alexander Rossknecht, 27, of 10 Reed Lane, Sausalito. Judge Thomas F. Keating yesterday issued a bench warrant for his arrest. Today he declared Rossknecht's $4,400 bail forfeited and denied bail on the new arrest warrant.

The continuance was granted at request of George Walker, San Francisco attorney represeting Peter Wright Lenihan, 31, of 420 B Street, Sausalito. Walker contended Rossknecht is a material witness in Lenihan's defense.

Third suspect is Ronald Keith Maska, 29, of Orange County.

The defendants were among 11 adults arrested in a June 4 southern Marin County roundup of persons suspected of selling or possessing marijuana.

Tape Recorder Taken At Home

Burglars ransacked the home of Robert W. Bruce, 135 Crown Road, Kentfield, making off with a tape recorder, typewriter, and pellet pistol, sheriff's officers reported today.

Bruce told deputies he returned from a vacation yesterday to find entry had been made through an unlocked rear window. He valued the tape recorder at $197, and the typewriter at $170.

Raymond E. Hughes of Santa Rosa reported a burglary of his automobile while it was parked at the Lodge, 8141 Redwood Highway, Novato. Hughes told officers a side window was forced and clothing and a tape recorder, total value of $400, were taken.

Informal Request For Sewers Studied

Homestead Valley Sanitary District directors last night took under consideration an informal request to supply sewers to a portion of the proposed community development on the Dias Ranch.

Chairman Warren I. Jacobs said the district could service the portion of the proposed residential development which is south and west of Homestead Valley.

OBITUARIES

Robert H. Silberberg Dies At 42

Robert H. Silberberg of 50 Corte Loyola, Greenbrae, died yesterday in a San Francisco hospital. He was 42.

A native of San Francisco, Silberberg was an estimating engineer employed by James A. Nelson & Co. Inc., of San Francisco.

He was a patron and manager with the Kentfield-Greenbrae Little League Assn. and managed the Guasco team for nine years.

Surviving him are his wife, Dorothee J. Silberberg; three sons, Daniel, Michael and Kelly Silberberg; his parents, I. Harry and Hilarita Silberberg of San Rafael, and a brother, Mervyn.

Requiem mass will be offered Thursday at 9:30 a.m. in St. Patrick's Church, San Francisco. Burial will be in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno, directed by McAvoy-O'Hara Co., San Francisco. The family prefers that tributes be contributions to the Cancer Fund.

GEORGE MINAHEN

A Requiem Mass for George E. Minahen Jr., 51, who died Sunday, apparently of a heart attack, will be held at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at Our Lady of Loretto Church in Novato.

Minahen, who lived at 17 Kent Street, Fairfax, had been working as a truck driver and was a member of Teamsters Union, Local 624 of San Rafael. He had last worked for George Howard of Nicasio.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Rae Minahen of Sonoma; two daughters, Kathleen Minahen of Kentfield, and Mrs. William W. Wright of Novato; one son, Ted Minahen of Chemult, Ore., and one grandchild.

The Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at Redwood Chapel funeral home in Novato. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael. Memorial contributions to the Heart Fund would be appreciated by the family.

WILLIAM DE WOLF

Funeral for William Waldo De Wolf, retired San Francisco real estate broker and brother of Mrs. Lillie Lyser of Corte Madera, will be held Thursdays at 1 p.m. at N. Gray and Co., San Francisco.

De Wolf, 77, died Sunday at his home in San Francisco, where for decades he was owner-manager of De Wolf Realty Co.

His father, the late William Morrison De Wolf, founded the real estate-insurance firm in 1879.

He is survived by his wife, Cecile De Wolf his sister, and a stepdaughter, Cecile Mery Calvi.

Burial will be in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

OSCAR H. DAHL

Oscar H. Dahl, real estate dealer and veteran of the two world wars, died yesterday at his home at 1208 Lynwood Drive, Novato, after a long illness.

A native of North Dakota, he was 76 years old. He had worked as a grain salesman in North Dakota until moving to San Francisco in 1941, when he went into the insurance business. For the past 13 years he had lived in Marin County, working for Tiburon Realty.

He is survived by his wife, Borgina M. Dahl of the home; two sisters, Miss Minnie Dahl of Minot, N.D., and Mrs. A. H. Borgerson of Long Prairie, Minn.; and three brothers, Manuel Dahl of Minot, N. D.; Joseph Dahl of Naples, S.D., and Arnold Dahl of Minneapolis, Minn.

Funeral will be at 12:15 p.m. Thursday at the Chapel of Marin Funeral Home, Novato. Burial will be in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

DAVID GADLOW

Memorial services for David B. Gadlow, real estate broker, of 1355 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, San Anselmo will be held tomorrow at 2 p.m. at Keaton's, Fifth Avenue and E Street, San Rafael.

Gadlow, who operated from an office in San Francisco, died in a San Francisco hospital Friday after a three months illness.

A native of New York, he came to California 45 years ago.

He is survived by a brother, Ralph B. Gadlow and a sister, Mrs. Esther Pollak, both of New York.

DAVID THORNTON

Graveside funeral for Dr. David Thornton, Spanish-American War veteran and longtime doctor in Los Angeles, will be held at 10:15 a.m. Thursday at Golden Gate National Cemetery in San Bruno.

He died Sunday in a Novato convalescent hospital, where he had been since 1962. He was 94 years ago.

A native of Peapack, N.J., he attended medical school in Colorado. At the outbreak of the Spanish-American war, he became the staff surgeon for the First Volunteer Colorado Infantry, and served with it during the ensuing Philippine insurrection.

He practiced medicine until 1942 in Los Angeles, when he moved to Weaverville, where he served as Trinity County physician until 1962.

Survivors include a daughter Lt. Col. (Ret.) Margaret M. Thornton of Sausalito, and a stepson, Dean Breeze, a judge in Las Vegas, Nev.

Funeral arrangements were made by Redwood Chapel Funeral Home, Novato.

SCHOOLS

Therefore, any innovation is good. I think all the people here are here to applaud the superintendent. I would like to express my extreme gratitude."

"It seems to me," said Robert O. Berdahl, "that with the best will in the world it is premature to come to any judgment as to whether cluster grouping is working or not," he said it should be given a fair trial, particularly with the changes made in the district.

"Are you behind in your school program?" a woman asked. Superintendent Lavaroni replied he has been no evidence of being behind and the three principals echoed this.

Dr. Wolfgang Lederer said, "I would feel on more solid ground if I heard not only of the assets but of the liabilities."

"In all sincerity, we were not able to pinpoint these," answered Lavaroni. Magnuson said there were discipline problems the first week or two but they are mostly under control.

Staten Webster, hired by Sausalito and Mill Valley school districts and the county superintendent of schools office as interacial group consultant, said the district is working toward understanding among "parents of all communities."

Mailers Picket News Plant

Pickets from the Mailers Union today patrolled in front of the office and plant of Marin Guide Publications in Sausalito.

Union printers refused to pass the picket lines, making uncertain whether the Marin Guide and its companion publication, the Sausalito News, would appear this week.

Marin Guide Publications has not had any contract with the Mailers Union, but the union reportedly is attempting to organize the plant.

Novato Feels Most Effect Of Higher Taxes

Residents of Novato will feel the increase in property taxes most sharply of any area in the county this year, according to figures released by County Auditor - Controller Michael Mitchell.

County Treasurer-Tax Collector Stanley J. Pontez mailed out property tax bills last week. First installment payments are due Dec. 10.

A small area of Novato which was once in the San Jose School District has the honor of the highest tax rate in the county this year $12.605 per $100 assessed valuation.

For a home with a market value of $25,000, that will mean a tax bill of $724.78, about $55 above last year. Most of the increase is caused by generous hikes in the Novato city and Novato Unified School District taxes.

The lowest tax rate, as in years past, is at Point Reyes, with a rate of $4.835, but that, too is a jump from the $4,320 of last year, mainly because of an increase in the Tomales High School District rate.

On paper, the city of Belvedere showed the greatest increase in the tax rate, but the figures do not take into account the fact that the property in the area was reassessed sharply upward this spring.

In a representative area of Belvedere, the tax rate dropped from $11.425 to $10.775, thanks to rate cuts by the city and the Reed School District. For a $25,000 home, that would mean a $37.41 cut in the tax bill to $619.52.

But a home which was listed on the assessor's rolls in 1964 as worth $25,000 was almost certain to be listed as worth much more this year, thus overriding the effect of the cut in the tax rate.

On a county-wide basis, according to Mitchell, 59.8 cents out of every property tax dollar collected will go to schools. Another 22.6 cents will go to the county, 9.0 cents to cities, and 8.6 cents to special districts.

Mitchell listed the total tax bill on a $25,000 home, compared to the previous year but not counting assessed valuation changes, for 14 representative areas in the county:

Belvedere, $619.52, down $37.41; Corte Madera, $641.37, down $16.14; Fairfax, $582.44, up $10.61; Larkspur, $617.79, down $16.72; Mill Valley, $587.61, down $28.21; Ross, $582.43, up $33.60; San Anselmo, $614.35, up $8.59; Sausalito, $544.19, up $39.63; West Marin, $365.67, up $13.77; Marinwood, $587.89, up $9.44; San Rafael, $515.45, up $6.29; Novato, $638.50, up $55.46; Terra Linda, $592.49, up $19.79; Kentfield, $572.36, up $14.61.

Marin Muralist Depicts Famous Old Sailing Ships

Famous sailing ships which plied San Francisco Bay in the era of President James K. Polk (1795-1849) are captured in a 21-foot-tal mural painted by Mill Valley artist John Stoll.

Stoll, who terms himself "a painter of the sea," supervised installation of the mounting of the mural last week in San Diego aboard the newly built ship, S.S. President Polk.

An American President liner, the ship will soon voyage to San Francisco, said Stoll.

Stoll spent five months painting the mural, using the top deck of the old Mold Loft building, now the Industrial Center building, in Sausalito as his studio.

"All is calm," he said of his painting, "and all the ships are recognizable according to their stepping of masts and rake."

The 10-food-wide mural stands three decks high on the ship.

Stoll, who lives at 491 Ethel Avenue, is painter, sculptor and etcher. He is ex-president of the California Society of Etchers and once studied at the Academy of Fine Arts, Dresden, Germany. He has exhibited his works in the United States, Italy, Mexico and Venezuela and is represented in collections in London, Tel Aviv and Jerusalem.

Bogalusa Strife May Curb Cal's Newspaper

BERKELEY (AP)—The Daily Californian said today it may suspend publication because of a boycott on paper products imposed by the Associated Students of the University of California.

The campus newspaper's editor, Peggy Krause, said it either must stop publication or lose its longtime Berkeley printshop, unless the ASUC Senate reconsiders the boycott at a meeting tonight.

The boycott requires the ASUC "to cease as soon as legally possible the use of or purchase of Crown Zellerbach Corp. products."

This boycott was an outgrowth of alleged racial trouble in Bogalusa, La., where Crown Zellerbach operates three plants.

A spokesman for Crown Zellerbach said today "we have an equal rights contract in our employment agreement and we are definitely making progress in implementing it at the Bogalusa plants."

The campus chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality, in a picket line demonstration yesterday in front of Sproul Hall, contended that Crown Zellerbach should "do more to solve Bogalusa's racial problems.

The Berkeley firm of Lederer, Street and Zeus, which for many years has printed the Daily Californian, has refused to adjust its operation for paper provided by suppliers other than Crown Zellerbach.

Forest Tregea, ASUC executive director, said the legal interpretation of the boycott requires immediate suspension of the newspaper. He said he hoped the student Senate would reconsider its wording.

Iron Lung Patient Dies As Light Company Cuts Power

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Audie Barrett, 11 died early today in an iron lung after Nashville Electric Service, unaware that he suffered from polio, shut off power because no one was paying the bill.

A company spokesman said the power was shut off Friday because no bills had been paid since a former occupant moved last June. He said no one had contacted the company since the power was discontinued.

The boy, who had suffered from the after-effects of polio six years, died after his mother, Helen Barrett, tried to operate the respirator by hand.

Mrs. Barrett said her son was not required to be in the iron lung during the day, but spent most nights there.

"I was trying to break him from the lung and we kept him out of it a lot of time," the distraught mother said.

Dr. W. J. Core, metropolitan medical examiner, was authorized to make an autopsy to determine the exact cause of death.

A company spokesman first said the power had been shut off yesterday, but later General Manager J. L. Sisk said a check of records showed it was turned off Friday.

Police said Mrs. Barrett left the machine for a few minutes and when she returned she realized the boy was dead.

Indonesia Army Chief Hits Reds

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Armed forces chief Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution has called for a purge of Idonesia's Communists and their sympathizers.

He warned in a speech broadcast by Jakarta Radio that unless the Reds and their fellow travelers are rooted out, they will attempt to overthrow the government again.

"All these institutions should purge these elements. . . all their followers and sympathizers should be eliminated; otherwise the incident will recur," Nasution said.

Probation Is Given In Marijuana Case

A three-year-old probation period was given Susan Kerrigan, 22, today in Marin Superior Court by Judge Samuel W. Gardiner. She had pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana and carrying a concealed weapon.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales asked a 10-day jail sentence also commenting he felt defendants in possession cases often fail to take the charge seriously, and that probation only would tend to show that the court concurred.

Judge Gardiner, however, replied that the double felony conviction and probation period were sufficiently severe for a first offender, and a short jail term would appear only as "a slap on the wrist."

Miss Kerrigan, of Sausalito, was one of 11 adults arrested in a southern Marin County roundup of suspected marijuana sellers and users last June 5.

Slaying Case Is Continued To Tuesday

Cases of Marc Charles Osuna, 30, and Jack R. Gorman, 36, charged with murder, and Harold Frank Percell, 24, accused of a liquor store robbery, were continued in Marin Superior Court today until 9:30 a.m. Tuesday for plea entries.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner, who last week appointed Thomas P. Boyd, San Rafael attorney, to represent Osuna, today appointed attorney Richard Tarrant to aid in Osuna's defense.

The public defender's office represents Gorman. Percell is defended by David J. Costamagna.

Osuna and Gorman, both San Quentin prisoners as parole violators, allegedly killed Mario Ferrari at Mission Inn in San Rafael on Labor Day. Gorman and Percell are jointly charged with robbing Rudy's Liquor Store, 1835 Fourth Street, San Rafael, on Aug. 30.

Two Guilty Pleas To Perjury Charges

Michael West, 18, pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court today to perjury in two preliminary hearings in Marin Municipal Court. Judge Samuel W. Gardiner scheduled judgement for Nov. 16.

West, of 254 Adobestone Court, Marinwood, falsely testified as a witness in examinations of Thomas Dean Scahill, 21, of 131 Bolinas Road, Fairfax, charged with disposing of a stolen automobile trarnsmission with intent to defraud an insurance company.

Blithedale Canyon Map Back On Agenda

Mill Valley planning commissioners will hold a hearing at their 8 p.m. meeting today on a request for planned unit development for 15 homes in Blithedale Canyon, using the main access from West Blithedale Avenue. A former proposal recommended access from Manzanita Place.

The commission will also discuss the proposed community development on the Dias Ranch as it relates to the City of Mill Valley and consider permitting a driveway on Cascade Reservoir property to serve as access to property of Kenneth W. Conant.

Jury Trial Set In Grand Theft

Jury trial for Archie Joe Fields, 28, charged with grand theft of about $5,000 from Sausalito Pharmacy, was scheduled in Marin Superior Court today for Nov. 15.

Fields, a part-time Sausalito bookkeeper residing at Del Monte Hotel, 7 Excelsior Lane, allegedly embezzled the money over a 16-month period.

Ex-Marinite's Plea Studied In Tax Case

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Gordon I. Smith, Sierra County district attorney, attempted today to plead no contest to a charge of failing to file federal income tax returns.

U.S. District Judge William T. Sweigert said he wanted more background on the case before accepting a plea of no contest rather than guilty. The judge said he would rule Nov. 9.

Thomas Martin, Sacramento attorney, said that Smith, 51, has paid all the taxes in question as well as 25 per cent penalty. Martin said he wishes to plead no contest in order to safeguard his license to practice law.

Smith formerly was a deputy district attorney in Marin county and a superior court judge in Sierra County.

Smith has been district attorney since 1958. The government said he failed to file returns for 1959 through 1962 on a total income of $24,491, representing half of community income with his wife.

Longshoremen Lose Suit Again

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A suit by 45 discharged San Francisco longshoremen against longshore leader Harry Bridges and waterfront employers has been dismissed in Federal Court for the fourth time, it was disclosed today.

Judge George B. Harris dismissed the suit "with prejudice." That means the 45 one-time longshoremen can't bring the suit again. But they can appeal. Their attorneys said they would.

On the three previous occasions, the action was dismissed for "lack of clarity."

30 Days Are Given In Home Burglary

Lindell W. Griffin, 21, was sentenced to 30 days in county jail and placed on two years probation in Marin Superior Court today for burglary of the home of Ronald George McAllister at 120 Miramar Avenue, San Rafael.

Griffin, of 122 Myrtle Avenue, San Rafael, took $300 worth of clothing in the July 7 break-in. He pleaded guilty.

Teen-Ager Killed By Shotgun Accident

REDWOOD CITY (AP)—Gerald Leprevost, 15, was found shot to death Monday night in the back yard of his Redwood City hime.

Police said he apparently had shot himself accidentally while cleaning a shotgun.

No Session

There was no meeting of the Mill Valley School District board last night because of lack of a quorum. The next meeting will be Nov. 8, reported Supt. G. R. McConnell.

If you think you don't need disability insurance, you haven't seen the statistics.

Of 1000 persons aged 35, 33% will be disabled by illness or injury—for three months or more—before they reach age 65. That's what the statistics show.

What kind of statistic will you be?

It makes sense to look into a Manufacturers Life Personal Income Protector Plan. Nothing can give you such peace of mind as the sure knowledge that if you are disabled and cannot work, a guaranteed income will come your way.

Our Plan has many advantages. It offers you a wide flexibility in amount of income and the length of time it will be paid. You can co-ordinate the plan with your other resources; tailor it to your needs and your pocketbook. Manufacturers Life cannot cancel the policy nor can your premium rate be raised—ever. The plan can be adjusted to correct the inadequacy of any short-term coverage you already have.

If you are interested, call the Man from Manufacturers. When advising you on disability income he offers you the same competent counsel available to you when you are planning your life insurance security.

Marincello Pros, Cons Heard—But No Decision Made

Board Of Supervisors Plan Second Hearing Nov. 8

The pros and cons of Marincello were heard for seven hours before the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday with no conclusion in sight.

Only decision by the board on the proposed city of 20,000 was to set a second hearing for 9:30 a.m., Nov. 8, at the Civic Center.

At that time E. Warren McGuire, one of the attorneys for Frouge Corp., developers of Marincello, will have a chance to rebut some of the criticisms aired yesterday.

McGuire told supervisors he particularly wanted to reply to the Marin Conservation League, which recommended that the county:

1. Adopt the West Marin Master Plan prior to consideration of Marincello, because the West Marin plan will require a decision on scenic Highway 1. Marincello threatens two of the proposed routes, according to the league.

2. Prepare a master plan for the Golden Gate headlands area before considering Marincello, which would sit among the headlands.

The recommendation of the conservation league, the reservations cited by Dobbs, and the close 4-3 vote by which the planning commission approved the master plan comprised the main arguments from the Marincello opposition late yesterday.

The crowd, which grew from 40 at the start of the session to 150 by mid-afternoon, appeared to be equally split, judging from applause.

Former County Supervisor Vera B. Schultz, a consultant for Marincello, made a strong defense of the development, saying it provides the "basic answer to proliferating taxes and slurb."

She said the high-rise apartments (there would be 19 of them in Marincello) are a means of conserving open space. She declared that 91 per cent of the 2,139 acres in Marincello will be left open.

"If that's not real conservation, I don't know it," Mrs. Schultz declared.

Others speaking for the development were:

Clinton De Lap of the Marin Visitors' Bureau, Melvin J. Rupp of the Marin Property Owners Assn., Lyle Leverich of the Atheneum Arts Foundation, Douglas Roberts and George Scott of the Marin Labor-Management Committee, Stuart Smith of the Mechanical Contractors Assn., William Reedy of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers;

Artist Robert Shinn of Sausalito, banker A. L. Nieri of Novato, attorney Edward R. Fitzsimmons of Berkeley, who owns 100 acres on Wolfback Ridge adjacent to Marincello, Emerson Burnett of Wolfback Ridge, Ross Tankersly of the Novato Chamber of Commerce, title insurance man William Corbett of San Rafael, title insurance man William F. Fergus of Novato;

Henry Torget of Carpenters Union Local 35, Marin Summer Festival producer Shela Xoregos of San Francisco, Franz Glenn of International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, William Jennings of Local 38 of Plumbers and Pipefitters Union, John Petrini of Carpet, Linoleum and Soft Tile Workers Local 35 of San Francisco, Nick Georgedes of Bartenders and Culinary Workers Local 126, Stanley Smith of the Glaziers Union, Louise Childs of San Francisco, William Bergeron of San Rafael, and Harold R. Lever of Tiburon.

Lever said his firm, Power Engineering and Equipment Co. of Berkeley, might move to the industrial area of Marincello. The firm makes electronic flow devices and employs about 45, he said.

Speaking against Marincello were:

Eleanor O'Hara Chapin, Sausalito city councilman; Michael Wornum, Mill Valley mayor; Anne L. Ellinwood, Tiburon councilman; Helen Vandermale of the Wolfback Ridge Assn.; Max Janoff of the Muir Woods Park Improvement Assn.; Luella Sawyer and Maynard Munaer Jr. of the executive committee of the San Francisco Bay Chapter of the Sierra Club;

Esmond Milsner of the Tamalpais Conservation Club; Bernard M. Weinstein of the Homestead Valley Improvement Club; Peter D. Whitney of the Scenic Roads Assn.; Abraham Schwartz of Fairfax, and Francois Leydet of Belvedere.

"I feel it's untimely to go into this type of development at this time," Dobbs said. He also declared that the 3.5 density allowed as a maximum in planned community zoning is being taken as a standard in a plan where the terrain does not justify it.

This will be used by other developers, he said. Already a plan has been proposed for the nearby Dias Ranch with 3.5 density.

Stanford Hires Medical Official

PALO ALTO (AP) — A young Rutgers University professor has been appointed associate dean of the Stanford University School of Medicine.

Stanford announced the appointment yesterday of Dr. LeRoy Allen Pesch, 34, professor and chairman of the department of medicine at Rutgers.

Dr. Robert J. Glanor, dean of the Stanford medical school, said the appointment represented "an extremely important step forward in strengthening our overall program in medical education."

A university spokesman said Dr. Pesch will devote more time to student affairs than has been customary at Stanford.

Trustees See Kent School's Shop Problems

Kentfield seventh and eighth graders need better equipment for shop, physical education and home economics classes, the Kentfield School District Board was told last night during a tour of classrooms at Adaline E. Kent School.

The district is due soon to build a new shop, and later will build a home economics laboratory, Supt. Howard C. Harmon reminded board members. The present shop will be remodeled as a shower and locker room.

In the tour, board members were given outlines of the programs in the shop, art, home economics and physical education courses.

Shop teacher Duane Johnk made a plea for two years of shop classes, rather than one year as is now the case. He said the new shop, when built, will be slightly smaller than the present one, but space will be more efficiently used.

Betty Heilig in the home economics class said she needed much more room. The present class deals mainly with sewing, she said, because there is not room or equipment to teach cooking.

Principal Thomas H. Smith said plans are being worked out so that boys and girls can both take both shop and home economics courses. Girls will need to know how to fix leaky faucets, and boys how to set tables, he said.

Mrs. Christine Limm and Henry Yamagata, the school's new physical education teachers, said the main need was more time and space for students to change clothes for gymnasium classes.

Art teacher Marianne Willmarth presented the board with a room full of displays to show progress in art class through a year. She said ceramic work allowed some children to do well who could not draw, and added that more potters wheels would be needed.

The Kentfield School District Board also:

1. Approved a new district policy for bargaining with teachers' organizations to conform to new state law.

2. Hired Mrs. Dotti Stevens as superintendent's secretary at $567 a month, replacing Mrs. Valerie Husbands, who resigned as of next Friday because her husband is moving from Marin.

Quartermaster 2/c Stephen O. Breuer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Breuer, 712 Del Mar Avenue, Novato, served aboard the ocean minesweeper Prime.

Convalescent Hospital Plans Are Delayed

Marin County zoning administrator Thomas E. Cordill yesterday put off until Nov. 8 any decision on a permit asked by Marlin Properties, Inc., to operate a 49-bed convalescent hospital on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Kentfield.

The hospital would be built opposite College Avenue, just south of the Kentfield firehouse.

Defense Attorneys Hit Worthington Evidence

Closing arguments in San Francisco's Sally Stanford burglary trial were expected to wind up today, with the case going to the seven-man, five-woman jury tomorrow.

Scheduled today were final arguments on behalf of two of the five defendants, ex-convicts Wesley Gant, 56, and Louis Romero, 28.

Yesterday, the jury in San Francisco Superior Court heard from attorneys representing veteran safe-cracker Winston Major, 51, and two San Francisco police officers: Salvatore Polani, 44, and Patrick Buchman, 27.

Threaded throughout their arguments were attacks on the integrity of the prosecution's chief witness, contractor Robert K. Worthington of Point Reyes Station.

Worthington has been credited with tipping police last April about the plan to burglarize the San Francisco home of Mrs. Marsha Owen, better known as Sally Stanford.

Buckman's attorney, Gregory Stout, painted a different picture.

Terming Worthington a "self-congratulating informer," Stout said his client was an innocent victim of the conspiracy. Buckman earlier testified he thought he was on a private duty investigation in a divorce case until he was arrested in a parked car near Mrs. Owen's home.

Polani's attorney, Emmett Hagerty, reiterated Polani's testimony that it was actually Worthington, not Polani, who masterminded the burglary plot.

In fact, he said, Polani was trying to trap Worthington.

"The whole case depends on whether you believe Polani or are convinced of the truth of Worthington's testimony," declared Hagerty.

Major's attorney, J. Bruce Fratis, conceded "Major was there to burgle the safe." But he contended his client had been "suckered into the deal by Polani."

"I submit it was a classic case of entrapment by a police officer," he said.

Both Worthington and Polani, said Fratis, were trying to trap each other, and Major got caught in the middle.

Fratis then joined in the attacks on Worthington.

Saying the contractor had displayed "the most amazing flexibility of fabrication," Fratis said he "tells lies when the truth would do."

Worthington, he said, "could lie on one foot standing in a hammock in a phone booth."

Tiburon Votes To Enlarge Plans Body

The Tiburon City Council, meeting last night at Del Mar School, instructed City Atty. Robert I. Conn to draw up an ordinance increasing the planning commission from five to seven members.

The action had been requested by the commission.

The council authorized City Mgr. Lawrence D. Rose to contract with landscape architect Anthony Guzzardo to draw up a master plan for landscaping the highway construction area on Tiburon Boulevard.

The area runs from Reed Ranch Road to the western boundary of the city. The plan will be financed with $1,000 from the city and $500 from the Reedlands Property Owners Assn. It is hoped the state division of highways will do the landscaping when the plan is completed.

The Tiburon City Council also:

1. Instructed City Attorney Conn to draft a new business ordinance.

2. Set for Nov. 8 public hearing on a proposal to limit building use permits to one year.

3. Continued hearing on creation of a city parks and recreation commission.

4. Approved a cross walk and stop sign at Lyford Drive and Rock Hill Road.

5. Sent back to the planning commission for further study a proposal to start work on revising the 1956 master plan.

Conversation For Robbing A Bank

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Teller Jaclyn Finney, 21, said a man handed her a note at the 16th and Mission street Bank of America branch yesterday asking of she had $5,000.

"No," Miss Finney replied.

After a threat from the man, she handed him $1,000.

Assistant cashier John Canepa, 30, alerted police, who identified the holdup man as Samuel Hall, 33.

Latter-Day Saints Booth Wins First Prize Of $100

The Latter-Day Saints Relief Society won first prize for its booth at the Charity Fair last Thursday, Friday and Saturday in the Northgate Shopping Center.

The prize, a check for $100, was presented to the group by William Luebbke, manager of Hastings for the Northgate Merchants Assn. The award was based on creativity effort among 29 charity organizations participating in the fair.

The Latter-Day Saints' booth was in the design of a gingerbread house, with a tiled roof of painted paper plates, and was decorated with cellophane-wrapped candy and sugar canes. The group took orders for gingerbread houses for Christmas.

Judging the competition were Jack Alvarado, manager of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce; Harry Crotty, design instructor at College of Marin, and Benjamin Howard, advertising executive with Fawcett McDermott Associates.

Proceeds from sales made by the various charities during the three-day period were estimated as averaging $200 a booth.

SCHOOL BOMBER SOUGHT

North Carolina state bureau of investigation agent Haywood Starling dusts for fingerprints at the Bagley, N. C. elementary school, after a predawn dynamite blast shattered the windows of the sixth grade classroom at the Negro school yesterday. Reflected in the piece of window pane held by the photographer in foreground are Starling's car and an unidentified onlooker. No arrests have been made. (UPI Telephoto)

FEARS CAN KILL

Researcher Tells Heart Discovery

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Modern man may be in danger of frightening himself to death with psychosomatically induced heart attacks, a leading heart specialist suggests.

Dr. E. Grey Dimond, director of the Institute for Cardio-Pulmonary Disease of the Scripps Clinic and Research Foundation in La Jolla, reported yesterday an experiment with coronary patients.

He told of 20 men suffering from severe Angina pectoris, the chest pains and feeling of pressure that are symptoms of coronary disease.

Dimond said 10 of the subjects were given a circulation-restoring operation. In the other 10 only an incision was made.

"The incisions were as effective in curing angina as the operations were," he said, noting that 90 per cent of American men over 40 suffer from some kind of coronary condition, usually a diminishing supply of blood and oxygen to the heart muscle.

He concluded:

"The angina is triggered by the coronary condition. But many men go on from there to frighten themselves to death and these are men who would probably have got over angina.

"The fact is, angina is a reversible condition in most men. If the man with angina doesn't get too anxious and if he can be persuaded that he is not going to drop dead any minute, the chances are good he will get over it."

Dr. Dimond addressed the 17th annual meeting of the California Academy of General Practice.

Bay Drowning Victim's Body Finally Found

The body of George David Sims, 35, of 520 Canal Street, San Rafael, has been found in the bay near a San Francisco pier.

Sims tumbled overboard from his boat near Point San Quentin the night of Oct. 13.

The body, according to the San Francisco coroner's office, was seen floating near Pier 48 at 7:20 a.m. Saturday by Leon Minnie of San Francisco. It was picked up a few minutes later by the Coast Guard.

Sims' wife, Dorothy, told authorities she saw her husband fall over the side of their 27-foot cabin cruiser just after she relieved him at the wheel.

He was on his way home from his job as a Tiburon bartender.

With the couple was a passenger, Ken Scaruffar of San Francisco. Mrs. Sims said he was below deck at the time Sims fell over.

Pathology tests were under way today in San Francisco to determin the exact cause of Sims' death. The coroner's office said the test results would probably be ready by the end of this week.

Sims was a native of McFadden, Wyo.

Surviving, in addition to his wife, are his parents, George Sims of McFadden, and Mrs. Agnes Wilson of Anchorage, Alaska.

Funeral will be at 10:45 a.m. Thursday at Halsted and Co., 1123 Sutter Street, San Francisco. Burial will be in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

Street Opponents Fail To Put Off Rezoning

The Novato Planning Commission last night approved a planned commercial zone for Alfred Bellucci and John Novak for a lot south of Clausing Street and east of Highway 101.

Approximately 20 residents of Clausing Street attended to protest opening of their street as an access.

Commissioners assured the people that access to Clausing Street had already been denied in previous rezoning.

The Novato Planning Commission also:

1. Approved the tentative map of 22-lot Vineyard Manor on six acres on Vineyard Road, submitted by Pacific Coast Development Co.

2. Approved plans for a laundry at 849 Sweetzer Avenue for Frank S. Yee, owner of the Novato Laundry at 1049 Third Street.

3. Approved the request of Meadowbrook Developers Inc. to develop 25 acres of the Scottsdale assessment district independent of the rest of the Scottsdale master plan.

4. Granted Bahia Properties Corp. a permit for community recreation and yacht club on five acres on Bahia Drive.

5. Granted the Protestant Episcopal Church a permit for addition of a fellowship hall to St. Francis of Assisi Episcopal Church at 967 Fifth Street.

6. Postponed until Nov. 8, action on the Novato Square master plan for the old Grant School property at Grant Avenue and Highway 101, submitted by Douglas M. Christensen Construction Co.

7. Changed the public hearing on the streets and highways phase of the Novato master plan from 8 p.m. Thursday to the same hour next Monday, and set for 8 p.m., Nov. 15, second public hearing on the entire master plan. Both hearings will be at the Community House.

Welding Gear Taken At Construction Site

Someone walked into an unlocked storage shed in the Upland subdivision on Paradise Drive, Corte Madera, Friday afternoon and stole two pressure gauges and a burning torch worth $250, it was reported yesterday.

The stolen items belong to Structural Iron Inc. of Cotati. The theft was reported by employee Alex J. Demetriff.

Back In U.S.

Radarman 3c Theodore D. Anthony, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Anthony of 5 Bayview Terrace, Mill Valley, has returned to the United States aboard the destroyer Frank E. Evans, following seven months in the South China Sea and off the coast of Viet Nam with the Seventh Fleet.

Anti-Draft Group Reported Sending Blood To Viet Reds

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York World-Telegram and Sun said today an antidraft group known as the May Second Movement is sending blood, first aid supplies and money to the Communist Viet Cong.

The movement was among those involved in recent demonstrations against the war in Viet Nam.

The World-Telegram report said a blood donor drive has been organized in the movement's West Coast chapter, and blood and first aid material already has been shipped to North Viet Nam.

The New York chapter, the newspaper said, plans to send blood donated by its members and send the money to the Viet Cong through the Algerian National Liberation Front.

The report said the movement has 17 chapters across the country, with the New York City chapter having 200 members.

The World-Telegram account also quoted one unidentified Columbia University student it said is a member of the May Second Movement as indicating that the movement in Michigan is training volunteers to join the Communist forces in Viet Nam.

The student, when asked about the report, was quoted as saying: "That's not far from the truth."

Goldstein Still Is Critical

Peter L. Goldstein of San Anselmo remained unconscious and in critical condition at Marin General Hospital today — seven days after he suffered head injuries in a freak auto accident on the Waldo Grade.

His family today appealed to the public to help doctors in the fight for his life by giving blood at the Marin Blood Center, 506 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

Goldstein, 31-year-old publicist and political campaign of 65 Alder Avenue, is in the intensive care unit at the hospital.

Railroads Sue Over Firemen's Job Insurance

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Two western railroads are seeking to keep unemployment insurance from firemen who accept a national mediation severance pay award.

The firms, Western Pacific and Southern Pacific, filed suit yesterday in federal court.

They charged that acceptance of severance pay is voluntary termination of employment. If firemen also are paid unemployment insurance under the Railroad Retirement Act, the roads contend, they will unlawfully collect $640,000 a year.

The railroads' figures were based on 500 firemen taking advantage of the arbitration award. This award was the basis for settlement of the long push by railroads to eliminate firemen from diesel engine trains.

Scientists Still Chasing Comet

HONOLULU (AP)—Scientists and astrnomers flew over the Pacific again today, continuing their chase of the Ikeya-Seki comet.

Following their yesterday flight the scientists said the comet apparently suffered no structural deformation in its brush with the sun last Wednesday.

They reported the comet's tail to be about 12 degrees in length, or about 25 million miles long.

Bell For Kennedy

MOUNT GRAN SASSO, Italy (UPI)—A John F. Kennedy memorial bell was dedicated yesterday at the shrine of St. Gabriels on the slopes of 9,585-foot Mount Gran Sasso, highest mountain in the Apennine range.

Guerneville Educator To Be Sausalito Aide

Joseph Amato, superintendent-principal of Guerneville School District in Sonoma County, next Monday will become assistant superintendent of Sausalito School District in charge of special projects.

Amato was hired for the newly created position last night by the Sausalito School District Board. He will receive $13,500 per year.

His abrupt departure from Guerneville reportedly surprised the Sonoma County schools office, although Amato said he had told his school board two weeks ago that he applied for the Sausalito position. He recommended his assistant principal replace him in Guerneville.

The Guerneville School District Board today called a special meeting for Friday to consider the replacement.

Amato, who is 45, has been superintendent-principal of the one-school Guerneville district for eight years. The district has been in financial difficulties since the December flood last year wrecked much equipment and damaged the school building.

Amato was selected by the Sausalito trustees from among six applicants. He and his wife, Edith Marie, have one child, Jennifer Jo.

The Sausalito board voted to use $9,000 of compensatory education funds received from the federal government toward Amato's salary, and the additional $3,100 so far received from that source to pay noontime supervisors.

Crucial Parleys On In Rhodesia

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP)—The prime ministers of Britain and Rhodesia open crucial new talks today on the Rhodesian government's explosive drive for independence.

Harold Wilson and Ian Smith scheduled a midmorning session still hunting an area of agreement.

Wilson arrived last night from London in an attempt to head off the declaration of independence which Smith's government threatens in an attempt to preserve white rule in the Central African colony.

Flood Control On Tap At Ross Town Council

A special meeting of Ross Town Council has been called for 8 p.m. tomorrow to discuss the Corte Madera Flood Control project.

The next regular meeting of the council will be held at 8 p.m. Nov. 12 instead of Nov. 11 which is a legal holiday.

Woman With Meat In Throat Critical

Abigail Rowland, 75, of 5495 Redwood Highway, Novato, remained in poor condition in the intensive care unit of Marin General Hospitial today after being admitted Saturday with a piece of meat lodged in her throat.

Police and firemen were called after Mrs. Rowland collapsed, choking, at Marin Joe's at Corte Madera.

Gun Fancying Mother Killed In Accident

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Jo Ann Brackman, 30, mother of three and a pistol shooter, was shot dead by her fast draw artist husband last night while her son watched a television western.

Coroner's officers, who listed both the victim and her husband as target shooters who practiced the fast draw, said the death appeared accidental.

Booked on a manslaughter charge was Richard P. Brackman, 27. Police said he told them he jokingly loaded the pistol to "get" or "protect" himself from a possible intruder while she was at a grocery.

Officers said the weapon fired as Brackman was pointing it or cleaning it in the kitchen of their home. Her son, Ronald, 9, who was watching a "Jesse James" show, told police he saw his stepfather point the gun toward the ceiling and behind him and then heard a shot.

Mrs. Brackman was dead on arrival at a hospital from a 22-caliber bullet wound in the chest.

Irate Kentfield Parents Force Closed Hearing On Aide's Swap

About 30 irate parents of children in the Wolfe Grade School left the Kentfield School District Board meeting early today frustrated in their attempt to learn in detail why a popular secretary at the school, Mrs. Eleanor Ceglarz, was transferred to Adaline E. Kent School.

They did learn that the transfer was made as an alternative to asking for the secretary's resignation. But they were never told why the school administration had wanted to get rid of her, other than that she and her boss did not get along.

Mrs. Ceglarz was not present, and that fact caused the school board members to stymie discussion whenever it started to touch on specifics.

Finally, the board reluctantly went into a closed session to hear individual citizens voice complaints, and to hear explanations from Supt. Howard C. Harmon and Principal George Stratton.

At the end of the closed session, at 2 a.m. today, the board agreed to invite Mrs. Ceglarz to another closed meeting Nov. 8 to give her side herself.

The discussion began near midnight as final item of a board meeting that began at 8 p.m.

Harmon said Stratton had asked originally for Mrs. Ceglarz's resignation. She gave it, but then withdrew it, asking for a transfer instead, he reported.

When it was learned a secretary at the Kent School was willing to trade, a switch was ordered, but Mrs. Ceglarz then objected, although she has since been working at Kent School.

Her side was taken by Edward Hennessy, 107 Laurel Grove Avenue, who has children in both schools. Hennessy said he actually wanted to discuss general conditions at the Wolfe Grade School and "the high rate of attrition."

"There has been one teacher who resigned, and now this transfer . . ." he started.

"You call that a high rate of attrition for one year?" asked board member Mary Bingham.

Board member Lawrence Goldberg said he thought the teacher, fifth grade instructor George Hurley, left so he could teach in Petaluma, where he lived. He acknowledged he had never seen Hurley's letter of resignation, however.

Hennessy then began to discuss Stratton's letter to Mrs. Ceglarz, outlining specific charges against her.

"The reasons in my letter to her are not a subject for a public meeting," shouted Stratton.

Board President J. R. B. Ellis then said that apparently a closed session could not be avoided.

Another parent, Richard C. Paine of 361 North Alemar Drive, Greenbrae, suggested that parents have a private meeting of their own at which Hennessy could tell what he knew about Stratton's letter.

"It's a question whether anything will be brought out here tonight," he commented.

Ellis said he was only trying to protect Mrs. Ceglarz's reputation, since she had not given permission to have charges against her heard in public.

"We are here specifically to protect an individual's name and reputation," answered a member of the audience.

Ellis sympathized, but then called for the closed session, agreeing to hear each person who wanted to speak, one at a time, while others waited outside.

The bulk of the parents then went home. Hennessy and a few others remained to appear individually before the board in closed session. After about a half hour in the closed meeting, Hennessy refused to comment.

Reed Board May Purchase Site

The Reed Union School District board, meeting at 8 p.m. today at Reed School, is expected to approve continued negotiations for a site for a new seventh-eighth grade school at the end of Blackfield Drive in the Bel Aire area of Tiburon.

The district has been negotiating with Lytton Savings and Loan Assn. for a year for a 23.5-acre site, Supt. Edward C. Pino reports.

The school, seventh for the district, will be financed through the bond issue authorized in January, 1963, and a state loan approved in February, 1964.

The board will also discuss financing of the committee to seek a successor to Pino, who has resigned effective next June 30.

Assemblymen Speed Work On Medicare

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Working fast under an adjournment deadline, the Assembly headed today toward a vote on a Republican - Democratic compromise medicare plan revised on short notice.

At issue is the attempt to bring in about $6 million a month to California in federal medicare funds above the amount guaranteed to those over 65 in the recent bill passed by Congress.

The money would go to 1.1 million persons, primarily in the 18 to 64 age bracket, and primarily those on state welfare. About 200,000 are those not on welfare, but who couldn't cope with a major medical bill without help.

When the bill came up on the floor yesterday, the sponsor of the county-backed amendments, Assemblywoman Pauline Davis, D-Portola, said they were meant: "To assure taxpayers in the counties that they're not going to be saddled with more taxes," as a result of increased health care costs.

Acting chairman of the Fairfax Planning Commission is Roland Watts.

Why Children Ride Bus Past School

Some Sausalito school children ride the school bus past Central School to Marin City, then back to Central School.

They do it, Supt. Charles Lavaroni told the school board last night, because it is better to have them sitting on the bus than waiting at the school yard.

Also, he said, it gives them an opportunity to meet other children on the bus.

The unusual bussing arrangement had been questioned at a previous meeting by trustee Harold L. Sleight.

The Sausalito School District Board also:

1. Accepted the sole bid of Gillig Brothers, Hayward, for lease-purchase of two 66-passenger buses at $18,430 each, to be delivered in 45 to 60 days.
2. Adopted a board policy in accordance with the Winton Act on teacher-board negotiations.
3. Hired Mrs. Barbara M. Thurman at $9,072 per year as an additional first grade teacher.
4. Accepted $1,500 settlement from Lang Construction Co. for 29 eucalyptus trees the company chopped down on Richardson Bay school grounds in August, 1963.
5. Agreed to spend $900 to provide bus transportation to Central School in afternoons for the study center program.
6. Voted 4-1 supporting the $5,750,000 Tamalpais Union High School District bond issue to be voted on Nov. 16. Sleight voted "No," saying this will not benefit students from the Sausalito area.

State Gets Real Bargain In Trees

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state has acquired 1,556 acres of beach-front land at Prairie Creek Redwoods State Park on California's north coast.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown said yesterday the purchase was made from the Save-the-Redwoods League, which in turn had purchased the area from the Pacific Lumber Co. earlier this year. The league, Brown said, had agreed to sell it to the state for $1,025,444, one-half the amount paid to the lumber company.

Brown said the purchase would complete the acquisition of Gold Beach and that it was the first acquisition under the 1964 State Beach, Park, Recreational and Historical Facilities Bond Act passed by voters.

Seminary Second In Student Total

San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo this year claims the second largest enrollment for any Presbyterian seminary in the world.

Enrollment figures show 323 students enrolled, representing 33 states and 15 foreign countries. Largest Presbyterian seminary is in Princeton, N.J.

Use Plan Is Asked Near CHP Office Site

The Corte Madera Planning Commission recommended last night that owners of 27 acres of property around the California Highway Patrol Office on Paradise Drive prepare a plan for use of the land.

The property is now zoned for light industry. Property owners seek rezoning to commercial. The commission recommended planned unit development after discussing such uses as a convention center and motel and additional auto sales agencies.

The commission also asked town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher to prepare two amendments to the section of the zoning ordinance dealing with commercial signs.

Usher said the first amendment would grant up to 20 square feet of sign area to any business, even if part of a shopping center. At present, the ordinance grants an amount of sign area and asks the center merchants to split it up.

The second amendment, he said, would place a maximum of 200 square feet of sign area for businesses zoned highway commercial. At present, there is a maximum for any one sign at such a business, but no maximum on the number of signs or their total size.

Guilty Plea Made To Reduced Charge

A 20-year-old airman at Hamilton Air Force Base yesterday pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of petty theft in Sonoma County Municipal Court, Santa Rosa.

James Brownlow McCoy was sentenced to two years on court probation after he admitted stealing $37 from Walter Strayer, who lives in an apartment next to McCoy's in Petaluma. He originally was charged with burglary.

Guns Returned To Man, Son

Corte Madera police today said they had returned guns they confiscated from Paul K. O'Neal and his son Gary, of 126 Yola Street, Corte Madera, following complaints of duck shooting within city limits.

A resident of Corte Madera Passage complained Saturday that someone was shooting guns near his home.

Police found the O'Neals on marshland some distance from the house.

Police Chief Frank L. Nelson said today the two were carrying guns and were within gunshot range of the house.

Many Marinites Will Attend Green Rock Hunt Club Fete

By MOLLY MARIN

Pheasantettes and smoked pheasant will be on the menu when the Green Rock Pheasant Hunting Club holds its second annual dinner in the Trafalgar Room at Trader Vic's in San Francisco on Nov. 10. The Pheasants are raised on a ranch north of Novato and the private hunting club is on St. Vincent's Drive, north of San Rafael.

Marin members of the private club and their guests who will be attending the dinner include Drs. W. Scott Polland, William Magladry and Russel Kline, Messrs. Howard Bernhard, D. M. Christensen, Conrad Abbett, Larry D. Dingus and Manuel T. Freitas, all of San Rafael.

From Mill Valley are John L. Castleman, Joe Bergeron, Malcolm Brown, William J. Rosa, Alfred J. Santas, John D. Biggane and George E. B. King. From Novato, Howard O. Kinsey, R. H. "Tiny" Garzoli, Fernando Clementino, Dr. Raymond D. Rediske, Paul Putnam, Leif W. Evensen and Gen. (Ret.) Edison W. Berlin.

San Anselmo members include Mrs. E. H. Pedroli, Dr. O. W. Jones, and Don Scagliola. From Sausalito, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Doble, Bruce Shafer, Capt. Taylor W. McGee and Richard Urbais. Joseph Sullivan Bertram Rude, Charles O. Jones and Harry J. Lehman Jr. of Kentfield, Ernest H. Gates and Christopher S. Peacock of Belvedere, Paul E. Garzoli of Nicasio, Robert Skelton of Corte Madera and Clarence Doctor and Whitman K. Alger of Tiburon.

BRONWYN HUGHES of Kentfield, and Pauline S. Livermore, San Rafael, are members of the Wellesley College Choir which will open its 1965-66 season with the traditional Fall Vesper Concert at Wellesley Sunday.

Bronwyn Hughes, a senior at Wellesley, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. Hughes. Majoring in Physics, she has been active in both dramatic and musical productions during her college years. Last year she was a member of the casts of two productions of the Greek Drama Organization on the campus.

Pauline Livermore, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Norman B. Livermore, Jr., is a sophomore at Wellesley, where in addition to singing in the Choir, she is a member of the campus guiding organization which conducts visitors on tours of the campus.

SAUSALITO WAS well represented in the four-weeks charter trip to Europe sponsored by the San Francisco Symphony Foundation.

Just returned to Sausalito last Sunday were Dr. and Mrs. Clifford Raisbeck, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Quinn Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome A. Adams and Mrs. John B. Ehlen who was accompanied by Mr. Ehlen's sister, Miss Martha Ehlen of Orange, Calif.

The plane landed in Frankfort, Germany, and the travelers followed their own itineraries from then until they met again in Paris for the return trip.

Mrs. Ehlen and Miss Ehlen picked up a car in Hamburg, where they visited relatives. They especially enjoyed driving along the Rhine and Mosel rivers in the beautiful castle country and drove as far southeast in Germany as Nurnberg.

The Quinns and Andersons took the same tour of the Greek Islands before the Quinns went on to visit relatives in Germany and England and the Andersons proceeded to Santa Marguerita on the Italian Riviera.

High point of the trip for the Adamses was a ten-days' cruise through the Aegean on the "Daphne," a yacht they chartered with some friends from San Francisco. They also spent ten days in Spain.

The Raisbecks visited Rome, Florence and Venice in Italy and spent a week in London. Since they are especially interested in historical aspects of places they saw a great deal of Rome and London on walking tours to historical spots.

Patricia A. Nolan Becomes A Bride

Patricia Anne Nolan of Mill Valley became the bride of David Steven Moritz Saturday at St. Patrick's Church in Larkspur.

The single ring ceremony was performed at noon by Msgr. Edward M. Dullea.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Nolan of Mill Valley, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Steven Moritz of Baltimore, Md., and the late Mr. Moritz.

Given in marriage by her father, Patricia wore a full length gown of white peau de soie having a chapel train and trimmed with Alencon lace and seed pearls.

Her attendants were Mrs. Harry Hansen of Van Nuys, matron of honor; and bridesmaids Mrs. Michael Conley of San Francisco and the bride's sisters, Catherine and Mary Nolan of Mill Valley. They wore full length sheaths of willow green satin.

Nora Nolan, the youngest sister, was flower girl.

John W. Anderson of San Francisco served the bridegroom as best man, and ushers were the bride's brother, Terrance Nolan of Mill Valley, Ted Gurich and Michael Conley, both of San Francisco.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Deer Park Villa in Fairfax. On their return from a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe and to the Pacific Northwest, the young couple will live in San Francisco.

The new Mrs. Moritz is a graduate of Marin Catholic High School and attended the College of Marin and San Francisco State College. She is employed by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. in San Francisco. She has another brother, Timothy Nolan of Mill Valley.

David is a graduate of Sparrows Point High School in Baltimore and attended Golden Gate College in San Francisco. He is employed as an underwriter with the Continental Insurance Co. in San Francisco.

Marin Women

Educator To Give Lecture In Series

"What Woman are you — Creatively?" is the subject of the second lecture in a series sponsored by the Westminister Presbyterian Church, Tiburon. Dr. George Hedley, distinguished educator, author and lecturer, will speak at 10 a.m., November 2 at the church.

Dr. Hedley is chaplain emeritus and professor emeritus of sociology and economics at Mills College, where he was a member of the faculty from 1940 until June of this year. He was ordained to the ministry in both the Methodist and Protestant Episcopal churches. His published works include books on religion, sociology and poetry.

Coffee will be served before the lecture, to which all women of Marin are invited, according to Mrs. George Faye, committee member of the women's organization of the Westminister Presbyterian Church.

Women's League To Fete Founding

The Lutheran Women's Missionary League of Grace Lutheran Church in Novato will hold an Anniversary Tea at 2 p.m., tomorrow in the church parlors.

Mrs. Andrew Bretz is general chairman of the event which will celebrate the 15th anniversary of the founding of the congregation.

Mrs. Irwin Swett, tea chairman will be assisted by mesdames Stuart Floyd and William Schlake.

Bolinas Author To Be Speaker For Rebekahs

Mrs. Louis Pepper of Bolinas, who had her first book published at the age of 85 by Vantage Press, will be the guest speaker on Thursday evening at the 7:30 p.m. meeting of the Golden Star Rebekah Lodge, Independent Order of Odd Fellows.

Mrs. Nina Washburn, noble grand, will preside for the meeting and the Rainbow Sewing Club will be hostess. Mrs. Robert Arbini is program chairman.

The town of Bolinas furnished the title and material for Mrs. Pepper's book, which goes back to the days when Bolinas was a Spanish land grant, Rancho de los Baulinas.

Our Lady Of Loretto Group Plans Carnival On Sunday

A Halloween Carnival will be sponsored by the Our Lady of Loretto Parents' Guild from 1 to 6 p.m., Sunday at the school grounds in Novato.

Mrs. James Henderson is chairman and is being assisted by Mesdames William Tobin and Gerald Cullen, co-chairmen.

Extra attractions this year will be pony cart and horse rides under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Buck Azevedo and Pat Healy will be the "Pocket Man."

A costume parade will be held with awards to be presented for the best costumes. As an art project, students are making posters and decorating their rooms for the event.

Various booths will include cake walk, darts, fish pond, grab bag, toss games and make-up booths will be manned by Parents' Guild members.

Proceeds from the Carnival will benefit the Parents' Guild Athletic Fund.

Meeting Locale Changed By Club

Marin County Business and Professional Women's Club meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. tonight at the home of Mrs. Lee McClennan in San Rafael instead of at Sabella's Restaurant as originally announced.

Spook House New Feature For Glenwood P-TA Event

The headless wonder, luminous skulls and stereophonic witches music will be among the horrors in the Spook House at the Glenwood School Parent-Teacher Assn. Halloween Carnival on Saturday from 11:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., at the school.

Fun booths, white elephant treasures, the homemade baked goods, popcorn and cotton candy will form the mainstay of the midway.

The costume parade will begin at 4 p.m..

General carnival chairman is Mrs. Gary Williams. Committee chairmen are Mesdames Frank Dill and R. N. McCormick, food; Leon Fish, Kountry Kitchen bakery; Elmer Welcher, decorations; Richard Barclay and William Stark, prizes; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Christensen, pa-House decorations, and Mrs. Peter Clute, Spook House coordinator.

ENTERING THE Spook House which will be a feature of the Glenwood School Parent-Teacher Assn. Halloween Carnival on Saturday are Susan Hall and Bobby Kunz. Working on the event are Mrs. Peter Clute, left, and Mrs. Gary Williams, chairman. (Independent-Journal photo)

KNOWING WHEN to stop talking is often more important than having something worthwhile to say and the good judgment when to say it. Perhaps the most important secret in avoiding becoming a bore is to cultivate interests and seek out new experiences which others will want to hear about. Like "Discovering America" with pleasant stays at our country's fascinating wayside inns and city-within-a-city metropolitan hotels and motels.

ME, MYSELF AND I

How Do You Score As A Bore?

Almost everyone is boring part of the time, yet few people really know when they are boring, what causes boredom among friends or how we can minimize our tendency to be dull.

Here's a quiz to help you rate yourself, plus tips on how to improve.

ARE YOU BORED? Bored people are often boring. If you're bored, why not try to get to the bottom of the problem and do something about it? Perhaps you're bored because you haven't tried your hand at anything new for too long. Nobody enjoys having a drudge around.

Think back to the last time you tackled a new hobby, read a good book or went on a journey. A short trip—even an overnight jaunt—with a stay in a hotel or motel, can help open your eyes to the interesting things around you, give you something new to talk about when you return home.

DO YOU FIND YOURSELF "TALKING AT" PEOPLE MORE OFTEN THAN CONVERSING WITH THEM? Few of us are such great orators that we can hold an audience spellbound for long. True, everybody likes to talk about himself, but if your conversation is mainly about "Me, Myself and I," don't be too surprised if you start to detect tell-tale signs of boredom in your listener.

How can you avoid these conversational calamities? Remember that the listener's time is just as important as your own, whether he has a lot of it, or only a little. Getting your listener involved is an excellent way to hold his attention. For example, you might start off a conversation by asking his opinion of something—a movie he may have seen recently, or a book he's read. But avoid using this trick as a platform from which to launch into your own diatribe on "what the whole thing is all about." By showing a genuine interest in what your friend has to say—even when he talks about himself—you can involve him in the conversation.

DO YOU SEEM TO HAVE A KNACK FOR TURNING CONVERSATIONS INTO ARGUMENTS? If you're the aggressive, self-asserting type, you may have to hold back a bit. Respect the other fellow's opinions, even if you don't happen to agree with them. After he's stated his case, you can politely offer your own views.

DO YOU JUMP AT THE CHANCE TO "MOVE IN ON" PEOPLE? While your friends or relatives may seem eager to have you sleep in their house, do your laundry and feed you when you visit them on vacation—the odds are you'll be more welcome if you stay in a near-by hotel or motel. Cutting down your "exposure time" on long visits will spare them and your frazzled nerves.

DO YOU TEND TO OVERSTAY YOUR WELCOME? Your hosts may appreciate the fact that you're enjoying yourself. But when heads start to nod, it's high time to say, "So long and thanks!"

DO YOU HAVE A LINE A MILE LONG? Some people have a tendency to stretch their "story" a little in an attempt to make themselves seem and feel more important. Others lay the flattery on thick, thinking it will make people like them better. But if your friends finally catch on, you may end up as the guy or gal who isn't invited a second time. Be yourself; your friends should accept you for what you are—that is, of course, unless you score high as a bore!

ARE YOU ABLE TO KEEP THE FRIENDS YOU MAKE? It's natural that close friends should enjoy seeing each other often, but it's also a good policy to strive for a happy medium. Don't neglect friends, but keep in mind the old saying, "familiarity breeds contempt."

By following these simple tips, you can help minimize your tendency to be dull—and raise your popularity quotient at the same time.

Today's Woman Needs College Education Says School Donor

Today's woman needs a college education, no matter if she never goes into a profession, says a woman who has just given $1 million to furthering education.

"They also serve — who only do housework," said Mrs. Fairleigh Dickinson, widow of the businessman who helped found the north New Jersey university which bears the Dickinson name.

The $1 million gift is the largest single one ever made to the school's endowment fund, which now stands at $11.5 million. The grant is to be used primarily for scholarships, with emphasis on help for women students and for all who might not be able to attend college otherwise.

"THERE JUST aren't as many scholarships for girls around as there are for men," said Mrs. Dickinson. "I think everyone should have a chance to go to college . . . but there are so many who can't afford it.

"You ask me, why educate a girl who settles down to marriage during or after college.

"WELL, HER degree may not help her hang curtains. But it makes her a better helpmate. Married to a college man, she has to be able to talk to him.

"Don't forget too that there are many demands on women today . . . to fill their role in community life."

"I think education is required of us all . . . it has nothing to do with sex," said Grace Smith Dickinson.

Mrs. Dickinson is an active woman in her 70's — although she won't confirm the exact number of years. She travels a great deal, plays competitive golf, and once made a hole in one at the Ridgewood, N.J. Country Club where she is a member. Her figure is as erect as a girl's, and as slim.

I talked with Mrs. Dickinson prior to a dinner here to honor her and to announce her $1 million gift.

She shared the interests of her late husband in helping to found the school 25 years ago with an initial gift of $50,000.

Her husband was the head of Becton, Dickinson & Co., makers of surgical instruments. Their son, Fairleigh Dickinson Jr., now is head of the company and also is on the university's board of trustees.

MRS. DICKINSON recalled that the first library on the campus was patterned after that in their home. And one of the first things her husband did was to decide where the flagpole should be located—in front of "The Castle", the original home of the school and still the administration building.

The first year's enrollment was 153 students. Today, the university is fully accredited with undergraduate and graduate schools and a branch, Wroxton College near Oxford, England. Mrs. Dickinson dedicated the foreign branch last June.

ENROLLMENT has reached close to 18,000, and Mrs. Dickinson, educated at Rogers Hall in Massachusetts said her husband "would be very proud to see where they (the students) have gone."

Lillian Adele Dittli Bride Of William Robert Glaeser

Lillian Adele Dittli became the bride of William Robert Glaeser, Airman Second Class U.S. Air Force at a two o'clock service at St. Hilary's Church, Tiburon, Saturday

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father, Albin Dittli, of Tiburon. The Rev. William Mena officiated at the double ring ceremony.

For the vow exchange, Lillian wore a floor length gown of ivory de luster satin, with an empire waist. The bodice and elbow length sleeves were re-embroidered lace. The gown had a cowl neckline with satin detail and full train. The shoulder length veil was held in place by a satin rose.

Mrs. Dieter W. Bayer of San Francisco, the bride's sister, was matron of honor. Mrs. Robert Stickney of San Francisco, Mrs. Richard Campagna of Corte Madera, and Jari Fowler of Larkspur were bridesmaids. The attendents were gowned alike in floor length dresses of russet crepe, fashioned in the empire line. They wore short-sleeved jackets embroidered in autumn tones.

Robert Stickney of San Francisco was best man. Richard Campagna of Corte Madera, Randy Ross, of Larkspur, Steve Paris of San Francisco, Albin L. Dittli of Tiburon, the bride's brother, and Brian Glaeser of Corte Madera, the bridegroom's brother, were ushers.

Eric Griesmer of Mill Valley was altar boy, and Helen Griesmer was in charge of the guest book.

The couple received at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albin Dittli in Tiburon. Lillian is the granddaughter of Mrs. Madelaine Lanz of San Francisco.

William is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Glaeser of Corte Madera. He is the grandson of Mrs. Erland Ericson of Corte Madera and Mrs. Frank Schaeffer of San Jose.

Both Lillian and William are graduates of Redwood High School. William attended the College of Marin before enlisting in the Air Force. He is now stationed at Stead Air Force Base near Reno. The couple will reside in Reno following a wedding trip to Los Angeles.

Girl Friday Secretaries Are Almost Irreplacable

By ROBERT A. BAKER

UPI—Who has the diplomacy of a statesman and the sense of humor of a comedian; who cheers up her boss when he is blue and remains calm when he is angry?

If you answer secretary, you're right.

She has one other thing going for her: she is not likely to be fired for anything short of treason, for she is virtually irreplacable. And she is virtually irreplacable in the strictest sense of the word because, for every two employers who want a "girl Friday," there is one applicant for the job.

Herman Miller, president of the Stenotype Co. of California, says there is a definite shortage of qualified secretaries, not only in this area, but nationwide.

"GIRLS WITH good shorthand and typing skills can call their own shots when it comes to job opportunities," Miller said.

He said the clamor for secretaries reaches its peak every Sunday in the "Help Wanted, Female" section of the classified ads.

Miller noted that the city of Los Angeles will pay $375 a month for a girl just out of high school and trained in shorthand and typing.

And, he said, there is evidence to indicate the secretarial situation will not improve in the near future. Miller said it does not appear the school systems are turning out enough qualified girls.

HE SAID THAT, between 1949 and 1962, the number of school girls enrolled in advanced shorthand classes in the Los Angeles City School System increased by only 400 despite the huge expansion of business in the area.

The U.S. Department of Labor said "a shortage of worker with stenographic and typing skills has existed in many areas since World War II." The department said the demand has often exceeded the supply.

Miller said even in jobs where secretaries work side-by-side with complicated office machines, there are two employers fighting for every graduate.

Those in the know say the reason the supply of secretaries is so low is the fact that women who want to work now have a wider choice of jobs.

VOCATIONAL AVENUES previously closed to women are now opening up and many are choosing other fields of work.

Miller and other authorities see two answers to the problem. High school counselors must point out to students the excellent career possibilities available in the secretarial field. Also, women who did not take secretarial courses in high school must be encouraged to go to business schools or night classes to acquire the necessary skills.

TENSE MOMENT—Feelings begin to run high among the hysterical citizenry of early day Salem, Mass., in this scene from Arthur Miller's "The Crucible," to be presented by the Tam Valley Players for three weekends starting Nov. 5. Shown are (left to right) Dixie Garrett, Tom Leith and Morrie Batz. Leith also is directing the play.

Tam Players Plan Run Of Miller's 'Crucible'

Tam Valley Players will open a three-week run of Arthur Miller's "The Crucible," at 8:30 p.m. Nov. 5, at Old Mill School, Mill Valley.

The play, dealing with the Salem, Mass., witch trials and superstitious townspeople, also will be given Nov. 6, 12, 13, 19 and 20.

Director is Tom Leith, drama teacher at College of Marin, who also has a lead role. He has appeared in the New York production of "Beckett' with Laurence Olivier, played in the pre-Broadway production of William Inge's "Natural Affection" and was on a national road tour of Arthur Miller's "View From the Bridge."

Leith directed the Ann Arbor, Mich. Players in plays including "All My Sons," "The Glass Menagerie," "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" and "Three Penny Opera." He has a feature role in the forthcoming Metro-Goldwyn Mayer film, "Dr. Zhivago."

Others in the cast are Dick Dawe, Barbara Raggio, Sandra Crinner, Dixie Garrett, Mary Collins, Miriam Burdick, Dick Miller, Petra Chambers, Valice Harder, Irene Pritzker, Jack Adams, Maurie Batz, Esther Allen, Andy Castle, George Pritzker, Fred Collins, Kitty Adams, Jay Irving, John Eshleman, Peter Holter and Ray Nielson.

Reservations may be made through Mrs. Richard Dawe of Mill Valley.

Professor To Talk On Family Life

The Reed School District Parent-Teacher Club will hear a talk on the decline of the male as a model for children at 8 p.m. Thursday at Reed School.

Speaking on the role of the father in family life and other suburban problems will be Richard E. Gross, professor of education at Stanford University.

Afternoon Concerts Planned At Drake

Sir Francis Drake High School will present a series of afternoon concerts, under supervision of Darryl Parker and Perry Smith, music department heads, in the school's little theater on Thursdays from 3:15 to 4 p.m. No admission will be charged to the public.

Together with Drake's instrumental orchestra will be vocalists headlined by the a cappella choir. Special literary works will be read by student and faculty members, and talented guests will make appearances.

MUSIC REVIEW

Pianist, Cellist Give Superb Sonata Recital

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

A superb sonata recital by pianist Adolph Baller and cellist Gabor Retjo opened this year's Dominican College concert artist series last night before an overflow audience in Pennafort Hall.

It was the annual college scholarship benefit performed by the musicians in memory of their late colleague in the Alma Trio, violinist Maurice Wilk.

It was the kind of concert for which the high point probably depended upon the musical taste of the individual listener, because each work was given a flawless performance in the idiom of its composer, and the composers varied widely in their style.

The first half of the program consisted of J. S. Bach's sonata in G Major and Brahms's Sonata in F Major, Opus 99, and the second half was composed of Kodaly's Sonata Fantaisie, Opus 4 and Beethoven's Sonata in F Major, Opus 5, No. 1.

The excellence of Baller's and Rejto's playing consists not only of the fact that each is a master of the full resources of his instrument, but also in their perfectly synchronized rhythm and phrasing and expressive rapport. They maintain an exquisite balance in their readings between the intellectual and emotional elements of the music.

Their performance as a whole was characterized by vigor, strength and controlled feeling.

Banbury Cross Faces Relocation

BANBURY, England (AP) — The town council voted 14-9 last night to move Banbury Cross, the subject of the nursery rhyme.

It stands in the main crossroads in the center of town. Those who wanted it moved said it was a traffic hazard. Opponents said to move it would upset the tradition of centuries.

Councillor Donald Batts said the present cross has no tradition at all. He said it was only about 100 years old and does not stand on the site of the original cross.

A new site hasn't been chosen.

Subscriptions Sold

Subscriptions are sold out to the Homestead Valley Improvement Club-sponsored candlelight concert series at Brown's Hall in Mill Valley. Mrs. Martin Goldschmidt, music chairman, said today that tickets are available only on a single admission basis.

Report Card Talk Scheduled By Board

The Larkspur School District board, meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the district offices, is scheduled to hear several reports from Supt. Milton S. Cohen.

One report will concern the district's three types of report cards for different grade groups. Another will be on money available to the district under the elementary and secondary education act.

Chamber Ensemble To Debut

The newly formed Marin Chamber Ensemble, directed by S. Drummond Wolff, will make its debut Sunday at 4 p.m. in a concert at Holy Innocents Church, Corte Madera.

The ensemble consists of 12 instrumentalists (strings and woodwinds) and 12 singers from the community who meet regularly to practice music of the Baroque Period of 1600 to 1750.

Program for the first hour-long concert of a series open to the public without charge will consist of a Vivaldi-Bach organ concerto; the cantata "Rejoice Earth and Heaven" for chorus and orchestra by Buxtehude; concerto for oboe, strings and continuo by Valentini; concerto for organ and orchestra by Handel; Sonata for flute, oboe and bassoon by Vivaldi; motets for double chorus by Schutz and Weelkes; cantata for solo voice, chorus and orchestra by Johann Beyer, and music by Byrd, Daquin and Clerembault.

Singing Echo

Soprano Gwen Curatilo, only member of the San Francisco Opera Company from Marin, is singing the role of Echo tonight in the company's presentation of "Ariadne Auf Naxos" by Richard Strauss in the War Memorial Opera House.

Children's Libraries Set Book Week Through Nov. 6

Children's libraries in Marin County are preparing special displays and, in some cases, special programs to commemorate National Children's Book Week, Sunday through Nov. 6.

At the Mill Valley Library, about 250 new books will be displayed and elementary school children will be brought to the library, usually a grade at a time, to view the selections. But no one will be allowed to check out a new book.

Then on Nov. 6, at 10 a.m., each child will be allowed to check out one of the new books, on a first-come-first-served basis. It's usually a scramble, according to library officials.

At Sausalito, where about 100 books will be displayed, Mike Healy, editor of the Sausalito News, will speak on writing and books to the fourth grade class of Mrs. Helen Shippey at Central School.

The San Anselmo Library is featuring a special display of the books the city's junior patrons have decided are the most popular in a recent survey. New books will also be shown and special bookmarks commemorating the week will be issued.

The San Rafael and Larkspur libraries will have displays of new books. No special plans were made this year for the Marin County libraries.

Bernstein Weds For Second Time

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Composer-Conductor Elmer Bernstein, 43, was married yesterday in Acapulco, Mexico, to Eve Adamson, 26. It was the first marriage for Miss Adamson, the second for Bernstein, who was divorced last August.

Bernstein's agent said the couple will hold receptions in Los Angeles and New York, then will honeymoon in England. they will visit her mother, Mrs. Josephine Adamson.

Bernstein wrote the Emmy Award-winning score for "The Making of the President - 1960" on television.

No Session

CRIME REPORT

State Report Doesn't Tell Why Juvenile Rate Fell

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON
(Second in a series)

There were 3,920 arrests of juveniles in Marin County last year, compared to 5,204 in 1963.

These figures are contained in "Crime in California," a comprehensive statistical report prepared by the Bureau of Criminal Statistics of the State Department of Justice.

The same year that saw this 24.7 per cent decline in juvenile arrests saw a 32.5 per cent increase in the felony crime rate in Marin — second highest increase in the state—and an 8.6 per cent increase in arrests of adults on felony charges.

There is, of course, no way to assess how much of the increased crime was by juveniles, if any. Evidence left at the scene of the crime rarely includes anything that tells the age of the perpetrator.

Statewide, however, last year saw a 10.3 per cent increase in juvenile arrests, along with a 10 per cent increase in felony crime—almost identical rates.

The state report does not explain Marin's sharp departure from the norm, although it does make note of it.

Leaving that aside for the moment, who made the juvenile arrests in Marin County, and what became of them?

The 3,020 juvenile arrests in Marin in '64 included 468 for major offenses, all of which would be felonies if committed by adults; 658 arrests for minor offenses, most of which would be misdemeanors, and 2,794 for "delinquent tendencies."

The sheriff's department made 1,401 arrests of juveniles; San Rafael police, 1,037; Novato police, 518; San Anselmo police, 424; Fairfax police, 154; Larkspur police, 116; Sausalito police, 111; Mill Valley police, 69; Corte Madera police, 57; Belvedere police, 31, and Ross police, two.

Of the 468 juvenile arrests for major offenses, 205 were by the sheriff's office, with police departments accounting for the following: San Rafael, 111; Novato, 43; Sausalito, 27; Mill Valley and San Anselmo, each 20; Corte Madera and Larkspur, each 14; Belvedere and Fairfax, each seven; Ross, none.

"Crime in California" reports dispositions of juvenile arrests in three categories: (1) handled within the police (or sheriff's) department; (2) referred to other agencies, not the county probation department, and (3) referred to the probation department and juvenile court.

The first category includes cases let off with a warning to the youth and/or his parents. The second includes principally persons turned over to other law enforcement agencies who might have a graver charge against them, and the third, those who follow the route through probation department and juvenile court.

Statewide, 51.2 per cent of the juvenile arrest cases last year were handled within the arresting department, with 44 per cent going to juvenile court. Most of those arrested for major crimes (71.1 per cent) went the court route.

Handling of the cases in Marin County showed rather wide variation among the enforcement agencies.

The sheriff's office disposed of a major percentage within the department itself—1,078 of the 1,401 it arrested. It sent only 283 to court.

Belvedere police sent all the 31 juveniles arrested to the probation department; Corte Madera sent 37 out of 57; Fairfax, 37 of 154; Larkspur, 50 of 116; Mill Valley, 64 of 69; Novato, 160 of 518; Ross, one of two; San Anselmo, 100 of 424; San Rafael, 378 of 1,037, and Sausalito, 45 of 111.

It appears obvious that some departments made a far greater percentage of arrests for mere "delinquent tendencies," and probable that other departments disposed of many such cases with mere informal warnings that were not made part of official reports.

As to what happened to the juveniles turned over to probation department and courts, the state made no figures available.

(Next: How does Marin's crime rate compare with other counties?)

Next Legislature Should Expand Tam Park Lands

Not much can be done during this special legislative session for acquisition of land to expand Mount Tamalpais State Park.

However, the next chance for approval of the land acquisition will come when the legislative budget session opens next February.

We are encouraged to note that our legislators are already looking ahead to the coming session, drumming up support for Mount Tamalpais expansion.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, who tried unsuccessfully to get the Governor to put park acquisition as an item for the current special session, has written letters to legislators in the Bay Area.

"My point in writing at this time is simply to alert you to the necessity for continued interest and legislative pressure leading to acquisition of this particular land," Bagley writes. "Please do all you can to assist me in seeing that this project, to be recommended by Beaches and Parks personnel, will be approved by the Legislature at our next budget session."

Financing will come from the $150 million park bond issue voted by the people last November.

The proposal for the Mount Tamalpais State Park expansion involves state acquisition of the area known as Frank's Valley adjacent to Muir Woods National Monument.

Acquisition of surplus military land for Marin Headlands State Park is already in progress. Appropriation for purchase of 320 acres of the military land was made at the last session.

This, and the Mount Tamalpais expansion, are included in the long range plan for a single state park from the Golden Gate to Point Reyes National Seashore.

This recreation area is of more than countywide interest. In Governor Brown's own words, "The project is considered the best opportunity of providing high-quality outdoor recreation to meet the population pressures generated in the San Francisco Bay metropolitan area."

We count on Bay Area legislators to join with Assemblyman Bagley and Sen. John F. McCarthy in supporting the expansion of Mount Tamalpais State Park next February.

Labor Will Work Hard To Win 1966 Congressional Friends

By NEIL GILBRIDE
(James Marlow is on vacation)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like President Johnson, organized labor has a vital stake in the 1966 congressional elections in trying to save the political hides of the current crop of new Democratic liberals.

Union chiefs, miffed at the poor record on labor legislation in the first half of the 89th Congress, really have no choice.

THEIR CHANCES of winning union shop, minimum wage, unemployment compensation and other labor measures could go glimmering next year if their liberal Democratic allies waver in the face of election year pressures.

"They'll be sitting ducks," said one labor spokesman of the 38 freshman House Democrats who last year ousted long-entrenched Republicans from Maine to California and then voted down the line for labor and the Johnson administration.

But it will be an uphill battle for Johnson and organized labor to prevent Republicans from recouping many of these seats.

NOT SINCE President Franklin D. Roosevelt and the Democrats pulled the trick in 1934 has the party in power bucked the historic trend of losing seats in Congress in a non-presidential election year.

AFL-CIO President George Meany already has sounded the call for labor to repeat its 1964 political blitz tactics on behalf of the Democrats next year.

LABOR SPOKESMEN admit however, it will be far more difficult to whip up flagging enthusiasm among dissappointed union men after failure to win the big fight to annul state power to ban union shop contracts — agreements under which all employees must join a union.

The 38 "sitting ducks" voted for the bill when it passed the House, but it was blocked by a Senate filibuster and pushed aside until next year.

Labor is also dissappointed that a bill to increase the present $1.25 federal minimum wage didn't at least get through the House.

OTHER LABOR measures were also pigeonholed until next year.

The AFL-CIO, convening in San Francisco in December, will start laying plans for a running start at keeping its friends in Congress after the 1966 elections.

Hoping to win the labor measures it failed to get this year, the AFL-CIO has compiled a confidential list of 51 Democrats who will get all-out labor support in 1966 — including two who voted against repeal of 14B — the union shop legislation — and one who didn't vote at all.

THE TWO ARE Rep. James A. MacKay of Georgia and Rep. Clair A. Callan of Nebraska—both from states with so-called right-to-work laws banning union shop contracts.

Labor forgave them their "no" votes on the basis of their record on other legislation favored by labor.

The man who didn't vote was Rep. Roy H. McVicker of Colorado, who went home to a sick wife during the union shopbattle. "He would have voted for repeal of 14B," an aide said.

Reporter Praised By Schools Unit

Editor, Independent-Journal:

At the request of our board of directors, I am writing to express our appreciation to the I-J and to its reporter Robert Strebeigh for the excellent coverage given to our recent workshop at Granada School on financing quality education.

The problems of school finance and tax reform are of deep concern to our school trustees in Marin County. We feel there is a real need to provide relevant facts in these critical areas to our citizens. We hope the I-J will continue to do its part by providing its readers with meaningful information on these vital subjects.

Americans Should Stop Communism

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I would like to remind certain people of a few words taken from our late President John F. Kennedy's inaugural address:

"It is not what your country can do for you, but what you can do for your country."

As one fellow stationed in Viet Nam put it:

"We know it is our job to be here, we are fighting not only because it is our duty, but because we love our families too much to ever want to live under communism.

"What is bugging us is the peace groups, Viet Nam Day group, the left wing groups and the citizens who are naive and have the careless attitude —'it never can happen here'."

I know that I will be called and have been called an alarmist, but I can remember when I was growing up hearing about the Japanese and how they were preparing to take over the United States. Well, if the same attitude of the people prevailed then as it does today, we wouldn't be sitting here, fat, dumb and happy sponsoring communists.

Let us all return to the old-fashioned idea of being patriotic and instead of giving aid and comfort to our enemy, let us back Uncle Sam and our men . . . If ever there was a time to practice what our late President preached, it is now. . . . Think of the lives that have been lost in the military since 1945 because of communism. My husband's life was one of these . . . We do not like to think that he gave his life in vain.

Communism is not a "fantastic story" as a person once stated to me. It is real, it is happening and it can happen here.

Think—stamp out communism—stop encouraging it.

Viet Opinion Is Divided

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Gen. Maxwell Taylor decried the Viet Nam day protests because he was afraid the communists (and the rest of the world) would think that there was "some division of opinion" on American (military) foreign policy in Southeast Asia! What a tragic laugh. There d--- well IS a division of opinion! As 15,000 serious and patriotic Americans marched in Berkeley to protest our undeclared war, a pitiful few hecklers obscenely defended the Administration policy with crude and inane epithets. On the following day, Johnson's war was gloriously supported by the "Hell's Angels."

Sanity demands that we stop bombing now. Sanity demands that we negotiate with the Viet Cong now for a peaceful election and eventual U.S. withdrawal.

America Discoverer Was Naked Savage

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Every year about this time there is a renewed bubbling of that tempest in a teapot about who discovered America first, Columbus or Ericson, though it is pretty generally agreed now that Leif beat Chris to our shores. However, it has also been proved that the Phoenicians, the Romans, the Chinese, the Irish (a whole colony of monks) and even other Vikings, were here long before either.

And did you know that Columbus expected to meet a king or some other high government officials when he landed in the new world? Quote: "Soon after the cannon on the Pinta boomed to announce its arrival in what Columbus thought was an East Indian port, he decked himself in his finery and insignia as an admiral and viceroy. Then, wrapped in a big purple cloak, he had himself rowed ashore to greet whatever potentate he should find. He was greeted by nearly naked native Indians."

The very first discoverer of America was a Paleolithic-Mongoloid Asian hunter, who came during or after the Fourth Glaciation or, if you prefer, the last Ice Age. He came 10,000 years ago or 20 or 25, or 30 or even farther back in time. He came across, or around, the huge glacier, which engulfed a great part of North America but left Alaska ice-free. (I copied this last material from a book entitled "They All Discovered America").

Angels' Doings For Isvestia

Editor, Independent-Journal:

If the news editors of Pravda or Isvestia have any sense, they will use two local news items to score the propaganda coup of the decade.

These are:

1. The Hell's Angels thugs loudly protesting their 200 per cent Americanism.

2. The efforts of the hyperthyroid right to raise help for them.

All these Russian newsmen need to do is to give worldwide circulation to these two news events without editorial comment on their part.

San Rafael Merchants Best

Editor, Independent-Journal:

This letter is one I have been intending to write for some months. This is a tribute to the trades people of San Rafael.

As an Army family we have lived all over the world and on the whole have been most happy wherever we have lived. But there has never been, in our experience, any place quite like San Rafael. Without exception we found everyone we came in contact with during the year we lived there to be unfailingly courteous and helpful. This is most unique in this day and age of high pressure selling.

We left your area last May, and this letter has been on my mind all these months. In this way we thank them, for we feel the thanks are certainly in order.

DIETER LOSES RECORD POUNDAGE

One man who started on a diet didn't stop until he had lost 570 pounds.

The Georgia-born wrestler reduced from 802 to a trim 232 by manfully sticking to a rigid diet prescribed by doctors in Augusta.

When asked how he lost the astounding quarter of a ton, the man replied: "There's a heap more will power connected with it than anything else."

The old adage, "Where there's a will, there's a way" applies in many areas besides dieting. Perseverance can lead to success, even when the going is far from easy.

Will power can be developed in many ways. First we need high goals—ideals worth aiming for. Single-minded purpose helps us to concentrate on our task.

A sense of mission, by which we think, pray and act in behalf of others for love of God Himself, provides motivation that is second to none.

In the long run, the things we value the most are those we work hardest for.

"He who has persevered to the end will be saved." (Matthew 10:22)

Give me the vision to see things as You see them, O Lord, and the strength to carry out my task as You will.

Job Training Courses In State Total 1,911 Under Federal Act

By EDWIN S. CAPPS

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—Does it take more training to become a nursing aide, a chambermaid or a janitor?

According to some new schools just announced, under the national Manpower Development and Training Act, the janitor training is tops. Of course, the job title is not janitor.

The department of employment said the position is referred to as a porter in the San Francisco Bay Area but, in southern California, they're known as floor maintenance mechanics.

THE DEPARTMENT recently announced federal approval of 33 more vocational training classes in California. They will accommodate 796 trainees. The courses ranged from licensed vocational nurses, to hotel clerks to waiters and waitresses.

The course in janitoring will be conducted by the Palo Alto adult education department and will consist of 30 hours a week for 13 weeks. The department said the course will be entirely classroom study, with no actual training with the broom, mop or dust cloth.

"SOME OF THE requests for janitorial help indicate the employers want persons with a basic education," a department spokesman said. "He needs to know how to read and write and follow instructions. Sometimes they may have to use poisonous cleaning elements and must be able to read the labels."

SOME OF THE OTHER training courses just approved include: licensed vocational nurse, Glendale College, 50 weeks at 32 hours a week; hotel clerk, at College of the Desert, Riverside, 13 weeks, 30 hours a week, and at Riverside Business College, 10 weeks, 30 hours a week; plant wireman, Adult Day School, Oakland, one class for 49 weeks, 30 hours a week, others for 30 weeks at 35 hours a week.

Clerk-typist, Adult Day School, Oakland, 46 weeks, 35 hours; shipping and receiving clerks, also Oakland, 31, 35-hour weeks; general clerk, also Oakland, 10, 30-hour weeks; waiter and waitress, Monterey Peninsula College, Salinas, 18 weeks at 35 hours a week; phone operator, John Adams Adult School, San Francisco, 49 weeks, at 35 hours a week; and nurse's aid, San Jose Adult Education Department, six weeks, 30 hours a week, and College of Marin, Kentfield, seven weeks, 30 hours a week.

Persons enrolling in the courses are paid subsistence ranging from $45 to $60 per week. Courses are developed on the basis of job surveys conducted by the department.

The Salinas waiter and waitress training course is a unique one. The program has leased a downtown restaurant building, where courses also are being given for chefs and cooks. The trainees actually operate a restaurant, on several levels.

There is a drive-in, a regular restaurant and others are given training in serving gourmet banquets. Only customers of the restaurant, if they choose, are students at the Monterey Peninsula College.

Approval of the 33 new MDTA courses brought to a total of 1,911 the courses approved for California. To date, 26,175 trainees have been enrolled in the program.

The department keeps a check on the trainees when they leave the school, at three, six and 12 month intervals. One check showed about 75 per cent of the trainees entered jobs in that field and about half of them still were in jobs related to the training a year later.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Assassination Probe Account Demanded

BY ROBERT S. ALLEN AND PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The four congressional members of the special commission that investigated the assassination of President John F. Kennedy are asking for a financial accounting of the year-long inquiry.

No report has ever been submitted to the seven-member commission — which formally concluded its work in September 1964.

The bipartisan group of legislators (two Democrats, two Republicans) decided, after discussing the matter for some time, that a detailed financial accounting should be presented and made part of the official records of the commission.

IT WAS THEIR understanding this would be done before the commission disbanded. But for some unclear reason, nothing came of that.

So in identical letters to Chief Justice Earl Warren, chairman, and Lee Rankin, general counsel, who was solicitor general in the Eisenhower administration, the four congressional leaders have requested that the commission be reconvened for the express purpose of receiving and acting on a comprehensive financial statement.

They also proposed that an announcement be issued on the final disposition of the huge mass of documents, transcripts, exhibits and other material, and their availability for study by authorized individuals. This also has never been done.

All the commission's records are in the custody of the U.S. Archives, on historic Pennsylvania Avenue halfway between the Capitol and the White House.

The legislators are Senators Richard Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Armed Services Committee; John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., former ambassador to India; Representatives Hale Boggs, D-La., majority whip, and Gerald Ford, R-Mich., minority leader.

In addition to Chief Justice Warren, the other members are Allen Dulles, former head of the Central Intelligence Agency, and John McCloy, one-time chief of the World Bank.

On May 5 of this year, this column disclosed that the commission's year-long investigation had cost $1.2 million.

BIGGEST SINGLE expenditure was $556,500 for printing.

Second largest expenditure was $225,650, for "salaries and related benefits."

This information was contained in an unpublished "financial statement" compiled by the budget division of the General Services Administration.

There was no indication of the source of the $1.2 million in the GSA report. It was authoritatively understood the money came from contingency funds available to President Lyndon B. Johnson — who initiated the investigation and appointed the seven members.

The GSA report notes that "expenses of personnel detailed to the commission from other government agencies are not included in the above figures."

The FBI did a great deal of such work for the investigation. Commission sources have indicated that Rankin received around $35,000 as general counsel.

The commission's 888-page report is still in popular demand.

As of Oct. 1 of this year, the Government Printing Office has sold more than 142,000 copies for a total of $444,418. Significantly, of these sales, 116,164 were hard cover at $3.25; 26,754, paperback at $2.50.

In addition, the GPO has sold 1,684 sets of the 26-volume hearings at $76 a set for a total of $127,984.

Over-all total of these sales is $572,402.

In addition, 8,250 complete sets of findings and hearings were distributed free. This has never been officially revealed.

Diablo, De Long Avenues Plan Is Joint Effort By City, State

The Public Works Department of the city of Novato and the Division of Highways are working out plans to straighten out the intersection of Highway 101 and Diablo-De Long avenues.

This intersection has long been a source of irritation for motorists who have to make a ridiculous left turn to make a right turn onto the highway. It has been a bottleneck for that reason, and also for the traffic going straight ahead to Front street tying up the traffic coming off the highway.

THE NEW plans call for straightening out Diablo Avenue; moving the traffic lights approximately 100 feet to the south, and bringing De Long Avenue that far south to meet it.

This will leave the present De Long Avenue from the top of the hill west of the community house to Highway 101 as a useless piece of road. The city council last Tuesday set Nov. 23 for a public hearing on vacating this portion of the street.

Douglas M. Christensen, who purchased the Grant School property from the Division of Highways, would like to see De Long Avenue placed in its new alignment so he can proceed with the development of the old school property. The portion of De Long to be vacated lies adjacent to his property.

ALL THIS RAISES a question. Should Novato just vacate the street and let Christensen have the approximately 5,000 square feet of the present road? Or should the city go ahead and develop a little green belt park with benches on it, which would be near the community house and the city business district.

There are four beautiful tall pine trees on the side of the present road, which would help with the natural landscaping of it as a green belt. Some members of the Novato Civic Foundation, the non-profit organization devoted to getting parks for Novato, feels that this area should be kept by the city for a small park.

SOMETIMES CITY councils talk endlessly and around in circles. The Novato City Council was in this mood last Tuesday when it considered lending its support to a request by the city of Long Beach that the state make it a felony to use Molotov cocktails. A few minutes later, it was considering lending its support to Supervisor Thomas Storer's request that the state make a study of using ferry boats for commuter traffic.

The talk was so meaningless that the press representatives were not sure, but it sounded as if the council favored outlawing ferry boats in Long Beach if Molotov was serving cocktails on them.

MORRIE RYSKIND

There's A Right-Wing Plot To Probe India Rhinoceros

The air already crackles with horrendous exposures of righ-wing conspiracies: One would attempt to coerce ministers, while in the pulpit, to preach from the Gospel instead of the Democratic platform; another seeks to force the P-TA to stick to the projects it was organized for and eschew politics.

Yet I have unearthed still another, this one of such menacing proportions that it calls for the attention of all nonviolent groups, especially Dr. Robert Hutchins and his Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions at Santa Barbara.

THE CENTER, as you doubtless know, is really a navel observatory where the Doctor and his Little Group of Serious Thinkers (as Don Marquis would have termed them) sit around and observe their navels while ruminating on the ills of the outside world. When one of the brain trust achieves nirvana, he issues a pronouncement which is immediately broadcast to a palpitating universe and becomes standard doctrine for eggheads who hope one day to be tapped by Dr. Hutchins to join his fraternity and then live happily ever after on the tax-free funds of the Ford Foundation.

I myself am not much of a navel-watcher, having gone on the theory that when you've seen one, you've seen 'em all. But then I was brought up in an uncultured era when the schools stuck mainly to the three Rs. As one incisive critic has just charged in a letter to the editor, my second-grade class — unlike her children's —left me in complete ignorance of what a pterodactyl was.

THAT ACCUSATION, regrettably, is beyond refutation. For that was a Puritanical age, and pterodactyls were not deemed a fit subject for second-graders. All I ever learned about them I picked up from the older boys on the block—and you know how wrong they can be.

Yet, though I lack a formal education, I know a Fascist scheme when I see one. What makes this one so particularly insidious is that it is being put over in the name of a good cause and might, without my eagle eye, have gone unnoticed.

Slipped into our current foreign aid appropriations is an item for $82,155 for "investigation of the rhinoceros" in India. On the surface, it is innocent enough and many voted for it unsuspectingly.

But clearly the phrasing is right-wing. Had a genuine liberal inserted that item, it would have read something like "for slum clearance among India's underprivileged rhinoceroses."

But no — "investigation," if you please, of the rhinoceros. The very wording carries the brazen innuendo that Indian rhinos are, per se, subversive. Otherwise, why investigate? And we know from our own bitter experience that such investigations tend to become inquisitions.

SOME WRETCHED informer — probably an Indian FBI agent — will testify he has often seen Rhino A in the company of Rhino B, whose uncle comes from Pakistan and is, therefore, "un-Indian." And thus, by the vicious technique of "guilt by association," not only will A and B suffer obloguy as "subversives," but odium will attach to any rhinos who, no matter how innocently, wallowed in the same muddy waters with them.

It is, too, a covert attack upon India's religion, which respects animal life. For start with the rhino, and how long will it be before the smear extends to the sacred cows.

AND HOW LONG before the right-wing Establishment uses this as propaganda material in America so that the rhinos in our own zoos (who didn't ask to come here) are regarded with suspicion and perhaps sent back to their homelands as undesirable aliens?

I can almost foresee the leading editorial in National Review and similar extremist organs. They will point out that the African rhino has two horns, while the Indian has but one: and, instead of trying to equalize things by giving him another horn, they will say that his defect is due to lack of initiative and his unwillingness to support free enterprise.

If American money is thus to be used to promote McCarthyism in India, surely we cannot stand idly by. So sound the trumpet from Santa Barbara, Dr. Hutchins, in defense of your fellow navel-observers in India! And sound it soon!

Tam Master Plan Awaits Passage Of Bond Issue

(First of Four Articles)

Twice postponed, the next stage of the Tamalpais High School District master plan awaits voter approval of a $5,750,000 bond issue in a Nov. 16 special election.

The money would be used to complete Redwood High School in Larkspur-Corte Madera (adding 900 students to that school's capacity) and to build the first stage of a new high school in the San Geronimo Valley.

Trustees of the district held off on the bond proposal while two unification issues were being decided—and defeated—in June, 1964, and April of this year.

Although trustees and architects have readied plans and permits, it will still take two years after money becomes available before students can occupy the new premises. If voters give the proposal the two-thirds majority required for passage, it will be September, 1967, before doors swing open.

During that two year wait, this is what will happen, according to Supt. Chester G. Carlisle of the Tamalpais district:

Based upon recent enrollment figures in the 11 elementary school districts feeding the tamalpais secondary system, more than 1,450 students will be ready to enter high school in 1966 and 1967.

In addition to these students now on hand, an unknown number will enter district high schools as their parents take up residence in Marin.

Ignoring this second group of "immigrants," enrollment in the three district high schools, based on current residency, will total nearly 5,500 in 1966 and nearly 6,000 in 1967.

Tamalpais, Redwood and Drake high schools are now operating near or over capacity. In the 1965-66 school year there are 5,457 students attending these three schools with rated total capacity of 5,375.

Redwood High is 51 students short of its capacity of 2,100. Tam is just 33 short of its 1,800 capacity. Drake, rated by a Stanford University survey with a capacity of 1,475, this year has 1,641 enrolled.

Crowded classrooms and science lab facilities, jammed workshops and physical education layouts are the rule for students and for their teachers.

At Drake particularly, when the bell rings, corridors become bottlenecks, lunch at the canteen is an exercise in impatience, student body meetings in the gymnasium leave an overflow seated uncomfortably on the floor.

Of 46 classrooms at Drake, Principal Harold Allison reports, 43 are used by two or more teachers. This means a constant shuttling of the faculty, carting materials to the next class. It means a minimum of preparatory time for instructors, often in subjects like the arts and sciences where setting up materials eats into teaching time.

The same sort of pressures are approaching at Tamalpais and Redwood high schools.

(Tomorrow: What will the bond proposal provide?)

Halloween Party

The Larkspur-Corte Madera School Parent-Teacher Assn. will sponsor a Halloween carnival at that school Friday from 7 to 8:30 p.m. The carnival will include a costume parade at 7:30 p.m. and a variety of booths.

Council To Hear Parking Report

Report on a parking study on Grant Avanue is to be presented to the Novato City Council at its meeting at 8 p.m. today in the Novato Community House.

The council will consider an appeal by E. H. Chapman, contractor for the city's San Marin fire station, from the requirement that he pay a building permit fee.

Edward H. Adams, parks and recreation director, will report on prograss toward acquiring four park sites. City Mgr. J. Julien Baget will present a proposal for a city personnel classification and salary survey.

UNICEF Playday Set For Children Friday

Marin youngsters wearing Halloween costumes will gather at the Tamalpais Theater in San Anselmo from 4 to 5:30 p.m., Friday, for the Marin UNICEF Playday.

Laura Weber of KQED will sing folk songs, and children will see "The Golden Fish," the film which was directed by Edmond Sechan, also director of the award-winning movie, "The Red Balloon." Jack Hansen will be master of ceremonies.

The program will be sponsored by the Marin UNICEF Committee and the 14th district Parent-Teacher Assn., Pixie Parents and the Council of Cooperative Nurseries.

Proceeds from donations and from sale of games, calendars and cards will go to UNICEF.

Hospital Board To Award Plaques

The Marin Hospital District board, meeting at 7 p.m. today in Marin General Hospital, will award plaques honoring past board members.

A posthumous award, honoring the late Charles Rowe, will be presented to Mrs. Rowe. Paul Kent, Ernest N. Kettenhofen and Herman J. Hale will also receive plaques. The board will also hear a progress report on the mental health facilities.

Study Slated By Preserve Zoning Group

Directors of the Marin County Farm Bureau yesterday named a committee to further study agricultural preserve zoning.

The committee is to meet Friday with Douglas Maloney, county counsel.

Named to the committee were Fred Turza of Fallon, William Barboni of Hicks Valley, Roy Parks and James A. Marshall of Tomales.

Donald Collins of the California Farm Bureau Federation research department at Berkeley, discussed the proposed agricultural preserve agreements with the directors at the bureau's regular board meeting.

It was announced that the annual Dairy Herd Improvement Assn. meeting will be held at 8 p.m., Nov. 4. at the Point Reyes Community House.

DAD'S DREAM

Time we give a thought to Dad
He's wanted a workshop since a lad
A separate room — where he putters and bangs
And where his dearest trophy hangs.
For Mother—here's a kitchen great
3 bedrooms and a den, to state
Only a few of the features here
To stores and school so very near.
Wood paneled rooms thruout the home
Warmth from the fireplace — you'll never roam.
$27,000

PROMISE HER ANYTHING

But give her a paintbrush.
You know she can do it
Bring out the buckets and make her stick to it
Two bedrooms waiting—a den and a view
A large living room and a dining room too
The price is so low there's no way to lose
A Chapman Hill Special, there's no time to snooze.
Snap $21,500

DISTRESSED

Because I must be sold
3 bedrooms, 2 baths, three years old
I boast a view—seclusion too
Built-in kitchen, decks of two
2 car attached garage
$32,500 and no mirage.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Lazy Thyroid Can Wreak Havoc With Man's Work, Social Life

VAN DELLEN

A lazy thyroid can slow up the most vigorous individual and many things may happen unless the condition is recognized and treated. This is true when the manifestations are confined to the lack of thyroid stimulation on one or two organs.

One of our fine athletes was married in his late twenties. Three or four years later he began to fatigue more and more easily and became irritable, not only at work, but at home. He began to fall asleep in the middle of important business meetings. His wife noticed changes in his interest in her, an increasing tendency to be asocial, and a greater desire to sleep. Sex had all but vanished from their lives.

WHEN A vacation failed to help, he saw his physician who told him that he was going through an early male change of life (climacteric). Testosterone was given but the lethargy continued. The clue came when the skin became dry and puffiness of the face developed. A blood (PBI) and metabolism test were abnormal.

Thyroid extract made a new man of him in less than a month. He was alert and full of pep. The puffed dry skin on the face returned to normal and he was no longer grouchy.

An insurance salesman had a similar experience. He was on the way up in business when his work began to slip because of lack of energy and ambition. He needed a nap in the afternoon, gained weight despite a poor appetite, and complained of being cold even though the weather was warm. His skin and scalp became dry and the nails and hair were brittle.

THYROID EXTRACT also made a new man of him and within a few years he was eligible for the insurance industry's million-dollar club.

NOSE BAND

H. T. writes: The tip of my nose droops and I was told that if I put an elastic band around my head, with the tip of my nose lifted back, the droopy part eventually would straighten out. What do you think of this idea?

REPLY

Not much. Elastic bands have many uses, but I do not think that propping up the nose is a good one. Plastic surgery is a better solution to your problem.

WHY THINK THE WORST?

C. R. writes: I'm developing white spots on the skin in different parts of the body. Could I have leprosy?

REPLY

Your description suggests vitiligo (leucodermal), a condition in which there is a patchy loss of skin pigment. Send a stamped, self-addresed envelope for leaflet on vitiligo.

DROOPY EYELIDS

G. B. writes: Every once in a while I have trouble keeping my eyelids from drooping and must force them open. How can I correct this disorder?

REPLY

If you are not sleepy, consult your physician because this may be an early indication of a nerve condition such as myasthenia gravis.

EAR TAPING

M. H. writes: Will taping back an infant's protruding ears help keep them back?

REPLY

Yes, while the tape is on but they will flap out again once it is removed. Plastic surgery offers the best cure.

WATER FOR CARDIACS

N. B. writes: Can a person with heart trouble drink all the water he wants?

REPLY

Yes, provided the heart is not failing and dropsy does not exist. Limit the intake of salt in these circumstances.

Today's Health Hint — Never manipulate hairpins or similar objects in the ear.

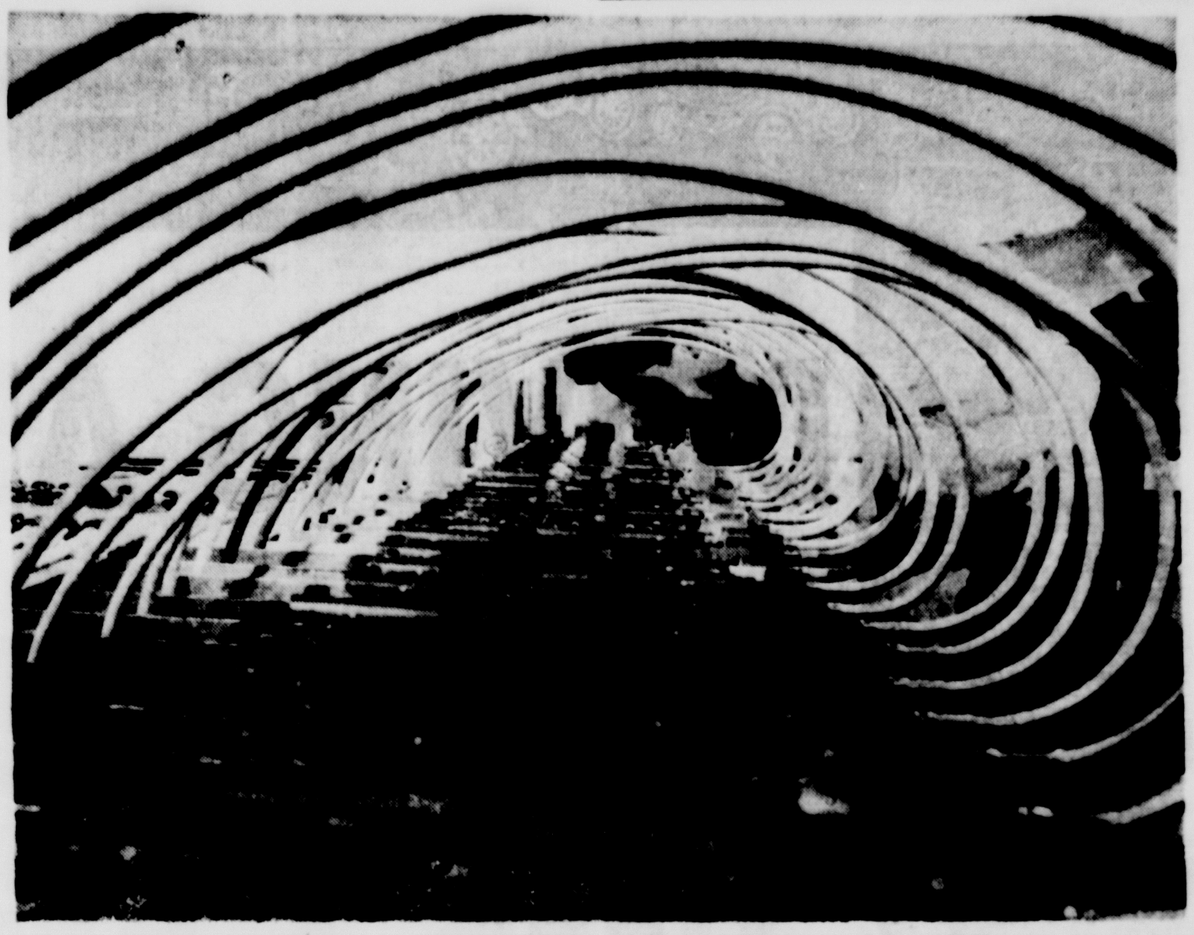
Encyclopedia Selling Illegal

San Anselmo police are investigating complaints that a woman is calling at homes in the area selling encyclopedias in violation of the city's new "Green River" anti-soliciting ordinance, Police Chief Raymond R. Buchignani said today.

A housewife reported the woman offers the books "free" providing the set is kept up-to-date with supplements amounting to $365.

Bonsai Chairmen

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Ashley of Kentfield have been named co-chairmen in Marin County for the seventh annual show of the Kusamura Bonsai Club, scheduled for Nov. 7 in the Art Gallery on Stanford University campus.



SPACE AGE EXPLOSIVES CHECKED

At Fairfield (Solano County) a technician for Explosives Technology, Inc., inspects a maze of special tubes loaded with Jetcord explosive material intended to separate Gemini capsules from their Titan boosters in future orbital launchings. The firm provides separation and destruct systems for Polaris, Minuteman, Saturn and other space and military hardware. The City of Fairfield and Fairfield-Suisun Chamber of Commerce will sponsor an open house Nov. 13, in honor of the community's newest industry.

Here's One Way To Run A Railroad

By EDWARD J. MOWERY
Advance News Service

ARCADE, N.Y.—Vista domes, snack bars, 150-mile-per-hour monorail streamliners, mergers and federal subsidies may eventually solve the nation's railroad problems.

But none of these gimmicks has appeal to the 165 stockholders of the venerable Arcade and Attica Railroad. Through sheer enterprise, the A&A is hauling freight, carrying passengers and making money with its 15-mile right-of-way in this Wyoming County dairy country, 40 miles from Buffalo.

As for government handouts to spruce up the line, A&A president Richard I. Cartwright, 71, vows it'll never happen. For two-score years, he's guided the tiny carrier through lush and belt-tightening periods, and maintained its proud independence.

"We'll carry around 50,000 passengers this year," Cartwright said. "And our balance sheet is in very good shape. No problems . . ."

The A&A story is one of intiative and perseverance. Founded in 1881, the little line ran out of steam during World War I upheavals in 1917, faced bankruptcy and oblivion. Farmers along its trackage took over and, with astounding community support, the A&A responded with a bounce.

By 1947, its then 371 stockholders acquired a diesel-electric locomotive to replace a second-hand steam engine and beefed up the freight volume. Shippers found the A&A had "muscle"—connections with the mighty Pennsylvania at Arcade, the New York Central and Erie at Attica.

And the line's progress got good exposure. Once a year, its farmer-owners piled their families into an A&A train for an express ride to the stockholders' festive meeting. They had a ball, with dinner on the "house."

The board then announced the size of dividends. Reversals, however, were on the horizon. Trucks began eating into the A&A's originating freight traffic. Passenger volume slipped. Washouts and industries' conversion to natural gas whittled proceeds from incoming coal.

The railroad retrenched by halting passenger traffic and reducing its 28-mile stretch to 15 miles—Arcade to North Java—which lopped off connections with the NYC and Erie. Then things brightened.

The road paid a $10 dividend in 1957, battled a $26,000 deficit through 1961 and decided on a bold move. With a steam engine and four coaches purchased from the Erie-Lackawanna, Cartwright resumed passenger service (excursions) in August, 1962, tallying 18,000 passengers by the end of the year.

Today the A&A boasts two diesel-electric and two steam locomotives, six steel coaches, one Pullman (circa Grover Cleveland), two cabooses and a flatcar. Its total personnel: four on the train crew, two in the shop, three on sections and three in the office. No unions. Harmonious employee-management relations prevail.

Beaming over popularity of the 90-minute, 15-mile round trip excursions on weekends from May to late October, Cartwright observed:

"We take passengers from Arcade to Curriers and entertain them en route with an accordionist. There's a hot dog stand and refreshments at Curriers. The Pullman car? It's very popular. We've restored it . . . like it was in 1886."

Business and professional men are now majority stockholders in the A&A, and its "book value" is $98,000. But you couldn't buy it for that. Without gimmicks, government handouts or luxury lures, the little carrier is prospering.

The recipe? The noted publication, Railway Age, says "nostalgia" is the A&A's chief stock in trade. And it adds: "This is private enterprise in its purest form."

Chronic Alcoholic Gets Blame For Being Worst Road Menace

By CHARLES SCHAEFFER
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON — A California researcher has found evidence showing that the social drinker may not be the highway menace he is cracked up to be.

The real culprit in at least half the alcohol - related accidents killing drivers, passengers or pedestrians is turning out to be the chronic alcoholic.

Dr. Julian A. Waller, of the California Department of Public Health, offered new evidence of the alcoholic role in traffic accidents and a plan on how to curb these chronic offenders.

Autopsy findings, he said, reveal that a significant percentage of drivers and pedestrians killed in San Francisco over a two-year period had cirrhosis of the liver attributable to heavy drinking.

He told a national conference on "alcohol and accidental injury" here that the studies have "reasonably clinched" his theory that alcoholism rather than social drinking is the bigger highway problem.

Most anti-alcohol campaigns warn "If you drink, don't drive." The appeal is aimed mainly at social drinkers who presumably understand the message.

No wonder it hasn't worked if the big offenders are alcoholics, he told the conference which was sponsored by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Participants were urged by President Lyndon B. Johnson to try to reduce the "toll in human suffering" from all alcohol-linked problems.

Dr. Waller based his San Francisco study on the theory that if alcoholism is chiefly responsible for the highway massacre he would find more people with cirrhosis and fatty livers among highway fatalities. The fact that San Francisco routinely autopsies all traffic victims and records the blood-alcohol level of those involved aided the study.

In the survey of those between 25 and 65 years doctors found alcohol levels that would declare at least half of them legally drunk. This level is 15/100 of one per cent alcohol content.

The researchers found cirrhotic or fatty livers in nearly two-thirds of those with that level of alcohol content who died within six hours after the accident.

In contrast, only 15 per cent of the alcohol-free fatalities had similar liver trouble.

Alcohol levels were lower in the older and younger groups. For example, there were traces of alcohol in about 78 per cent of the under-25 group, but in comparatively low volume. Dr. Waller theorized that even a little bit of drinking hinders the novice driver, while the older experienced driver can handle his cocktails better.

The public health official suggested a program he believes could identify at least half of the unknown alcoholic drivers over a 10-year period.

Early identification should be bolstered by improved laws on blood-alcohol tests, rehabilitation for alcoholic drivers, education for young drivers and a let-up on pat slogans that bounce off the alcoholic's befogged brain.

Chilling The Stomach Helps Some Peptic Ulcer Patients

By CHARLES SCHAEFFER
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON—"Deep freezing" has helped heal the peptic ulcers of half of a large group of patients treated at the Minnesota Medical center which pioneered the therapy.

Symptoms returned in about one third, and some 17 per cent of the group finally had to undergo surgery to achieve relief.

The latest results of the still-controversial technique of chilling the stomach from the inside to heal ulcers were reported by Dr. Harold O. Peterson to the annual meeting of the American Roentgen Ray Society here.

Dr. Peterson is chief of radiology at the University of Minnesota, where the freezing procedure was developed in 1961 by Dr. Owen Wagensteen. Peterson ran X-ray tests on a sampling of patients before and after freezing.

He said the Minnesota surgical team as of May had chilled the ulcers of 675 patients.

All felt better almost immediately, he said, because the cooling slowed the flow of irritating hydrochloric acid over the ulcer.

But most striking results were achieved in only about one-third of the patients. Their ulcers have healed and the patients have been freed from all diet restrictions except a ban on coffee and alcohol, he said.

Another 17 per cent have milder symptoms and lower acid production. "So about half (the patients) think it is great," Dr. Peterson said.

Ulcer freezing is accomplished by passing a compact stomach-shaped balloon down the esophagus. A coolant is shot through one tube into the balloon and returned by another tube.

Recently, the Wagensteen team substituted a safer silicone fluid as the coolant. There were fears that the regularly used alcohol might escape and poison the patient, though this never happened.

The cooling process at about 30 degrees fahrenheit takes about 30 minutes and is relatively painless.

All the patients undergoing the procedure were facing surgery after the failure of conventional therapy, such as bland diets and anti-acid medication. The idea behind freezing is to suppress the acid-secreting glands. With less irritation an ulcer tends to heal.

The freeze treatment fails if the glands reactivate and start pouring out excess acid. One patient, Dr. Peterson said, has undegone the stomach freeze eight times.

Over four years there has been just one death, which was probably not directly related to therapy, he said. The patient died of a thrombosis, or stroke-like complication.

Other complications include post-freeze bleeding and the appearance of gastric ulcers from the treatment in 27 patients.

Recently, Dr. Wagensteen told a European medical meeting that "both the virtues and limitations of this method are becoming increasingly apparent."

While the acomplishments to date are "modest," the number of patients who have been able to achieve improvement without surgery justifies its use, he said.

McAlister Fund Directors To Be Honored

Newly named directors of the Msgr. McAlister Memorial Scholarship Fund will be honored at a luncheon meeting tomorrow in St. Raphael's Parish rectory.

The fund was established last January in memory of Msgr. Daniel McAlister, former chaplain at San Quentin Prison and administrator of St. Raphael's parish. It aids Marin County high school students.

The new directors are: G. F. Byrne, Irving Chapman, Mrs. George A. Cheda, Jack Craemer, Rev. Edward Dingberg, Louis G. Freitas, Edward F. O'Day, Mrs. Ralph E. Tobener and Richard Sims.

Hosting the meeting will be the steering committee under chairman Thomas P. Boyd, with Mrs. John Bennett, secretary; Mrs. Robert Andrews, treasurer, and Rev. Thomas Kennedy, adviser.

Racial Equality Group Elects

Free, a Redwood High School organization dedicated to promoting racial equality in education has chosen officers for the new school year.

Serving on the board of directors, decided on in place of the usual officers, will be Marcia Steadman and Gretchen Walford of Corte Madera, Rachel Rice of Larkspur, and Cele Hanzel of Kentfield. Lynn Hanzel of Kentfield will serve as secretary.

Medical Insurance Cards Due In Mail By March 31

The medical insurance enrollment cards in kits already mailed to Marin County residents 65 or over on the Social Security and railroad retirement benefit rolls must be returned no later than next March 31, Patrick Stevens, the county's Social Security district manager, said today.

The deadline is important, he said, if beneficiaries want full protection when Medicare goes into effect July 1, 1966.

Some persons not on the benefit rolls have already been in touch with the Social Security office in San Rafael but others still need to take action to protect Medicare rights.

They include elderly people still working full time or who have retired and never had Social Security coverage.

About one-third of those not reached by direct mailing are receiving old-age assistance payments and will hear from their welfare agencies.

Mum Show Winners Announced

Mrs. Bernard H. Keener of Sleepy Hollow was principal winner at the "Autumn Enchantment" show staged by the Chrysanthemum Society of Marin in San Rafael last weekend.

She won trophies for the best cut flower, best spider 'mum, best theme flower, the best companion theme flower and the best container of eight cut flowers. She also won the sweepstakes trophy.

Mrs. Thelma Fried received the ward for best in show in the arrangement section and Orvin Noah was the best junior exhibitor.

Other special awards went to Ivan Johnson, best horticultural and best novelty form culture; and Lt. Col. Poul Sibbitt, best new introduction and best potted plant.

First place winners were: Mrs. E. P. Davis, Mrs. Esther Herena, Mrs. Charles Giggy, Mrs. J. Murray, Mrs. Melvin Hien, Mrs. Paul Sibbitt, Mrs. A. J. Fried, O. Noah and Dan Keener.

School Dance Rule Changed

New, stricter rules to govern school dances at Novato High School were announced today by Barbara Jones, commissioner of student activities.

The new rules apply to the bands and policemen at the dances.

Band members must dress fittingly, must not smoke in the gymnasium. Bands will be allowed two 10-minute breaks.

Policemen patrolling the dance and parking lots must abide by the no-smoking rule.

'Placerville' Most Popular

"Placerville—1860" by Albert Bellas was the most popular painting at the North Bay artists show Saturday and Sunday at the Novato Community House, according to the votes cast by more than 400 who attended the show.

"Autumn" by Thal Maitland was the most popular sculpture, and "Earthenware Pot," also by Maitland, was the most popular in "other media" class.

A close runner-up in paintings was "Sailing Through Fog," by Linda Pederson, who was the 1965 North Bay artists scholarship winner.

Mrs. Frank Havick is president of the Auxiliary to the Fraternal Order of Eagles, San Rafael Aerie 256.

Institute Day In San Rafael

An Institute Day tomorrow for San Rafael schools means early school dismissals for students, announced William R. Jordan, assistant superintendent.

Kindergarten through third grade classes will be dismissed at 1:40 p.m., grades four through eight will be dismissed at 2:15 p.m., and high school classes will be dismissed at 12:30 p.m.

The institute has been called to allow school district teachers to hear a talk by Dr. Martin Diamond, professor of American political institutions at Claremont College.

Bermuda is a 21-square-mile island.

Car Wash Set

The youth group of St. Francis of Assisi Church in Novato will hold a car wash by the Novato post office from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Saturday for the benefit of the youth activities in the church.

HERB STUFFED CHICKEN

- 2 Jolly broilers split in two
- 1 bunch finely chopped parsley
- 2 bunches green onions, finely chopped
- 1 tbsp. tarragon,
- 1 tsp. Beau Monde salt
- Black pepper
- 2 cubes butter

Cream the butter until fluffy and mix parsley, onions, tarragon, Beau Monde salt, pepper. Now wash and dry the chicken and separate skin from flesh and stuff generously with the above mixture. Chill overnight. Broil chickens breast up for about 20 minutes. Turn and broil breast down for 5 minutes and serve. A different, tasty way to broil chicken!

EGGPLANT VALENCIENE

- 2 medium-size eggplants, sliced ½ inch thick
- Olive oil
- 1 bunch finely chopped green onion
- 1 bell pepper, sliced in strips
- 1 clove garlic
- 2 fresh tomatoes, diced
- Salt and pepper
- 1 tsp. oregano
- Grated Cheese

Saute eggplant in olive oil and drain on paper towelling as each slice is browned. Saute green onion, pepper, garlic and fresh tomatoes. Season with salt and pepper. Add oregano. Arrange eggplant, overlapping, in baking dish and top with green pepper mixture. Top with generous amount of grated cheese. Bake in 350° 30 minutes . . .

Same Old Lip Pops Off As New Manager Of Cubbies

By JOE MOOSHIL

CHICAGO (AP) — Leo Durocher, the man who coined the phrase "nice guys finish last," has lost none of his brashness or self confidence despite a 10-year layoff from the major league managerial picture.

Immediately after the Chicago Cubs had announced Durocher had been signed to a three-year contract yesterday, the Lip popped off.

"Anyone who makes a deal with me is going to be a loser," said Durocher, "because I'm going to get the best of it."

In reference to the Cubs' plight of 19 straight second division finishes, Leo chortled, "All that is going to change as soon as possible."

In less than 45 minutes, the man who managed three pennant winners, swept a four-game World Series from Cleveland in 1954 and was once suspended from the game for one year, laid out his plans for the Cubs, who finished eighth last season in the fifth and final year of experimentation with rotating coaches.

Durocher retained only Verlon Walker from the Cub coaching system and named Whitey Lockman and Fred Fitzsimmons to round out his immediate staff.

Lockman, who formerly played for Durocher with the New York Giants, managed the Cub farm at Dallas-Fort Worth last season. Fitzsimmons, who had previously coached under Durocher, was out of baseball last year.

Lou Klein, who finished the 1965 season as head coach of the Cubs, will remain in the Cub organization.

The 59-year-old Durocher lost no time in showing who is boss. When Cub Vice President John Holland announced the hiring of Durocher, a press release was handed out which stated, "There is no immediate announcement as to Durocher's title."

Independent-Journal Sports

FOURTH SECTION Tues., Oct. 26, 1965 33

Asked about this, Leo snapped back, "Well, if they haven't given me a title, I'll give myself one. I'm the manager and the only manager. Don't ever call me coach."

Durocher's stormy career as manager began with Brooklyn in 1939. He led the Dodgers to the pennant in 1941 and six years later was suspended for one year by then Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler for "conduct detrimental to baseball."

Duroocher returned in 1948 but in midseason, he was fired by the Dodgers and hired by the New York Giants, replacing the late Mel Ott. He won pennants with the Giants in 1951 and 1954 and topped the 1954 season with the famous four-game sweep.

Durocher was asked about his 10-year managerial layoff, and he answered, "The diamond is still the same size, and you still need to score more runs than the other team in order to win.

"Winning is the important thing. I didn't come here to win any popularity contests. I came to win games, and that's what we're going to do. The Cubs have the nucleus of a good team with players like Ron Santo, Billy Williams and Ernie Banks.

"I'd have to say those three are our untouchables at the moment. The first thing I look for is speed. If the book says bunt, I might hit and run. I want to play baseball, not sit around in the dugout and wait for someone to hit the ball out of the park.

"I'm a gambler, not a safety first man. Guys who want to play safety first ball won't be around me very long.

"Handling players has never been a problem with me. Some guys like Sal Maglie I'd have to needle and get him mad. You can't do that with a guy like Willie Mays. You have to rub Willie the right way.

"I'm not a dictator. Anyone who thinks he can run a club all alone is crazy. That's why I have coaches."

Holland, who talked owner P. K. Wrigley into hiring Durocher, said the new Cub manager would have complete authority on the field. "On any and all player deals, Leo and I will work together," said Holland.

Mets Coach Heffner Named Cincy Reds Manager

ALONG MARIN'S SPORTS TRAIL

By JIM GILMARTIN
I-J Sports Editor

Lip May Give Cubs A Boost, Says Marinite Johnny Boc

The good looking, strapping young man who just yesterday started delivering merchandise for United Parcel may be delivering the goods for the Chicago Cubs next season.

Johnny Boccabella awoke in his San Anselmo apartment this morning with a groan. "Oh, am I stiff," he winced after his first day of trucking on down the avenues for U.P. This from a 24-year-old strong man who played more than 100 professional baseball games last summer should strengthen your respect for the brown-uniformed gents who deliver-eth the goodies to your door.

LABELLED A good bet to stick with the Cubs next year, Johnny Boc was quizzed about Chicago's new manager, Leo Durocher. "It's hard for me to say," the former Marin Catholic and Santa Clara All-American slugger said. "I've really never met the man, although I've certainly heard a lot about him and have seen him on TV. Maybe he's just what the Cubs need to pick them up. I saw him on TV last night and he certainly seems rarin' to go."

BOCCABELLA NOTED that Durocher named Whitey Lockman a Cub coach for next season. "I played for Lockman at Fort Worth (Texas League) last season," he said, "and he's a tremendous guy. He ran the ball club like a major league team. He'll help the Cubs."

WHAT ABOUT John D. Boccabella? "Well," big Jawn well'd, "the way they (the Cubs) talked I have a good chance of sticking with Chicago next season. The talk was that I might be used as a left fielders against left handed pitchers and occasionally spell (Ernie) Banks at first base. That way I'd get to play half the games. But then again they may trade for an outfielder so I just don't know what to expect." A natural first baseman, Boc explained: "I'll play any position if I can stay in the major leagues. If you play a position enough you can become adequate at it—not great, but adequate."

JOHN WAS signed to an estimated $25,000 bonus contract by the Cubs when he received his diploma from Santa Clara in June of 1963. He has spent most of the past three seasons in the minors, what with the veteran Banks giving the Cubs all the first sacking they need.

Although he hits the long ball and drives in a mess of runs, John hasn't hit for the average in the minors. Last season in Texas he batted a lowly .235, but his 95 RBI total was second in the league.

YET, WHEN the Cubbies called him up in early September he hit major league ball at a .333 clip, a 98 point increase, including a wild debut against the Giants at Candlestick. That was the Sunday game in which he homered twice off Warren Spahn. In his first three major league games this year he was three-for-six. Johnny Sock-a-ball-a.

John says he hits major league pitching better than minor leaguers because, "It's different being in the big leagues. There's more at stake and you seem to try harder. In the minors you get in a routine and it's just going through the motions. I feel I can play in the big leagues."

BOCCABELLA SAID he'll stay completely away from baseball until spring training, unlike the past couple of years when he toiled away in winter instructional leagues. "I think I went stale in winter leagues," he said, "it's just too much baseball."

With that he smooched his lovely wife on the cheek and scooted out the front door of their apartment for his second day on the parcel delivery route. He is one Marin athlete who has always delivered the goods.

P.S. The fine paisani in the audience might get a kick out of the fact that Boccabella, which means "beautiful mouth" in Italian, will be playing for the Lip next year. Shamus, you said a mouthful.

Terra Linda J.V. Gridders Win, 12-0

Terra Linda's Jim Clifford caught two passes for touchdowns to lead the Trojans' junior varsity football team to a 12-0 win over San Rafael last Friday.

In other J.V. grid games, Redwood boat Marin Catholic 6-0 and Rohnert Park varsity topped the Drake jayvees 19-13. Mike Gaffney and Bob Reynolds scored Drake touchdowns.

Huskies Worry Indians

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Coach John Ralston of Stanford counts on his speedy secondary defenses to stop Washington passing when the Indians meet the Huskies on Saturday at Se-

Craig Richey, John Guillory, Dale Rubin and Dave Nelson compose the secondary foursome and all are fast.

Ralston complimented each for his work last Saturday in the Stanford 31-14 victory over Army. This week they try to stop the Huskies and the Indians haven't won at Seattle since 1957.

The coach pointed out that Washington had ball control in beating Oregon 24-20 last week and that his team didn't have the control in its game with the Ducks, even though victorious 17-14.

"It appears Washington has come into its own," Ralston told the Northern California Football Writers yesterday.

Coach Ray Willsey of California faces the job of bringing his Bears back to face Penn State after losing to UCLA 56-3.

Injuries have hit four tackles and it could be that sophomore Greg Kammann, who has not played yet this season, will start at a defensive tackle spot.

Willsey said offensive halfback Ted Parks may be switched to defense this week to give more depth in the secondary. A shortage developed through injury to veteran Greg Palamountain.

On the injured list and questionable for the Penn State game at Berkeley are tackles Dan Sinclair, also the team's place kicker, John Cantlon, Dan Goich and Dick Williams.

"We face a test in reassembling and realigning our team for this game," said Willsey who did such a job after Notre Dame beat the Bears 48-6 in the opener.

"We have the type of player who is as disappointed in the outcome of Saturday night's game as the coaching staff," said Willsey. "I don't think I'll have one lick of trouble getting them up again."

San Jose State coach Harry Anderson said his Spartans aimed for a third straight victory over a foe from the Western Athletic Conference, the league they hope to join.

USC Coach Beaten, But Still Witty

LOS ANGELES (AP) —C Coach John McKay of the University of Southern California lost none of his well known wit in the Trojans' 28-7 loss to Notre Dame.

He appeared at the weekly football writers' luncheon yesterday in good humor and said:

"We have no excuses. We just got the hell kicked out of us."

McKay recalled the opening play when Notre Dame kicked off and the crowd at South Bend, Ind., was in a frenzy of excitement.

"Our receiver took the ball and moved up to about the 13-yard line. There wasn't anybody within 15 yards of him, and he fell down.

"One of my assistant coaches leaned over and screamed:

"'For goodness sakes, they shot him!'

"I thought, I knew they were up for this game but this is ridiculous."

Southern Cal has no game scheduled this week.

"After that one, we need the week off. We should have taken it last week," he concluded.

AFTER VIEWING FILMS

Chris Won't Blame Refs

San Francisco 49er coach Jack Christiansen has refused to join the fans' rumblings about two key penalty calls in last Sunday's madcap 42-41 Minnesota Viking win over San Francisco.

One was an interference call against Jimmy Johnson that gave the Vikings a 35-yard gain. Christiansen commented "from our game films, it could have been called either way. I'm not going to criticize the officiating."

On another questionable call, Dave Parks seemingly caught a touchdown pass but was called for offensive interference. Christiansen said "the incident was off the edge of the picture" of the game films.

Christiansen gave full credit to the Vikings, who rallied from a 35-14 halftime deficit. He also still had happy memories of his team's first half as an indication of how it can play when all the pieces fall into place.

"We couldn't have asked for a more perfect first half," he said. "The blocking and running was good and the passing was great. John Brodie hit 10 out of 12."

Christiansen said the team was still confident that it can take Baltimore next Sunday at Kezar Stadium. "We thought we could have beaten the Colts last time at Baltimore," he said. "We still think we can beat them."

Rams Svare At NFL Officiating

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles Ram Coach Harland Svare awaited results today of criticism he leveled at officiating within he National Football League.

The result he hoped for, he told Southern California football writers yesterday, was a change in what he termed officials' "conditioned reflex to the crowds."

Another possible result could be a fine from the NFL for publicly criticizing officiating. In New York a league official said there would be no comment on Svare's remarks.

"I don't question the integrity or ability of our officials, but I say they are being intimidated in large stadiums away from Los Angeles," Svare said.

"It happened in Baltimore and it happens in Chicago and other places," Svare said. "It doesn't happen in Los Angeles because we don't get the same crowd reaction here — possibly because we've been a loser for so long.

"NFL officiating never has been of a better caliber than now, but I want to call public attention to what is happening to us," Svare said.

Svare cited the Rams' 35-20 loss to Baltimore Saturday.

"There were nine calls against us at crucial times in Baltimore and only four against the Colts," Svare said. "The noise was so terrific at Baltimore that we couldn't hear our snap numbers, let alone audibles. That situation wasn't taken care of for us.

"I have to speak out because something must be done about it. The officials seem to have a conditioned reflex to the crowds in some other cities. I'm trying to get them to have a different reflex."

Replaces Sisler; 2-Year Contract

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Don Heffner, a coach for the New York Mets the last two years, was named today as the 1966 manager of the Cincinnati Reds.

Heffner succeeds Dick Sisler, who was fired Oct. 4 after managing the club to a fourth-place finish this year.

Reds President William O. Dewitt said the 54-year-old Heffner, a former major league second baseman and minor league manager, is being given a two-year contract. Terms were not disclosed.

Heffner formerly was in the Reds' organization as the manager of San Diego of the Pacific Coast League in 1962 and 1963.

"I'm very happy Don is with us again," said Dewitt. "We have looked over the field of available managers and those who have applied and believe he is the best man for our job.

"He knows the players and he knows the National League. At his age, and with his managerial experience, he has the maturity to get the best out of the players."

The graying Heffner called the appointment "one of the biggest thrills of my life....it is something to be offered a big league managing job by a man I have thought a lot of for more than 27 years."

It was Dewitt who gave Heffner his first job as a minor league manager when Dewitt headed the old St. Louis Browns.

Heffner is a native of Rouzerville, Pa., but now lives in Arcadia, Calif., ith his wife Dorothy.

During his playing career, he was with the New York Yankees, St. Louis Browns, Philadelphia Athletics and Detroit Tigers. He finished his major league career in 1944.

His first managing job was in 1947 with Aberdeen of the Northern League. He later managed at Globe and Miami, Ariz., Elmira, N.Y., San Antonio, Tex., Baltimore when it was in the International League, Reading, Pa., Mobile, Ala., and San Diego.

He also served as a coach with the Kansas City Athletics and Detroit.

During his playing career he had a lifetime batting average of .241 and his best hitting year in the majors was with the old Browns when he batted .267 in 1939.

The appointment of Heffner was no surprise in that he had been mentioned prominently ever since Sisler was released.

COLT ALL-STAR HURT, MAY MIS 49ER CONTEST

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Fred Miller, all-National Football League defensive tackle of the Baltimore Colts, is a doubtful starter in Sunday's game at San Francisco.

He suffered contusion of the thigh and a possible sprained knee against the Los Angeles Rams.

"I don't know at this time," said trainer Ed Block about Miller's readiness for next Sunday.

If not, he will be replaced by Guy Reese, a four-year veteran.

PREP NOTES

A BIG Role For Giants

By RALPH CHATOIAN

The way things look at this stage of the Marin Athletic League football race, the chances are better than even there will be more than one champion team.

As most observers predicted, it's been a dogfight so far and will be the rest of the way. There's a strong possibility of two, or even three teams tying for the championship. At the moment, three teams—Drake, Novato and Tam—are tied for first place with 2-1 records. Each of the leaders has three games in front of it. They've already played each other.

Only one team plays all three of the leaders—Redwood. How does with the three top teams will have BIG bearing on the chase.

In front of Drake are San Rafael, Terra Linda and Redwood, in that order. Novato has scheduled dates with Redwood, San Rafael and Marin Catholic, and in front of Tam are Marin Catholic, Redwood and Terra Linda, also in that order. This is going to be a hectic three weeks.

DEAN LAZZARINI, that green and white flash you see on the Drake High School football field in San Anselmo, made quite a splash on his TV debut.

After watching that Drake-Riordan game Saturday morning (it was played Friday night and taped for Saturday viewing) the viewer didn't have to wait for the sportswriters to hand in their ballots for outstanding performer of the game.

After all, he only picked up 226 yards and scored three touchdowns to lead the Pirates to a 28-20 triumph. He was the unanimous pick for TV prep player of the day, needless to say.

More than one Marin County coach has commented that if he doesn't get picked for the Shrine North-South All-Star game it would be the year's biggest California prep injustice.

TALK ABOUT a defense, that Terra Linda bunch has been too much. In the last 14 quarters the Trojans have played, they have given up just one touchdown, and that one TD was on an offensive mistake.

Terra Linda gave up 20 points to Novato in the first half of its league opener and then held the Hornets scoreless the final two quarters, barely losing 20-19. Marin Catholic was blanked by the Trojans 32-0 and Redwood tied them 6-6. Redwood got a big break late (last eight seconds) in the first half when Terra Linda faked a punt on fourth down and tried a run. Redwood ended up with a first down on the one-yard stripe, and easily scored a TD.

Then last Friday the Trojans shut out San Rafael 6-0. Watch out, Manteca, you just may be shut out Friday night.

MARIN CATHOLIC football coach Chuck Vaughan is ready to start doubling up on knee pads for his boys. "We've already had 10 or 11 knee injuries this season," said Chuck, who plans to check around the rest of the league to see how this stacks with other teams.

Last week he feared he would have only 18 kids dressed for the Redwood game, so he sent a rush order to the junior varsity.

By the time the game rolled around, Vaughan had 27 uniformed players on the bench, but some were too injured to play.

"WE TOOK the olive," were the words of San Rafael Military Academy assistant grid coach Jim Hickey in explaining the Cadets' loss to Emery last Friday. To you fans who don't know, that expression is very symbolic in sports lingo. Like when the olive gets caught in your throat.

Both the Emeryville team and the Cadets were undefeated in the Bay Counties League going into the game. After that 35-14 win, Emery is 3-0 and the Cadets are 2-1 in league play. It was the first loss for SRMA after five straight wins.

The high-rolling SRMA offense piled up 450 yards, but fumbles and penalties killed too many scorinng opportunities.

Mel Baruh, that San Rafael Academy back who is leading Northern California preps both in rushing and scoring, had another big day with 150 yards and a touchdown. His yardage total now, after six games, is 1,138. And that's a fair amount of running.

By the time halftime came, the Cadets were trailing 21-0. "It was a complete breakdown," said Hickey.

KEN JOHNSON, that sophomore quarterback for Redwood who was called up from the junior varsity a few days ago, is quite an athlete, and most likely will see more action this season. One of the passes he threw in the Marin Catholic game last Friday went 50 yards in the air as this youngster showed off a mighty fine arm.

He's quite a shortstop and "he has a darned good chance of playing varsity baseball next season as a sophomore," said Al Endriss, head baseball coach and assistant football coach at Redwood.

In that Redwood-Marin Catholic game, Johnson connected on three of 10 passes for 101 yards. That's an impressive debut for a sophomore "rookie."

SINCE IT'S better weather for baseball than football anyway, let's talk about winter ball. Redwood's varsity baseballers are staying in shape in a San Francisco league, playing under the sponsorship of Indian Valley Lumber. Some of the players on the team do their prepping at other high schools, but most of them are Redwoodites.

They lost last Saturday to Poly High School players, 2-1, and Kevin Wilson was stung for the loss, although allowing only three hits. They evened up Sunday by beating Pacifica 10-5. Bob Tobin, a Drake athlete, pitched the win and Russ Smith and Kevin Wilson paced the hitting with two safeties each.

REF SAW THIS ONE—Novato's Dick Otis (40) dives for two yards against Tamalpais last Saturday in Kentfield before being brought down by Tam's Honor Jackson (88). But if you look closely, you'll see Jackson's right hand on Otis' face mask. The referee saw it and called a 15-yard penalty. Other identifiable players are Novato's Mike Mazzoni (35), John Youngs (75) and George Sheehan (82), and Tam's Gary Stephens (74) and Don Smith (44). Novato bombed Tam 34-0, the Indians' first loss of the year.

Did Ford Frick Nix Milwaukee?

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (ap) — Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick was quoted by a state official yesterday as saying Milwaukee had been at the top of a National League expansion list but was eliminated because of antitrust suits and detrogatory remarks.

C. Hayden Jamison, executive director of the Wisconsin Investment board, testified in a deposition hearing that he met Frick last Sept. 2 in an attempt to determine whether the board could purchase the Braves club from its present owners, a syndicate of young Chicago area businessmen.

Testifying under questioning by Earl A. Jinkinson, representing the Braves and the National League in antitrust suits brought by Milwaukee County and the State of Wisconsin in connection with the Braves' scheduled move to Atlanta, Jamison said:

"Ford said he could assure me that the Braves would be in Atlanta in 1966. He said that Milwaukee would have obtained a franchise if it had not been for the antitrust suits and if the Milwaukee official would just shut up.

"He also said to me, 'If you repeat this, I'll deny it.' "

Asked whether Frick had referred specifically to Eugene Grobschmidt, chairman of the Milwaukee County Board of Supervisors, as the public official who had been so outspoken, Jamison said, "It was suggested that it might be Grobschmidt."

Three-Way Deadlock In Warner Football

The Novato Junior Hornets handed San Rafael its first loss of the year in Marin County Pop Warner Football League action Saturday, throwing the league into a three-way tie for the top spot.

Novato blanked San Rafael 13-0. In other games, also shutouts, Drake bumped Tam 12-0 and Terra Linda whipped Redwood 19-0. All three games were played at San Rafael High School's field.

Scoring touchdowns for Novato were Vince LaGoy on a six-yard run and Tom Cox with a nine-yarder. Cox also added an extra point with a run.

It was Drake's first league win of the season and first time the Junior Pirates have scored any points in league play. The Junior Pirated touchdowns were scored by Clint Hubbard on a two-yard run and Tony Cassin on a six-yard burst.

Mike Bridges was the star for the Terra Linda Junior Trojans, scoring all three touchdowns in the triumph over Redwood. He tallied on runs of 50, 34 and 4 yards. Rick Payne scored a point on a conversion.

Drake Vs. San Rafael In Game Of The Week Friday

Drake and San Rafael high schools clash Friday night at 8 o'clock on the San Rafael field in the Marin County game of the week.

Drake, currently tied for first place in the Marin Athletic League scramble with Tam and Novato, is expected to get a stiff fight from the Bulldogs, playing on their home field.

In other Marin Athletic League games, Tam and Marin Catholic battle Friday night at 8 o'clock in College of Marin stadium, and Redwood hosts Novato Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at the COM stadium.

College of Marin Tars will be after their second Golden Valley Conference win Saturday night at 8 when they tangle with Yuba College in Marysville. In non-league action, Terra Linda travels to Manteca Friday night at 8 o'clock, and the San Rafael Military Academy Cadets host the Redwood junior varsity Friday at 3:15 p.m.

How The Books Set The Price

A peculiar thing happened to me on my way back to Notre Dame. I picked up a paper in Chicago and turned to the page with the football polls on it. Notre Dame was rated seventh on both polls, Southern California was rated fourth.

Right above that on the page was the headline: "Notre Dame Favored Over SC By 9"

In the immortal words of Lizzie Borden, someone is crazy around here.

It can't be us journalists. We pick the teams on the polls. And, naturally, we wouldn't let anything like personal friendships, regional loyalties, prejudices, or the fact we are ignorant of the facts, interfere with our selections.

No, it must be the gamblers who have gone off their rockers. It is well known they are emotional types who lead with their hearts (if they have the ace) and who would not let money stand in the way of their selections. They are out to encourage the youth of America. Right?

I TOOK the problem to Edward "Moose" Krause, the athletic director at Notre Dame. Nothing to it, Moose assured me smoothly. "You see," he said, "the gamblers are preying on the natural sentimentality of the Irish in the Midwest. They know they all go for Notre Dame and they lose their heads. When they get it in their minds Notre Dame will win, they will lay any price. The gamblers know Notre Dame is not 9 points better. It's just their natural cupidity."

As luck would have it, I shortly ran into a guy after the game who claimed to be a book out of Cleveland. I don't know if he is or not. He might be a sheet-metal worker. All I know is, he had a cream-colored Cadillac which barely fit in the city limits of South Bend.

"NAW," HE told me. "The books don't lay a big spread to catch the rah-rah set. You couldn't afford to. Some slicker in Chicago would clobber you with an overlay. They'd spread the action over so many towns and gobble up all the cards, that you would have to rob a bank to pay off."

THE CARDS, as you may or may not know (if you don't, keep it that way) make you a price you can't pick four out of four (or five out of five or more) football games. The only trouble is, it has to be unanimous. The joker is a point spread. Your teams not only have to win but by more than the bookies feel they should.

My new-found friend continued: "The thing you got to remember about Notre Dame," he said, "is there's more crying around here than in a maternity ward. This is a pretty classy football team. If they could throw the ball a little, they'd be the classiest. They got a quarterback, though, who's not even money to throw the ball north if you show him where it is.

"OUR THINKING was USC moves down because our information comes from the coast that Garrett was hurting. He turned an ankle a week ago and told nobody."

I was, to put it mildly, astonished. "That's right," I told him. "But I only found it out the day before the game. And I'm paid to find these things out. Who told you."

HE SMILED, winked. "Sometimes for a $5 phone call, you can save yourself a million-dollar mistake. Know what I mean? We also knew Sherman was so stove up in the legs he would need a cane to run a pass pattern. Also, we were told Troy Winslow, the Southern Cal quarterback, would always rather run the ball than throw it. And you can't run on Notre Dame.

"You put all these things together, and you don't need some Irishman with tears streaming down his cheeks waving a $10 bill at you and looking to get taken."

"WHAT HURT your calculations?" I asked him. "The rain?" He shook his head. "On a dry field, Notre Dame beats 'em worse. We figured Garrett is 70% of the Southern Cal offense but we figured, to be effective, he's got to get the ball 30 times. But we figured Notre Dame would take more time scoring. Our charts show them at about eight minutes a touchdown because they're a ground team and a ground team uses up the clock.

"WE FIGURED SC to score twice because they could score twice against Russia with that McKay offense. We had the game figured 21-12 which gives the books a clear-cut decision."

And that was the first time all day he sounded like a sports writer.

Michigan State Tops College Grid Poll

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Michigan State's victory over highly rated Purdue sent the Big Ten Spartans ahead of Arkansas today in a close vote for the No. 1 position in The Associated Press college football poll.

The undefeated Spartans supplanted the Razorbacks by the narrowest of margins — seven points, less than the total of one first place vote.

Arkansas, 55-20 winner over North Texas State, even outscored Michigan State in first place votes, 23 to 19, but fell off in the second and third positions.

Ten points are given for a first place nomination, nine for second and on down the line. Michigan State drew 473 points from the panel of 51 sports writers and broadcasters while Arkansas, which went to the top last week for the first time in history, collected 466.

Nebraska, like the Spartans and Razorbacks unbeaten and untied in six games, held to its No. 3 place with 424 points, including nine first place votes.

Notre Dame, on the basis of its impressive 28-7 rout of Southern California on national television, surged from seventh to fourth, followed by Louisiana State, No. 5; Purdue, No. 6; Florida, No. 7; Southern California, No. 8; Texas, No. 9, and Alabama, No. 10.

Alabama, the defending national champion, replaced Georgia, which lost to Kentucky 28-10. All other teams in the Top Ten are returnees, although shaken up in position.

Louisiana State, winner over South Carolina 21-7, rose from ninth, Purdue held No. 6 despite its loss and Florida, idle, gained one rung. Southern Cal dropped from fourth and Texas, losing to Rice 20-17 for its second setback, dropped from fifth.

Support for Duffy Daugherty's Michigan Staters apparently grew out of the Spartans' rugged schedule and the triumph Saturday over the fine Boilermaker team which earlier had upset Notre Dame.

North Texas State was regarded as a breather for Arkansas and Nebraska figured to win easily over Colorado, as it did 38-13.

Down 10-0 to Purdue after three periods, Michigan State rallied for two touchdowns in the final 10 minutes for a 14-10 victory.

The Spartans play Northwestern Saturday, Arkansas goes against Texas A&M at Little Rock and Nebraska meets perhaps its toughest test of the year in Missouri.

The Top Ten with first place votes in parentheses, season records and total points figured on 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis:

1.	Michigan State (19)	6-0 473
2.	Arkansas (23)	6-0 466
3.	Nebraska (9)	6-0 424
4.	Notre Dame	4-1 346
5.	Louisiana State	5-1 220
6.	Purdue	4-1-1 201
7.	Florida	4-1 200
8.	Southern California	4-1-1 93
9.	Texas	4-2 68
10.	Alabama	4-1-1 62

Others receiving votes, listed alphabetically: Clemson, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Kentucky, Minnesota, Mississippi State, Missouri, Ohio State, Penn State, Princeton, Stanford, Syracuse, Tennessee, Texas Tech, UCLA, Utah State, Washington State, Wyoming.

SAN PABLO STRIPED BASS RUN IN FULL SWING

After three false starts, it can be said, unequivocally that the seasonal run of striped bass in the San Pablo Bay is now in full swing. You may expect to have a better than 50-50 chance of catching a limit or near limits of fresh-run stripers from now until the first of the year with the exception of a short period in the middle and at the end of November, due to a series of minus tides. You may also expect good fishing in the Napa River, the Carquinez Strait and the Suisun Bay and environs. The back-country spots will likewise furnish some high-grade activity.

For the first time in many moons, the men and maids who fished out of China Camp hit the jackpot. Alice Quan (or was it Grace Quan? I get the two mixed up very often) gave the following report of action on Saturday and on Sunday (until noon): "It was just terrific! Lots of fish, all large. Hot spots were the pumphouse area and near the S.P. Buoy. They were caught on sardines, shrimp and bullheads."

From Dowrelio's Harbor at Crockett came more glowing news! "Both Friday and Saturday were banner days. Limits mostly with fish from 17 to 27 pounds."

The FISHIN' FOOL

By RALPH STEVENS
I-J Fish and Game Writer

As has been usual this year, most reporters stressed the fact that the larger fish were invariably taken on bullheads, and, as is usual, the scuttlebutt has it that a great many anglers fail to make the grade because of A LACK OF KNOWLEDGE ON HOW to fish a bullhead, so it seems right to devote a few lines on the subject of HOW to fish a bullhead.

I have maintained many times that any angler who knows the technique of coiled-line fishing during the late fall and winter months in such places as Sherman Lake, the Big Break, or Franks Tract can successfully and properly fish the faster waters of the San Pablo Bay and adjacent waters using bullheads as bait.

With the above in mind, I decided the best way to impress my readers would be to make an actual fishing trip with a men who consistantly registers limits or near-limits of large bass with bullheads.

I did that on Saturday with Dick Payne, former owner of the San Lorenzo Bait and Tackle Shop who has spent most of his off days fishing.

As I expected, Dick claims that the most frequent mistake made by the novice at bullhead fishing is his eagerness to set the hook when a fish picks up the bullhead. "They rear back on the rod and literally jerk the bait from the bass. You must never do that," said Dick. You must allow your fish to take the bullhead in his mouth and swim away with it—20 or more feet usually. Only when you are certain your fish has actually swallowed the bullhead should you attempt to set the hook. Then, when he has taken 10, 15 or 20 feet of line from your reel without the slightest resistance on your part, and only then will the expert bring his rod-tip up hard.

Was Dick's method the right technique? Well, I watched Mr. Payne practice what he preached, and saw him hook, play and land three beautiful stripers-almost triplets of over 14 pounds.

Another interesting thing: Dick Payne used the same bullhead for all three fish. Nothing will bother the bullhead unless it lands in a compact mass of crabs, otherwise only bass—large bass, will take it.

Casper Hikes '65 Earnings To $129,930

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (UPI) — Billy Casper of Peacock Gap, who already has won four tournaments to match his previous season high, appears headed for $100,000 in official Professional Golfers' Assn. earnings for the first time in his career.

Casper, who added $20,000 to his winnings with a victory in the Sahara Invitational last weekend, boosted his official earnings to $96,772 for third place behind Jack Nicklaus ($138,852) and Tony Lema ($101,817).

Casper also vaulted into second place in over-all earnings with $129,930, which also includes money won in tournaments not sanctioned by the PGA. Nicklaus leads in over-all earnings with $150,347.

The rest of the top 10 official money winners are Doug Sanders ($72,182), Gary Player ($69,964), Bruce Devlin ($67,658), Dave Marr ($63,373), Gene Littler ($58,898), Arnold Palmer ($57,770) and Al Geiberger ($55,724).

Indian Lewis Soars Into Passing Lead

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Stanford's Dave Lewis has taken over the passing leadership in the Pacific Athletic Conference yet ranks only third in total offense.

Usually the aerial leader also tops the total offense list, but Southern California's Mike Garrett took over the latter last week and maintained it despite being checked by Notre Dame.

Lewis took the passing lead with 10 completions in Stanford's 31-14 victory over Army, giving him a season total of 61. Washington State's Tom Roth, who led Lewis by one a week ago, completed eight in the 8-7 victory over Indiana for a season total of 60.

Garrett has 907 yards total offense, 895 of them on the ground for a league lead of nearly 300 yards in the rushing department.

UCLA's Gary Beban, who runs and throws, led the Bruins to a 56-3 victory over California on Saturday night and boosted himself into second place on the total offense list. He has gained 654 yards passing and 247 passing for 901, just six behind Garrett.

In the scoring department, Garrett continues to lead with 48 points, followed by Oregon's Steve Bunker with 38. Bunker leads pass receivers with 29 for 504 yards and six touchdowns.

Stanford sophomore halfback Tim Abena, who took over punting when Lewis suffered a foot injury, continues to lead the department with an average of 45 yards per kick. He booted twice against Army, each time for 45, the same average of his previous 11. Lewis has punted 12 times for a 44 average.

Washington's Tod Hullin ranks third on the passing list with 44 completions but leads in touchdown tosses with seven. Both Lewis and Roth have four.

2 Young San Rafael Swimmers Triumph

Kim Knudsen won the 9-10 girls 50-yard breaststroke event and Tom Panages won 11-12 boys 100-yard breast to pace the San Rafael Swim Club last weekend in the Palo Alto A-B meet sanctioned by the AAU.

Other San Rafael point winners were JoAnn Hislop, Melessa Panages, Gary Walraven, Lisa Knudsen and Carl Knudsen.

Cal League May Expand

STOCKTON (AP) — The California League will try to have eight baseball teams again this season.

League President Eddie Mulligan made the announcement Saturday at the annual league meeting in Stockton. The California League consisted of eight teams two years ago but shrank to six in 1965 when Reno and Modesto pulled out.

Before thinking about expansion, however, the league must find a city willing to accept the Salinas franchise which went under because the Cleveland Indians ended their working agreement. Most likely site would be Modesto.

Major league general managers meet Nov. 8 at Palm Springs, Calif., and will apportion minor league working agreements then. This would set the stage for expansion to eight teams.

The league voted to play a 140-game split season in 1966 starting April 19 and finishing Sept. 5, Labor Day. There would be a three-game playoff between the first and second-half winner.

Mulligan was re-elected president for another three years. He's held the post 10 years. Vice President John Inglis also won another three-year term.

Today is Tuesday, Oct. 26, the 299th day of 1965 with 66 to follow:

The moon is approaching its first quarter: the morning star is Jupiter; the evening stars are Mars, Venus and Saturn.

In 1825, the Erie Canal, first of the great man-made waterways in the United States, was opened for traffic.

In 1920, Terrence MacSwiney, lord mayor of Cork, Ireland, died after fasting for 75 days in a prison cell demanding independence for Ireland.

In 1942, the Japanese sank the U.S. aircraft carrier Hornet after a savage engagement off the Solomon Islands.

In 1951, Rocky Marciano knocked out former heavyweight champion Joe Louis in Madison Square Garden.

A thought for the day: Norwegian dramatist Henrik Ibsen said "A community is like a ship: everyone ought to be prepared to take the helm."

If Cards Had Souls, Perhaps They'd Revolt Against Duffers

Did you ever stop to think that some day the cards may rise up and revolt against people who misuse them?

Put yourself in the place of the ace of hearts: what would you think of a player who wasted you to take a losing finesse?

Partner opens with one spade and the next player passes.

You hold:

♠ Q 8 3
♥ K 7 6 5 2
♦ 6 3
♣ Q J 10.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades.

This shows adequate trump support, with about 6 to 10 points, counting distribution as well as high cards.

Opening lead — ♣ Q

South ruffed the third round of clubs and led a heart to dummy's ace to take a finesse.

The problem was whether to try a spade or a diamond finesse.

'NORMAL' PLAY

South decided that the "normal" play was to draw trumps first. He lost the trump finesse to the queen, and back came a heart, forcing him to ruff again.

Now South was in serious trouble. He drew one more round of trumps with the ace and led out the ace and king of diamonds in the hope that the queen would drop.

When there was no such luck South had to give up a diamond to the queen, and East's club return set up another trump trick for West. Down two.

OTHER FINESSE WORKS

It's easy to see that the diamond finesse would work. Dummy naturally pointed this out, as dummies will, but South said his trump play was correct but unlucky.

Nobody argued with South, but the ace of hearts had his own opinion about South's ability as a bridge player.

South should lead the jack of diamonds from dummy for a finesse instead of taking the spade finesse.

If the diamond finesse works, well and good. If it loses, South can later lead a diamond to dummy's nine and then try the spade finesse.

Two chances for the contract are better than one.

DAILY QUESTION

Young Fisherman Surprises Experts

ARVADA, Wyo. (AP)—A 6-year-old Arvada boy, Russell Dexter, surprised Wyoming game and fish commission fish biologists recently, by catching a 29-inch long shovelnose sturgeon in Clear Creek, a tributary of the Powder river.

It was the first sturgeon caught in Wyoming since 1959. The fishery biologists had believed the species was extinct.

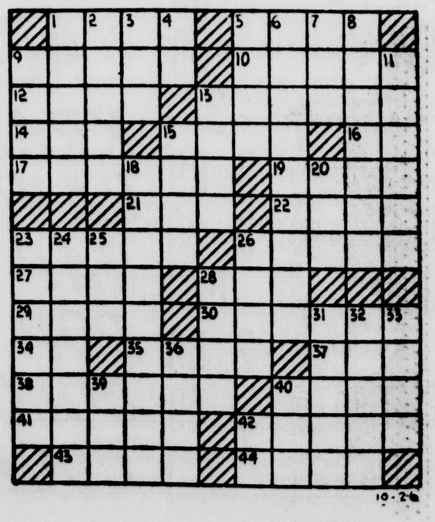
Yesterday's Answer



Stock Market Closes After Making Advance

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced to new highs at the close today.

Blue chips and the recent high flyers got in gear to produce a substantial gain.

The market was higher from the start and moved upward during the session.

Volume for the day was estimated at 6.9 million shares compared with 7.09 million yesterday.

Many volatile issues which were upset in recent profit taking staged vigorous recoveries. At the same time, motors, steels, selected chemicals, aerospace issues, oils, rails and a wide range of industrials posted solid gains.

The snapback in the wide gainers was symbolized by Fairchild Camera which surged back half a dozen points in a splurge of buying which made it most active.

Gains of around 3 points were made by Zenith, National Airlines, Admiral, Northwest Airlines, Polaroid and Motorola.

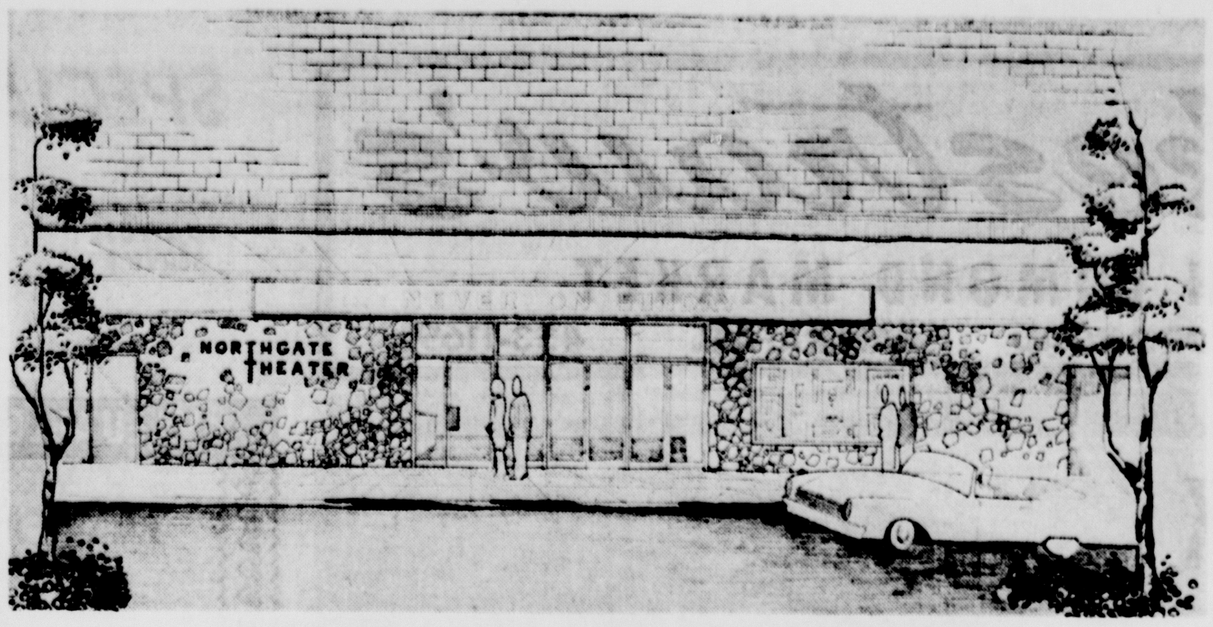
Up a point or better were such stocks as General otors, U.S. teel, Bethlehem, Anaconda, Union Carbide and Du Pont.

Up 2 points or so were Magnavox, Western Union, KLM Airlines and Chicago & North Western.

Ahead a point or better were SCM Corp., Xerox, IBM and Raytheon.

Foster-Wheeler dropped more than 2.

Prices rose in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange.



DESIGN FOR THEATER FACADE

Northgate Theater, new Marin County project of the Blumenfeld Enterprises, will look like this when completed in January. A stadium-type theater, with more than 500 seats all on one floor, it will be located next to Bank of America's Northgate office. Equipment will include a large semi-circular screen and facilities for 70 millimeter film projection. Construction is scheduled to begin immediately.
